For steep, rather barren slopes, for instance there are a score of special plants, mostly tiny, that thrive in such a location. These are listed in the seed catalogue usually under the general heading of "Rock Garden" plants. They need very little soil or moisture and they will add color and cover to any bit of steep ground.

Then there are other flowers that actually prefer shade, things like begonias, violets, pansies, lily of the valley and so on. These are just the right sort for planting on the north side of house or wall, or other places where the ground is heavily shaded. Here too is the right place for the wild flower garden. There is even a special fern for shady locations.

At the opposite end of the scale are those flowers which will not do well unless they get lots of sun, things like poppies, nasturtiums, portulaca and many others. Most of them are not very particular about soil or moisture but they do love the hot sun.

Vegetables, too have preferences, especially when it comes to soil. But most of them, unlike some of the special flowers, prefer and need plenty of warm sun.

On most seed packets there are notes about these special preferences. The smart gardener will keep them in mind when he plans.

No More Backaches

Suitable tools in good condition take all the drudgery out of gardening. Today, with modern equipment, one person can easily look after a half acre of vegetable garden, plus a big lawn and flower garden and in about one fifth of the time his father would have needed. And moreover he can do it with about one tenth the fatigue. The important point is to have the right tool for the job and to have that tool clean and sharp.

There are all sorts of special hand cultivators, narrow and wide, and lightly with long handles so that there is no strain on the back. They will get in under training vines, make thinning a simple operation and will speed the weekly job of cultivation. One is well advised to visit the nearest seed store and look over the tools that are specially designed to make life easier.

Then there is power.

Hardly anyone with a fair sized lawn thinks of pushing a mower nowadays. There are all sorts of power mowers on the market that only cost slightly more than a first quality hand machine and which will cut a lawn in half the time and with no work at all. There are also small tractors that will do a quarter acre of vegetable garden in less time that the average man needs to cultivate a plot 10 by 30 by hand. And while one is looking these labor savers over it is a good plan also to investigate sprinklers, dusters, sprayers and other gadgets that have come on the market in recent years to make gardening easier and more interesting.

To prevent metal wastebaskets from rusting, wax them inside and out. This will also prevent dust from accumulating. Just wipe with a damp cloth.

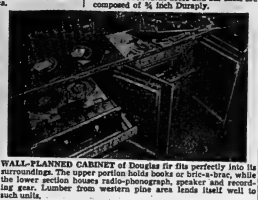
BETTER HOMES MADE BETTER FAMILIES



EXTRA STORAGE SPACE is provided by the handsome utility column in this kitchen and dining room area. Alright side of column serves as entrance closet for. Plywood's Provincial Sanara paneling, used throughout area.

FACING DINING AREA, the paneled column presents a bar with storage facilities below. Touch latch doors and bar shelf are composed of ¾ inch Duraply.

WALL GOES TO WORK here providing extra storage space. Combination of hardboard panels and steel splines has strength to support a small bench, a wall-hung cabinet, two shelves of books, a potted plant, magazine racks and a wire shelf for books. Masonite.

WALL-PLANNED CABINET of Douglas fir fits perfectly into its surroundings. The upper portion holds books or bric-a-brac, while the lower section houses radio-phonograph, speaker and record-ing gear. Lumber from western pine area lends itself well to such units.

Functional Built-ins Create Useful Extra Storage Space

"Everybody's got problems," as they say, but for the home-owner there is one that is likely to stand out and that is the problem of storage space. Whether your home is old or new, big or small, you still undoubtedly face the question of where-to-put-what. In many new homes there is neither attic nor basement, and in older and smaller houses the lack is a convenient storage space.

One thing that will help out a lot is to create built-ins appropriate to various rooms in your home. If you build them of lumber they can be given a wood stain to lend a note of warmth, painted to match an existing decor, topped with a new finish to bring out the natural beauty of the wood, or dramatized with a pigmented brush-on, wipe-off finish that will lend color but still allow the natural characteristics of the wood to show through.

What wood to choose is always a question. Certain species are good for certain jobs. Pine is reasonably priced and you might try the very light Idaho white pine or the slightly darker ponderosa, lodgepole or sugar pine. For a still darker, reddish tone you can buy incense cedar or inland red cedar. The former has a pleasant fragrance that makes it particularly nice for built-ins designed for clothing.

The kitchen is a spot where many home-owners begin to improve their storage facilities with below-counter cabinets, cupboards, closets and open shelving. Give thought to each spot for equipment such as blender, mixer, coffee maker and the like, and plan your cabinets so that heavy or frequently used items are easy to get at.

Bedrooms offer hidden opportunities for storage. If you have an old house your closets may be big enough for shallow drawers to go at the sides or back. You can build these of lumber painted a bright shade to match or contrast with the closet's interior. Be sure you have a good over-head light though, or you'll have trouble finding things.

Bathrooms are another likely spot for built-ins. Even in limited space you can usually box in the area under your basin and this will give you a spot to store towels, soap, tissue and brushes and cleanser. Perhaps you can also put cabinets overhead. This is a good spot for medicines since children will be less likely to get at them there, but don't set the cabinets so high that an adult will have trouble reaching them.

Of course, virtually every room in the house can benefit from built-ins. The living room will take on a new attractive personality if you house your radio-phonograph and television set in a storage wall made just for them or built big enough for general storage: books, records and bric-a-brac. The same goes for family room, den or library.

With spring and summer ahead protect upholstered seats of your dining room chairs with neatly tacked plastic film. Your living room curtains can be protected against dust and rain-storms by hocking them with clear plastic shower curtains, neatly attached with shower hooks.

Insulation Helps With Cleaning

Good insulation not only cuts down the cost of heating a house, but can sharply reduce cleaning and redecorating expenses.

How? By eliminating "ghost marks." These do not mean a house is haunted, but simply that it needs insulation. Ghost marks are wide, shadowy lines on walls and ceilings caused by dirt in heated air flowing outside.

They occur when the heated, dust-laden air moves through the cold spaces between wall studs and ceiling joists in a house that has insufficient or no insulation.

Insulation to block this flow of heat upward and outward, stops ghost marks and reduces heat loss.

Simple Rules For Planning Modern Kitchen

Nowadays when we think about kitchen planning, we no longer take slide rule in hand and consult the tables of measurements to see how many cubic inches of space of a specific shape are needed for the appliances, utensils and paraphernalia of the average kitchen.

The "science" of kitchen planning, says Nancy Nemz, electric range industry home economist, is no longer bound by the hard and fast rules of a decade ago.

Every homemaker has her own ideas about the type of kitchen arrangement which will prove most suitable for her. She adds to these ideas the few firm do's and don'ts that the experts continue to apply, her kitchen will be truly modern. It will be handsome, efficient and convenient, and it will suit it's user's personality.

Planning the modern kitchen often starts with choosing the range. The electric range is cool while in operation, keeping the cook and the kitchen comfortable. Heavy insulation keeps outer surfaces cool and permits installation flush against wall and cabinets.

Cleaning the electric range is a cinch. Walls, ceiling and so forth need less frequent cleaning because there's no soot to soil them.

The rules of kitchen planning are few, but of prime importance. Do provide the maximum amount of well-lighted continuous counter space. Don't feel you must start your plan with your sink under the window; put it anywhere. It is not necessary to put your range against the outside wall. The electric range does not need venting because it does not throw heat into the kitchen, and installations is made easy, anywhere in the room where the connections is all that's involved.

Do include provision for sit-down work space, with comfortable leg room, within reach of the sink. Do select cabinets of adequate depth, to keep things near place of use. Do remember that "open" storage is practical and decorative. Not everything must be hidden behind cupboard doors. Don't line all the walls with cabinets. Figure out just what you need and where.

In general, figure on three centres of operation. The refrigerator centre should include ample storage space for food supplies, counter space, cabinets above and below. The sink centre should have counter space on each side of the sink, cabinets above and below, and a dishwasher if possible. The range centre should include space for pots and pans, cooking utensils and staples, and counter space for dishing up food.

Two pieces of fir plywood, four dowels and a bit of imagination can solve the towel rack problem in your house.

As with other items around the home, once a pattern of this rack is established, several can be cut out at the same time and used as gifts for Christmas or birthdays.

First step is to draw the end pieces on 1-2" fir plywood. This thickness is stiff enough to eliminate extra framing. An fir plywood marked PABC Exterior is made with a completely waterproof glue, moisture in the bathroom can never affect it. The ends could have been sanded to a graceful curve, holes are drilled and 1-2" dowels inserted. These will give the rack all the stiffness it requires.

The assembled rack is then sanded and given several coats of varnish, if you wish to retain the natural wood tones. Or it can be undercoated and painted with enamel to compliment the other decorations and fixtures.

The rack can be either toe-nailed into the wall studs, or a piece of 1"x2", nailed across the back of the rack, can be used to take the screws to attach the rack to the wall.

TORONTO (CP) — Woodland caribou, almost extinct 50 years ago, are making a comeback in Northern Ontario.

The large, ungainly creatures that weigh between 200 and 700 pounds and are distinguished by their long legs, broad hooves and maned necks once roamed the area from Great Slave Lake to Newfoundland.

But their numbers dwindled over the years with firearms taking a heavy toll.

Now the population has increased to the point where Lands and Forests Minister Spooner told the Ontario legislature his department is considering an open season on an experimental basis.

LIMITED HUNTING

"Our biologists are working hand on developing techniques for a caribou inventory and it is clear there are enough animals to consider a restricted kill by hunters," he said.

Mr. Spooner said the area that might be opened to hunting is north of the northern CNR track which runs roughly from Lake Abitibi on the Quebec border through Cochrane, Kapuskasing and Hearst to a point north of Lake Nipigon on the west.

Early in February a 9,000-square-mile area between the Severn and Winisk rivers running 75 miles from the Hudson Bay coast was surveyed by the department.

A sample area of about one-eighth of the region was covered by flying lanes one mile wide at eight - mile intervals parallel to the coast.

From the survey it was concluded there are about 10 caribou for every 25 square miles during the winter. Since many migrate during the cold weather, the summer population is believed to be higher.

Mr. Spooner said that since the Indians are dependent to some extent on caribou for food, they would get first consideration if any decision to permit hunting.

Author Farley Mowat, who has written several books about the north, objected to the idea of letting anyone but the Indians hunt the woodland caribou.

He said the open season was "just another gimmick to let in American game hunters."

If the government was interested in obtaining more information about the caribou, it should send staff biologists into the area, he said.

Demerit System Causing More Hit, Run Mishaps

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario traffic conference decided Wednesday to recommend to the provincial transport department that owners of cars involved in accidents where the motorist did not stop be required to identify to police the person driving the car at the time of the accident.

The suggestion was made in a Sudbury resolution which stated that this kind of accident has increased under the provincial policy requiring police identification of the driver rather than the car involved in traffic offences. This is a necessary part of the driver-demerit system.

The conference decided at the concluding session Wednesday to continue to press for periodic vehicle inspections.

The transport department will be asked to consider a suggestion that it should be an offence for any passenger in a bus to distract the driver's attention in any way.

Abolition of the 20-mile-an-hour speed limit at railway crossings will be urged, together with the erection of advisory speed signs at dangerous crossings.

H. R. Burton, Toronto, was re-elected president. Inspector Gordon Whetstone, Guelph, and R. F. Richardson, Oshawa, are vice-presidents.

Most of World Would Love To Be Host of Princess and Hubby on Their Honeymoon

LONDON (Reuters)—All the world loves a lover and apparently most of the world would love to be host to Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones when they go on their honeymoon.

Ever since the announcement that the 29-year-old princess would marry society photographer Armstrong-Jones, 30, honeymoon invitations have been pouring in from all over the globe.

Both Eastern and Western Canada have put in their bid to be the couple's host. Ontario has cited the advantages of Niagara Falls as a traditional honeymoon spot.

In Vancouver, a newspaper publisher has offered a home as a site. It is a small, wooded island in the Strait of Georgia off the British Columbia coast. It was presented to the princess in 1958 by the British Columbia government.

EIGHT ACRES ALONE

Wherever the couple choose to spend their wedding trip, Indian Princess Dr. Lee Dawes is about eight weeks for it.

The prince and princess engagement after her marriage is not until July 9 when she will become a full time member of the cadets rally.

One suggestion has been that Queen Elizabeth might offer the royal yacht Britannia for the honeymoon. But the princess is not a particularly good sailor.

It is thought likely that the couple might spend at least part of their honeymoon with the Princess' aunt, Princess Olga of Yugoslavia. A favorite honeymoon honeymoon would be the difficulty of getting there.

Both South Africa and New Zealand have suggested that they might be considered as honeymoon places.

Sunday School Lesson

How Lucky to Be Humble!

By ROY L. SMITH

Words are the packages in which ideas are wrapped. If you have ever received a package from a foreign land you have probably noticed that it was wrapped in what seemed to be an odd sort of paper or tissue. Inside, however, the gift had a familiar look.

If we can get inside the words of a man from another land we will usually discover that we understand his ideas. And this is particularly true in the matter of the language of the Bible.

UNFORTUNATE WORD

We have been unfortunate in many instances, in reading the Bible, in the fact that its words have not conveyed its ideas. There is the word "blessed", for example, which appears repeatedly in the Beatitudes of the New Testament.

In ordinary modern American speech the "blessed" man is one who has received, or may expect to receive, some special favor from God. As Jesus used the word, however, it had something of the meaning we put into the word "Congratulations!"

When Jesus, therefore, said, "Blessed are the meek", it was the equivalent of saying, "Congratulations to the meek!"

DIFFERENT SCALE OF VALUES

Stripped of all its theological confusion, the central aim of Jesus' ministry was the establishment of a new scale of human values.

Among the Jews who listened to Jesus there were some who might have been called rich, and the probabilities are that in our vocabulary had been in use then, the people would have called them "lucky guys". But not so, Jesus.

Again and again He said something very like "I feel sorry for those rich". And instead He congratulated the poor. This is not to say that He thought of destitution as a fortunate state of affairs in which to be. As a matter of fact, He had compassion on the hungry, the naked, and the cold folk. But those who had to work for a living, those who had to accomodate with the strictest care, those who could afford to waste nothing, those who had to make every penny do double duty — them He sees in a much less favored fortunate. And to them He extended His congratulations.

In the Beatitudes He set up an entirely new scale of values for all of life.

There is no more unhappy man in all the earth than that one is who finds himself always under the necessity of protecting his rights, his honors, and his position.

There was a bishop of the Church who spent the first half of his life getting elevated to the episcopacy, and the last half of his life insisting upon it that men should pay him the honors due him as a bishop. He was not only the most miserable man, but also the most unfortunate man you ever knew. For he was never satisfied. His honors were never spread on sufficiently thick to satisfy his pride.

THE LUCKY MEEK

One of the reasons for the unworthy of Christianity in certain quarters and among certain people, is the fact that it discounts pride, and ignores so many of the values for which the proud contend.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for April 10: "Humility in The Kingdom", Matthew 5:3-5; Luke 14:7-14; 16; 18:21.

The go-getters, the socially pretentious, the climbers, the candidates for majorities, those who strive for "just a little bit more", those who live forever in a race with themselves, those who insist upon getting their names into the headlines (even those who strive to be listed "among those present") — all these Jesus pitied. For life, for them, was so shallow.

The really lucky ones, He said, were those who were not forever defending their position, seeking new honors, maintaining their "standing" and "succeeding". They had a little spare time left to which to live, and grow in worth saving.

And the meek avoid so much trouble that the self-seekers are always getting into.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

ALAS, POOR HC(T)ORECK

Johnny Horeck, who co-stars with Wren Blair of Whitby in the spectacular "The Best-Dressed Master-Minds of the OHA", sat in a Nevanda hotel yesterday morning chewing on large chunks of unsalty meat.

Johnny grimaced as he swallowed. He should.' The meal was crow.

Somewhere else in the inn, a bevy of well-boaten Chatham Maroons sat snooding over the horrendous events of the night before.

They had been drubbed, beaten, thrashed, clobbered, shellacked and trimmed by an array of northern lights whom they had been led to believe were not much more than a candelabra of flickering flames.

True, the Rouyn-Noranda Alouettes had been bolstered by six of the best players from other teams in their northern league. So what? What chance would they have against the cream of the OHA champions from the southern bayane belt.

Sure, they had beaten Sudbury in five games. But wasn't Sudbury a pick-up team, with no league mother to guide 'em—and had played only widely-scattered exhibition games during the season? This was no criterion.

Nor was the fact the Alouettes had taken the opening game by a 3-2 score anything to worry about. The Maroons were probably travel-weary after the long train-air hike from Chatham. Besides there were four games to go in the set and what difference did it make which times the Maroons won.

And hadn't manager-coach Horeck told them that this Rouyn-Noranda team was nothing better than a junior "B" squad, their ace, Cliff Connelly, would not even be considered as Maroon material, that they would go out and knock off these cocky northerners by at least ten goals.

So, inspired by these modest statements from the debonair boss-man they went out there for the practice—and to blast off these upstarts from the northern hinterland.

But, alas poor Horeck. He knew them not well.

There was goals in them thar blada-shod heck.

Almost before Uncle Johnny and the confident Maroons realized it, the "northern lights" flickered, burst into flame, then blazed into goal-getting brilliance.

Ten of 'em—count 'em—ten of 'em blasted past the ace of the OHA custodians, Conare Maniago, while Horeck sat aghast, stunned and almost speechless at the explosion that brought the roof tumbling down on the almost helpless Maroons.

Johnny rallied his troops sufficiently for a couple of counter-attacks that netted him a brace of goals and saved them the ignominy of a shutout.

Now the OHA champions have their backs squarely against the wall. They play the next two games, and the third, if necessary, at home. They have quit looking at tourist folders of the west coast and the Okanagan Valley, while Uncle Johnny has quit worrying about that new ten-gallon hat and is concentrating on ways and means to halt the northern gold-diggers.

The third game in the set is scheduled for tonight, the fourth, tomorrow night, and the fifth, Monday night.

Pocket Rocket Sparks Club To 4-2 Victory Over Leafs; Three Goals in First Did It

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens' success pattern for the Stanley Cup championships—get the jump on the other fellow—looked as good as ever today and Toronto Maple Leafs were left with the tough job of coming from behind in the best-of-seven final.

Just as they have barged in front in the opening game as a wedge to the title the last four years, the powerful Canadiens brushed by the Leafs 4-2 Thursday night.

A three-goal outburst in the first period was enough. Leafs struck back for two in the second period but Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard, who assisted on all three first - period goals, scored in the final period.

The teams meet again here Saturday night.

Dickie Moore, Doug Harvey and Jean Beliveau supplied other Montreal goals. The threatened runaway came abruptly to a halt in the second when Leafs scored their two on only six shots on goal. Bobby Baun and veteran Bert Olmstead were the marksmen.

FEW THRILLS

As a Stanley Cup spectacle, the game lacked frills and thrills. It was hard, dogged hockey, with seldoms here and there. Most of the sustained speed was injected into the first period, although nine penalties tarnished much of the sparkle.

Referee Frank Udvari called 17 penalties, four against Leafs, and at times was the object of howls from the 14,301 fans. The Leafs' ire rose in dissension as the players banging the boards, when they figured a tripping penalty against Montreal should have been called in the third period.

Goalie Johnny Bower of the Leafs came up with 38 saves, 18 of them in the second period when the Montreal shots were outstanding more because of quantity than quality. Jacques Plante of Canadiens made 27 saves.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard was held scoreless for the first time in the current post-season series. The 38-year-old Rocket failed to get a goal in Montreal's four straight victories over Chicago Black Hawks in the semi-final.

NOT LIKE HIM

This is believed a record for the veteran star. In addition, he now has gone nine games in playoffs without a goal, including the four games of last year's final in which he played against Leafs.

Toronto coach Punch Imlach wasn't downhearted. Canadiens got the breaks, he said, "and sooner or later we're going to get 'em."

Canadiens took the win in stride and Coach Toe Blake fretted a bit over his team tiring. He felt the layoff of a week since Leafs' series ended may have been responsible.

Blake's lineup remained went by Don Marshall and Claude Provost for their penalty killing.

Plante drew applause, only one figured in a goal. Leafs were shorthanded when Moore opened the scoring at 2:27 of the first period. He counted on a short rebound off Johnny Bower's shot in the play starting with Henri Richard.

INCREASE MARGIN

The little Rocket sent back a pass to Harvey who drilled in a 50-foot screened shot at 8:35 for Montreal's second goal. Beliveau made it 3-0 at 11:36 on Henri's short passout.

Baun put Leafs back in the game a 6:40 of the second period, matching Harvey's booming 50-footer with Plante screened. Olmstead lifted in a shot from the side of the net, at Plante's right, at 12:30. The play started with a wide shot by Tim Horton, off Gerry Ehman's boards that put out into a scramble. It caromed off Ehman's stick, who scored from a sharp angle.

Henri Richard took the pressure off Leafs at 16:30 of the last period, taking Moore's pass deep in Toronto's zone and drilling a shot toward the crease. The puck struck Horton and popped into the net.

Favored Palmer Leads Pack In Second Round of Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Arnold Palmer, a husky young Pennsylvanian, is right where the odds-makers say he should be—leading the pack into the second round of the 36th Masters golf tournament.

The hottest item on the United States tour this year, he shows no signs of cooling off. Three days after being bed-ridden with influenza, Palmer fashioned a five-under-par 67 in Thursday's opening round and grabbed a two-stroke lead.

Some golfers are superstitious and feel it is bad luck to be pegged the pre-tournament favorite. Not so with Palmer. Oddsmakers installed him a 6-to-1 choice.

NO WORRIES

"I try not to let that bother me," said the 30-year-old Palmer, from Latrobe, Pa., and winner of the 1958 Masters.

Three of Palmer's competitors are and one oldtimer fired 69s—Veteran Claude Harmon who won the 1948 Masters, Dow Finsterwald, Fred Hawkins and Jay Hebert.

The 11-man par-breaking brigade included Gene Littler and Bill Casper Jr., reigning U.S. and Open champion. They had 71s, one under par.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver, Canada's only representative in the event, toured the layout in 34-38—72. He shared the even-par total with Jackie Burke, 1956 Masters king, Gary Player of South Africa, former U.S. Open champions Julius Boros and Lew Worsham and Charlie Coe.

Leonard led the field going into the final round of the Masters last year but was overtaken by Art Wall Jr. on the last five holes.

Palmer romped unto fourth. Wall is not defending his crown because of an ailing knee. First prize is $21,000.

SNEAD LAGGING

Among those well off the pace were Sam Snead and Bene Hogan, with 76s, and Jack Nicklaus, young U.S. amateur champion who started with a 75.

Even more spectacular than Palmer's fine pace-setting round was the blowup of Frank Stranahan, a rival from Lansdale, Pa., and former pro. He fired a final-round 80 cost him the Masters in 1956 when he was an amateur, shot 31. But he fell with a thud on the back nine, finishing with a 42 for 73.

Wellington Can Take Title Tomorrow

WELLINGTON (Special)—Tomorrow night this village is liable to become the "Sweet Auburn of Prince Edward County.

There will likely be a mass exodus from the local Belleville Memorial Arena.

There the minature Iron Dukes will play perhaps the most important game of their young hockey careers.

They meet the Belmont team in the second game of the OMHA Bantam "D" championship. They won the first tussle in Aylmer last Saturday by a 7-4 score.

If they win tomorrow night they will annex the first minor hockey provincial championship ever brought to this village—or the county.

If they lose, they play the thing game of the best of three finals series in Belmont, probably next Saturday.

The victory will bring the Dukes the Ken G. Waters Trophy and the runners-up the Hewitt Trophy.

The presentations, if necessary, will be made following the game by OMHA representatives, probably vice-president Doug Patterson of Stirling and Albert Watkin of Peterborough.

Buses and cars will take hundreds of village fans to the game. All stores and shops will close early.

It will be the last hockey game in Memorial Arena for the current season. The next will be taken out next week.

Senators, Giants Uncover Potential Power Clouters

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

San Francisco's Matty Alou, Felipe's classy kid brother, and Washington's Don Mincher, the other guy in the Sievers-Battey trade, can be added to the list of potential power hitters.

Each homered twice Thursday as the Giants and Senators won spring training games. And it may not be too long before their names turn up frequently in major league baseball box scores. Both spent last season with class A minor league teams.

The Giants, who defeated the Boston Red Sox 6-2 at Phoenix, already have a solid starting outfield in Orlando Cepeda, Willie Mays and Willie Kirkland. And behind them is big brother Felipe and utility man Jim Marshall. So Matty's immediate chances are remote.

COULD MAKE IT

The Senators, who whipped Kansas City 10-3 at Orlando, have a definite need for first baseman Mincher. When they sent Roy Sievers to the Chicago White Sox for Earl Battey, Mincher and $150,000, Julio Becquer, a pesky but light hitter, inherited the first base job.

Mincher could take it away from him. At Charleston, S.C., last year in 137 games, Mincher hit 22 homers and rattled in 84 runs.

If both Becquer and Mincher fail, the Senators may end up with Jim Lemon or Bob Allison, regular outfielders, on first.

Marshall could fill in at the plate for Giants, but the outfield needs a speedy, sharp fielder who can throw like Matty. The 20-year-old 165-pounder hit .288 at Springfield, Mass., in the Eastern League in 1959. He stole 23 bases and led the league's outfielders with 23 assists.

Milwaukee defeated Cincinnati 7-5 at Columbia, S.C.; Baltimore beat Pittsburgh 9-8 at Fort Myers; New York shaded Detroit 2-1 at St. Petersburg; St. Louis defeated Cleveland 10-7 at Tucson, and Los Angeles outlasted the Chicago Cubs 6-5 at Mesa. The Chicago White Sox and Philadelphia were idle.

The Braves got a scare when Lew Burdette was hit on the left hand but he will be okay.

POOR FORM

The Pirates were jolted by a poor performance by Bob Friend, their opening day nominee. Friend went the route, but gave up 12 hits, including homers by Gene Woodling and Gus Triandos.

The Yankees won their third straight, but it took a sharp relief job by Ryne Duren after Bob Turley lost control in the seventh inning. With the Tigers' run across and two men on, Duren got the final two batters, then finished up with two hitless innings.

Duke Snider, a memory from Brooklyn, and Frank Howard, maybe the Dodger of tomorrow, both homered as the Dodgers had 15 hits off five Cub pitchers.

Woody Held homered and singled for the Indians to run his three-day batting average to .600. The Cleveland shortstop is just back from a layoff with arm trouble.

What Made Sam Putt-Putt? Brass Chides, Then Forgives

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Sam Snead was chided and then forgiven Thursday for one of the season's poorest acting performances on television — the golf match he had to lose twice.

"We mustn't make one thing clear," said Harold Sargent of Atlanta, president of the Professional Golfers Association, who announced a mild rebuke for Snead. "Sam didn't throw the match. He had already had it. He was just trying to fairly do the show.

"We know Sam is honest as the day is long. Morality, he was trying to do something fair and sportsmanlike. Technically, he made a big mistake in judgment."

Sargent's statement came after Snead was called on the carpet by the PGA executive committee and asked to explain the circumstances surrounding his now celebrated loss to Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., in television's World Championship Golf series.

The match was played and filmed at Bermuda's Mid-Ocean Club in Bermuda in December with $8,000 at stake, and shown on home screens last Sunday.

Watchers throughout the country must have been amazed to see Snead, one of the all-time greats, four-putt the 16th hole, fish an easy wedge shot and then three-putt the 18th to lose, coming and going.

Snead said he felt compelled to waste those shots after discovering on the 12th hole that he had 15 clubs in his bag, violating the 14-club rule. This calls for immediate disqualification under the rules.

"What could I do?" Sam asked. "I knew I was already beaten, 10 and 8, under the rules, but I didn't want to spoil these people's show, so I just kept going, trying to make it look good."

This was Sam's king-sized error, said Sargent.

"He should have disqualified himself immediately," the PGA executive added. "But there were mitigating circumstances — including television's concern over the show" and so forth.

"It would have been a great thing for golf if Sam had stopped right at the spot he recognized he had broken the rules."

There was a wide range of reaction from the players themselves, most of whom didn't want to be quoted. Doug Ford, former Masters and PGA champion, accused Snead of just alluding for his defeat. Some blamed him for taking too much about the incident. Others said he showed good sportsmanship.

'Scots Wha Hae' Underdogs To 'Proud England's Power'

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The much-abused white shirts of England travel north to Glasgow's Hampden Park Saturday, bent on proving to their critics that they still produce the best brand of soccer in the British Isles.

For quite a few dreaded Hampden roar offers a measure of consolation to the embattled Englishmen. At least it will temporarily drown the chorus of abuse to which they are being subjected by their own sports writers because of international failures abroad.

Wednesday's 3-2 victory by Wales over Northern Ireland means that either England or Scotland can win the home International championship along with Saturday's match. A draw would mean the Welsh would tie at the top of the table.

SCOTS UNDERDOGS

Despite the advantage of playing on home ground, Scotland is the underdog, with a gloomy record of never having beaten England at Hampden Park since the Second World War.

Also, goalkeeper Bill Brown, the big half Dave Mackay and inside forward John White, members of Tottenham Hotspur, are expected by the London club for a vital match against Everton in the bid for the coveted league title.

POSTPONE MATCH

Wolves, trailing Tottenham only on goal average in the slowest-the-wire league race, also continue halfbacks Bill Slater and Ron Flowers to the England lineup and the league created a mild controversy by permitting the weekend Midlanders to postpone their Saturday match against West Ham United. There were wails from Lancashire when Manchester City was unsuccessful in its bid to postpone Saturday's match against West Bromwich Albion.

City, struggling on the brink of relegation, recently spent £53,000 in acquiring inside forward Denis Law from Italian football Torn in a last-ditch bid for survival. Law will be in the South London lineup Saturday.

Royals, Lions Tilt Tonight

MONTREAL (CP) — Coach Floyd Curry cautioned against any let-down as his Montreal Royals prepared to take on Trois-Rivieres Lions here tonight in the deciding game of their Eastern Professional Hockey League semi-final.

Royals won 4-2 in Trois-Rivieres Wednesday to tie the best - of - seven series at three games each and send it into the deciding game on Montreal ice.

"The Lions are far from being dead and they're not going to roll over and play dead," Curry said. "The fact that we're playing on home ice doesn't mean we are going to win. Don't forget the Lions beat us here in the first game of the series."

Chicubs Get Don Zimmer

MESA, Ariz. AP) — Chicago Cubs Monday night obtained infielder Don Zimmer of Los Angeles Dodgers in exchange for three players from the Houston Club of the American League.

The Dodgers obtained outfielder Lee Walls, 29, and shortstop Charlie Goryl, 26, and southpaw pitcher Ron Perranski. They were consigned to the Houston Club. The Dodgers' farm team in the International League.

Two years ago Goryl was the Cubs' starting third baseman. Perranski was widely sought when he was pitching for Michigan State University.

Zimmer, 29, was to report to the Cubs today. St. Louis Cardinals were also bidding for his services.

Hockey-Playing Students Banned From School

MONCTON (CP)—Four members of the Moncton Junior Beaver Hockey Club squad, Oscar Gaudet, Ed Gaudet and Eugene Gaudet-Leblanc, have been refused permission to return to their classes at the University of St. Joseph's in Memramcook, N.B

The expulsion came about as a result of the students absence from classes while competing with the Maritime junior hockey champions, in the Eastern Canadian Memorial Cup quarter-finals.

The four students were notified by the university in a letter signed by University Superior Rev. Donat Leblanc.

A resolution, reached by the university's council, said the decision was re-accept the students would be maintained but the students would be permitted to write their exams after May 15 if they could show a clear case of studies to obtain the exam program and see their professors in order to obtain information regarding their exams.

It is learned, the students will have to study at home in preparation for exams.

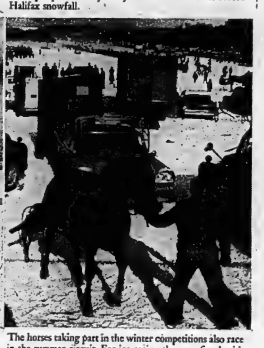
Maritimers, Horses and Ice



CANADA

The automobile has replaced the horse and buggy, but no substitute for horse and sulkie will satisfy the Maritime harness racing buff, and winter's ice won't stop him. A favourite sport at the turn of the century, ice harness racing is revived on special occasions. One of the most important is the annual two-day Maritime championship, twice postponed this year by a thaw and then the record Halifax snowfall.

The Maritimes have always been a hot bed of harness racing enthusiasts as evidenced by the 400 odd Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick meets held each summer. In 1959, ninety horses raced at Dartmouth in the winter classic, and drew record crowds estimated at 10,000.

The horses taking part in the winter competitions also race in the summer circuit. For ice racing they are fitted with sharpened shoes, but regular sulkies are used. Photo shows trailers from all parts of the Maritimes in which horses are transported to make their respective bids for "Winner's blanket". National Film Board of Canada Photos by Bob Brooks.

AT THE PARK — Bud Abbott, is, as usual, enraged at something his partner, Lou Costello, has done in their funniest comedy, "Dance With Me, Henry", showing today and Saturday at the Park Theatre. On the same program Leo Gorcey, Huntz Hall and the Bowery Boys in "Here Come the Marines", continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

AT THE BELLE — Gregory Peck Plays F. Scott Fitzgerald and shares starring honors with the Belleville favorite, Deborah Kerr, in Sheila Graham's best-seller, "Beloved Infidel", a powerful love story, in color by De Luxe and CinemaScope. The film co-stars Eddie Albert, and is playing tonight and Saturday at the Belle Theatre.

AT THE PARK — At Exe — Huntz Hall is away in his role as a Marine Corp sergeant in "Here Come the Marines", co-hit with "Dance With Me, Henry", starring Leo Gorcey, now at the Park Theatre today and Saturday. On the same program Abbott and Costello in "Dance With Me, Henry" — Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Something was missing at this year's Oscar awards. Maybe they have become a slave to television.

The charm of the Academy Awards events through the years has been in the surprises, the bobbles, the drama and the sentiment. But last Monday night's affair provided no real surprises.

There were no bobbles that the TV audience could see.

Drama? There is always some, especially if the big winners respond with emotion. This year's winners were fairly composed and perhaps over - decorous in their thanks to all along the line who helped them.

SOME SENTIMENT

There was a degree of sentiment. Olivia de Havilland, who seldom visits here any more, drew a warm acknowledgment as one of Hollywood's brightest ornaments. And there was profound agreement with the choice of Bob Hope for the Jean Hersholt humanitarian award. It was wonderful to see the great comic lose his customary composure.

But the most sentimental moment was never seen on TV. For some mistaken reason, the academy waited until the ball at the Beverly Hilton to present Buster Keaton with an honorary Oscar for his long service to film comedy. The whole room rose in tribute to the sad-faced clown, and it would have made a touching moment for the TV show.

TV'S POLICY

The fault lies not in the stars, but in the Oscar telecast. The TV moguls have a phobia against dead air, and insist that every move, every ad lib must be planned in advance. The result is that spontaneity is lost. There is little of the warmth and humanness that used to characterize the awards when they were Hollywood's own little party.

The Academy Awards should be treated for what they are—a news event. They should not be tailored to make an entertaining TV show.

Summer Shows Threaten To Be Dullest in History

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The television networks during other summers have spiced the hot weather diet of repeat shows with a few live and lively new programs. This summer, however, threatens to be the dullest in the medium's brief history.

The easiest way to outline TV's evening schedule for the approaching 13-week "off" season would be to note the few shows which will not be repeats. At least two out of three programs will consist of reruns.

Ed Sullivan's CBS Sunday night shows will continue to be new. NBC's Sunday Showcase will be converted into an ice show—but repeats of Sunday Showcase efforts will be slipped into Steve Allen's empty Monday night hour.

RED, GARRY WILL REST

Red Skelton goes on holiday, and film shows replace him. Garry Moore's Tuesday night variety show will vanish, but at least the replacement will be a new police-action series called Diagnosis Homicide. Perry Como's hour will be split into two half-hour series, one a comedy called Happy, and the other an action show called Tate. Repeats of People Are Funny go into Wichita Town's NBC Wednesday night spot.

FIGHTS KAPUT

Desilu Theatre Time on CBS will be occupied half by the old I Love Lucy shows and the other half by some pre-election "public service" stuff. On NBC Friday nights there are two new shows scheduled: An audience participation games show and a series called Moment of Fear, where ice cubes were fights.

Most of the panel shows will continue, and so will Lawrence Welk, the Amateur Hour, and—an exception—Music for a Spring Night, which by then will substitute "summer" for "spring."

So much for forthcoming creative programming — a television term and a euphemism if I ever heard one.

Recommended tonight:

Art Carney Show, NBC, 8:30-9:30 — Joseph Conrad's Victory, with Eric Portman, Lois Smith and Oscar Homolka.

Salute to the American Theatre, CBS, 8-10—Excerpts from Broadway plays dealing with the themes of freedom and anti-discrimination.

Person to Person, CBS, 10:30-11—Visits Oscar - winning Simone Signoret and her husband, singer Yves Montand, in their Hollywood home.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

AT THE BELLE — Gregory Peck, Deborah Kerr, Eddie Albert in Jerry Wald's "Beloved Infidel", in Color by De Luxe, 7.00-9.00.

AT THE PARK — Giant Lazy Show—"Dance With Me, Henry", Abbott and Costello, co-hit with "Here Come the Marines", Leo Gorcey, Huntz Hall and the Bowery Boys, 2.30.

AT THE McCARTHY — "Hell Bent for Leather", Technicolor co-hit; Audie Murphy, Felicia Farr, 2.00-6.50—"Little Rascals Varieties", 3.25-8.35.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER

Saturday, April 9

General Tendencies: Many changes are apt to be occurring this Saturday and if you are not careful, you can get caught in the maelstrom of the upsets others, unless you happen to be the one stirring up all the trouble. Be sure you do nothing to add to the petty irritations by making any sarcastic or snide remarks.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Simply because you may be bogged down with work is no reason why you should take your irritation out on a close tie. Remember that this is not right and be your most kind and considerate self instead.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — If you are not careful, you can be very extravagant today. Go over your checking account before spending. P.M. see that you do not neglect the one you love the most. Be particularly devoted. Show an affection.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — An ideal day to placate any close ties who may be disturbed for some reason or other. Any unkind words could cause serious rifts, so be careful with utterances. Spend a good deal of time getting surroundings in order, clean.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Be particularly careful you do not get into any accident today. Also, don't permit some disturbing news to depress you seriously. Raise your level of consciousness. Retire early so that you can attend early services.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — Try not to give in to that temptation to spend more than you can afford today. It would not be wise or desirable. Impress any associates or co-owners of any property with your good, practical sense. Make needed repairs, too.

Virgo — Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Rather than indulge in any self-pity this fine day, analyze your appearance and do something about acquiring more savoir faire. Then off to some constructive activity. Be happy and improve your lot in life.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Now is the time for you to become self-sufficient and not rely on others for support. Forget any misgivings or limitations you may feel. You have far greater ability than you realize.

Scorpio (Oct 23 to Nov. 21) — Instead of being critical of good friends, as you sometimes are inclined to be, this is the time to give praise where merited. P.M. take care you do not enter into any fracas when out socially. It would be unfortunate for all.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Take care that you follow every law that concerns you. Also, do not be critical of a highercup. Go to him, or her for valuable ideas and suggestions instead. Once you have understanding, all will be well.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Avoid that smooth-talking operator who really wants to get into your hard-earned savings. There is very little thought to your welfare. Hence you will be able to look into really worthwhile new channels and succeed.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — It would be best not to follow your intuition today since you could lead you astray. Also, impress others with your fine sense in handling any property or holdings. P.M. use diplomacy with mate or loved one.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — This is one of those days when you and your associates hold different opinions about everything, though there is justification on both sides. So, await a better day for any serious talks and for arriving at decisions.

If your child is born today . . . The wonderful child born today will easily comprehend intricate plans and diagrams, so be sure you early train in any profession that has to do with engineering, designing and the like. From earliest youth supply with all sort of interesting puzzles, games that require much thought. A college education is a must here, since much success can be realized in government or detention work.

½ AWAKE NIGHTS

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They toss and turn in bed—and then are dull and listless throughout the day. All of which may be due to a temporary toxic condition which calls for the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Dodds Pills

½ ASLEEP DAYS

Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they slow down and impurities stay in the system, disturbed rest, tired feeling and backache often follow. If you don't rest well at night—if you're bothered by getting up often—if tired in the daytime—use Dodd's Kidney Pills. You can depend on Dodd's!

Has Quebec Violated BN Act By Aiding Outside Schools?

By GUY RONDEAU
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Quebec could become the centre of a new constitutional controversy, this one concerning financial aid it sometimes renders to institutions of higher learning in other provinces.

The issue, raised last week in the House of Commons, has particular interest because of Quebec's vigorous opposition to federal grants to its universities. Quebec maintains the British North America Act gives exclusive jurisdiction in educational matters to the provinces.

Has Quebec, then, violated this by giving grants to institutions in the Maritimes, Ontario and the West?

In Quebec Thursday Msgr. Paul-Emile Gosselin, secretary of the Conseil de la Vie Francaise, a movement devoted to the interests of French-speaking minorities in other parts of the nation, said Quebec has given no aid to educational institutions outside its borders in the last 100 years. The last institution to receive such help was Le College de Prince Albert, Sask.

UPHOLDS RIGHT

Noel Dorion, (PC — Bellechasse), a specialist in constitutional law, said in the House that Quebec has the right to give aid of this kind. But his remarks aroused cries of protest from several members.

Mr. Dorion said that because Quebec is the or'y predominantly French-speaking province in the country, it had cultural obligations to French ethnic groups living beyond its own borders. Moreover, Quebec aid had been given to outside educational institutions with the implicit consent of the governments in the provinces concerned.

Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur) said if Quebec has responsibilities toward French-speaking Canadians in other provinces, what is to be said about the obligation of English-speaking Canadians in those provinces to the English-speaking minority in Quebec?

Laurier Regnier (PC—St. Boniface) said this question has never arisen because Quebec has always treated the English-speaking minority well. He said the same could not be said for Manitoba, whose French - speaking minority has lost all the rights accorded to it by the constitution and provincial law in the matter of schools and language.

The issue will probably be revived after the Easter recess, when the House given second reading to the bill setting up an alternative method of paying federal grants to universities.

recently mobilized, was posted at an airport east of Johannesburg, premises which have been the trouble spot on quick notice.

Police said their leaders failed, the Negroes so far were accepting with outward docility the revival of the pass law, which was suspended temporarily after the bloodshed on Monday of March 21.

Police and troops met no resistance in their raid Thursday on the big Negro townships of Nyanga, near Capetown, which has been a hard core of defiance.

HOLD 162 of 1,535

The raiders rounded up 1,535 persons in the settlements of Nyanga West and Nyanga East, but released all but 162 after screening.

Sacks of weapons were seized in the settlements, scene of bloody clashes Monday.

Col. I. P. Terblanche, deputy police commissioner of Capetown, said the Negroes in the settlements had been "living in a reign of terror," and that the cleanup raids were being carried out in due protection to law-abiding Negroes.

The outlawed ANC claims to represent 8,500,000 of the 9,000,000 Negroes in the country. It aims at a common, free and open society in South Africa and has

Sask. Passes Bill to Outlaw Trading Stamps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Saskatchewan legislature was prorogued Thursday after a controversial bill to outlaw trading stamps and other promotional gimmicks was given third reading.

The bill will not come into effect until given royal proclamation. It came on the 41st day of sittings.

It will not be proclaimed unless the Supreme Court of Canada rules the Criminal Code does not cover trading stamps.

The bill also provides for licensing retailers. The government would have power to cancel a retailer's licence if he was convicted of an offence involving fraud in the conduct of his business.

CRITICIZE DENTISTS

In the Alberta legislature Highways Minister Gordon Taylor demanded that dentists provide better service in the province. He said he was not suggesting that dentists charge too much, but recommended that they examine their schedule of fees and the hours of work they put in. He was speaking on a bill to set up dental auxiliaries in rural areas.

The legislature dropped an amendment to the Vehicles and Highway Traffic Act that would have laid the blame for fatal collisions on the rear driver.

Attorney - General Fairweather in Fredericton in New Brunswick legislature a bill providing that politicians be held within six months of vacancies. Liberal members, who had previously failed in an attempt to introduce a similar measure, applauded.

In Regina, The Nova Scotia legislature was told by Mines Minister Manson that the Conservative government will do everything in its power to prevent resumption of illegal mining operations in the Springhill area this summer.

In the past worked patiently for greater rights.

The smaller congress movement broke away from the ANC in opposition to its policy of cooperation with whites or other groups in the campaign for equality.

Former Zulu chief Albert Luthuli, head of the ANC, was arrested March 30 and, with 29 bulwe, president of the congress, was detained March 21 when he presented himself at a police station without his pass and asked to be arrested.

there had been a "political payoff" in the selection of a site for a new teacher's college near St. Catharines.

TROTTER ACCUSATION

James Trotter (L — Toronto Parkdale), rising on a point of order on the budget debate, charged that the government purchased 14 acres of farm land for the college from a friend of Mr. Daley's, when land could have been bought cheaper near Welland.

"The Welland riding Progressive Conservative Association is upset about this," said Mr. Trotter. "They've passed a resolution protesting the new location of the teacher's college."

The land was purchased from Cecil Second, a Grantham Township farmer and Niagara Parks commissioner, for $3,500 an acre, while land near Welland, where the education department first considered building the college, could have been obtained for $2,000 an acre.

Mr. Roberts said the department looked at 14 sites, but decided on the Second property as it was most suitable for its purposes. At that time the land was thought to have been owned by a totally different party.

UP TO DEPARTMENT

The department of education must make the choices of location for teacher's colleges and not the chambers of commerce," he added.

Mr. Roberts was referring to a letter from the Greater Welland Chamber of Commerce protesting because the college was not to be built in the Welland district. He said he had also received delegations from Lincoln County asking that the college be located there.

"I don't blame them for trying, but I won't yield to organizations when they try to exert pressure."

He said the new teacher's college would not be built for about three years. During that time he would reexamine the situation and see if it was still advisable to build the college at St. Catharines.

"But I don't make any promises to change the department's decision," he said.

EXPLOITATION CHARGE

Ray Edwards (L—Wentworth) urged the government to pass legislation to stop what he called the "exploitation" of service station operators by the big oil companies.

He said by accepting the lessor-lessee relationship, he companies can avoid the requirements of the Landlord and Tenant Act with respect to hours of work, vacations with pay and working conditions. He said that in contracts that the companies force the station operators to sign exclusive contracts that make it possible for them to control the merchandising practices of the lessee.

He said the federal government should be the employer of a station operator the responsibility of the special governments. "I would call on this government to accept this responsibility and do something for these operators."

WAS PRESIDENT'S AID

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lowell Mellett, newspaper executive and former assistant to president Franklin D. Roosevelt, died Wednesday night after a long illness. He was 76. After two years as manager of the United Press Washington bureau, Mellett became assistant European manager in 1917. In 1920 he took over as managing editor of Collier's weekly, leaving a year later to become editor of the Washington Daily News. He also served as manager of the Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance.

Witnesses from the National Harbors Board, which operates the bridge under agreement with Quebec province and Montreal, have agreed that the old manual collecting system was outmoded.

Mr. Beaudet said Thursday that he recommended automatic machines in 1956, two years after becoming port manager. He said delay by the province in accepting a new tariff contributed to delay in getting the machines installed.

Purchase of the automatic machines had been approved in principle in 1956 by the federal Liberal administration. They were installed last September.

Mr. Beaudet and J. A. Clement, bridges superintendent, were questioned at length on steps they had taken to check up on toll collections.

The fact of heavy demand for the bridge must have been known to some weakness, said Douglas Fisher (CCF-Port Arthur) who finally stated that the whole operation prior to last September was "incompetent and clumsy."

Both officials agreed they had been suspicious.

Mr. Clement said no police inspection had been requested for the toll supervisor or assistants but he had been "building a case" against supervisor Alfred Poole, 63, a 30-year employee. This man was not in good health, Mr. Clement said, and the tone of his reports had indicated he was protecting the toll collectors.

Mr. Poole retired on pension last year after refusing a lesser job.

Mr. Clement said Mr. Sevigny had asked to be notified when job openings occurred.

Mr. Clement said Sevigny had been listed previously in documents as the most frequent recommender of appointees after the 1957 federal election ousted the Liberal party.

Mr. Beaudet and harbors board chairman Maurice Archer gave their personal opinions that political recommendations should be stopped.

WHITE MAN SHOOTS NEWORD IN HEAD

Toronto Star's Foreign Editor Held At Durban

Arrested for Despatch Of Critical Articles

CAPETOWN (CP) — Canadian newspaper man Norman Phillips has been arrested and held for questioning in Durban today, the Canadian high commissioner's office here announced today.

Phillips, foreign editor of the Toronto Daily Star in South Africa to report on the current racial strife, was arrested under emergency regulations imposed by the government March 30, a Canadian spokesman said.

He was held under section four of the regulations, which provides for the arrest or detention of persons "if justice authorities believe it to be desirable for public or personal safety or to promote the end of the emergency."

HAS BEEN CRITICAL

Phillips' dispatches to the Star have been highly critical of the South African government. His arrest followed by only a few hours his dispatch of an interview with Chief Albert Luthuli, head of the African National Congress, whom he described as "the only man-man I've met since coming here three weeks ago."

The spokesman said a representative of High Commissioner J. J. Hurley was discussing the case with South Africa's External Affairs Minister Eric Louw. The meeting took place at Louw's invitation.

Official Canadian representatives here "informed the Canadian department of external affairs in Ottawa," a high commission statement said.

Phillips arrived in South Africa March 23 to report on the racial disturbances. He got here two days after the Sharpeville riots in which 72 Negroes were shot down by police while demonstrating against South Africa's pass laws.

After spending several days in Johannesburg he started on a tour of the Cape Peninsula. Durban, where he was detained today, is a port city on the Indian Ocean coast.

CAPETOWN (CP)—Armed police are pressing weapons raids on defiant Negro settlements in a bid to smash underground action threatened by banned South African political groups.

Some 300 police backed by armored cars swooped down on Pimville, 15 miles southeast of Johannesburg, late Friday, and several hundred persons were arrested as authorities went from house to house seizing axes and other weapons.

Police said they launched the raid after militant Negroes had served notice that no policeman would enter the township.

GOING UNDERGROUND

Pimville, however, has almost broken the back of the Negro stay-home strike and has failed the leaders of protest organizations, but a challenge came Friday from Mangaliso Sobukwe, imprisoned president of the Pan-Africanist Congress, who warned: "We are going underground."

The militant PAC, which boasts 11,000 members, was outlawed by the Nationalist government Friday, along with the larger and more-moderate African National Congress.

The government's drastic measures brought a warning protest from the synod of a branch of the Dutch Reformed Church, the predominant faith in South Africa which many of the governing Nationalist party leaders belong.

SURVIVAL THREATENED

"We are deeply worried about the course of events because it is not only threatening to endanger despair for the survival of white races, but also to destroy Christianity completely," the church group said in a statement.

"If the leaders of government be alert for this and also realize that, in spite of all well meant endeavors, Christ's kingdom does not know the sword for conquering."

Meanwhile, the justice department has warned employers that they face prosecution if they hire Negroes without passes or a valid temporary document.

The government declared through an interview with Pass Minister Eric Louw boasted by the RSC in London Friday night that neither Negro resistance nor foreign pressure will influence a change in his white-supremacy laws.

Discover Signs Of Giant Crater

OTTAWA (CP) — A geologist says he has discovered signs of a giant crater in northwestern Ontario and believes it may have been carved out by a huge meteorite 300,000,000 to 2,000,000,000 years ago.

Fred Piet, 28-year-old geologist with Spartan Air Services of Ottawa, said Friday night in an interview that the crater is partly located 95 miles due north of Sioux Lookout.

He said he spotted and identified the feature on seven-year-old aerial photos while carrying out a regional photogeologic study for Spartan.

NEED GROUND SURVEY

Dr. M. J. S. Innes, chief of the gravity division of the Dominion Observatory's geophysical laboratories, estimated in an interview that a 20-30 distance that the depression is a meteoritic crater. But it would take a thorough ground investigation to establish definitively its origin.

Dr. Innes, who saw the photos, said the possibility of a meteoritic explosion was indicated by the circularity of the pattern.

Mr. Piet said the visual evidence supporting the theory from an ancient meteorite explosion which blasted a 35-mile-wide crater out of the solid rock.

ONTARIO HOUSE WILL PROROGUE ON TUESDAY

Members to Be Busy Throughout Summer

TORONTO (CP)—The first session of the 26th legislature prorogues next Tuesday but most members of the House are to continue their work through the summer months.

Premier Frost told the legislature Friday that a total of 40 members will serve on six select committees between sittings. There are 98 MPPs. He announced a final select committee Friday, along with a second royal commission.

The premier also announced a fall session. The next session, in effect, will run from Nov. 20 to about the middle of December, between other elections, and reconvene in the New Year for another two or more weeks.

This means the legislators will have to devote most of the year to the $1,000,000,000 business.

The split session became necessary because of the rapid growth of the province's eight sittings. Members have complained that it is unfair to expect them to their sessional work because of long daily sittings.

Premier Frost, MacDonald and Liberal Leader Wintermeyer agreed with spreading the fall sessional work over a longer period, but Mr. MacDonald suggested the next session be split into three parts and run for a full month each.

The new three-man royal commission, headed by Thunder Bay district Judge F. J. McAndrew, will examine the composition of Labor Act, the Trench Excavators' Protection Act, the Collieries Act, the Power Commission Act, the Shop and Office Building Act, and other provincial labor regulations.

Establishment of the commission follows the deaths of five immigrant workers March 17 in a trench excavation after fire broke out.

MORE CHECKERS

Meanwhile, the CCF leader told the House he had been informed by a reliable person that an order doing underground work in a east-end Toronto industrial subdivision had caused disease due to inadequate decompression procedures. Another 35 men had required emergency hospitalization. Mr. Hodgson said the project died in 1958, he said.

Labor Minister Daley said he knew of no one drunk, but medical opinion varied as to whether the man had died from a defective heart or decompression sickness. The Workmen's Compensation Board ruled the man had died from the latter.

Later, in an interview, Dr. Raymond Goodman, Toronto chief medical consultant on the east-end tunnel project, took issue with some of the CCF leader's statements.

Dr. Middleton said one worker died in the project in 1958 after an attack of the bends. Another died from a similar attack but recovered after decompression treatment.

During inquiry by coroner J. D. Lovering and department of labor investigators indicated working conditions and decompression treatment were satisfactory, he said.

Consultant Neurologist Will Be Best Man at Wedding of Princess

LONDON (CP)—A young doctor today was named as best man at the wedding of Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones.

He is Dr. Roger William Gilliatt, only son of the late Sir William Gilliatt who was formerly gynecologist to the Queen.

Gilliatt has known the bridegroom for five or six years and met Princess Margaret recently.

He is a consultant neurologist at the National Hospital for Nervous Diseases and has a private practice in Harley Street, famed centre of British medicine.

He will be the replacement for Jeremy Fry, who announced Wednesday that he was stepping down on his doctor's orders.

His physician, Dr. H. Gordon Nelll, said Friday that Fry, a long-time friend of Armstrong-Jones, was "rather worse" with jaundice.

Fry will be in bed for three weeks and after that he will be feeling rotten for some weeks," said the doctor.

Gilliatt, 37, was married in 1954. He served in France and Germany with the British Army during the Second World War and was awarded the Military Cross.

The announcement from Clarence House, London home of Queen Mother Elizabeth and the princess, said:

"Mr. Antony Armstrong-Jones has asked Dr. Roger William Gilliatt to be his best man at his wedding. Dr. Gilliatt has gladly accepted."

Diefenbaker Fact Finders To Meet Elliot Lake Citizens

ELLIOT LAKE (CP) — The folks of this modern-day dream city were ready today to talk about how to keep it from becoming a ghost town.

Their audience: Trade Minister Churchill, Labor Minister Starr and their wives, secretaries and other federal officials.

The meeting, on instructions from Prime Minister Diefenbaker, is aimed at learning what can be done to help this mining community, facing mass unemployment when the uranium mines close.

It is the second fact-finding mission since Miss Shirleen O'Brien left Elliot Lake nearly two months ago to attend the funeral of her mother in Toronto.

Stalled Disarmament Talks To Be Recessed Until June

GENEVA (AP) — The deadlocked 10-power disarmament conference will recess at the end of this month until June by agreement of the West and Communist blocs, the United States delegation announced today.

This means that the negotiations will be suspended during the time of the East-West summit talks opening in Paris. But the U.S. delegate Frederick M. Eaton stressed that the recess has been "discussed between both sides and had been mutually acceptable and agreed."

Eaton contradicted a statement, made by State Secretary Christian Herter in Washington Friday, Herter had told reporters the Russians apparently wanted a recess so Premier Khrushchev could come into the summit meeting with a new disarmament plan.

In a formal statement to the press, Eaton said "any indication that (the recess) resulted from Soviet urging could only have a misunderstanding."

The conference opened March 15 but soon bogged down in Soviet and Western plans for a world disarmament treaty.

The Russians had called for total disarmament within four years. The Western powers urged disarmament by stages with strict controls at every stage.

Meanwhile in Washington Herter appears to be trying to build up Western pressure to prevent Russia from stirring up a new

Vending Machine Operators Fear Cascade of U.S. Coins

TORONTO (CP) — Vending machine operators fear a cascade of United States coins following Thursday's announcement that the banks will now discount U.S. silver at two per cent more than bills.

Because of public resistance to the higher discount, the Canadian Automatic Merchandising Association predicted its vending machine industry would lose $1, 000,000 a year.

Suggested rate of discount is four cents for a 50-cent coin, two cents for quarters and one cent for dimes. The rate, an effort to drive U.S. silver back across the border, will apply on U.S. coins in amounts of $1 or more.

While many Toronto retailers were undecided Friday over whether to accept, discount or reject U.S. silver, the Toronto Transit Commission and Famous Players Theatres announced no U.S. coins would be accepted.

"On a busy night making change would slow us down too much," a Famous Players spokesman said.

Odeon Theatres said they would accept U.S. coins at the discretion of representatives of two chains of food stores said they would refuse U.S. coins as a matter of economy at par.

Downtown retailers reported considerable resistance when they discounted customer's coins.

Some merchants said the loss of good-will and the time wasted discounting would cost more than the exchange loss.

Meanwhile on the New York exchange the Canadian dollar has dropped to under 91.6 U.S. cents for the first time in more than 11 months.

The Canadian dollar, now worth only $ 49.64 cents more than the U.S. has started to slip because of cautionary speeches about the Canadian economy and talk of a balanced budget, economists say.

Export industries are happy to see the premium decline on the Canadian dollar since they are paid usually in terms of U.S. funds.

South Africa's Premier, Struck By .22 Pistol Bullet, Rushed To Operating Table

Exposition Spectators Seize Would-Be Assassin

JOHANNESBURG (CP) — Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd, 58, was shot in the face today by a white gunman who was seized as thousands of horrified South Africans witnessed the assassination attempt.

The South African Broadcasting System said that the prime minister was conscious and able to speak. His wife was at his side at the hospital.

NEAR MISTRIAL

A hospital statement said Verwoerd was hit in the face as he entered his face near the right nostril and emerged from the left cheek.

The gunman also shot the prime minister's bodyguard in the arm.

The assailant, not identified, was believed to be a middle-aged farmer and a member of one of the committees of the Witwatersrand Agricultural Society arranging the exhibition.

The gunman was probably a onlooker. Crowds mobbed a police car in which the man was taken away a few minutes later.

CROWD SOBS

People shouted insults at the assailant and many of the crowd were stunned and sobbing. The same crowd had cheered Verwoerd's speech a few minutes earlier.

His speech formally opened a national exhibition to mark the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Union of South Africa.

The gunman wormed his way through the crowd and fired two shots. At least one of the bullets hit the prime minister below the right eye.

With blood dripping from the right side of his head and his mouth, Verwoerd fell into the arms of his wife. She wept as she comforted him.

The gunman was jailed at the police station on the exposition grounds.

"God help me," he exclaimed.

The 58-year-old prime minister was sitting his wife and several dignitaries on the speaker's platform when a man in the crowd fired two shots from a small-calibre revolver.

An eyewitness told Reuters news agency:

"I heard a shot, I looked up and saw a blood coming from the prime minister's head, and he fell back with his wife behind.

"He was sitting in a chair on the platform and he was facing the cattle in the arena.

TURNS TO WIFE

He turned to his wife, smiling, and carried on an intimate and amiable conversation with her.

He was sitting right against the rail when suddenly I saw the gunman appeared next to the platform.

The man walked rapidly up a few steps to the platform, shook the prime minister, then pulled out his pistol and fired two shots.

After Verwoerd fell, the dignitaries around him, including the mayor of Johannesburg, Alec Gorshel, stretched him out full length on a rug.

Bystanders also had to give attention to Mrs. Verwoerd who sat right behind her husband throughout the proceedings.

Police said that in the audience examined the prime minis-

Fascist Backing Could Mean Kiss of Death to Italian Govt.

ROME (AP) — Premier Fernando Tambroni's minority Italian Christian Democrat government won its first parliamentary vote of confidence Friday night, but only with Fascist backing that could prove a kiss of death.

In a midnight vote, the Chamber of Deputies endorsed Tambroni's six-page regime, 300 to 293. The margin of victory was provided by 24 Fascist ballots.

African Police Denounced by Archdeacon

LONDON (AP) — The Archdeacon of Capetown flew into London Friday en route to Geneva to invite the World Council of Churches to send a fact-finding mission to South Africa.

"I left South Africa quietly," said the archdeacon, Ven. Cecil T. Taylor.

"I did not, of course, wear a false beard but I did not advertise the fact that I was going to see the World Council of Churches."

The archdeacon is standing in for the Anglican archbishop of Capetown who has cancelled visits to the United States, France and Germany because of racial strife in South Africa.

In conversation with reporters the archdeacon denounced South African police for "beating up Africans" in a fury last March 21 day.

He called it "simply legalized brutality."

The ordinary citizen in South Africa has been shocked and horrified by events", the archdeacon said.

Lakes Shipping Still Hampered By Heavy Ice

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ice is still hampering Great Lakes shipping.

An ice jam Friday delayed 12 inbound ships in the St. Marys River only hours after the Soo locks had been opened.

Two United States coast guard cutters and the Canadian icebreaker Alexander Henry were fighting to clear ice from the heavily packed Neebish Channel of the lower St. Marys River. One freighter got through the dam but was locked through the Michigan Canal about 1 p.m. Friday.

Ice conditions are in the Canadian canal will be opened Monday and the Canadian ice breaker D. A. Thomson will be on duty. The Yankeenauck Steamship Company is expected to pass through on its way to Algoma Steel Corporation docks.

SURPLUS CLAIM TAKES BEATING IN HOUSE DEBATE

Opposition Calls It Propaganda Gimmick

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government's forecast budget surplus of $12,000,000 for 1960-61 took another rhetorical beating from Liberal MP's in the Commons Friday.

Lucien Cardin of Richelieu-Yamaches called the surplus "propaganda gimmick" to conceal the real insignificance of the budget. Alan Macnaughton of Mount Royal described it as Finance Minister Fleming's "big gamble."

The government's major rebuttal to the day—fifth day of the eight-day budget debate—came in the form of an overwhelming vote of 151 to 57 against a CCF non-confidence motion that called for elimination of wasteful defence spending, a capital gains tax and a self-liquidating public investment program.

LIBERAL MOTION NEXT

Liberal members' opposition to the budget will be recorded when their own non - confidence motion reaches a vote Monday or Tuesday before itself ends Wednesday. Then, following an 11-day Easter break, government legislation will top the agenda.

Mr. Cardin said the "propaganda" surplus was obtained at the expense of Canada's 800,000 unemployed. The economists were forecasting "a serious recession" for Canada at the end of this year or the beginning 1961, Mr. Cardin added.

"How will the government which has no financial reserves whatever, which has incurred the national debt by $2,200,000,000 in three years and which has burdened the economy for nine years with an extremely high interest rate, be able to meet financial obligations of a deposit slave?"

Mr. Macnaughton said the budget

Civil Defence Subject of Talks At Lions Club

The Lions Club of Belleville held their regular meeting on Thursday at the Sutton Club with president Bill Lowen in the chair.

Mr. E. S. Fairman spoke on behalf of the Community Concert Association and reminded the members that good music enriches both the old and young and old. He stated that we have a duty to our children to ensure that they are at least exposed to good music so that later on, they can make a knowledgeable choice of the type of music they prefer to enjoy. The local association, with the present membership of 600, was formed 28 years ago and has brought many international artists to Belleville.

Lt.-Col. Hicks, Commanding Officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, was the main speaker for the evening and spoke on "National Survival Training". He explained that atomic warfare a real threat, but that civil defence training would Col. Duffy is for the elimination of fear of spathy which they have inherited quite naturally from previous generations. He went on to state that the said and written policy of Belleville is to superimpose a communist form of government over all the world by one means or another. National Survival Training therefore is essential for protection against atomic warfare and every citizen should endeavour to do what he can to help. Col. Hicks gave a warning of impending attack and said:

SHOULD HAVE RADIO

Some of the things for a civilian to do concerning an impending attack is to stay off roads; have a battery radio for communication; and begin to do part of the cellar; water in sealed jars and food in tins as much as possible. Many preparations have already been made on a government level and Col. Duffy through the Emergency Measures Organization. The country has been divided into districts with a Control Centre in Kingston for each district. Under this scheme, it is possible for the Federal Government to function, even if Ottawa was destroyed, along with all members of Parliament. There are 12 possibly larger cities in Canada said Col. Duffy.

A five megaton bomb, if it landed in a city could utterly destroy everything within a six-mile radius. Between 6-9 miles, all buildings would be damaged beyond repair and 9-12 miles extensive damage (repairable) would occur. Vast areas adjoining these cities would be subject to contamination by radiation for at least a minimum of 600 miles). The armed forces provide the warning system and evacuate cities before the attack and organize the "recentry" phase later on. Although there are perhaps 80,000 men available in the services, some 400,000 men are needed for Civil Defence, which means that the public must give its whole hearted support. Major Ken Wilcox is the local C.D. Co-ordinator.

STANDING OVATION

Col Duffy received a standing ovation after his most interesting and timely speech. He was introduced by Lion Tom Colden and thanked by Lion Ernie Fields.

Lion Alf Bryant announced that the Belleville Kinsmen Barbarded Children's Association was having tag day on May 13th and 14th and any help Lions or Lion Club members would be most welcome.

The meeting was closed by the president at 8:30 p.m.

Flood Situation Along Moira R. Remains Static

With the drop in temperature and during the past few days, settling down the melting of snows in the northern reaches of the watershed, the flood situation along the Moira River and at Foxboro has remained static during the past 24 hours.

Mr. Frank Bonney Bennett, district's Flats is just awash in one spot with the water's edge at the pavement and warning flares have been placed by Department of Highways workers.

However, according to one homeowner, whose home is almost surrounded by water, the river level has shown no appreciable change in the past 24 hours and the worries of area residents are at least temporarily allayed.

Tweed District Power Parks Open Free Till May 12

Although Ontario provincial parks generally have been incorporated to two dollars for this year local residents will be able to enjoy the use of the many work projects which have been going on during the past fall, this winter and this spring at their favorite Tweed district park at no charge. The local district office of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests advises that any park in the Tweed district may be visited free of charge up to May 12th.

One of the conveniences which visitors will find is a proper cooking site or fireplace, usually with a ready-cut supply of wood close to hand. These fireplaces may be credited with having reduced the number of forest fires over the past couple of years since their introduction, with over three-quarters of all fires now being caused by human carelessness or negligence, it is but common sense for parks officials to keep the number of these fireplaces and thus help preserve the forest cover which season Lands and Forests people.

Those visiting provincial parks are advised that it is against the law for damage to plant (including wild flowers), birds or animal life, and provincial park, says Harold Canteleon, director of provincial parks in the Tweed district.

SURPLUS

nanced budget predicted by Mr. Fleming rested largely on continued growth in export trade, continued expansion in the Canadian economy and no increase in spending by government departments. A growing surplus in the latter factors could easily turn the forecast $12,000,000 surplus into a deficit.

The greatest gamble was that export trade would continue to soar. Mr. Alvin Hamilton, Trade Minister Churchill appeared to be the only member of the cabinet so far as foreign trade is concerned, that the government will be working to find ways to meet Russian competition for world markets.

Eric Winkler (PC — Grey North) said Liberal members had been "hard pressed to find any criticism that is sound". They had "dashed in their hopes for a higher deficit".

"We are prospective critics of nothing but ill for Canadians . . . and would go a step at nothing to gain power," Mr. Winkler said.

URGES UNIFICATION

Harold Winch (CCF — Vancouver East) said millions of dollars could be saved through effective action against unfication. But he held up as bad examples the $12,000,000 spent on defence cost in the religious and medical teachers.

He said that in checking with the defence department he found the number of Canadian forces hotels 273—the same as before creation of the Canadian defence corps. The number of medical corps men was 477 compared to 467 before unification. And branch quarters in Ottawa had been "padded" by the addition of seven new lieutenant-colonels.

Mr. Winch also accused the government of welching on its promises of assistance for the Trans-Canada Highway Bill. He

Last year "much was said" about this vital improvement needed for Springhill, Mr. Winch said. Now today there were 700 unemployed in the town.

Mr. Winch said a new packing plant was in the Okanagan. But There were seven part-time employees in a non-existing plant. A new penitentiary may eventually employ 53.

L. Elston Cardiff (PC—Huron) interjected: "What do you expect them to do, build a new city?"

Mr. Winch replied: "I certainly expect a government that has said there shall be no undue suffering in Canada to keep its promises."

Musical Society Plans Evening Of Music

If the aims of the Belleville Music Society reach fruition, this city will possess a Symphony Orchestra of the first rank before the end of the year.

At present, instrumentation has excluded full string sections. Stanley Wiggins, president and founder of Belleville Music Society, points out, however, that a concerted drive for performers of stringed instruments will definitely be commenced shortly.

The major problem which the society has had to resolve is the acquisition of a suitable library of music. As the result of revenue from the Spring Festival conducted by its members, approximately a hundred full orchestral scores have been purchased thus far. To the Society's Director of Music, Norman Symonds, has fallen the responsibility of reviewing these scores in order to estimate their suitability and their audience appeal.

PROGRESS REPORT

Considerable progress has been made in recent months towards the development of a proficient Concert Band. Regular Tuesday practices conducted under Clifford Templer's direction have enabled band members to mold themselves into a proficient musical group.

Because of the interest shown in this assistance, and as a response to the many requests of band members, the Society has planned a public performance for the evening of Wednesday, April 27th. The program will consist of selections reflecting the variety of music which the band rehearses, works of Bariock, Grofe, Copland and Leroy Anderson. Assisting in the evening's presentation, will be two solo artists, pianist, Mrs. Lorne Lockhart, a resident, Patricia Downes, Soprano and Mrs. Bailey, concert pianist.

Tickets for this concert are now being distributed by members of the Society, and are available at Rolaf's Music and Camera Store.

Chi Rho Club Enjoys Lenten Service

Wednesday evening concluded a three-meeting series of Lenten observance for the Christ Church Chi Rho Fellowship.

An Ash Wednesday service of meditation in the church began the series. The central theme of the service was the re-dedication of Christian people to consecration more earnestly in the Lord's service and through true effort to overcome sin and temptation — "to give" and not as much "to give up" during Lent.

The second of the series took place on a visit to St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church where, under the direction of Father Murphy, the Chi Rho was made acquainted with the church building, the articles and symbols of a Catholic church. The group then retired to the home of the president, Mary Eagle and held a shortened business session; took part in . lusty Irish sing-song (Father Murphy is before St. Patrick's Da), ate the president's delicious home and closed with prayer.

CHURCH SLIDES

The final presentation of excellent slides and accompanying narration by Archdeacon Cockshott, covered the topics as baptism, confirmation and the communion service with a question and answer period and lit by a briefing game of Petika Rio.

The game, as played by the fellowship, is a modified form of insertion of a repulsion badminton net. The rules adhered to make the game similar to indoor volleyball. The game was won on a 15-21 count by the Bill Dack's "Swishers" over Ed Montgomery's "Swinging Aces".

As a work project, the fellowship is now selling pictorial plates portraying Christ Church in a handsome glazed, gold-edged plate which is an excellent decorative piece suitable for hanging on the wall or as a serving plate. Anyone interested in obtaining one of these plates may do so by contacting any member of the Chi Rho fellowship.

BEVERY HOP

Plans have been drawn up in readiness for the fellowship's "Easter Beverly Hop" supper and dance to be held in the church hall on an evening of this month. Anyone wishing to bring their favorite diet (as is the fellowship's custom between per) and join in the festivities will be most welcome.

Few people realize how much mothers influence our nation's future. Our instincts are changing to more tolerance and greater belief in the "Golden Rule". These qualities we learn from our mothers.

No. 'Airfield' In Bay Until Weeds Cleared

By DON HARVEY

Why don't more aircraft owners use the Bay of Quinte?

Now that spring has come and the bay ice shows signs of breaking up, that question has been put to us by several people.

Anyone who has spent one summer in the Belleville-Trenton district should know the answer to that. It is, summer the bay is nothing but a stagnant weed bed. Even the RCAF occasionally had to ground its float-equipped aircraft last year because of dense weed conditions in the bay off the airport. Seaplane ladders couldn't cut through the weeds and aircraft couldn't reach take-off speed. Anyone who attempted to land in the weeds was just asking for trouble.

We are not familiar with why there are so many weeds in the bay, but we suspect it is because the bay is shallow and sluggish. In any case, there are plenty of weeds.

The bay makes a good airfield in the spring before the weeds protrude above the surface. And once they push into the open air, that's it, brother, for the rest of the year.

The weed problem has not altogether gone unnoticed. The Department of Lands and Forests is very interested in it and may even stage special weed-killing pellets here and there in the bay this spring. It will probably be an experiment.

The Belleville harbor commission uses a weed cutter of sorts once or twice a year, but its whole attitude toward the problem is rather lackadaisical. The attitude in many quarters seems to be that we have been plagued with the problem for many years and it has become coincidental with civilization.

The Bay of Quinte as "the bay" will never make a reliable season-round airfield until it is cleared of weeds.

MISCELLANY

Air Vice-Marshal F. V. Heakes will resign May 1 as head of Vancouver's civil defence and co-ordinator of the Greater Vancouver target area . . . William Faris of Ottawa, secretary-general of the Royal Canadian Flying Clubs Association, and a string of advanced flying training schools should be set up across Canada to turn out more commercial pilots. He said a program similar to the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan of the Second World War was needed . . . Okanagan Helicopters of Vancouver will consider purchasing at least three Sikorsky S-51 twin-turbine amphibious helicopters if a current Vancouver-Victoria route study pans out successfully. Each of the helicopters will seat 28 passengers . . . The Federal Aviation Agency in the U.S. says low-cost electronic equipment that will quickly tell a private pilot where he is will be available soon . . . Charlie Lambert in his Tri-Pacer undergoing extensive repairs at Carp after undercshooting the runway at Deseronto airport a few weeks ago . . . The Soaring Association of Canada will send a 4-man team to the world gliding contest in West Germany, June 4-19 . . . Capital Airlines has asked the U.S. government for $13 million to bail it out of financial difficulties caused by a number of crashes and bad weather last year . . . The TCA will introduce 30-day excursion fares to the Caribbean in April 16, cutting present tourist fares on North Stars and Supercoudlys by as much as $41 . . . The DOT is building a new weather bureau at the London, Ont., airport. In charge of the bureau will be Don Scott of London, formerly with the meteorology section at RCAF Station Trenton.

We have it on pretty good authority that the Canadian government has shown no recent interest in the de Havilland Caribou as a replacement for the ageing in the RCAF. The company, however, already has built five for the U.S. Army.

NEW SERIES

Radio Station CJBQ Tuesday night will air the first of a series of 13 special broadcasts produced in co-operation with the North American Air Defence Command. Commentator will be Dela Vina, first woman passenger to fly faster than sound.

Programs start at 7.30 p.m.

Called "Face of the Future," the series is comprised of programs on birth rates, political science, law, theology, machine mentality, sustenance, communications, medicine, vehicle engineering, gravity and security.

Among the speakers will be Cmdr. Alan B. S shrdCmdr. 7611 Manis Eisenhower, Lt. Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard, Jr., one of the United States' future spacemen, and Dr. Oscar Schachter, general counsel to the United Nations.

THE CARRYING PLACE IN 1830

The Carrying Place is that narrow neck of land which separates the headwaters of the Bay of Quinte from Weller's Bay and Lake Ontario. From time immemorial the Indians in order to avoid the rough waters of Lake Ontario and the dangerous rocky southern shores of Prince Edward County, paddled their canoes along the protected stretches of the Bay of Quinte, and then carried them across this narrow isthmus of two miles.

From the time of its discovery in 1615 by Samuel de Champlain, the early fur traders and later the habitant and Durham boats used this route up to the end of the War of 1812 because communication was maintained by the Bay of Quinte while Lake Ontario was in possession of the enemy.

On the 23rd of September 1787 about 600 Mississagua Indians met at the Carrying Place with Sir John Johnston who concluded with their chiefs "The Gunshot Treaty" by which the Indians released their title to all that strip of land within sound of gunshot from the Bay of Quinte to the Etobicoke River west of Toronto to the Crown.

On October 17th, 1934, the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada erected on this historic place, a cairn & field stone to commemorate the signing of this important treaty.

In the accompanying drawing, made in 1830, we have this view from the east end of the portage, looking down the Bay of Quinte and showing several well built houses with two kinds of fences and several well tilled fields.

Community Concert Season Is Concluded By Rudie Sinfonietta and Three Soloists

By EUGENE LANG

For the last offering of the present Community Concert series, a large audience was in attendance at the Collegiate Auditorium to hear the Rudie Sinfonietta, a small orchestral group of eleven instrumentalists that is touring the United States and Canada for its third successive sold-out season. Under the leadership of Robert Rudie, former concert master of the Oklahoma City Symphony Orchestra, this band of chamber music dimensions demonstrated in its performances a fine balance of orchestral tone coupled with artistry of playing enhanced by precision of detail.

Travelling with the orchestra are three young soloists of compelling appeal in the persons of: Susan McDonald, harpist; Phyllis Williams, soprano; and Robert Kirkham, baritone. These three artists added immeasurably to the overall enjoyment of the program with their individual selections, whether in solo form or group combinations.

MUSICAL INTRODUCTIONS

A short early Symphony (No. 34 in D) by Haydn started the program off with a nicely modelled interpretation by the small orchestra. Previous to the performance of this symphony, Robert Rudie introduced each member of the playing force to the audience in a novel manner, making way for the informal attitude that permeated the entire evening. Thus the concertgoers a feeling of sit-back-and - enjoy - what - we-enjoy-playing-for-you. Susann McDonald caressed the vibrant strings of her concert harp as she joined forces with the orchestra in Handel's lively concertino style introduction and allegro.

Following the program the Rudie Sinfonietta and soloists were entertained in the Collegiate Cafeteria by the Board of Directors, members of the Executive and workers of the local Association. So ended the twenty-sixth year of the Association.

The headquarters of the local Community Concert Association will be open today at the YMCA until six p.m. for any who still haven't renewed their membership or for others who wish to join up for next year's series. The phone number is WO-8-58

The phone number is WO8-2519.

Afro-Asian Block at U.N. Plans to Ask Second Meet

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Afro-Asian bloc at the United Nations quickly claimed several points in the policy statement by the British House of Commons in condemning South African racial policies.

The official motion—introduced by a Labor member — was approved by the House Friday although British Britain abstained in the UN Security Council criticized the South African government in a resolution earlier.

Members of the 28 - country Afro-Asian group had let it be known earlier they plan to ask for a second meeting of the council unless Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's government indicates it is willing to consult with UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold as requested by the council.

In view of South Africa's stand through the years, prospects for this seemed dim. They were made dimmer Monday when External Affairs Minister Krish Menon said in a speech that the UN has no jurisdiction in the matter.

Hammarskjold, as is his custom, is playing his hand close to the vest but he advised Ralph Bunche, a personal representative of the secretary-general, to be available for consultations.

The vote in the U.S. - member council was 9 to 0 with Britain and France abstaining. While voting short of a veto—the big power, Britain and France expressed doubts about the UN's legal position—doubts that were not shared by the United States and the Soviet Union which supported the resolution deploring South African apartheid.

Afro-Asian spokesmen thus expressed gratification at the House of Commons debate as an expression at the least of popular support in British Army and public pressure" in the move.

During the debate, Ghana's Alex Quaison - Sackey urged diplomatic and economic sanctions against South Africa and it is expected that this threat would be revived when the UN has another meeting is held.

The Afro-Asian — particularly the African — were said to be ready to demand a special session of the 15-member UN General Assembly if their aims were foiled by a British or French veto in the council.

Some members of the same group are already campaigning for a special general assembly meeting to discuss radiation dangers from the French testing of atomic bombs on Algerian territory, in the Sahara.

Word acting together, the 20 Asian and nine African countries form the biggest bloc in the United Nations supported by the 30-country Latin American group and the nine-country Commonwealth bloc, they would wield a virtual veto power in the assembly where a majority of two-thirds is needed in important decisions.

130 Fire Wardens In Tweed District To Be Appointed

The fire protection staff at the office of the District Forester of the Department of Lands and Forests at Tweed is currently engaged in the task of mailing out appointments to persons to become some 130 Fire Wardens throughout the district. These men have been selected following the submission of Fire Warden lists by all the organized Townships under management in the district.

During the coming fire season the staff hope to visit as many of the Fire Wardens as possible, particularly the newly appointed, in order to explain any problems which they might have come across. The possibility of training courses for these wardens is also receiving the attention of the fire protection staff under Mac Wilson at the Tweed office.

He said one of the bullets zeemed to have struck the cheek bone and glanced away. He did not mention the other shot.

Two white policemen and two opposition officials grabbed the man, who was struggling madly to get away.

The South African radio announced later that a member of the prime minister's bodyguard also was struck in the eye by one of the bullets.

Members of an ambulance crew tied a bandage around the prime minister's face before he was placed on a stretcher.

The shooting occurred about 20 minutes after Verwoerd had finished speaking to a large exposition crowd.

The actual time of the attempted assassination was 1:25 p.m., Reuters said.

ENFORCED APARTHEID

Verwoerd was one of the architects of the harsh policies of the apartheid (racial segregation) system. He has caused much bad outbursts of violence in South Africa over the last three weeks.

He was guidance at the official opening of the exhibition here Friday night. Public appearances since a state of emergency was declared in South Africa March 30.

Verwoerd had just returned to the speaker's platform from the arena where he had inspected the jubilee exhibits.

HIT SECOND TIME

It was first believed that only one bullet struck the man but South African radio announced later that a second shot had pierced his cheek.

(Reuters news agency reported that he was taken to a hospital "in serious condition.")

The attempt failed after the shot was fired and he saw what had happened. However the minister's guard stepped in to grab the gunman at the foot of the steps.

The shooting was witnessed by thousands of people who had turned out to hear the prime minister say in his speech that white South Africans would fight for their existence and survive quite the racial strife in the country.

American, South African and British television and radio stations were set up for the speech.

Cuba's New "Tourists?"

From time to time we hear reports that the Communists are influencing Mr. Castro's reign in Cuba. It also here that the posh tourist resorts have all but completely collapsed through the lack of customers. We hear as well that Mr. Castro vigorously denounces any implication that his government is in any way or measure affected by the Communists (we do not know how he explains away the 100 million dollar loan" he received to bolster a failing economy.)

Now, however, there comes a report by Leon Dennen, a special correspondent for the NEA news service, citing names, positions and activities of known Communists who are gaining positions of vital importance under the Castro government. As yet it seems as they have not any representation on the cabinet but strong inroads have been made in the unions and in other places of importance.

The list of names and qualifications presented by Mr. Dennen reads like a junior executive's "Who's Who" in some modern business concern. Family is presented by Raul Castro and wife, both of whom are said to have had sabotage and guerrilla training in Red Czechoslovakia. Then there is David Salvador, a former Batista supporter and Communist worker, now the general secretary of the Cuban Confederation of Labor. Although he has had no previous interest or experience in labor matters. Mr. Salvador has been gracious enough to invite three known Communist police agents, Messrs. Ivan Firapov, Timofei Eremeev, and Vadim Kotov, to assist him in his work.

Then there are two people on this list are Major Ernesto Guevara, commander of laCabana fortress and a former adviser to the overthrown pro-Red president of Guatemala, Jacobo Guzman. The Major is considered to be the secret Communist police agent. There is also Carlos Rafael Rodriguez, editor of Castro's newspaper, Revolucion. Senor Franqui used to be a proud reader for the Communist paper Hoy, although he currently denies this.

Then of course there has to be a top dog Communist and we are informed that this is none other than Professor Carlos Rafael Rodriguez, acknowledged to be one of Moscow's masterminds in Latin America. The professor is presumed to avoid the mistake which the Communists made in Guatemala; trying to take over too soon. For the interim it appears that they will be content to gain control of the labor unions and place trusted men in small but vital positions such as government clerks and army lieutenants, so that when the time comes that they do wish to take over control there will be no effective means of resistance to the Castro government, if it should ever wish to reject.

Of course it could be that all the outside observers are quite mistaken. Perhaps this lovely island just 50 miles off the coast of America attracts Communist only on its potential as a place under the sun for many, overworked Communists who desire nothing more than a little peace and quiet. Of course they might, purely for amusement's sake or counting up a launching pad or two and see if they can catch the fireworks over there at Cape Canaveral.

One hundred million dollars should be able to buy this sort of entertainment, we should imagine.

The Teeth of the Times

For those who were contemplating the acquisition of false teeth the news that a full set of fine English will could be had for only $20 (Canadian money) would have been an ivory opportunity even back the good old days of 1906. A SAINT AMONG THE SAINTS me months ago I stood at the grave of St. Francis of Assisi in the little chapel he had knelt centuries ago. carried on one of the most ificant industries in the ory of the church. He gave himself to God and asked that he be used and his life expended to the limit. Every branch of the Christian church honors Francis of Assisi today and claims the right to share his glory, for he is the saint of all men, regardless of their ecclesiastical affiliations. He appears to have been precisely what Christ wanted a man to be, a

Superstitions in Education

The B.C. Teacher, Vancouver.

A few weeks ago, Dr. George Boas, professor emeritus of the history of philosophy at Johns Hopkins, addressed a group of alumni of that institution. During the course of his address Dr. Boas identified five superstitions in education.

The first superstition about education is that there is such a thing off by itself. This superstition has made it possible in language which permits us to take any noun and establish it as an object.

This abstraction, Dr. Boas points out, leads eventually to the establishment of "pure" education of nobody, in nothing, that's a nonsense. Dr. Boas argues. We can only have education for something specific and for specific persons.

There are people who say that to be identified (and the abstraction and superstition begin right there) they have to know science, foreign languages or Shakespeare or music. It's as if these subjects endowed a man with a special power known as education. Well, Plato didn't know Shakespeare.

The second superstition is that education builds character. This is the "education for what" education is supposed to build is quite pretty vague, but it's supposed to be good.

Actually students and students have exactly the same kind of character as anyone else. And their teachers have also been known to be unethical. But others have never heard of the word "ethics" used instinctively right from wrong.

The intellectual has no monopoly on character.

The third superstition is that education can produce leaders. Leaders are only created from wherever people work in gangs and that would include prisons, gangs, Chessies, the navy, western's clubs, or labour unions.

Scholarship is a lonely occupation. It does not breed leadership. Were Newton, Mendel, or Darwin effervescent, with the large spirit, cheering on the side?

A fourth superstition is that education is training for citizenship. Many a man is very well educated and is a bad citizen; many a good citizen has little education.

Socrates was not considered a good citizen when alive. Today, we consider him to have been occupied with the essential element of good citizenship — he kept on asking why; he had intellectual integrity. He was true to his people.

Most intellects probably do not come out through training. They are just there.

The final superstition is that education is the great leveller of society.

This is one of the worst," Dr. Boas said. What society is structured to adjust to? Society likes. No one lives in all society. We individuals. We live with one or two and even there we do not share all the lives or activities.

"What a society of societies so complicated, how can anyone be adjusted to it as a whole? If it is a whole."

Should Check Raids on Cuba

New York Times

Once again an American plane piloted by a soldier of fortune has brought down in Cuba. The State Department has properly denounced this new act of international outlawery and expressed its regrets.

Raids are far more common than Administration replies. Flying to Cuba, there is rarely a day without planes coming over the Havana area. Incredulities on Cuban sugar cane fields fly in arms, fly out wanted persons, or even to drop bombs. Last month an American-owned plane, piloted by an American, exploded as it was about to be boarded by eager men for the accident a number of Cuban workers would have been killed.

Americans would doubtless be surprised to know that a number of raiding planes from American territory is the number one source of power for Castro. Cuban exiles and the United States so far as Cubans are concerned. We hear a great deal about the sore spots, but this is a threat that worries Cubans for the future. The present danger comes from United States-based planes. One cannot exaggerate the resentment this is causing among the people of Cuba.

Whatever our grievances against Cuba, we certainly have ever upset or irritated or alarmed it. We have no desire to see Cuba Communist. The Cubans are prepared to defend that right and should not be completely hailed, but they ask, with justice, why are we not doing more to try to stop them. Why is there no air patrol to prevent raids on Cuba? Why are not many more men assigned to a surveillance of Florida airstrips and hangars? Why are the known active and dangerous Cuban exiles held under stricter control? Steps announced in Washington are a superficial answer.

These and other measures are obvious and reasonable. Cuban-American relations are bad enough without being made necessarily exacerbated by advertisers of service using the United States as their base of action.

Meet to Swap Beer Mats

Bonn Bulletin

A unique bartering event was held at Dortmund recently when collectors of beer mats—those cardboard beer mats that decorate bars—met at the Westphalian beer mat market, to admire and swap their treasures. More than 20,000 to 30,000 of the beer mats from many countries changed ownership. The Dortmund breweries, among the most renowned in Europe, have specially issued a commemorative edition of beer mats, which were printed for the occasion.

That hobby is by no means confined to the young was shown by the fact that the ages of the visitors ranged from all the way from 6 to 72.

The Austrian brewers' beer mats containing printing errors were in particularly great demand.

The Austrian Association of Breweries announced that it has donated a prize of 1,000 schillings Beer Mat, which will be awarded at a later international meeting of collectors to the owner of the largest and most interesting collection. For the meantime, other trading sessions are planned for Aachen, Cologne and Munich.

The catch-as-catch-can principle that has more or less dominated the life of a trapper is coming to an end in Canada. All over the country, "registered" trapline idea is developing. By this system, the crown lands, which are controlled by the governments, are surveyed into areas a single man can live with some hope of making his effort worth while. The character of the area, the present and possible fur-bearing population of it, the ease with which it can be covered by one man, are taken into account. And these areas are awarded and registered in the name of the trapper. The trapper becomes, in effect, his own fur farm and nobody can poach on him.

In Ontario, the system has been applied not only to the wilderness areas, usually thought of as trappers' country, but also right down in the more heavily populated zone. In one such area of 160 square miles in Simcoe County, the registered trapper lines have produced in the past eleven years over $40,000 worth of fur. That was what the trapper got. By the time that fur reached the fashionable wearer, its value had increased many times. It had passed from food to buyers, technicians, factories and merchants.

The chief merit of the registered trapline is that it inspires the conservation attitude in the trapper. He crops the fur. He is interested in not only preserving but encouraging the fur bearers in his area. It is another big step in the intelligent "management" of the wild.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

April 9th, 1940

Members of the Women's Canadian Club were given an adventure into space when Miss Mary Mussen, petite air stewardess who has half a million miles to her credit re-vividly described by word and picture the thrilling experience of flying across Canada on a huge airliner. Miss Mussen was introduced to the audience by the president of the club, Mrs. C. E. Argue. A fine crowd was in attendance and the proceeds of the meeting, for the war work of the club, were very gratifying. It is only eleven years ago since airliner service started on this continent, and last year over two million passengers used our airline services in North America. After consideration of safety, pilots say crew is safety, and next comes passenger comfort. Every scientific device and exacting personnel requirements assist passengers the finest in air service.

Large flocks of gulls were seen yesterday in the open water that now flows beneath the Bay Bridge. Mingling with the flocks were several wild ducks, said by water-front experts to be of the Whistler variety. Flocks of wild geese are reported to have been seen flying over Peterborough and Shannonville districts.

KAKABEKA FALLS, ONT.

The beautiful falls occurs in the Kaministiquia river not far from the Twin Cities at the head of Lake Superior. It is a corruption of the Indian Kakepi-kank and signifies "high fall."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The loss of the rich trade attracted ships of many nations to California in a frantic rivalry to secure supplies and avoid raiders. The remorseless hunting ended only when the otters unpractically vanished. The survivors finally came under the protection of an international treaty in 1911.

Clumsy on land, the sea otter is the picture of effortless graceful motion in water. Webbed hind feet and a streamlined shape enable it to glide swiftly in sluding its natural enemies.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

WEAK FEET USUALLY CAN BE CORRECTED

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can pigeon toes be straightened? Could it interfere with my feet later? Is trouble in a child of five?—Mrs. M."

When a child first learns to stand up, and then walk, his toes are apt to turn in. He stands with his feet wide apart because it helps him to keep his balance. The toeing-in is a part of this. He soon learns to gain step or two, plops down on the area which nature provided for this purpose, sets up and tries again.

As he masters the art of keeping his balance, and gains confidence, he gradually brings his feet closer together, and they begin to point more straight ahead. Likewise the feet themselves are developing. Pads of fat are redistributed by nature as the muscles and tendons of the feet and legs develop.

Now in middle childhood feet are flat at first. This flatness usually disappears as the arches of the foot develope. However, feet are redistributed by nature common problems of growing children.

When the flat-footedness continues, it is the result of a weak condition. Weak feet in childhood is not always easy to recognize. Toeing-in is one of the signs of a weak foot. Another is seen by the age of from two to five years.

Other signs which should alert you are: inability of the youngster seems "lazy" about being on his feet, may not complain playing actively. As he gets his age, may dislike walking long distance.

When you ask whether pigeon toes can be straightened, trouble, you are reversing things. The toeing is a result rather than a cause. As to pain, the flat-footed adult is likely to have pain in the feet; in a youngster the strain (sag pain) is more likely to be in the calf of the leg rather than the foot, and usually at the end of the day rather than earlier.

And so we get to your first question: Can pigeon toes be straightened? Usually, yes. But I think you'll be more successful if you bring in treatment early, correcting a weak foot or arch, rather than "straightening the feet," because the weakness is the real problem.

Prevention is best begun by seeing that a child has a firm base when he first starts to stand. Heels also are important, and usually should be used by the second year.

When a pigeon-toed, flat foot is detected, special adjustments in shoes are necessary to correct the fault. Sometimes a wedge on the inner side of the heel is helpful in this effect. Again, a soft arch support may be used. On such things, consult your doctor. He will also keep an eye on the child to make sure that over-correction of the foot does not, for instance, start to throw the legs into faulty position.

Weak feet in most children can be corrected if treated early. Of course, in some instances the defect will be too severe for complete correction, but even then you may succeed in making it a smaller defect than otherwise it would be.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ENTER THE NEW DAY

Great strides may be made toward a happy life when we enter that day with a clean mind and a courageous spirit.

It's the way and manner in which we enter the new day that makes for a large measure of success. It's like the horse that gets a full length start at the race. Having the advantage in any contest is always important.

Start your day set as though you were to enter a race. Morning is the time when the mind has its orchestra all tuned up to start us all off happily and full of thrills, and plans.

Then, like a bird, we are unkind word the first thing in the morning. Let us reject it and start it your own. We pass it on to others, and they take it up in turn.

One or two words, set in motion, can spoil the peace of an entire day and make it outstanding. Life then is something well worth while. You can enter a new world, and you can make it to your measure!

Sea Otter Comes Back

National Geographic Society

Sea otters love to cavort in the water. Both young and old turn underwater catchwhich they chase in their tails. Some float on their backs while tossing up and catching bits of seaweed.

Gregarious creatures, sea otters live in herds or pods. They often settle with their baby which offer concealment from kelp for other whales and sharks. A new otter shows by floating on its back. It may entwine itself in seaweed to keep it from drifting.

The clever animal has an ingenious way of eating shellfish. While floating face upward, the beast places a stone on its chest. Using its small front paws as hands, it pounds abalone, mussels, crabs and sea urchins against the stone to break them open.

The material instinct is uncommonly strong in female sea otters. A mother nurses, cares and receives almost constant petting and smoothing on its mother's fur. Both sexes show the same animals, she never abandons them, computer in the face of peril. The female tucks her pup under her arm and dives when danger threatens.

A naturalogist described the scene at a mother otter and her baby when they became separated: "The mother was frantic in distress and swam frantically about. Both animals appeared almost hysterical by the time the mother discovered her wanderings offspring. She turned it to her chest and swam rapidly to the near shore to prepare and fondle it."

A Lift for Living

The Meaning of Palm Sunday

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

As I sat some years ago on the Mount of Olives, the thought came to me — what had brought me and the thousands of other pilgrims then in the city? Not mere desire to see the site of David's citadel and Solomon's temple, or the scars of the Crusaders or the tracks of Kaiser Wilhelm and General Allenby. No, I had come because of another who was called a King, one who had entered the Holy City on a certain first day of the week, now called Palm Sunday.

And the little coterie who called Him King that day of His entry has grown until now more than six hundred million bow their heads in adoration of Him. What has caused this amazing multiplication of Christ's followers?

WHAT IS THE SECRET?

What is the secret of such enduring sovereignty? The record is that the followers of Jesus shouted as they marched into Jerusalem, "Blessed be the King that cometh in the name of the Lord." But the mere fact of coming in the name of the Lord does not distinguish Christ's rulership from all others. Other kings have claimed to rule as God's appointed. In fact, the divine right of kings was the accepted governmental theory down to the dawn of modern times.

Dictators within our memory were hailed by their subjects as sent of God. Almost any ruler, good or bad, has been able to rally some religious support to his banner. Almost any leader, however despotic or corrupt, has been able to convince some people that he was doing God's work and will. Merely to say of that Palm Sunday King, "Blessed be the King that cometh in the name of the Lord," does not explain Christ's enduring hold on human hearts. If that is all which could be said of Christ, His sway would have passed along with others who made that claim.

Something more can be said of Christ. He is the Ruler who redeems. Therein lies the secret of His growing grip on the world's affection.

Christ did His best to show that His motive for rule was to serve men. On the day of His triumphal entry, when He apparently wished to impress the public with His royal authority, He chose to ride on a lowly ass, a beast of burden. To be sure, other kings had used this custom. But with Jesus, it was a vivid reminder that "the Son of man came not to be ministered unto but to minister."

HE THAT SERVES

On the night when He took a towel and washed the disciples' feet, He said, "Ye call me Master and Lord, and ye say well, for so I am." But His performance of that lowly service was a striking symbol of His truth that although the rulers of the Gentiles lorded over their people, nevertheless in Christ's circle the greatest is he that serves.

This Christ-like principle of seeking rule in order to serve was so revolutionary that the contemporaries of Jesus did not comprehend it.

But the centuries have rendered their verdict. The Caesars, who dominated their subjects, have almost disappeared from memory. Napoleon, who shook Europe with his conquering legions, died in gloom as a prisoner. Hitler, who exploited his people, buried himself in his self-made tomb amid the ruins of his nation. Stalin, who tried to stamp out both Christianity and liberty, suffered abuse from the dictator who succeeded him.

But Christ, the Ruler who redeems, increasingly holds the hearts of men.

The president, Mrs. Caves, opened the meeting with prayer and unison.

In the absence of Mrs. Ackerman, Mrs. Moore read the secretary's report, followed by the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Genereaux and Mrs. Moore were appointed as conveners for the tea which is to be held in Bayside school in May from 2-4 p.m.

After the meeting adjourned, a social half hour was spent.

Origin of W.A. Told to Christ Church ABWA

In the absence of Mrs. H. Shepherd, who is ill, Mrs. C. Wright acted as pianist for the devotional period which opened the meeting. Prayers and response readings were conducted by Mrs. H. Pitt, Mrs. C. Hayes and Mrs. L. Watson.

The secretary, Mrs. W. Mclaughlin, gave a fine report of previous meetings which were most gratifying in that work accomplished. A letter from the Women's Auxiliary to the Hastings County Home was read outlining the aims of their newly formed organization, inviting membership as a group and individuals.

ROUNDING OF W.A.

Mrs. R. Godden, Diocesan Dorcas secretary gave a talk on the rounding of the Woman's Auxiliary. Tracing its origin from a group of seven Ottawa women, members of Christ Church Cathedral, headed by Mrs. Roberta Tilton, who presented their offering of service before the bishops and members of the Domestic and Foreign Board of Missions which met on April 16th, 1885, the foundations were laid since that time the membership has increased in the eighty years to 57,489.

The aim of the W.A. of the Anglican Church of Canada is the extension of Christ's Kingdom. Godden covered the various missionary funds explaining thoroughly their much needed practical uses in the work of the church throughout the world.

The Diocesan annual is slated for May 3rd, 4th and 5th to be held in Kingston.

Mrs. A. Bongard spoke on Camp Hayanio. A Camp Mother for several years past, Mrs. Bongard gave the members a description of a day's routine at camp, showing movies to illustrate her talk.

The speakers were thanked by Mrs. L. Watson.

Mrs. Pitt closed with the benediction and refreshments were served by Mrs. H. Keith and Mrs. O'Brien.

A team of Dolly Patridge and Audrey Goswell, dressed in the "rooties" brought the curlers to the Charleston.

Easter Joy' Topic at Melrose WMS

The April meeting of Melrose W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. C. Milligan on Wednesday, April 6, at 2 p.m., with ten members and two visitors present.

The president, Mrs. J. Milligan, presided and gave the call to worship and the invocation. Mrs. Milligan expressed her regret at her absence during the winter, owing to illness, and thanked those who had carried on in her absence.

Mrs. R. MacFarlane installed the officers for the year 1960.

A short business meeting was held.

A brief discussion on how to raise funds for the Allocation took place. Talent money, tea-ing and canvassing for money were suggested, but decisions were left to a later date.

The members were invited to a meeting at Tamalind on May 5th and a tea at Shannonville on May 19th.

The ladies were asked to save old stamps to send to Korea and Mrs. R. MacFarlane was authorized to send for sewing materials.

The treasurer, Mrs. Roy Baldwin, reported the sum of $75.49 was on hand. The Easter offering will be taken at the May meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. Newton Demille.

Mrs. S. Demille, group leader, took charge of the meeting.

Mrs. Bales, Sr., read an article on "The Meaning of Easter," saying, in part, that "the triumphant resurrection of Jesus Christ proved that good eventually triumphed. The Resurrection was God's verdict on life and death."

Mrs. R. MacFarlane read an article "An Easter Message" by Phillips Brooks, a poem about the women who came at dawn to the tomb of their Lord.

Miss Margaret Bailey gave a paper, the theme of which was "Resurrection Joy." Usually the word 'joy' was not used so much now, as emphasis turned over from epidemics, poverty so that they lived in fear. Easter was a season we should all be joyful. First, because the spring was beautiful and God had given us so many things for which to be thankful. A poem 'Simple Things' told of some of these. Second, the Resurrection and Ascension of Jesus Christ was a reason in fact the chief reason for Easter joy. The Resurrection of Christ changed the disciples lives and brought joy to them, and it could also bring joy and peace to each of us".

Mrs. Demille spoke to all those who had helped with the program.

The hostess served a delicious lunch and a pleasant social time was spent by all.

The meeting was turned over to Mrs. P. Davis, who was in charge of the program. Miss Margaret Mahoney, librarian, Trenton, was introduced by Mrs. A. Van Slarkenburg. VETERAN WORKER

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP)— Mrs. Thomas Vance, who died recently at age 94, retired from her job as assistant postmaster at Jordan Harbor when she was 86. She was the former Mary Catharine Fisher, native of Guelph.

Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Cope Happily Wed for 50 Years

The Club Canara recently was the scene of a happy occasion when friends gathered to honor Mr. and Mrs. M. Thomas Cope, Trent Road, on their 50th wedding anniversary. Guests were present from Oshawa, N.Y., Port Hope, Trenton and this city. The party was followed by a reception at their home on the following Sunday, when relatives friends called to wish the happy couple many more years of wedded bliss.

A dinner and program at the Club Canara was arranged by their former son-in-law, Dylan Dawkins and Mrs. Dawkins. A beautiful anniversary cake was the centre of attraction of the table which was tastefully decorated for the occasion. A toast to the health and the happiness of the guests of honor was ably proposed by H. Carr-Brant and responded to by Mr. Thomas Cope.

The happy couple were then called to the centre of the floor and Mr. Dawkins presented them with a "Money Tree" as a token of appreciation from the friends assembled guests. Taken completely by surprise, Mr. Cope thanked all for the generosity and goodwill and then the assembly spent the remainder of the evening in a social way.

"Tommy" Cope as he is familiarly known met his bride, Rose Smith in England and on April 3rd, 1910 took her as his wife at St. Peter's Church at Wolverhampton. Two years later the couple set out for Canada to seek a new home. They came to Belleville and have remained respected citizens since that time. Mr. Cope joined the old Grand Trunk soon after his arrival as a carpenter and remained in the employ of the CNR for 51 years, retiring in 1955.

There were two children, both girls, born to the union, one dying at the age of two and the other, Mrs. Gladys Dawkins, eight years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Cope are comfortably situated in a fine home along the bay shore west of the city and the door is always open to their old friends.

By HARRIET STEVENS

One of the delights of my daily round is the simple acts of thoughtful kindness of which I am recipient from readers and listeners. And this brings to mind something I might offer an explanation. There have been over 450 T and T columns and during this span of time, we have been asked a few times to write an editorial "we" is used usually, but occasionally the first person singular is inserted. Some people do not like the editorial "we" and frankly, T & T dislikes it too. Our reason is not complicated. It was decided early in the life of the column that we would shun any absolute rule-of-thumb, because T & T is the sum total of all the thoughtful kindnesses which come to me from many readers and listeners. It often happens that your columnist does not have time to type the final copy for the paper and then I have to help so you see T & T is by and large a collective effort. You will gather what we mean in today's column.

A few days ago a reader and listener mailed to me a yellowed, torn clipping of a Toronto newspaper T & T had never heard of. She thought it might be of interest to us—and you. Coincidentally, we happen to be collectors of the Stanley Cup hockey finals and the sport page was, of course, interesting. So you see, today the column is the product of three. The yellowed copy of an old defunct Toronto newspaper, the Stanley Cup and so on. And our "we" is a silent acknowledgement as to who it is that makes T & T a plural in a real sense.

"Harry Trihey will not referee the games in Pittsburgh. He is lame from a blow on the foot, but Montreal, April 9th. refused to accept him as an official.

"Roy Brown of Brantford has not joined the Canadian Sault team. He is not in good condition, and a man must be quite fit to stand the rough work of the professional league.

"It was not the Woodstock OHA Juniors who were defeated at the Ingersoll Wizards, says The Sentinel-Review, adding that the OHA Juniors would have made short work of Woodstock under the house."

"Arthur Ferguith, captain and manager of the Pittsburgh team, will be unable to play in the games with the Canadian 'Soo' at the Smoky City. Ferguith has been the best played his last game of hockey. He received a blow on the upper country with a broken rib, a badly smashed toe, and almost a broken leg.

"T & T is inclined to utter a sigh of relief because we thought that the game of hockey had become uncivilized compared to the days of the Ingersoll Wizards, but sincerely that no Leaf or Canadien is injured before the champions are decided.

to overheat car grades. But now that weather in April should be pleasant.

Q) "Our motor trip includes a stop in New York City, but we're told it can be very costly to live in the city. Would there be a reasonable hotel in New Jersey near the George Washington Bridge which would be within transit distance of the Manhattan sights? Any suggestions would be appreciated." — Mrs. J. C., Fairbury, Nebr.

A) Hotels in New York from the west is not nearly so high as most people assume. You drive only a short distance on city streets before you're in the heart of town. Many New York hotels have free parking and some motor hotels are a good bet. But for those who choose to remain outside, there are many good motels in New Jersey near the George Washington Bridge and Lincoln Tunnel. Motel Travel where sightseeing tours pick up and deliver.

THE OUT-OF-TOWN VISITOR

Complications arise when you receive a letter from an old school friend with the news that Susie Gray, a friend of hers, will shortly be in town to see the sights — and asking that you please help her to get around. This brings to mind the question of just how far one's obligation to a friend of a friend extends.

A lot depends upon the way the out-of-town friend approaches you. Often your friend will provide the visitor with a letter of introduction to be presented to you upon arrival, or tell her by telephone you. This places you in the position of having to give some recognition — an invitation to your home, or maybe for luncheon at a hotel. In any case, you are obliged to do something.

If your out-of-town friend is thoughtful, she will write to you about her friend's planned arrival, saying nothing to the visitor about having written you, and leaving it up to you to decide whether you wish to do anything about it. This is certainly the more gracious way to handle it, and leaves you a way out but unfortunately most people aren't so considerate.

Then there is the friend herself, who unexpectedly pops into town for a few days. If you want to be hospitable, then the wife and your pocketbook are the limit. But I think we are all agreed that the friend who arrives unannounced, with the breezy air that you will drop everything, is stretching things too far. If you plead previous engagements, she don't want to impose upon your hostess by asking that she be allowed to accompany you to parties you have already accepted, you'll probably put a strain on the friendship.

"I'm only here for a few days, and the least you could do would be to make time!" is the usually implied, if not the spoken, reaction. Too frequently the one placed on the spot is apt to stretch a point, break her engagements, and give in to the visitor. It seems to me that such a switch of plan is worse than to decline politely to the out-of-towners. If the visitors haven't had the grace to write about their impending visit, then it can't be so important that everything else must be set aside.

"You know we'd love to see you, but we have every minute planned during the next few days. If only I'd known you were coming, I could have arranged things. Can't make any suggestions about things you should see?" That's one way to do it! If hurt feelings are the result, you have no reason for a feeling of guilt. The blame belongs on the shoulders of the visitor who arrives unannounced.

Suppose you are the visitor. You're going to Chicago, say, and hope to see several of your friends while there. How should you approach them? Write to each of them and say: "I'm arriving on Monday, April eleventh. I'll be at such and such hotel. I hope to see you while I am in town." You might add, "Do save a luncheon date," "Perhaps you can drop by the hotel for a few minutes." In this manner you graciously let them know that you do not expect to be entertained. Instead of placing them in the position of being forced to do something, you are leaving it up to them to make the decision.

Mrs. L. B. — My problem involves my niece, a lovely girl of 18 who this year started college in a city not far from my own.

I would like to see a lot of Bernice, but she seems to avoid me and I feel that her father may have poisoned her mind against me and the rest of the family. Her parents were divorced when she was quite young and her father is very bitter against the whole family. Bernice was brought up by her mother and grandparents.

I have tried to show Bernice that we are not the horrible people the daughter pictures, yet she repeatedly turns down invitations to our home, or turns into a bundle of ice if any mention is made of her mother and shows no interest in seeing her mother.

Bernice K. — My father warned me that the whole family would gang up against me if I went to school here, but I was particularly interested in a program I can only get at this college.

It just isn't true that my father has poisoned my mind. He never spoke against my mother or her family. I have a mind of my own. I know that my mother did not behave when she had an affair with another man and practically deserted us. I was still a baby at the time, but I can remember how Aunt Laura came to our home and defended Mother and blamed the whole thing on my father.

I have been polite to my aunt, but frankly I don't enjoy visiting her. It's much more fun to spend it weekends around the college.

The only way Bernice can find out that her mother's family is made up of nice instead of horrible people is through the experience of her contacts with them. If these contacts are forced and they take the form of lecturing and propagandizing, she will not like them and will not be convinced of anything.

We do think, however, that Bernice should recognize she has no right to judge her mother or the conduct of the other adults in the family. Naturally, she carries a deep wound because of the broken home, but she should know that she is not in a position to know all of the facts. Even if she did know all of them, her role in life is not that of judge and prosecuting attorney of her mother.

It is natural for Bernice to be wary of her contacts with her mother's family at this stage, as it is for that family to want to explain and justify and try to reconcile Bernice with her mother. But it takes time, patience and understanding for true reconciliations to be made. Any reconciliation that might be effected through pressure would not be worth very much to either mother or daughter.

Bernice ought to try to reserve judgment on the whole family situation and Mrs. L. B. should make up her mind to keep her approaches to the young girl gentle and moderate. She should not discuss family matters when they get together. She should simply let her niece know that she is always near her, interested in her welfare and ready to help her. She should certainly not speak against the girl's father.

THE CIRCUS

By VIVA RICHMOND GRAHAM

"One of the most popular public exhibitions is the circus." — Susanna Moodie in Life in the Clearings, 1853.

'Tis dawn, with a summer sun rising. Already over a hundred boys of assorted ages and sizes, but linked by a common light-heartedness and gaiety are eagerly sprinting toward Shannonville. And why?

To meet the circus!

What excitement to watch the huge tent being put up in Belleville to accommodate a thousand people seated tier upon tier of seats that rise to the very eaves. How thrilling to watch the performing horses, the tightrope and trapeze artists, to laugh at the antics of the clowns and gig lemonade and such bulls eyes as our listens to the stirring brass band. All for a half a dollar.

Thanks to the pioneer Belleville writer, Susanna Moodie, is such bull's eyes as one listens erected here over a century ago. About the same time the famed Cirque d'Hiver was being built in Paris, France, from which Belleville TV viewers witnessed Ed Sullivan's taped circus acts recently. The same Cirque d'Hiver where an accident cut short a trapeze artist's career, who later became the well-known Yul Brynner. But in its single ring "circus stars performed that put stars in children's eyes; for the circus is the stuff from which dreams are spun." The Italian writer Alessandro Cervelli has recently catalogued his world-famed collection of circus books and reports the most numerous authors of such books are the French, followed by the Germans, English, Italians and Americans.

Circus museums are now being created. This year the Circus World Museum at Baraboo, Wis., and former site of the original winter quarters of the Ringling Brothers' Circus, will open its second season featuring "Circus Sideshows of the 19th Century." This is a 30 by 80-foot display of life-sized portraits of headliners of old circus shows. Also on display are circus wagons, circus rail cars, costumes and equipment. It is reported that the N.B.C. has already begun to produce a pony a bag of tricks and had an act with him as a clown, which all were kind enough to say was the funniest thing they had ever seen. Then, ah, yes, I fell in love with the boss' daughter. She was in our trapeze act. She was lovely and very beautiful. Whether I deserved it or not, she loved me too. We were to marry at the end of the season; the season of the accident. Two days before the circus closed the accident happened. During the evening performance, one of the acrobats in the act slipped, failed to catch my darling and she fell to her death. I came out of it a cripple, a lonely man. I became a masseur, for my circus career was over. But to settle down is impossible. To move on helps to forget. Perhaps it's partly due to the life in the circus: always on the go.

Some weeks later, our friend passed through this village and stopped to say "hello" to the lonely masseur. As she was about to enter she noted a sign on the door which read: "Vacant office for rent."

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

OPEN MY EYES THAT I MAY SEE

Open my eyes that I may see
Glimpses of truth Thou hast for me;
Place in my hands the wonderful key
That shall unclasp, and set me free.
Silently now I wait for Thee,
Ready, my God, Thy will to see;
Open my eyes, illumine me,
Spirit divine!

Open my ears that I may hear
Voices of truth Thou sendest clear;
And while the wave notes fall on my ear,
Everything false will disappear.
Silently now I wait for Thee,
Ready, my God, Thy will to see;
Open my ears, illumine me,
Spirit divine!

Open my mind that I may read
More of Thy love in word and deed;
What shall I fear while yet Thou dost lead?
Only for light from Thee I plead.
Silently now I wait for Thee,
Ready, my God, Thy will to see;
Open my mind, illumine me,
Spirit divine!

Open my way that I may bring
Fruits of grace to Christ, my King;
Eloquent in love, Thy word shall outring
Sweeter the note that angels sing.
Silently now I wait for Thee,
Ready, my God, Thy will to see;
Open my way, illumine me,
Spirit divine!

Christian Endeavorers and members of other church youth societies and organizations have used this hymn through the years in consecration services and other devotions.

It has been a favorite with all church people for singing in prayer meetings and other worship programs ever since it was first introduced to the public by Miss Clara H. Scott, just at the end of the nineties. Miss Scott died not long after verses one day in 1896 and then composed her own hymn tune.

Almost at once the new song began to be widely used. It was published as widely as it was sung and today its popularity shows no sign of waning. It consists of three stanzas and a refrain of the song books of the church.

Its message is a prayer; for a call to Christian service, accomplishment, and soul-winning.

QUESTION:

Edie last fall you printed a recipe for bran muffins, made with yeast and raisins. I have lost my copy of this recipe and would appreciate it if you would send me a copy . . . Mrs. E. P.

ANSWER:

The following may be the muffins to which you refer.

YEAST BRAN MUFFINS WITH RAISINS:

1 cup milk, 1-4 cup lightly packed brown sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 cup shortening, 1-2 cup lukewarm water, 2 teaspoons sugar, 2 packages dry yeast, 1 egg well beaten, 1 cup whole wheat flour, 1-4 cup all-bran, 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1-4 cup raisins.

Scald milk, then stir in brown sugar, salt and shortening. Cool to lukewarm. Assemble and measure lukewarm water into mixing bowl and stir in 2 teaspoons sugar. Sprinkle with yeast and let stand 10 minutes, then stir well. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture and well-beaten egg. Stir in whole wheat flour, bran, all-bran, all-purpose flour and raisins. Beat well for 2 minutes or until batter is smooth and elastic. Scrape down sides of bowl. Cover with a damp cloth. Let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk — about 1 hour. Stir down batter. Fill greased muffin-tins about 2-3 full. Let rise 15 minutes. Bake at 400 deg. F. for about 25 minutes.

QUESTION:

Could you please send me the recipe for a Pumpcake. I lost it.

ANSWER:

I do not think it was one of my recipes, but here is a recipe for

PUMP CAKE:

1-2 cup shortening (part butter), 2 cups sugar, very large or 2 small eggs, 1 1-2 cups canned pumpkin, 2 1-2 cups sifted flour, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 cup buttermilk, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon cloves, 1-4 teaspoon allspice, 1-2 cup water, 1-2 cup walnuts, cut-up (optional), 1-2 cup seeded raisins, cut-up (optional).

Cream shortening and sugar together until fluffy. Beat in eggs, then stir in pumpkin. Sift together dry ingredients several times, alternately with water. Fold in walnuts and raisins if used. Bake in 13 by 9 inch pan at 350 deg. Fahr. for 45 to 50 minutes or 9" square pan at 350 deg. Fahr. for 35 to 40 minutes.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

After Thirteen Years in Trailer Woman Recommends It for Retired

By THOMAS COLLINS

From a "charming woman comes a delightful story of how to retire in a trailer.

"You don't give trailer life a fair shake," she says. Then she goes on to tell the economic advantages of trailer life for a couple living on $200 a month.

She is Evelyn Ballieg Findley, who, with her husband, Howard, wrote a pretty good little book called "The Fun of Trailering." You can get a copy by writing the Findleys at Box 1141, Tavares, Fla., and it will cost you $1.50.

"We have lived and travelled extensively in trailers since 1947," Mrs. Findley says. "We are now settled at a permanent base in central Florida and pay the freight with free-lance writing and some small investments. "I would like to make two points about trailers and retirement.

"1. Here in Florida a monthly sum which would purchase nothing more than slum housing in a conventional house will buy deluxe trailer parking in a country club atmosphere with swimming pool, tropical landscaping and entertainment.

"For instance, one park in Tampa is one of the finest I've ever seen, from Palm Springs to Phoenix to Miami. This park submits only retired people and screens them carefully. Rates start at $32.50 a month and run a little higher for corner and waterfront lots. This fee includes lawn care, unlimited water, garbage and trash collection, paved streets, a big lot with concrete patio and trees, the use of the laundry room, swimming pool, shuffleboard courts and clubhouse as well as bowling and fishing at their door."

"The figure Mrs. Findley mentions is pretty only to the parking of a trailer. You must buy the trailer, which might run from $2,000 to $6,000 or more.)

"Point 2: When you figure out a budget for a $200-a-month couple living in one of these good trailer parks you can eliminate the allowance for entertainment. Such parks have a clubhouse with free movies, pot-luck suppers, Sunday church services, dances, dance lessons and card parties.

In their book the Findleys have a chapter on the cost of trailering. They have some interesting things to say.

"One saving from trailer life," says Mr. Findley, "comes from the large sums we no longer have to spend for clothing. When we started out, my wife and I both had the wardrobes essential to city folks in business. Right now I am wearing a pair of walking shorts, underwear, T-shirt, nylon socks, cloth shoes with rubber soles and an Indian ring with a big blue stone. The total cost of this apparel was $17.50. According to ads in the papers, that figure is about five socks less than the current cost of a pair of shoes of the brand I used to wear.

"Our personal entertainment expense, which formerly included a couple of private clubs and the staggering bills that came every month, has dropped to almost nothing. Our principal item of recreation consists of trips away from our trailer home every month and living in a large motel where we luxuriate in a bathtub, eat in restaurants and see shows.

"It has been our experience that trailer people from choice have little interest in the gay life. They select trailer living for the kind of simple pleasures that come naturally with it.

"We find that two people can eat well, going out to lunch or dinner several times a week, on a monthly food budget of $80.

"We can live as well on $200-$220 a month as we formerly did on $600 for household and general living expenses."

The Findleys are among the most dedicated of trailer people. But they represent a veritable army of people in this country who have found trailers a good way of life. Letters that come to me and interviews with retired people in various parts of the country indicate that the idea is not to go bounding off down the highway into the blue yonder. It is to park a trailer in a professional trailer park and smell the ambitious back home.

If you feel a yen toward this sort of life I would suggest that you first contact the Mobile Home Manufacturers Association, 20 N. Wacker Drive, Chicago 6, Ill. There you can get a line on the cost of trailers and all kinds of literature on trailer parks.

Census Taker Gets No Answers From Mr. Kido

DETROIT (AP)—"The government has never done anything for me. Why should I do anything for the government?" says George Kido. And that includes answering a census taker's questions.

Kido and Mrs. Janet Vukovich got into a fuss this week when Mrs. Vukovich called at the Kido home to pick up a census form.

Mrs. Kido answered the door. "I asked her (Mrs. Vukovich) to sit in the kitchen but she plunked herself down in the living room," said Mrs. Kido. "I answered some of her questions, but her attitude provoked me."

Kido became angry when Mrs. Vukovich asked him about bathroom facilities in his home and handed him an additional census form to fill out. He escorted Mrs. Vukovich to the door and tossed the form out after her.

Mrs. Vukovich and a state policeman went to the Kido home the following day and were ordered out.

Mrs. Helene Zimmerman, district census supervisor, said that when she told Kido he was liable to a $100 fine and 60 days in jail for not answering he told her: "Go ahead and prosecute."

"I'm not living in Russia," he said. "I don't have to answer these questions."

The matter has been referred to regional census director John Tharaldson who says records show that in 170 years the United States census bureau hasn't had to prosecute anyone for refusing to answer questions.

Newly-Appointed Director Of CBC in Maritimes Hopes To Promote National Unity

By ED SMITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP)— Catching, recording and preserving the sights and sounds of the Maritimes have been the core of Syd Kennedy's work since he played across the hall from his father's turnshop to the studios of CFCY Charlottetown as a part-time radio operator in 1927.

Now, as the newly appointed Maritime regional director of the CBC, he hopes to do even more to interpret the coastal provinces to the rest of Canada and promote broadcasting as an instrument of national unity.

The 46-year-old native of Chatham, N.B., moved up to his new job in February when Navy Capt. W. E. (Ted) Briggs was promoted to vice-president of the CBC.

An organization man with a canny ability for improvisation, Sydney Riggs Kennedy brought to his new job a knack for predicting audience reaction that has in the past turned several Maritime shows into popular national programs.

NAUTICAL NOTE

Harmony Harbor, a program of sea stories and chanties, was a Sunday morning feature here in 1946 when the CBC added something nautical for the Trans-Canada radio network.

Six months later, under his direction, it was established as a Sunday afternoon show that was heard nationally for more than a decade and got much of its fan mail from people on the Prairies.

Kennedy was also here when Max (Rawhide) Ferguson showed up after graduating from the University of Western Ontario.

With his disarming smile and smooth powers of persuasion, Kennedy helped keep Ferguson from chucking a cowboy music show he had been assigned to handle.

Max hated cowboy music and changed his voice so that friends wouldn't know he was associated with such a show. The result was the variety of Rawhide characters—business that brought Ferguson national radio fame.

DON MESSER SHOW

Kennedy also had a small hand in introduction of Don Messer and his folksy square dance music to national television.

These were established talents but, says Kennedy, the CBC is continually on the search for untapped ability and "in this area source the Maritimes are indeed fortunate."

Kennedy's own knowledge is recognized abroad as well as in the Maritime area —here he's host to 400 CBC employees. He was called upon to help Ghana plan a national television system and, with Roy Cahoon, CBC Prairie region technical director, spent some time in the African nation's capital last year.

CBC MARITIME HEAD — A Maritimes booster who believes radio is a major instrument of Canadian unity has been appointed regional director of the CBC's Maritime region. Sydney Riggs Kennedy, 46-year-old native of Chatham, N.B., moved up to the job when Capt. W. E. (Ted) Briggs became CBC vice-president. Mr. Kennedy, who started in radio in Charlottetown in 1927, has turned such Maritime programs as Harmony Harbor, Rawhide and the Don Messer Show into national entertainment on the Trans-Canada network. Oil Changes Depend Upon Local Conditions

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

"Check the oil, sir?"

The attendant's question refers, of course, to quantity — not quality. With today's detergent oils picking up and holding dirt in suspension, appearance is no longer a yardstick for oil condition.

Oil changes may be needed at 1,000, 2,000, 3,000 or 4,000 miles. In certain cases — extremely dusty areas, for example — oil may become unfit after just 500 miles. There are many influencing factors: driving speeds, traffic efficiency, air and engine temperature, filter condition, carburetor and choke adjustment, etc.

Engine oil must wage a constant fight against dirt, sludge, carbon, water, acids, gasoline, heat and cold. Under ideal circumstances, every 4,000 miles might be satisfactory, but usually oil changes are needed much more frequently. Every 1,000 miles during winter weather, and 2,000-2,500 mile intervals in summer should be a safe schedule for most engines.

From N. D.: "My headlights flicker and I've also had to replace fuses three or four times. I can't find a thing wrong with the wiring, sockets, lamps or fuse board."

(A) Once again, we advise to examine the battery cable clamps for looseness and corrosion. They are common troublemakers.

P. R. asks: "Can leaking exhaust fumes be fatal to a diver while he is driving the car?"

(A) They certainly can. If carbon monoxide doesn't poison him, it can put him to sleep at the wheel or make him drowsy enough to lose control of the car.

A. Q. writes: "My neighbor keeps his motor spotless. He cleans under the hood as often as many people wipe their windshields. Why is this a good practice, if it is?"

(A) A clean engine, wiring, etc., helps minimize troubles of all kinds, including overheating, short circuits, arcing, etc. It also makes trouble shooting easier when something does go wrong.

From L. S.: "I don't own a car, but I have a good question. Believe it or not, several weeks ago I saw a fellow rubbing an onion over his windshield. What on earth for?"

(A) I've never tried it myself, but this is supposed to prevent frost or ice formation on the windshield, according to some oldtimers.

NEGRO CARDINAL ILL

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — The first Negro Roman Catholic cardinal, Bishop Laurian Rugambwa of Rutabo, Tanganyika, is in a Rome hospital for a rest cure after recent Vatican memories which probably strained his heart, an unofficial Vatican source said Thursday.

Union Liberties Union Objects To Census Query

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Civil Liberties Union objects to the "color or race" question in the United States census now being taken, and has offered to defend anyone threatened with prosecution for refusing to answer the question in the census forms.

However, census officials said there would be no prosecutions arising from the question.

The ACLU said in a statement Thursday night that as it now stands "the question raises in the minds of many of our people the spectre of some threatened discrimination to be based on the answers they give."

Census director Robert W. Burgess said in Washington that such a question has been included in every 10-year U.S. census since they started in 1790, adding:

"The subdivision of the population by color or race is an important element of most census bureau tabulations and contributes enormously to the information on the economic and social status of various groups in our population."

Starts Serving 30-Day Sentence

BRANTFORD (CP)—Mrs. Florence Ford, 39-year-old mother of four young children, Fri. began serving a 30-day jail sentence for driving while disqualified.

Charged after an accident at a city intersection, Mrs. Ford was sentenced March 23 by Magistrate J. T. Shillington who turned down her request that the penalty be a fine. The magistrate allowed her two weeks before going to jail.

Mrs. Ford, who is expecting a fifth child, said she had hoped to appeal the conviction but did not have the money to do so. She has arranged for relatives to look after her children while she is in jail.

Imlach Convinced Leafs Can Win On Montreal Ice

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Don't look now—but it could be that Eastern Professional League interests are planning and preparing for another raid on OHA fresher "A" property.

In short the pros may make a strong bid to have the Kitchener Ditchmen replace the Montreal Royals in order to keep the league intact.

The Royals, it is strongly intimated, will fold because of severe financial setbacks. It seems the club could not attract sufficient fans in a city that has a hockey drawing card like the Montreal Canadiens.

Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick wrote in a recent column: "The next season may see a change or two in the Eastern League setup. There is still a lot of talk that Kitchener-Waterloo may come in into the circuit. If they do, they'd likely replace the Montreal Royals who experienced most difficult financial troubles while 'trying to compete with the powerful National League Canadiens."

"The possibilities of a change in the league setup are not discouraged by recent senior OHA developments. The OHA has weathered a rough season and the chances for the future cannot be too bright when you hear George Dudley remarking: 'We have lost complete control . . . and we'd be better off not to have a league than the one we had this year.'

"The Eastern League would not want to borrow any of the OHA's troubles, but Kitchener-Waterloo would be a very logical replacement if the Royals decide not to operate. However, the latter have made no such announcement, and it will likely be several weeks before there is anything definite."

Dudley did make the statement as reported, but later retracted it saying it was said in the heat of argument. Meanwhile, Kitchener arena manager Crosby stated recently the city council has nothing to do with junior "A" or professional hockey.

On the other hand you cannot blame the pro interests for looking with perhaps envy at the Kitchener setup. The city has a fine arena, and it will not be best arenas between Toronto and Montreal. It is said to seat 7,000 and can accommodate over 8,000. It is the centre of a tremendous "drawing" area, and one of the best-known hockey cities in Ontario.

It is no secret that the Kitchener Dutchmen were more or less disgusted with the turn of OHA events after their return from the Olympics at Squaw Valley.

True, they voted for the round-robin system of playoffs, but fell that were "upped", so to speak, out of a playoff berth at the chance to win one, when the OHA decided to game the fourth-place occupant by way of the grab-average system.

Hard it might be noted, that when the OHA called for a show of hands to find what brand of playoffs for next year, four clubs voted "Yes", but the Dutchmen representatives abstained. This fact, however, did not cause any concern at the moment, the general feeling being that the Dutchies would be back.

So with this in mind, the Dutchies might be tempted by a glittering pro offer. But like Kingston they might discover that all that glitters is not gold.

Reports out of the Limestone City during last season had it that the pro Frontenacs were "in the red" by the sponsoring Boston Bruins insofar as player help was concerned. The Frontenacs finished in last place with attendance at a minimum.

Apropos of this Westwick writes: "It is quite understandable to find the sponsoring Bruins anxious to avoid making the Eastern League a haven for too many old pros. They look to the circuit for development of players for the major league and good material hasn't been too plentiful. But this works, too, to the advantage of fans who welcome the fresh and ambitious approach of the younger players making up in enthusiasm for what they lack in finesse."

That might be the case in the majority of the clubs of the Eastern circuit, but Kingston like the amateur clubs in the OHA nook of the woods, has discovered that fans like a team that can win its share of games, regardless of personnel, or television and radio Hooper ratings get a sudden upsurge.

'We Won't Limit It to One' Says Confident Leaf Boss; Habs Not at Peak - - Blake

By W. R. Wheatley
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Coach Punch Imlach is convinced that's a faster start for his Toronto Maple Leafs can pull them even with Montreal Canadiens tonight in the Stanley Cup final.

The way things turned out in Thursday's opener of the best-of-seven series, Canadiens supplied the swift break from the barrier and just about wrapped up the game before the Leafs settled down.

Imlach was asked if he had conjured up any new schemes or plans in view of what he saw in the opener, won by Montreal 4-2.

"No, nothing like that," he replied. "But we need to get away faster at the outset.

NERVOUS START

"I think our fellows may have been a little nervous at the start Thursday. Perhaps that could be expected, this is only the second year in this thing for most of our boys.

"It's something of old stuff for the Canadiens. I have won the title now four times running.

"It's a new thing but we have got to be at our best in each game to beat them. There's no argument that Canadiens are a powerful club."

Imlach spoke manfully to his pre-series prediction that his club will win a game in Montreal—a necessity in any type of match-matics, if the Leafs are to take the title.

One thing may be of comfort to Imlach, the Leafs lost the opener—right on Toronto ice—of the semi - final against Detroit Red Wings. The Leafs went on to take that series 4-2 in games.

Did that mean the Leafs will win here in Toronto against the championed?

"Never mind about the games in Toronto," Imlach said. "I said before this one here. And I don't have to limit myself to one."

Maple Leafs can pull them even switch from last year's final ice.

Having convinced himself that at least one game in Montreal is in the bag, Imlach indulged in a parable.

"I have told my players that a farmer can plant corn in his field and he can plant poison ivy. He can get a good crop of either. So I'm in player starts thinking he's going to have a bad game and that the game was much like the first one last year when he got by Montreal.

One of Blake's problems is use of his fourth line. He had planned to retain it for the Montreal Thursday but the plan fell through because of the 17 penalties—eight to Leafs, nine.

The fourth line—Ralph Backstrom, Bobby Rousseau and Don Marshall—was used as a unit only once. Marshall was sent out for defensive purposes when Rousseau was shorthanded.

The line was used next Tuesday and Thursday in Toronto. If necessary, the series then will move from city to city for each game.

Fight Details Ironed Out Within Week

NEW YORK (AP)—The final details holding up the official signing of the Ingemar Johansson-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title fight may be settled within a week. That was the hope expressed Friday by Tom Bolan, treasurer of Feature Sports Inc., in a conference with the New York Athletic Commission.

While this confab was going on, Gus D'Amato, manager of ex - champion Patterson, was fined $50 and given a 90-day suspended sentence in special sessions court.

The penalty was for ignoring a subpoena from State Attorney-General Louis J. Lefkowitz during the latter's inquiry into the promotion of the first Johansson-Patterson fight last June 20.

D'Amato was warned that the suspended sentence will be set aside and he will go to jail if he fails to answer any future subpoena from Lefkowitz.

Bolan presented commission Chairman Gen. Melvin Krulewitch with a financial report on substance of the proposed Johansson-Patterson fight contract. In so doing he told the commission he had hopes and expectations that the fight will draw a gate completed so the commission could okay the new title match signing between April 14 and 22.

Texas Hawk Throws Shadow Over Masters Tourney Field

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The rules-dizzy Masters golf tournament went into the third round today with a familiar and unnerving shadow hovering over the fields—that of the Texas hawk, Ben Hogan.

"The little man is on the move again," they said around the Augusta course after Hogan fired a brilliant four - under - par 68 to move into contention, Hogan, 47, has been in semi-retirement for five years.

Pre-tournament favorite Arnold Palmer still leads the pack with a 140—thanks to a slice of wizardry legalistic procedures — but Ben is right behind with three others at 141.

Dow Finsterwald, also at 141, would have had first place to himself except for a retroactive two-stroke penalty slapped on by the rules committee. Others at 141 were Candido Harmon and Walter Burkemo.

LEONARD AT 144

The top 37 were bunched within four shots of each other. Stan Leonard of Vancouver was tied with three others at 144. He shot par 72s in both rounds.

It seemed everybody had an uneasy eye cast in the direction of the great Hogan, winner of four U.S. open championships, two Masters and the British Open and still rated as a good any golfer in the world from tee to green.

But Palmer, 30, may be hard to overtake. And he's getting favorable backing on the rules decisions.

Palmer in the tournament he has had free-lifts on two imbedded balls and was not penalized for a practice swing he took Friday on the 15th. He wound up with a 73 to go with his earlier 67.

COSTLY ADMISSION

Finsterwald was not so fortunate. He came in with a 70 following a first-round 68, only to have the whistle on himself in an unusual incident.

He admitted he had taken a practice putt on the fifth green of his first round Thursday, not realizing it violated local rules. The rules say such a violation requires a two-stroke penalty and thus gave Finsterwald a six on the hole instead of a four.

But if Finsterwald got a six, then he signed a faulty score card and had to answer calls for disqualification. However, the rules committee found a loop-hole to prevent that.

GIRL STRANGLED

AMSTERDAM (Reuters) — A 17-year-old girl was found strangled Thursday in her bed at the home of a chief inspector of the Amsterdam police where she was a boarder. Neither the police inspector, a widower, nor his daughter heard any noise during the night, police said.

Clark Stopped In Bloody Bout

OGDEN, Utah (AP)—Bartolo Soni ended Lamar Clark's comeback bid by knocking out the Friday night by stopping Clark in the ninth round of a brutal, bloody bout.

Soni, 181½-pound Dominican Republic boxer, dropped Clark at two minutes, two seconds of the round with a series of right at 140—thanks to a pile of wood blocks bounced on the canvas as he fell.

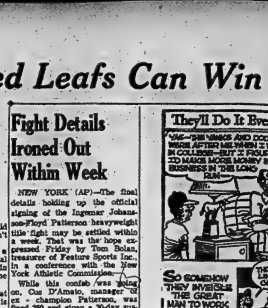
The fight had been scheduled to go 10 rounds.

Clark, 22, of Cedar City, Utah, floored Soni near the end of the fifth round with a right supposedly inadvertent from his shoetops. It rocked Soni on his heels, but he finished the canvas. He was up by the count of eight.

Clark was ahead on points when the surprise ending came.

Royals Meet Wolves in EPL Finals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS



Montreal Royals, second-place finishers in the season's standings, best Trois-Rivieres Lions 3-1 Friday night to win their Eastern Professional Hockey League semi-finals series, and to face first-place Sudbury Wolves for the final.

The Royals' victory Friday night concluded a best-of-seven series that was 3-3 before the game. It was Royals' third straight win after trailing the series 3-1.

Sudbury, who beat Hull-Ottawa Canadiens in the other league semi-final series, will meet the Royals in the opener of the best-of-seven final series at Montreal Sunday.

HEROIN SEIZED

NEW YORK (AP) — Narcotics squad detectives seized 21 ounces of pure heroin with an underworld value of more than $250,000 Thursday night and arrested a man and a woman after more than three weeks of posing as "out - of - town shoe purchasers seeking new talent." Charged with possession of narcotics with intent to sell were William Cole, Neal, 39, and Armanda Stroman, 20.

Another Sizzling Flag Race Looms in National League

By JOE REICHLER

Another sizzling National League pennant race was in prospect today as the senior circuit girded itself for Thursday's opening of the major league baseball season.

For the first time in memory of the modern baseball fan, the experts will have the play all to themselves. The American League will open a week later.

The four National League openers should attract some 165,000 cash customers for a record combined opening-day attendance figure of the two major leagues last year.

A night game crowd of some 50,000 is expected to watch the world champion Dodgers face Chicago Cubs at Los Angeles Coliseum. Don Drysdale (17-13) was expected to start against Chicago's Bob Anderson (13-13), (12-13).

CAPACITY CROWD

A capacity crowd of 42,560 is assured at San Francisco's new Candlestick Park where the Giants will entertain St. Louis Cardinals. Stan Jones (21-25), ace of the Giants' staff probably will oppose Larry Jackson (14-13).

Upwards of 43,000 Milwaukee-ans are expected to watch the Braves take on Pittsburgh Pirates. Warren Spahn (12-13), a southpaw, will go against veteran Pittsburgh right-hander Bob Friend (8-19).

A traditional opening-day Cincinnati sellout of 31,000 will see the Reds' Jim Brosnan (9-6) or Cal McLish (19-8) oppose veteran right-hander Robin Roberts (15-17) of Philadelphia Phillies.

The pre-season trading spree of years has resulted in major changes on every club except the Dodgers and Braves. The Giants appear the strongest. Las Vegas gambling odds, however, favor Milwaukee.

The Dodgers won last year on pitching, but the latter is still. They have all that and perhaps more this year and should battle the Giants and Braves right down to the wire.

AGING ARMS

Milwaukee's fortunes depend on the aging arms of Spahn and Lew Burdette and the legs of Red Schoendienst. The veteran second baseman appears fully recovered from tuberculosis, which kept him out of action all of 1959 except for five token appearances.

All spring signs point to Stan Musial, 40, of St. Louis Cardinals rebounding after his first poor season in nearly two decades of tremendous accomplishments. But the Redbirds don't appear to be a factor in the race.

Cincinnati needs more pitching, Pittsburgh needs more hitting, Chicago needs more fielding and power, and Philadelphia needs more players of major league calibre.

Hail, Hail, the Gang's Ready For Baseball Opening Tues.

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Staff Writer

Here's the real story of spring training:

Spahn's ready, so's Musial. And Boyer and Banks and Robertson and Drysdale, and Willie McCovey, too.

They're ready for next Tuesday when the National League opens the 1960 Major League season.

Warren Spahn, Milwaukee's veteran left-hander, worked four innings Friday, gave up only one hit, a single by Frank Thomas as the Braves won 6-3 at Nashville.

The Cardinals' Stan Musial, 40, completed a routine of the year honors, hit his fourth spring homer to spark a St. Louis rally that beat the Cubs 6-4 at Mesa. Teammate Ken Boyer added a homer in the ninth inning.

NINTH HOMER

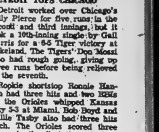
Robin Roberts was one of six pre-season innings against minor league opposition at Hollywood, the same assignment as 40 Philadelphia victory over Indianapolis of the American Association.

Don Drysdale of Los Angeles pitched five scoreless innings and struck out six San Francisco Giants at Bakersfield, Calif., But McCovey, hit his third homer in spring training to key a five - run eighth-inning rally that beat the Giants 7-3.

Spahn will be Milwaukee's opening day pitcher against Pittsburgh. Drysdale has drawn the same assignment for the Cubs, and Roberts is due to face Cincinnati.



Pittsburgh was idle Friday. So were Boston and Cleveland in the American League, but the other six played Friday's contest. The official season doesn't open until 3:30.

The Washington Senators ended their 9-game winning streak, 8-0, as Pascual and Jack Kralick pitched it. Bob Allison homered for the second straight day.

DETROIT TOPS CHICAGO

Detroit worked over Chicago's Billy Pierce for five runs in the second and third innings, had it look a 10th-losing streak by Earl Harris for a 6-5 Tiger victory at Lakeland. The Tigers' Don Mossi also had rough going, giving up three runs before being relieved in the seventh.

Rookie shortstop Ronnie Hansen had three hits and two RBIs as the Orioles whipped Kansas City 5-3 at Miami. Baby Boyd and Willie Tasby also had three hits each. The Orioles scored three in the first three innings off ex-Yankee Don Larsen.

"I couldn't afford to hold out any longer. But I'm gonna hit about 20 homers just a little bit feel this year!"

Giants, Chisox for Series Says Associated Press Poll

NEW YORK (AP)—The annual Associated Press pre-season poll picks San Francisco Giants to win the National League pennant with world champion Los Angeles Dodgers running no better than third.

The baseball writers named Chicago White Sox for a 2-to-1 choice to repeat in the American League.

More than half of the 160 members of the Baseball Writers Association of America who took part in the balloting put the Giants on top in the National League. The Giants, who finished third last season, drew 85 first-place votes, compared to 61 for Milwaukee Braves and 13 for the defending champion Dodgers.

On a point basis, giving eight points for the first place, seven for second, etc., the Giants totalled 1,231, Milwaukee 1,192 and Los Angeles 1,051.

The White Sox, who won their first pennant since 1919 last season, picked up 86 first-place votes to 41 for the runner-up Cleveland Indians. New York, with 36 finish, and Detroit, with seven firsts, were placed third and fourth, duplicating the American League's first division finish of last year.

POINT TOTAL CLOSE

The eight-team poll allganed for the National: 1. San Francisco, 2. Milwaukee, 3. Los Angeles, 4. Pittsburgh, 5. Cincinnati, 6. St. Louis, 7. Chicago Cubs, 8. Philadelphia.

In the American League it was: 1, Chicago White Sox, 2, Cleveland, 3, New York, 4, Detroit, 5, Baltimore, 6, Kansas City, 7, Boston, 8, Washington.

Milwaukee, which finished second in a 1959 pennant playoff with Los Angeles, had a comfortable 86-67 edge over the Dodgers in second-place votes. The Dodgers, after an unprecedented jump from seventh place in 1958 to the world championship, drew almost half of their votes (61) at third-place level.

No ballot listed the Giants lower than fourth. Two had Milwaukee as low as fifth. Two others placed the Dodgers fifth.

In the American League, one ballot listed the White Sox fifth. Two had them fourth, and six ranked the Yankees that low.

Chatham Swamps Northern Champions 7-0

CHATHAM (CP)—The strength of the northern champions melted when they moved south Friday night: Rouyn-Noranda Aloueties were beaten 7-0 by Chatham Maroons in the Eastern Canada Allan Cup semi-final series.

The defeat was a surprise after Aloueties' two victories at Noranda, Que., in the opening games of the best-of-five series. Aloueties beating Chatham 3-2 in the first and 10-2 in the second.

The two remaining games will be best Chatham, the next tonight and the last, if necessary, on Monday.

Stan Tellons' Aloueties were no match for the Maroons, reinforced on home ice. Chatham had a 36-16 shooting edge over the visitors.

1,500 WATCH

A crowd of more than 3,000 saw Maroons open with a 3-0 first-period lead, and lead 4-0 at the end of the second. But for superb goaltending of Al Smith in Chatham lead would have been far greater, particularly in the first period.

The goal scorers were Gary Sharp and Joe Maio, who got each, while Frank Bathgate, Ted Power and Cooper Leyte got singles.

Chatham received five of the eight penalties, one, a five-min major going to Fred Fletch in the third period. His absence however was not exploited by Noranda to take the initiative.

Meanwhile at Hull the other Eastern Canada Allan Cup semi-final best-of-five series was tied 2-2 last night when Hull Legionnaires beat Amherst Ramblers 5-2. They play again Sunday.

In the Western Canada Allan Cup finals Trail Smoke Eaters lead 3-0 in the best - of - seven series against Port Arthur Bearcats after winning their third game 5-2. They play again Monday.

Boosters Ring Down Curtain At Gala Presentation Party

The McFarlands Booster Club rang down the seasonal curtain last night in a blaze of party presentations glory.

Tributes tangible and otherwise, teased and re-crossed one another at a highly enjoyable banquet held in the lights of Columbus Hall.

Mayor H. J. McFarland, son Harvey, executive and team manager Keith McDonald represented the club head.

Captain Floyd Crawford and a dozen or so players represented the McFarlands hockey team in special guests. Also on the special list were members of the press and radio.

There was fun and frolic, back-slapping and reminiscing. There was dancing in the fine rhythms of the Mariners orchestra and a delicious luncheon served at the tender hour of twelve.

The "Senator" cut a square-dance "rug" but was forced to retire at the end of the first period.

The players were presented with handsome ash-trays bearing bronze tab engraved with the name of the Booster Club.

The Boosters in turn paid tangible tribute to their president through a fine gift of appreciation. Mrs. Pat Matthews was the recipient of a bouquet of lovely red roses. Armand Duffy made the presentation with Joan Gander presenting the flowers.

Said the past president, "Jim" Matthews was the living personification of a true Rooster. He worked hard — and all the time. He not only worked for the club but freely of his time. He did a grand job."

The president passed on a lot of credit to a "hard-working executive and many club members." Next year we will have a better hockey club and a bigger booster Club."

Mayor McFarland was optimistic over next year's hockey club prospects. "With Gordie Bell as coach, Keith MacDonald as manager and Ike Hildebrand back again, we hope to build a team that will be a winning combination," he said.

"I'm sorry we did not do what we thought we could do," he said. Then he chuckled with the remark, "I know now where the money goes to run a hockey club."

"Next year," he said, "with the help of the good people of the city of Belleville, the countries of Prince Edward and Hastings and the all-out effort of the McFarlands, we hope to get an all-Canada Cup winner."

Manager McDonald practically reiterated the statement. He said Gordie Bell had been on a player-seeking tour out west and had been fairly successful. "There would be some Tuesday or Wednesday and a full report of his activities would be published."

He paid fine tribute to the Booster Club and thanked them for the splendid co-operation. On his friend, valuable help," he said, "we hope to come up next year with a team this city and district would be mighty proud of."

Floyd Crawford, the Macs captain, said, "we had a bad year, and nobody feels worse about it than the players. We had two good years when everybody was with us and feels sorry about the championship. We are grateful to the real true boosters who are here tonight. And next year we will be back stronger than ever."

Cougars May Move Franchise To Los Angeles

VICTORIA (CP)—The Colonist says Jim Piggott, owner of Victoria Cougars, will propose a shift of his franchise to Los Angeles at a Western Hockey League meeting May 11.

Piggott, a Saskatoon contractor, bought the franchise late last year and the newspaper said he says he can get players known to be bidding for a Los Angeles NHL berth. Others are Los Angeles businessmen, Jack Dempsey and Art Edwards.

Piggott has instructional in arranging for two of the best-of-nine league games between Vancouver Canucks and the Cougars being played at Los Angeles this week. Although the two games drew a disappointing total of 10,500 fans, Piggott felt a franchise could be successfully operated there, the newspaper said.

An application for a franchise in San Francisco is also expected to be discussed at the league meeting. If San Francisco is not accepted, it would be financially unsound to accept Los Angeles because of travelling expenses involved.

Williams Bros. Defeat Booths Win Industrial Loop Title

Williams Brothers, sweeping through the playoffs undefeated, whipped Booth Bro's 9-5 at Memorial Arena last night to capture the Belleville Industrial Hockey League championship.

Williams, who finished second to Booth's in the regular schedule, took the three straight final series three games to none with ease. The champs slimmed Chris' Drive-In in consecutive games in a semi-final round.

The winners left no doubt right from the start as to the outcome of last night's encounter. They opened the scoring on a goal by Doug Moreau at 2.30 of the initial period and made it 3-0 by the end of the frame.

Booth's fought back strongly in the middle heat to cut the margin to 4-3 but four unanswered goals in the third produced the final 8-3 score for Williams Brothers.

The winners got two-goal efforts from Doug Moreau, Duke Doran and Bert Faulkner in their victory. Gordie Green and "Wiener" Waite triggered the other markers. Big Doug Morgan stayed out of the penalty box and was a key figure in the club's defensive showing with five assists. Faulkner, Jack Lucas, Don Mahony and Moreau had three apiece.

Bob Brooks and Gord "Fork" Booth were the TV marksmen while Earl Cousins and Cam McKenna drew the assists.

Bobby Green in the victors' net turned in another top-notch performance in the series. Second to last Jack Gilby at the other end of the rink was given little support, especially after his club fell behind and had to open up play in an effort to get back in contention.

Referee Bill Hurst, who missed much more than he caught, handed out a total of 11 penalties, six of them to the losers. Included in the totals were major penalties to Booth's Earl Cousins and Williams' Gord Green for fighting.

Williams Brothers — B. Green Murray, Chalmers, G. Green, Doran, Faulkner, J. Lucas, Day, Moreau, Bishop D. Lucas, Waite, Keaston, Cole.

Booth's TV's — Gilby, Brooks, McKenna, Cousins, J. Hughes, Rowbotham, St. Denis, R. Hughes, Irwin, Wood, Calnan, Cris, Archer.

Referee — Bill Hurst.

Linesmen — Harry Morgan and "Hank" Ford.

TeePees Open With Brockville On Sunday

MONTREAL (CP) — Brockville Canadians and St. Catharines Teepees, two highly rated junior hockey teams, meet Sunday in the first game of their best-of-seven series in the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup finals.

"The winner will play either the Swedish Wheel Kings or the Edmonton Oil Kings for the cup.

Teepees, who began their Ontario Hockey Association season slowly, lost only five of their last 36 games and finished in second place. In playoff competition they lost only three of 17 games.

Canadiens, champions of the Metropolitan Junior Hockey League, played 24 games against OHA competition in the interlocking schedule, winning 18, losing seven and tying one. Against Teepees, they won three and lost one.

Big gun for Brockville is centre Bobby Rousseau, a hot prospect for the National Hockey League. He played for Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in the Winter Olympics.

Sunday's junior game will be part of a doubleheader, with Montreal Royals and Sudbury Wolves meeting in the first game of a best-of-seven series in the EPHL final.

The winner swings to St. Catharines Wednesday, returns to the Forum Friday and moves to Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto Sunday. Further games, if necessary will be arranged later.

Gotham Weeds Won't Grow in Frisco Park

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP) — Anybody want two square feet of the outfield from the New York Polo Grounds?

That leaves two square feet of Manhattan real estate a long way from home.

Racial Matter Bobs up in British Sport

LONDON, (Reuters)— A New-crowbile prize fight by two South Africans was cancelled Friday after the Boxing Board reported to have expressed fear over what might happen to him and his family if he returned home victorious.

Eddi featherweight Sexton Mahon was ousted from Sharpeville, where Negroes were shot to death by South African police recently while demonstrating against race segregation laws.

As Mabena's April 28 Birmingham tilt with white boxer Johnny Prescott was cancelled, the South African racial situation also was felt in cricket.

The Marylebone Cricket Club warned the all-white South African team that it may be the target of demonstrations when it arrives here April 17 for a tour.

BERLIN (AP) — Heavyweight Pete Rademacher of Columbus, Ga., and Uli Ritter of Germany battled in a 10-round bout before 4,000 Friday night.

Winter months mean rain, sleet, wind and snow . . . all of which help to play havoc with television aerials. Although the average TV viewer may not realize it, his television reception may now be far below par because of the beating his antenna has taken during the severe weather.

In view of the big dividends in improved reception compared to the low cost, it pays to have your aerial checked, cleaned and adjusted in the spring.

Good weather means easier working conditions and low summer rates on antenna service are now in effect at CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 384 Coleman St. While we're checking your antenna, let us install an electric rotor for even more television pleasure. For free estimates phone WO 8-6791.

Whitby Takes First Game From Picton

PICTON (Special) — Picton Merchants dropped the opening game of their OHA Junior "C" playoff series to the powerful Whitby Hillcrests here Thursday night.

Second game in the best-of-five affair will be played in Whitby tonight with the third tilt also there on Monday.

Mel Brown, Kenny Roberts, Mike Rowland and Paul Tran fired two goals apiece past a shaky Lee Pendleton in the Picton nets. Bill Lundmark bagged the other.

Merchants' scorers were Leon Bryant and Brian Beatty with two goal each and Don Taylor.

Picton's offence was way off color, missing great chances time and again as Whitby drew 13 penalties compared to the Merchants' half dozen.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The case of the fired DA. continued to rumble today as Raymond Burr came out in defence of his courtroom opponent, William Talman.

Burr, TV's Perry Mason, issued this statement to the Associated Press:

"The present situation involving William Talman is one of the most unfortunate I have ever encountered. I feel very strongly that the incident has been magnified all out of proportion.

"While I am speaking only for myself, I am sure no one can deny that Mr. Talman is an exceptionally fine actor. He has been an equally fine friend for a number of years and has been unfailingly generous with his time, talent and money in help ing any charitable cause with which I have been connected.

"During the course of our many precepts of both the professional and personal life, on which Mr. Talman and I have so long been associated, I would be the last to pre-judge him or, for that matter, anyone.

"I am sure that in the final analysis matters will not turn out to be as serious as newspaper stories would indicate, that Mr. Talman will resume his career, achieving the heights of his talent so richly deserves."

NO TALMAN TONIGHT

Tonight's chapter of the long-run whodunit is called The Case of the Crying Cherub. Burr as defence counsel Mason faces actor David Lewis as deputy district attorney.

Burr apparently will be vanquishing a succession of deputies. Talman, who until now has argued the prosecution's cases in the courtroom dramas, was dropped as a cost regular after his arrest at a wild party.

CBS found itself fire in unreleased shows in which Talman appears. These were shelved for re-runs and newly-made shows without Talman. He will not reappear on Perry Mason until May 25.

Talman, faced with "level urgency" charges, has declared: "No program, particularly this program, should ever be used merely on an accusation."

Executive producer Gail Patrick Jackson first said a decision about Talman's job would be forestalled until outcome of his case, but the firing order came from the network.

Talman's trial is scheduled for April 25.

ways and public buildings. It was the most the province had sunk into any single communality. Private investment was estimated at a further $45,000,000.

That was four years ago. Now the uranium contracts with the United States are running out and some of the mines will close. Others will merge. Unemployment is in sight for many despite a stretchout in contract completions.

The visitors' heavy program was to begin with a welcome at the train bringing them from Ottawa and a motorcade into Elliot Lake from the railway station at Sprague, 20 miles south of here. Principal welcomers were Mrs. O'Brien, managing director of the weekly Standard, and merchant Reg Clark, co-chairman of the reception committee.

This is the program:

A drive around town in the morning.

Semi-private meetings during the afternoon at which the chamber of commerce, the property owners' and ratepayers' associations and the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) will present briefs.

A dinner at night sponsored by the reception committee.

The federal party returns to Ottawa by air Sunday night.

No one would say in advance what is expected to come from the weekend sessions.

The federal government has already told Elliot Lake it will not relocate its proposed nuclear research station planned for Manitoba's Whiteshell area north of Winnipeg. Mr. Diefenbaker still said it would employ no miners.

"I do not see Elliot Lake becoming a ghost town; far from it," Mr. Churchill said in the House of Commons. "There may be contraction, but the major producing mines are still there, still operating, and will operate for another three years."

Tilson Trophy Awarded to Wayne Connelly

TORONTO (CP)—Wayne Connelly, 5foot-9-and-160-pound winger with Peterborough Petes, has been named the 18th winner of the Albert (Red) Tilson Memorial Trophy.

The trophy is awarded annually by the Toronto Globe and Mail to the player regarded as the most valuable and gentlemanly in the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A series.

Connelly, whose four-season career in the junior league ended with Peterborough's elimination in the playoffs, has already turned professional with the Montreal Canadiens' chain.

During this season, he shared goal scoring honors with Ray Cullen of St. Catharines Teepees. Each had 48 goals.

The trophy is named after Red Tilson, an outstanding junior with Regina and Oshawa who was killed during service in the Second World War. The winner is decided by sportswriters who cover junior hockey.

Campbell Cuts Leafs' Tickets Squawk Short

MONTREAL (CP) — Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, said Friday nothing can be done now about Toronto Maple Leafs' complaint about the seats their fans have been allotted in the Montreal Forum for the Stanley Cup final.

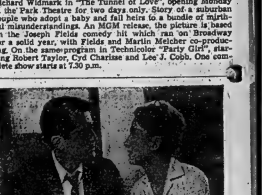
"If you don't like your seats, you don't have them," Campbell said. "There's no possibility of doing anything about it now."

He said the Leafs had probably studied their complaint to him in order to have the situation rectified in future years with the Montreal Canadiens but they would have to stick with the 100 seats they have for the two current series.

The newsy of the hassle was released in Toronto by Conn Smythe, president of Maple Leaf Gardens.

Brandon Whips Edmonton 7-1 In Junior Tilt

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—Brandon Wheat Kings spotted Edmonton Oil Kings one goal in the first period Friday night then roared back to take a 7-4 victory in the opening game of the best-of-seven Western Canada Memorial Cup final series.



The Wheat Kings won the opener Wednesday. The clubs now move to Edmonton for the remainder of the series, with the third game Monday.

Bryan Hextall paced Brandon with two goals. Singles for the winners were scored by Dunc McCallum, Gus Vachon, Wayne Curtet, Ron Baryluk and Jack Mathison.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Sunday, April 10

General tendencies: This is a fearful Sunday to think out the most magnanimous attitude and you can adopt that will bring you greater co-operation and helpfulness in dealing with any whose active alliance and association you desire. Then later you can add color, art, design, music or social affairs. Be dynamic.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)

— By serving others faithfully today, you set the pattern for a better life tomorrow. Be an inspiration to others. Living the Golden Rule will bring infinite good and far greater success than you so richly deserve.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)

— After going to church, give time to improving appearance. Then read your paper and find new and lucrative outlets for the future. Radio and TV will also be the means by which you can pick up fine ideas. Expand.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21)

— This day should be spent making members of your clan far happier and more comfortable. Attend services together. Later, a family party could have very beneficial results. Be helpful to those less fortunate than you.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — After being inspired at the services of your choice, get together with those associates who will co-operate nicely in working out some fine new ideas you have in mind. Discuss matters thoroughly. P. M. retire early.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — You have but to return to the principles and standards under which you were reared in order to start on upswing in all of your affairs for greater happiness than has been possible for some time. Be inspired.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — Seek advice and support from a generous and high-minded comrade today who will understand your hopes and wishes. P. M. go out socially and impress others with your charm.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23) — Your penchant for research should be confined to matters spiritual this day, since this is the channel through which you can attain your greatest desires. Deep concentration will show you the way almost miraculously.

Sagittarius (Nov. 24 to Dec. 23) — The information you seek can be gained only through friends today, so be sure you attend church, go to meetings, lectures, etc. P. M. take key persons out to dinner. Point your questions but speak informally.

Capricorn (Dec. 24 to Jan. 20) — Many situations may come to the fore today that will prove most helpful in the future, and you need not continue to guess. Knowledge gleaned can be applied to later activities most lucratively, in various spheres of endeavor.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Consulting with the most famous of spiritual leaders will be your wisest course today in the means by which you can solve your present problems and get finest advice for the future. P.M. made new contacts. Enjoy yourself.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — A day for getting into the so-called Silence and listening to the voice of your conscience. Inspirations will be yours concerning how to go about future activities. P. M. sit down and plan the new week wisely.

If your child is born today — The charming child born today will possess such a delightful personality that nearly everyone will be drawn to your attractive prospect. However, you must early teach gentility and consideration for others to avoid impulsiveness so well as any tendency toward selfishness. An excellent chart for any artistic pursuits, musical attainments, entertainment and the like. Handle your youngster wisely.

Monday, April 11

General tendencies: This is one of those days when all sorts of delays, obstacles and limitations can occur to block your progress. It's essential you avoid having a Blue Monday by being more than usually careful, cautious and considerate. As it is the Full Moon, activity is accentuated. Use care when in motion, with tongue. Be kind.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Be most circumspect in all that you say or do today, since it is one of those days when you will not be seen in the best light by almost everyone, especially partners. P. M. speak kindly. Retire early.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Guard against laboring without motherhood or authority today or you may lose the respect of higher-ups who have closer working ties. Remember that haste makes waste, too. Be thoughtful — work relaxed, produce, be a winner.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — While you want to enjoy yourself at all cost now, this is not the right day to give in to this temptation or you lose the respect of one important to you. Follow through on obligations cheerfully instead. Smile.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Rather than be entirely antagonistic at some concerning some stranger, use the soft pedal and handle the situation diplomatically. Be sure you take home little gifts to soften late comers. Be courteous and charming.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Rather than permit your regular work to get you down emotionally, be off to some necessary shopping. Study your paper for the finest suggestions. P. M. write important letters, but be sure you are courteous and concise.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Handling all financial affairs can be quite a chore and problem to you today, but if you think along sound lucrative and logical lines, you can improve conditions considerably. Appetites funds wisely. Invest wisely.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — Getting all worked up over small and petty affairs does not help. And don't permit a late appointment with loved one to unnerve you. Be kind. P. M. assist the poor and truly needy.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23) — Because others are as tight-lipped as is your usual habit, you feel something is wrong. This is not the case — you are simply being protected. Relax and be courteous and kind with everyone. Be cheerful.

Sagittarius (Nov. 24 to Dec. 23) — If you do not get the assistance and usual thoughtfulness from others, realize that they are probably more worried and bogged down with work than you are. Find some way to be of help to them instead.

Capricorn (Dec. 24 to Jan. 20) — Take care you do not commence the week improperly by taking one in power. Make it a point to follow through on all commitments and get all of your work done efficiently. Thus you come out on top.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Trying to run out on your obligations and off to some unproven activity would lessen your character and leave those you like literally holding the bag, which you would later regret bitterly. So, be yourself, Aquarius.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — It's best not to follow your intuitions today in starting any new ventures. Experts also do not seem to have the right ideas for you. Hence, work at what is sure and await another day for new beginnings. Be safe.

If your child is born today — The fine child born today would do very well in any field where police power is required, especially within the government, or in very large companies. Teach your youngster to think along big lines or time may be wasted with the minutiae of living and thus miss out on the real success that is denoted in this chart. Also, give a good training in cultural and artistic lines.

Deny European Royal Families Boycott Wedding

Most Reigning Monarchs Will Be 'Busy' on May 6

LONDON (Reuters)—Are European royal families "boycotting" the wedding of Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong - Jones May 6?

A Norwegian palace spokesman in Oslo retorted this was "absolutely silly" and Scandinavian journalists have been quick to fight back in print.

Something of a story is developing over what most of Europe's reigning royal families have found something else to do when Princess Margaret and her former photographer fiance are married in Westminster.

In Sweden, King Gustav and his wife, Queen Louise, an aunt of Margaret's brother-in-law Prince Philip, will be entertaining the Shah of Iran and Empress Farah Pahlavi. A royal spokesman here said it was unlikely any of the Swedish king's four grandmasters would be able to go to Britain during the shah's visit.

To Free Phillips On Condition He Leaves Country

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — Electoral Affairs Minister Eric Louw announced today that detained Canadian newspaper man Ross Phillips will be released on condition he leaves South Africa.

Louw said Phillips, formerly editor of the Toronto Star, will be released after police finish questioning him.

Phillips, 41, was detained Friday in Durban under emergency law. He was held sitter attempting to cable a story to The Star.

A Canadian protest, and strong demands by Phillips' employers were presented to External Affairs Minister Eric Louw by Canadian High Commissioner James Hurley Sunday.

Louw said in an interview with a Die Transvaler reporter that he informed Hurley Phillips had "type of reports which Phillips had sent abroad and circumstances under which his detention was necessary."

Louw declined to say what the circumstances were. Under the emergency laws, reasons for detention or arrest do not have to be given and the person may be held as long as Justice Minister Francois Erasmus thinks fit.

A spokesman for the Canadian high commission office here said that before asking for Phillips' release Hurley "conveyed the Canadian government's sympathy . . . on the attempt on the life of Dr. (Prime Minister Hendrik) Verwoerd."

Louw promised Hurley he would pass on the Canadian representations to Erasmus, the spokesman said.

Hurley saw Louw Sunday after a hurried, early-morning flight from Johannesburg, 1,000 miles away. Ross Brown, second secretary at the Capetown high commission office, flew 1,200 miles to Durban to Phillips in jail.

NOT ARRESTED

Louw explained to Die Transvaler that Phillips was not arrested by police, but held for questioning.

Phillips was detained after handing in the story to the Durban post office. The story was not cabled. It was turned over to South African authorities instead.

Stenographer Miss Beverley Smith, 19, of Toronto, is one of the 73-year-old grandfather were rescued Sunday, shortly before fire destroyed a home in this community two miles south of Barrie.

Mr. and Mrs. John Nickel were visiting the adjacent home of their landlord, Roger Potvin, while their two children, Patricia, eight, and John, four months, were left in the care of Mr. Nickel's father, Peter.

Nothing smoke, Mr. Nickel and Mr. Potvin ran to the home. Mr. Potvin carried Patricia down a stairs in his crib. He said the flames were only three feet from the child.

Mr. Nickel rescued Patricia and led his father outside. Some furniture was saved.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Increasing southerly winds will bring warmer weather to almost all of southern Ontario. Afternoon skies are expected to cloud over by evening. A band of scattered showers and thunderstorms will cross Southern Ontario during the night to be followed by clearing skies and slightly lower temperatures Tuesday. A return to northerly winds Tuesday promises generally cloudy skies with northeast winds and temperatures north of Lake Superior.

PRES. CHAIRMAN OF ROYAL BANK DIES SUDDENLY

James Muir Visiting Sister in Scotland

PEEBLES, Scotland (CP) — James Muir, who rose from a junior clerk to become chairman and president of the Royal Bank of Canada, died Sunday while on a visit to Scotland, his native countryside.

The last of the 68-year-old financier was mourned on both sides of the Atlantic.

Cause of death was not disclosed.

Muir was visiting his Scottish birthplace—he emigrated to Canada in 1905—and was staying with his sister, Mrs. T. C. Stewart, at Sheriffmuir. He was at the wheel of the car during an afternoon drive when he collapsed.

HEADED GIGGER BANK

As the director of Canada's largest chartered bank, Muir's views on the country's economy were followed closely by business and government circles. He never hesitated to make his opinions known in clear decisive language.

In addition to his positions at the Royal Bank, Muir was an official of numerous other institutions and was the governor of four hospitals, two universities and a college.

G. Arnold Hart, president of the Royal Bank of Canada, said he will be much the poorer for his loss.

"His ability and dynamic character made him an outstanding leader in the field of finance. He was a man of great courage, strong convictions and unusual business acumen and he was always fair in his dealings."

JOHNSON TRIBUTE

Roy Thomson, Canadian - born chairman of the board of Hudson's Bay Co., publishing and broadcasting firms, said Muir "will be very grievously missed in the whole business community."

"As chairman and president of the Royal Bank of Canada he built that organization into the sixth-largest bank in the world, a truly magnificent triumph of commercial enterprise."

Muir was a director of Thomson's Scotsman Publications Limited, and was the last survivor of the board of Thomson Newspapers Limited.

Muir had had some banking experience before emigrating. He started in Scotland as a junior clerk in Moose Jaw, Sask., and in 1925 was appointed assistant general manager. He became president of the bank in 1942.

In 1944 he was appointed to the Pacific Railway, Standard Chartered Bank of West Africa, Montreal Trust Company among others.

EDUCATIONAL INTEREST

Dr. F. Cyril James, principal and vice - chancellor of McGill University, paid tribute to Muir's educational interests by saying: "His interest in education was very active and continuous and he always brought back new and stimulating ideas from his world travels."

Interested in these travels were trips to Communist China in 1956 and 1958 and his criticizing Canada's policy of non-recognition of that government—see Ross Rae, Toronto and Czechoslovakia in 1956.

Muir had visited his sister at least once a year since the end of the Second World War.

Latvian Wartime Refugee Weds Wealthy Bostonian at Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP)—A modern-day Cinderella story came true Sunday when Indole Silkovska, a wartime refugee from Latvia, married Hayes C. Lamont, son of a New York millionaire.

Indole, a post-graduate biology student at McMaster University here, met Lamont when he was a student at Harvard University, at Cambridge, Massachusetts last year at Woods Hole, Mass.

Dr. Lamont is the son of Corliss Lamont, of New York University, and the grandson of Thomas Lamont, who was prominent in the financial empire of the late J. P. Morgan.

"I met him across the table in a dining hall," recalled Indole. "It was all very informal."

The groom, his father and the best man were the only men in formal dress at the wedding. The bride's 30-year-old father Arvids Silkovs and other men were business suits. Mr. Silkovskis is caretaker at a Hamilton church.

The bride, who wore an ivory satin gown, paused to pluck white

Ice in St. Lawrence, Upper Lakes Hampers Shipping

By The Canadian Press

Ice scattered through the St. Lawrence and the upper Great Lakes is causing considerable trouble for shipping although lakes Erie and Ontario are relatively ice-free.

The federal government's icebreaker Lepoinie began clearing a channel through the St. Lambert lock near Montreal Sunday, opening the first section of the ice-blocked St. Lawrence Seaway. Some seaway channels were still plugged with ice although the seaway is scheduled to open next Friday.

The Lapoinie entered the lock after workmen cleared ice from the lock's mammoth gates. The icebreaker was expected to clear the St. Lambert and Cote St. Catharine lock and move into Lake St. Louis today.

The United States Coast Guard described the ice as a "serious problem."

Nine ore carriers moved through the Michigan Soo Canal on the upbound trip and five carriers locked through downbound Saturday.

The federal transport department ordered the icebreaker Norman McLeod Rogers to the Lakehead to resume clearing ice following complaints from Lakehead Harbor Commission Chairman E. C. Irvine that the vessel did not complete its job before it left last Thursday.

Easily-moved slush ice was reported at Port Colborne on the Lake Erie end of the Welland Canal and at least two vessels sailed out Saturday for Port William.

Aircraft dropped food Sunday to two fishing boats trapped since Friday in heavy off-shore ice a mile from Goderich harbor in Lake Huron.

The same area was the scene of a dramatic breakout as the 15,000-ton grain carrier R. Bruce Angus plunged through ice up to 20 feet deep Sunday to free her stern ship, the 1,000-ton Provmar Howard L. Shaw, while hundreds of people watched from shore.

The freighter had sailed Friday to pick up 15,000 bushels of grain but was forced to turn back by the ice. The Provmar Howard L. Shaw was to follow the Angus but was caught in the ice and had to wait for Toronto.

Retailers See Bright Outlook After Severe March Slump

TORONTO (CP)—In the spring a brighter outlook shines upon the business plain; in the spring a dealer's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of selling.

After a mid-March slump in the stock market and a dip in retail sales, the spring is a time for optimism, said Muir "will be very grievously missed in the whole business community."

"As chairman and president of the Royal Bank of Canada he built that organization into the sixth-largest bank in the world, a truly magnificent triumph of commercial enterprise."

Muir was a director of Thomson's Scotsman Publications Limited, and was the last survivor of the board of Thomson Newspapers Limited.

Four Convicted Rapists Fail in Appeal Court

OTTAWA (CP) — Four convicted rapists from London, Ont., failed today but a bid to have the constitutionality of Canada's grant from a new trial.

The four men were convicted at Woodstock March 26, 1959, on rape charges involving an 18-year-old girl. They were identified at the trial that she was kidnapped by a car full of men, sent of a car on a lonely road near Putnam about eight miles from Woodstock.

Bernard Griffith, 23, and Thomas Collis, 24, were sentenced to three years in Kingston Penitentiary. Ronald Griffith, 18, received two years less a day in Guelph Reformatory and Thomas Kribs, 19, was sentenced to 21 months in Guelph Reformatory.

Hamilton Woman Fatally Beaten With Ash Tray

HAMILTON (CP) — Mrs. Joseph Chicheck, 62, of Hamilton-Guelph, 24, were charged early Sunday from a friend's home at nearby Hannon, died today of injuries she had suffered Saturday.

Her husband, Joseph, was arrested and held for questioning under a charge of assault, police said Saturday night.

Police said they were called by Mickey Pidlowicz at whose home six miles south of here the Chichecks arrived Friday for a social evening. They quoted Mr. Wojlowicz as saying his 12-year-old daughter came home from the barn Saturday night and that he found Mrs. Chicheck lying unconscious on a bedroom floor.

Lorne Hagerman, Harold, Given High Post

KINGSTON (CP) — Morgan Brown of Peterborough was re-elected Saturday as grand master, and Lorne Hagerman, Harold, Ont., judge deputy grand master; Rev. H. Veare, Springbrook, grand chaplain; Willis Cummingham, Fraserville, grand lecturer and George Reed, Belleville, and Frederick Bateman, Sterling, auditors.

Myrtle Sprouls, Peterborough, was elected grand mistress of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association.

MINISTERS URGE ELLIOT LAKERS NOT TO PANIC

Churchill, Starr Visit Uranium Centre

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Churchill and Labor Minister Starr report to Prime Minister Diefenbaker today on their weekend mission to Elliot Lake and begin study of recommendations to keep the booming Ontario uranium mining centre prosperous.

The ministers, who were sent to the model town town because Mr. Diefenbaker feared a personal visit might raise false hopes among the 25,000 residents, returned Ex Ottawa Sunday night by department of transport aircraft. They found no panic among the troubled residents of Elliot Lake that something will be done.

But the federal ministers were convinced that the most effective steps to help would have to be taken by the government of Ontario which originally invested $19,000,000 in Elliot Lake, and whose is the ultimate decision as it is an unincorporated town, unpowered municipal district under provincial law. The people cannot elect a municipal council and have no control over taxes and expenditures.

RESIDENT CONFIDENCE

The Elliot Lake emergency citizens committee pressed the federal ministers for action to immediate policy announcement that will give the people of the community and allow it to make long-range plans. All it wants, it is said, is to say was that it should keep up its courage through the period of slack demand.

United States uranium purchase contracts run out in 1962. Not delivery period stretched out into 1966. Mr. Churchill said the serious times would come between 1965 and 1970 when peacetime uses for uranium, particularly as fuel for electric energy reactor plants, will take up slack in the U.S. demand. The federal government was more than doubling the energy in reserves purchases for uranium as an addition to steel. Trade Minister Churchill said, and gave it non-corrosive characteristics.

PUBLIC ASSURANCE

The Elliot Lake worries came to a head in a public rally held in the Lake Theatre auditorium Tuesday afternoon. It was attended by 1,000 persons, almost immediately necessary.

Verwoerd is expected to be laid to rest Wednesday in the Old Dutch Reformed Church of Pretoria, the cathedral church of the prime ministers in London next month.

Many scattered violence was reported during the weekend. At Port Elizabeth, a Negro rioting mob near Port Elizabeth, a wooden church burned to the ground and arson was suspected. It was the third church burned in the area.

While thousands prayed for the dead premier at memorial service Sunday, government forces kept up their raiding of Negro shanty towns.

More than 800 police backed by 11,000 troops searched Langa Township, a big slum district outside the city of Cape Town.

White Farmer, Who Tried to Kill PM, Unstable, Erratic at Times

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—The white farmer David Pratt, arrested by police after the shooting of Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd, was described by a friend today as a man who had contrasts both in business and social life.

The Rand Daily Mail, a Johannesburg English-language morning newspaper, said that "even his school days he showed neurotic symptoms of instability." He was said to be unstable and erratic on occasion. This became more noticeable as the years passed.

"Senior policemen say he has suffered from epilepsy for several years."

The newspaper said Pratt was a brilliant scholar who secured honors at school and won many honors at Cambridge University and Johannesburg where he took chartered accountant before returning to take charge of his father's "extensive business interests" in South Africa. It estimated the value of the estate left by the father at $1,000,000.

The first marriage in 1932 produced two children—a boy who died at the age of seven and a daughter who was sent to school in England and was one of the last schoolchildren to be presented at court. She now is 23.

The marriage was dissolved and Pratt now 32, was married again in Holland in 1953 to a noted Dutch artist and architect whom he met while she was touring South Africa.

His wife took the two children by the marriage—a boy and a girl—on holiday with her to Holland in 1958 and when she failed to return after a year, Pratt's friends said, he went to Holland to try to persuade her to come back. He returned from his latest visit two weeks ago—only days before—and friends said he was "extremely depressed."

Describing Pratt as "an enigma," the newspaper said that his friends would throw himself into the social life of Johannesburg society. He lived alone in his mansion 30 miles away for months.

His attitude to business was equally strange, the paper said. Sometimes he would refuse even to discuss helping finance a venture, at other times would increase 10 times the amount required.

Friends said he had had treatment at various mental institutions from time to time.

The newspaper quoted Rev. R. Ormond Gerrard of the Roman Catholic Boys' Town at Magaliesberg, near where Pratt lived, as saying Sunday night:

"I gained the impression that he was very emotionally upset and seemed to be seeking for spiritual help and self-confidence which it appeared to me he had lost. At no time was politics discussed between us."

Rand Paper Says Premier May Not Recover Fully

Speech, Hearing, Balance Even Mind, May Suffer

JOHANNESBURG (CP) — Paul Oliver Sauer, chief of the Nationalist party in Parliament, took over today as South African government leader in place of wounded Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd. Sauer promptly pledged to carry on Verwoerd's apartheid policies.

Sauer, 62, is minister of lands in the cabinet. He takes over the helm as senior member of the cabinet while Verwoerd is on sick leave. Finance Minister Eric Louw said. But Sauer will preside at cabinet meetings.

Sauer told Parliament the government will continue on its racial program and Verwoerd's course, adding "the rest of the country will see that peace and order are maintained."

"As far as Parliament is concerned there will be no change in policy from the existing program as a result of what has happened," Sauer declared.

"We don't know how long Dr. Verwoerd will be incapacitated and when he will be able to resume his duties but Parliament will carry out its present program."

MOTION PASSES

Sauer introduced a motion expressing sympathy that Verwoerd had not been killed and wishing him a speedy recovery. It was passed unanimously.

Sauer said doctors "considered it to be a miracle that a permanent injury had not been caused."

But he added: "We are not killed."

WITHOUT HEARING

Reuters news agency said Sauer today decided to obtain Verwoerd's assistant, David Pratt, 33, under current emergency regulations without a court arraignment for the time being.

The police decision was taken on the basis of the state of emergency declared March 30 throughout the country.

Police said Pratt will now be detained under emergency regulations, and will be questioned under these regulations to mention him by name in the event of permission of the justic ministry.

Meantime he is being detained and his whereabouts will not be disclosed, they said.

It was announced that the state of "emergency, which has been applied only in the main trouble centres in South Africa, has been expanded to cover a total of 122 districts.

Water Level Along Flats Down 3 Inches

Residents in the low-lying areas along the Moira River between Foxboro and Corbyville were breathing a little easier this morning as the water level dropped between two and three inches overnight, relieving a threatened flooding condition.

Since early last week the river level south of Foxboro had been steadily on the increase until lawns and yards in the flood area were inundated.

On Friday and Saturday the 14 highway along Benedicts Flats a mile south of the village was almost awash with the water creeping up onto the pavement.

On the east side of the river, the River Road from Fairfield's Bridge to Corbyville was closed because of high water conditions.

But today residents were relieved to find that since Sunday afternoon the water level had come down almost three inches, indicating that the spring runoff had passed its peak.

Assault on Vimy Unique Lt.-Col. Pense Tells Veterans

"Mystery and tradition are important," said Lt.-Colonel Harry E. Pense, D.S.O., M.C., to the members of the Belleville branch of the Canadian Legion observing the anniversary of the battle of Vimy on Saturday evening. The significance of outstanding events in both war and peace should be stressed, explaining and remembered from time to time, said the last commanding officer of the famous 21st Battalion, before going into an interesting account of the events leading up to the planning of, and final execution of the assault on Vimy Ridge . . . the first major all-Canadian assault in World War I.

The assault was unique in many ways. It was the first time that the four Canadian divisions were to attack abreast. It was the first time that 100,000 volunteer citizen soldiers were being called upon for a major attack. It was an undertaking without precedent, the object of terrible study and planning in detail of any military manoeuvre in the field. It was to that point in the war. It was an assault which was to be the spearhead of the Allied effort which was to end in the utter defeat of the German military genius was to call April 9th, 1917, as the day "the German army."

It was also an assault which was delayed for 24 hours because of the refusal of the British officer-in-command, Sir Julian Byng, that a Governor-General of Canada. Originally scheduled for operations on Easter morning, the attack was postponed 24 hours due to a significance of the day despite the fact that the delay would give the enemy the opportunity of bringing in additional strength if they were aware of what was in the offing.

It was on Easter Monday then that 100,000 Canadians went "over the top" to advance behind a creeping shell and machine gun storm and, in six days time, to capture a most strategic point and to win honor for Canada in the proving of her citizen soldiers.

Colonel Pense spoke about the Vimy action Lt.-Col. Pense related to his audience in a very straight-forward manner which was enhanced by the fact that the latter was one who had been actively concerned with the events which he described.

That the Vimy action was a most important event for Canada was emphasized again and most eloquently by Lt.-Col. Augustus Bailey, Commanding Officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, who gave the tribute to the Vimy dead. Lt.-Col. Bailey compared the Vimy attack being to Canada's coming of age with that period in the life of a youth when he suddenly reaches manhood. Just as all the feeling which surrounds a boy when he is growing up is suddenly thrust into the background by the period of coming-of-age and is soon found to be of little avail when a boy is grown and wanting, so was Canada's background, by the forthcoming performance and actions and her way-of-life thrown into the background at the battle of Vimy to see if she could produce a character worthy to stand as her own, said Lt.-Col. Duffy.

Vimy was a focal point in Canada's life; it was the point at which Canada truly became a nation, said the veteran officer. "We honor the dead . . . but how can be this when they are responsible for our being a nation? It is a time to be thankful for the sacrifice — what they have done," he concluded.

The speaker was introduced by a former comrade-in-arms, Garn Gordon, and Belleville Legion president, Norman Spencer. The meeting was arranged by Bailey and Roy Madden was chairman of the program. Thanks to the Ladies' Auxiliary for the meal was given by Ed Smith.

Scout Auxiliary Hears Talk On Techniques of Pack

The regular meeting of the 1st Carnahan-Corbyville Boy Scouts Auxiliary was held in Carnahan United Church Sunday School rooms recently. The president, Mrs. Ivan Reynolds welcomed the members and visitors.

The members brought in tea towels for the social conveners, Mrs. Stanley Kerr and Mrs. Ralph Stewart. The social and program committee served lunch at the coming cuchs party to be held in Corby's cafeteria the end of April. Each member was to bring lunch and a pack of cards.

Mrs. Kerr thanked the members for the towels and permission was granted by the Scout Master to keep them in the Scout cupboard. Appreciation was made and donated by two of the Cubs' fathers, Mr. Clarence Reynolds and Mr. Robert Hannan.

The sewing convener, Mrs. E. Middleton, was absent through illness and as was the Cushion convener, Mrs. Freeman Holgate.

It was decided that the program convener, Mrs. Earl Hamilton, contact a speaker for the May meeting. Assistants hopes to have a film on Scouting in the June meeting.

The president notified the secretary to write a card to the absent boys and invite all of them to the meetings. The group discussed the possibility of the auxiliary to hold a party and get-together for Miss Rush, the 1st Scout Master, very soon. This will be carried out at the June meeting.

After other business and planning were completed the president gave a report of her trip to Brighton to attend the East Area Scout Conference, along with Mrs. Robert Hanna, treasurer, and Mrs. Fred Furminger, member of the group committee. She mentioned the 3rd break by the Scouts of Brighton Troop and opening ceremonies. The Scout Commissioner, Lewis, who welcomed the 300 delegates after other reports by Scouters.

Scoutmaster A. Forte of Bellevville, gave a lecture on camping, an integral part of the Scout program. Safety on and near the water, by Corporal Wilson of the RCMP, which was both educational and interesting.

Lunch was served by the Girl Guide troops in the cafeteria of the East Northumberland high school.

The auxiliary retired to the school auditorium to hear a recording of a speech made by Baden-Powell in Toronto in 1910. Progressing in the Cub pack by Miel Pound, DCM; teaching techniques in pack by Bill Sweet, ADC; the weekly program in the pack by Verna Woodbeck; ACM, the weekly program in the troop by Ron Thompson, ADC, and many other interesting subjects on the aims and objects of Scouting was bold in buzz sessions.

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. E. Blaker, Belleville, a meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary took place in the cafeteria. After being welcomed by Mrs. Blaker, roll call with response by 20 auxiliaries reporting, Mr. Lancaster spoke on what the group expects of the auxiliary. This was followed by Mrs. A. Forte of Belleville, explaining the different aims and objects of the auxiliary and how to conduct meetings and hold members' interest in same.

Never forgetting the main interest which is the boy in the Cubs and Scout troops.

Dinner was served in the Masonic hall at Brighton with Mr. Kennoch Ferren as evening speaker.

Mrs. Kerr moved a vote of thanks to the president, who in turn thanked the auxiliary for sending her and paying the fee.

Scout Master Kerr gave a briefing on the organizing of

Her loving smile and happy face,
A broken link we can never replace,
God took the parting, no one can tell why,
So patient on earth the sorrow fell

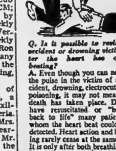
BIRTH DATE SETTLED



TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — A controversy over the birth date of Confucius was settled here today. A government decree at least last year giving 550 BC as the year the great Chinese sage was born. Bill 8284 sets the tests so the education ministry and the Academia Sinica, highest research body in Nationalist China, were directed to investigate. Their verdict: 551 BC.

Q. Is it possible to revive an accident or drowning victim, after he or she must have ceased beating?

A. Even though you can not feel the pulse in the victim of an accident, drowning, electrocution or poisoning, it may not mean that death has taken place. Doctors have resuscitated or "brought back to life" many patients in whom the heart beat couldn't be detected. Heart and lung breathing rarely cease at the same time, and it is only after both breathing and heart beat cease that there are only about three or four minutes in which successful resuscitation is possible. Even after this point every effort should be made to revive the victim by applying measures to restore breathing and heart action.

Dispensing prescribed medicine is what we do best . . . do promptly . . . and do at reasonable cost. Trust your health to your doctor—trust his prescriptions to us.

"By 1965 we will have a much better picture of the future," Mr. Churchill said. Nuclear power reactors in Chalk River and Kincardine will then be in operation and others will be planned for production of electrical energy.

Meanwhile, he said, 5,000 workers are likely to be employed here in the next month, giving support for a community of up to 15,000. He described this as "a reasonable objective," and if mining employment does not produce that work force, other industries will have to be introduced.

An American's Advice

Robert F. Yohe, an American citizen who is presi- t of G. Goodrich Canada Ltd., is essentially a Canadian. He wants to see this country's nomy strong. The other day, addressing the milton Rotary Club, he told what he would do "if re running the Canadian economy."

He would, said Mr. Yohe, "grab every dollar, peso, mark or pound that might find its way into this ntry. He would invest every dollar he could lay his nds on—that someone was willing to send my way a cost-reducing equipment, plants and methods." would also "save and bank every dollar possible so t Canadian money would be made available through anadian banks and other agencies to provide for plant pansion, municipal projects and educational facilities."

Mr. Yohe says that this might reduce the Canadian ndard of living now but would enhance the possi- ties that the standard would improve in the future. This may be excellent advice, but we ought to member that, when Mr. Yohe says he would do these ngs if he were running the Canadian economy, he is not mean that the Federal Government should do m. For the truth is that the kind of policies which Yohe advocates can be encouraged under a demo- ic system but can only be imposed on the people dictatorship. "I wonder," said the Canadian nomy" in the sense that would be necessary to lement all of Mr. Yohe's recommendations.

Tie-in Sale Technique

New York Times

We have — and have had all along. It seems — a powerful weapon in our hands with which to halt our moral downdrift, or spiritual degeneration, which we've been hearing so much about lately. (Other terms used to describe our alleged lunge do say include "ethical backsliding", "sag in standards" and "purposelessness of course"). This reminder that the end need not be what was contained in a sneer was on the business pages recently. The same publicity mechanism that sells us soapsuds and toothpaste may be called into play when the spiritual ills of the land are discussed. A typical Madison Avenue spokesman, to reawaken our sense of national purpose and put us back, as tomorrow's commercial might put it, on the rosy road to happiness, would:

It might well work; if it did it would certainly be one of the most bizarre examples for American ingenuity yet seen. This would mean that the very ampliers that have made us too effective to our own moral status would now be used to draw our attention to our moral status and our moral status. There is a difficulty here, though, and if the ad-writing gentlemen who are so fond of kicking ideas around themselves would bear it in mind, no doubt they would like to do a little kicking around concerning this one. The difficulty is that if the people become vigorously conscious of their role in the world and begin to pull themselves up by their moral bootstraps, morally speaking, they might forget to be as concerned with their creature comforts as other exercises as TV and radio salesmen would like them to be.

The only answer to this problem lies below the modest Madison Avenue technique — the tie-in sale. Pull ourselves up, as now as just the thing, say, for clevating up head colds. Once the cold is conquered, of course, our heads would be freer to think well. And what better to think about, the announcer might put in at this point, than our national purposes.

As for tailfins, the beauty of their lines and their effect as stabilizers wasn the car as in motion are qualities the announcer would naturally stress, and before. He might then add this thought: that while we ride smoothly along in our stabilized car, we should consider exactly how well our country's course in the world is stabilized.

Obviously the possibilities are limitless. Those nobly ambitious ones that go so much for the dignities, and that are turned back on our faces, thus do a great deal, it may be pointed out for our foreign relations; they enable us to face the world without a billion countenance. Soaps and toothpaste would have their chance to do their bit for diplomacy also. For the sublier gut faces, the brighter our teeth, the more assured and hope-inspiring we will appear to others across the bargaining, as well as the breakfast, table. "The grand leadership look," the golden tube could run, "is within your reach." Or, "Be the (name of famous brand name here) look." Clothes would be tailored to our status and not our moral status. There is a difficulty here, though, and if the ad-writing gentlemen who are so fond of kicking ideas around themselves would bear it in mind, no doubt they would like to do a little kicking around concerning this one, too. The difficulty is that if the people become vigorously conscious of their role in the world and begin to pull themselves up by their moral bootstraps, morally speaking, they might forget to be as concerned with their creature comforts as other exercises as TV and radio salesmen would like them to be.

Bogeyman Gone, Goodby, Stay Away

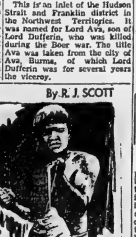
By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Barbara has a little makebelieve friend called Colerette who does nice things and plays with her when no real children are around. She has never heard of the bogeyman.

One important sign of genuine progress we have made in child psychology during the last few years is the abolition of the bogeyman and other monsters that frighten parents to threaten and frighten children.

It is just recently that we have become aware of the serious consequences such bogeymen have on the more sensitive and imaginative mind. Every person has, from earliest to the present, have threatened their offspring with some mythical punishment.

Attila was a bogeyman to the later Romans. Nero, the Emperor Caligula, a fierce Gothic captain, whose name was used by Dutch parents as a bogey with children. Corvinus was a frightful bogey to the Turks, and the name of Lunsford used to terrorize Victorian children in England.



Among the ancient Jews, Lilith and Asmodeus and Azazel are before the creation of Eve—was a bogey-name. Nurses was a bogey-woman to Assyrian mothers, according to Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire."

Richard I ("The Lion-Hearted") was employed by the Saracens as a figure of terror, and Mohammed, the "Antichrist," is charged in in the bush" to quiet their unruly children. Sebastian was used by the Moors, according to Dryden. Shakespeare, in Henry VI, tells us that French mothers used the name "Joan de pere" with the dread name of Talbot.

Many real persons have subsequently become bogeybilins. The Duke of Alva, whose childhood was a former governor of the Tower of London, a fire-eating martinet feared and hated by the citizens. Samuel Butler, in his "Hudibras," used the children to avoid old Bloody-Bones Lambert.

Turquin was a bogeyman in the Roman Empire. Robespierre, early at the close of the 18th century, and even old Victor Emmanuel II, Italy, were promulgated the unpopular conscription. Even Napoleon, in the United States, the "Policeman" was formerly used for this purpose—a shocking corruption of the child's mind, and still used by ignorant parents.

At any rate, modern psychiatry seems to have retired the bogeyman. The world of childhood fantasy is a better place without him, and we can hope that grown-ups could do the same for their own childish and irrational fears. But perhaps this is asking too much of the human race.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

April 11th, 1940

Interest of the men on the street in the war, flamed to its highest level since September when Germany struck west for the invasion of Norway and Denmark by Hitler hordes. Editions of morning newspapers failed to satisfy the new appetite of a crisis section of city life. Telephones in the editorial rooms of the Ontario Intelligencer rang incessantly as people clamored for the latest developments. Even in the midst of the craving for news, there was a strong undercurrent of calm and confidence in the navy and the army. All day people lingered in the vicinity of the bulletin boards, and the appearance of a newspaper was greeted with chalk, was the signal for a noisy appearance of a news-clamoring crowd.

Failure of the city council to take definite action on the improvement of lighting facilities on Front Street, was under discussion by the protective committee of the Retail Merchants Association this morning. The present out-dated system was considered with the nightly "blackouts" in England, especially when store lights were turned out.

Miss Maxine Dupras, nurse-in-training at the Belleville General Hospital is in Montreal for further studies at hos pitals in that city.

30 YEARS AGO

April 11th, 1930

The city gas plant is now operating near capacity and the output for the year is the best. There are rumors that the price of gas may be reduced in order to induce users to use more.

The report of the operation of the market under the chairmanship of Ald. Wright of city market for the year 1930 and until April 1931 at a salary of $30,000 per month, with recommendation was unanimously adopted.

40 YEARS AGO

April 11th, 1920

According to the report of City Assessor J. A. Kerr the assessment this year is higher than last year by $1,710,606. The total assessment this year is $8,945,175. The population is given in the report as 12,240.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Compared to the handful of people who are interested in baseball or golf or horse racing, the number of people interested in the out-of-doors is overwhelming. In the newspapers we give columns of space, day in and day out, to these minor activities of the recreational world, as we did back in the days of Queen Victoria, before the motor car was invented, or the outboard motor, and when the only means of getting about was by horse and cart or by elderly railroad coach.

Oh, I know you can see quite a few men, out beyond the suburbs, pulling golf balls about the pastures. But they are a mere straggling company of detectives of thousands, hundreds of thousands, who are out all over creation, fishing; hunting, outboard motoring, picnicking camping. It is considered to be a sporty headline when ten thousand people attend a horse race; but when they sit in their own motoring hell for leather to get as far away from bleachers, grandstands and crowds as they can before dark. And what they gotta go do? Take photographs, collect orchids, look at trees, hunt birds with binoculars, cast a trout fly, ride wailer skis behind a forty horse engine.

But these aren't sports. There's no gate, no prize money, not even backward trophies. No profit at all, only profit that clinks, that is.

METABOLISM TESTS USEFUL IN DETERMINING PHYSICAL CONDITION

Two important tests of metabolism — of activity of the thyroid gland — are the BMR, or "basal metabolism rate," and the PBI, or "protein-bound iodine" test.

Both of these tests are given fairly often. More people have the BMR, or basal metabolism test, so that is quite familiar, including the fasting and quiet lying beforehand. The doctor tells the patient to come to his office in the morning for the test and not to eat any breakfast. Not a thing!

That's because he wants a recording of how fast you burn up energy basically and not when you are in the process of digesting food.

The PBI or protein-bound iodine test, is aimed at the same general purpose — to find out how the thyroid gland is behaving — but from a different viewpoint.

With the BMR, you see told to breathe through a tube, and the doctor measures how much oxygen you use up. With the PBI, the experiment involves the amount of certain forms of iodine in the blood. It means measuring the efficiency of an iodine factor by the amount of fuel it uses. It is like the chemical content of the exhaust gas. That isn't any comparison, of course, but you can measure things in a number of different ways, and the method you choose depends on exactly what facts you want to find.

My explanation is the result of a letter from a reader who had undergone the tests. Once she went without breakfast, the next time she was told it didn't matter.

With the PBI, to the best of my knowledge, eating a meal doesn't make any difference. The only precaution is that the patient should not take any preparation containing iodine for at least four weeks before the test. Otherwise the tests may be thrown off, as to accuracy.

It is not, however, too difficult to avoid iodine. The principal things to watch out for are (a) some medicines and the gall bladder, as the material used to outline iodine and (b) some vitamin-mineral preparations which contain iodine. Those, of course, you can discover by reading the labels!

I hope this will be of help to anyone having a BMR or PBI. They aren't unpleasant tests to take, but they are mightily useful in determining your physical condition.

Occasionally a secondary infection may cause (a) the child scratches; (b) pus in it then becomes badly infected.

But only a few weeks after the disease, the skin will heal and see and not worry. Serious scarring rarely occurs.

TODAY'S TALK

CARRY A KINDLY FRONT

Little do we realize the power and influence a person may have who carries a kindly front, no matter what the secret problems he may have. That kindly front brands him so that his influence encodes him and all people want to meet such a figure. How can we become happy, or help make others the way to a genuine success, if we don't exemplify it from day to day?

You can pick out such a person, as I have suggested, if you will. You can carry that kindly front with you wherever you go. Others will note you upon the busy street among crowds, and especially if they are influenced by this kindly front they want to own it! You can inherit so much that is of the commercialized this kindly front, and displayed it far and near. It is the key to an attractive personality, and it will bless your own life right now! You need courage, and to give us courage, patience, and faith in ourselves.

Carry a kindly front. It will be your manly staff, when used to encourage others. It is the seed God as our kindly front. A kindly front is worth more than all the gold of the richest in mere money.

Letter To The Editor

Satisfied Riders Praise Bus Service

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

We have been reading the "Letter To The Editor" the past few weeks with great interest over the Belleville bus situation. As a rural route of these letters, we can't help feeling that most of the letters printed and their letters as selfish, unprogressive. Belleville and Bellevilleonians are acting like children— if I don't ride a bicycle, neither can you.

Many people, young and old alike, depend on the bus service for transportation to and from work, shopping, and for convenience during bad weather. These same people mentioned above can also be applied to our owners.

Referring back to the many letters which have been published, the bus service in the state long before Mr. Rawson decided to augment the bus service. We are sure the cost of this service is not the difficulty. Ontarians is only a small percentage of the amount of taxes which each taxpayer will have to pay over the five-year period.

To those car owners who are against the bus service, just stop and think of the many elderly people who depend on the buses for transportation. Perhaps one grows old — remember — there might be a day when you can't drive.

We feel that a vote of thanks should be extended to Mr. Fred Rawson and employees for the fine service they have given dependable service they have supplied to the citizens of Belleville.

Two Satisfied Bus Riders.

Found Credit Was too Easy

Sherbrooke Record

If you have an uncomfortable feeling that your debts are getting out of hand, that you're deep breath and consider the case of Mrs. Shirley Jones, a secretary who lives in San Jose, Calif.

Mrs. she's working Mrs. Dick makes $80 a week. But she owes $900 to her creditors. Mrs. Dick told a reporter in explaining how easy it was every time she gets a job a creditor calls up her employer and she's in a fine mess.

And Mrs. Dick has a lot of company. $900 is the amount he owes them a total of $82,779 for goods and services bought on credit cards by Mrs. Dick's friends.

Mrs. Dick's financial problems came to a head last week when she asked a federal bankruptcy court to wipe out her debts.

She'll probably make out all right. She has a mistake in running up all those debts and now she proposes to make a fresh start. You have to give her credit. But that, of course, was her problem — too many people did.

Dijon Priest Unusual Man

Windsor Star

Canon Claude Kir, 84, of Dijon, France, surely is one of the most unusual priests in the Roman Catholic Church and all of whom know him, surely one of the most unusual men believed.

To us on this continent he is a paradox. He is a canon in his church, a member of the city's Conservative member of the National Assembly and now at not any, a member of the Council of State.

This paradox put him in a peculiar position when Premier Nikita Khrushchev of Russia visited that ancient capital of Burgundy. The Canon, in his role as mayor, was the first official to receive him in his home. But, on the other hand, as a member in the Church, he was spirited out of Dijon under police escort so as to avoid meeting Khrushchev. One can understand the argument that was behind the decision.

Canon Kir's authority dates back to the Middle Ages. When the German invaders took control of Dijon, civil authority issued a broadcast that all persons to collaborate with the Nazis, yet some should refuse them. None but Canon Kir, that is.

With full support of his fellowcitizens he became in effect, the mayor. He was strong enough to allow the Nazis to push him, or his people, around. The Nazis knew if they dealt harshly with Canon Kir they would have the entire city up in arms.

The kindly cleric was thus able to protect his beloved citizens against the worst of the brutality. What then was more natural than that he become mayor in fact as well as in name.

Canon Kir is the roland, bulwark of civic nonetheless dignified for all that. He looks much younger than his years. At least most of the time. He is known for his most receptions of guests to his city. He made an impression on us all — as he would have done on Premier Khrushchev.

Test of Freedom

The test of freedom is whether the rule of the majority guarantees minority rights, including the right of the minority to proselitize with a view of becoming a majority.

Arts and Crafts Club Presents Annual Exhibit

Arts and crafts adherents, both young and old, were turning out in great numbers last Saturday afternoon and evening to attend the annual exhibition of the Belleville Arts and Crafts Club held at the Recreation Centre. Close to 300 persons attended the tastefully prepared and attractively arranged displays of weaving, mosaic tile work, basketry, metal and leather work, interior (house) decorating, ceramics and silk screen painting. There was, of course, the usual fine exhibit of the work of local artists in styles ranging from abstract to traditional.

The overall display centred on a floor centre piece of decorative plants arranged around a small pool. Surrounding the centre-piece were a number of tables and chairs at which visitors could sit for a cup of tea yet still observe the various arrangements of objects d'art positioned on the walls or tables circumventing three sides of the room.

The exhibition climaxed the past season's activities by the club and work displayed was representative of both the beginner and the old pro in arts and handicrafts. The club, which has several different groups amongst its 150-odd members, meets at the Recreation Centre regularly with Thursday nights being allotted as a general work night at which visitors or persons interested in the club's activities are welcome. Courses for the current year are just about completed, advises Mrs. John A. Grant, president of the club, but a new session of classes will be underway next fall.

The exhibition was set up by the members of the club with the people from each field of endeavor contributing to the overall preparation and running of the event. Some did the decorations of the room, others poured tea or served plates of tasty delicacies, and others cared for the floral arrangements. The result was a very successful exhibition.

Last Thursday's parade at the Sea Cadet barracks was especially important, perhaps most important was the official swearing in of 11 new Ordinary Cadets. These lads have completed an extensive basic course on the organization and operation of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps and topped off the course with the successful writing of the Entry examination.

PLANS FOR INSPECTION

Action and plans for the annual inspection of "Quinte" are now underway. Chief Petty Officer W. Dunnett has been putting together a precision drill squad which will shortly begin training under arms. For the past several parades they have been exercising on parade early for practice in foot drill.

At a meeting in the wardroom after Thursday's parade the Captain, Lt. J. Donovan, outlined the plans for the inspection to the officers of the Corps. It is expected that a major part of the test will be a display on the water including a sail-past, life-saving display, etcetra.

WEEKEND CRUISE

A weekend cruise is scheduled for the 6th to 8th of May when the Corps will go aboard ship Friday evening and staying aboard until Sunday afternoon. During this cruise much practice on the manoeuvres for the inspection is expected to take place and a lot of sailing time should be put in.

SUMMER CAMPS

A number of cadets have been applying for the summer camp session for this year. These two-week training courses held at HMCS Acadia in Sydney, Nova Scotia, are run in four sessions during July and August. Able Cadets or, higher who have had at least 65 percent attendance at their regular training parades throughout the year are eligible to apply for attendance.

Those cadets who are chosen to attend are taken care of at no expense to either themselves or their families. All transportation, uniform and accommodation costs are all paid for. Whilst at camp or enroute either to or from Sydney the cadets are under the guidance and supervision of Royal Canadian Navy personnel or Royal Canadian Sea Cadet training officers.

Quinte has been allowed a complement of ten cadets for the camp period in the latter part of August. This allotment may be increased if other corps do not fill their camp complement and extra places are thereby made available.

ADVANCED COURSES

Besides the summer two-week camps there is also a number of seven-week advanced trade training courses held at the various Royal Canadian Navy training establishments on the east coast. These courses, which include such fields as naval air training at HMCS Sheerwater, and communications and gunnery courses at HMCS Cornwallis, are available to Leading Cadets or better who have the necessary attendance qualifications. On a number of these courses successful completion by a cadet results in the awarding of a $100 bonus.

NEW BOYS WELCOMED

With the completion of the recent New Entry training course, which the above 13 cadets passed, there is now the opportunity for a number of new cadets. Boys who are between the ages of 14 and 18 are eligible to join the Sea Cadets. The next New Entry training course will be started within the next two weeks.

Those boys who wish to join the Sea Cadets are invited to attend on Tuesday evening at the Armouries at Pinnacle and East Bridge Streets and on Thursday evening at the Sea Cadet barracks on South Front Street, just across the harbor from the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club. The evening's activities begin at 7.15 p.m. Information on the Sea Cadets may be obtained from any of the officers of the Corps.

NEW MARKSMAN

A new marksman is welcomed to the ranks of "Quinte."

Italian Wins $257,000 in Soccer Pool

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — A railway clerk who almost was too late to register his 400-lire (64-cent) ticket won 165,823,000 lire ($257,000) in the weekly Italian soccer pool.

Vincenzo Formicola was the only one of millions of Italian soccer fans who guessed all the results correctly in 13 soccer games Saturday.

The owner of the local agency where he registered the ticket said Formicola came in with his entry just minutes before the agency closed Saturday night.

Ordinary Cadet Terry McKenna shot a 90 x 100 target to qualify for the Marksman badge on last Tuesday's parade. This badge will be awarded as soon as the qualifying target has been approved by Area Office.

SHOW APPRECIATED

Awards of complimentary theatre passes to the members of the best division of the month will commence with April's performance. Mr. Tom Mascaro, manager of the Park Theatre, and Mr. Willard Fawcett of the McCarthy Theatre, have both kindly offered to provide these passes in recognition of the hard work put in by the members of the top division of the month. Each cadet in the winning division will receive one theatre pass.

BEATTY BEST DIVISION

The members of Beatty Division earned their division the distinction of the best division in Corps award for their smart appearance, attendance and bearing during the month of March. It is expected that competition for this award in April will be quite keen as each division, Beatty and Howe, is now running abreast as far as times they have won the award.

Jubilee E.A. Enjoys Holy Land Slides

Last Tuesday evening the Jubilee Evening Auxiliary of Bridge Street United Church entertained the W.M.S. and the C.G.I.T. group. Also the ministers and superintendents of the various departments, the guest speaker and friend from Tweed.

About 100 sat down to a delicious pot-luck supper. Following the hot supper, the Rev. H. M. Davis opened the meeting with prayer. The president, Mrs. Anderson, introduced the guests from the various departments and each spoke briefly.

Mrs. Davis on behalf of the president of the W.M.S., Mrs. McArthur, read a letter of greeting and Mrs. Howes, representative of the W.M.S. conducted the affiliation ceremony of the C.G.I.T. with the W.M.S. and presented the girls with their badges.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Anderson turned the meeting over to Miss Olive Elson, who introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Alton, of Tweed, who gave a delightful talk on her trip, with her husband, through the Holy Land in 1958. From the time they arrived by plane at the Eastern soil, they visited with the Arabs, a family whom they had met in Toronto.

During their travels they visited Arabic people, rich and poor, and found all most hospitable. They saw the Garden of Gethsemane, bathed in the Jordan River, went up to the Mount of Olives, saw the tomb of Jesus, attended services in very historical churches and went to many other Biblical historical sites. With their host they distributed Bibles. Many people could read and understand English as well as four or five other languages.

During the lecture, Miss L. McDougall rendered two Easter solos, "In the Garden" and "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord?"

Appreciation to Mrs. Alton and to Miss McDougall was expressed by Miss K. Daly.

The Rev. Sherwin closed the meeting with prayer.

Bride-to-Be Honored by Many Friends

TRAWDON — The home of Miss Margaret Dracup, Wellman's, was the scene of a happy gathering on a recent afternoon when the school chums and friends of Miss Janet Tompkins honored her with a miscellaneous shower on the occasion of her approaching marriage.

The rooms were gaily decorated with bells, streamers and balloons and Janet was given the seat of honor.

The first number on the program was a sing-song, led by Miss Lulabelle Matthews, with Miss Carol Beckett at the piano. Margaret conducted a number of games and contests. The highlight of the afternoon was the compiling of a scrapbook depicting the lives of Janet and Ken. Each guest was responsible for one page. The girls had also brought advice for the bride, advice for the bridegroom, and a recipe for Janet's cookbook.

The tea table was a table piled high with gifts under a dainty lavender umbrella. The bows of ribbon were fastened to a paper plate to make a new Easter bonnet which was modelled by the bride-to-be.

Janet graciously thanked her friends for the lovely gifts and the pleasant afternoon and invited them all to visit her in her new home.

Margaret and her mother served dainty refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Jim Pollock, Miss Lulabelle Matthews and Misses Bonna and Mary Dracup.

Women's Activities

CANNIFTON CORBYVILLE W.M.S.

The Canniffton Corbyville Women's Missionary Society held its April meeting in the Sunday School rooms. After opening the meeting the president, Mrs. Douglas Bird, invoked the deep sympathy felt by the community in the loss sustained by Mr. and Mrs. Walsh of their loved one. "We all trust that God will help them in their hour of bereavement."

The worship service was taken by Mrs. Bird, the theme of the "Monthly Magazine," and the Scripture readings were read by various members of the society. During the service Mr. Walsh led/lent to a solo by Mrs. Furmidge, which was much appreciated.

STUDY PERIOD

At the conclusion of the worship service Mrs. Carmen Hird took over the study period, continuing with "Africa Discovered." She stated that radio and films were playing a big part in the life of the modern African, not always to the good of the people. Many are inclined to mold their lives into the pattern set by the film industry. However, a lot is being done by radio and films towards giving the African a better education. Radio and films form a mighty link with the west and if African masses are offered and what is more, understood as Dr. Albert E. Kitson says, there is hope that Africa's best will be called for.

Miss Myrna Milton gave a short talk re the installation of C.G.I.T. in Canniffton. It was announced that this would take place on Canniffton Day, April 14th, under the leadership of Miss Milton and her mother. There are two age groups, juniors 9-11 years and seniors, 12-16 years. Any girl wishing to join is invited to come along to the Sunday School rooms at 7 p.m. There is a membership fee of 25 cents and apart from a nominal charge for the uniform, lessons in handicraft are free of charge. The main object of the C.G.I.T. is to give the girls an interest in the church and Sunday School and to meet the challenge of tomorrow. It is a junior auxiliary of the Woman's Missionary Society and it is hoped that the mothers will show an interest in the work also.

Mrs. Douglas Brenton thanked everyone who had taken part in the program, and the meeting closed. During the social half hour, tea and sandwiches were served by the lunch conveners, Mesdames Hilgar, Howard, Empey and Sloan.

Mrs. Boyd was the pianist throughout the service.

Loving Favor Rather Than Gold and Silver

By ALMA MASON
22nd in Series

A little refugee in Europe said to a visitor "We have a home but we have no food to put it in." One wonders if this observation in reverse should be applied to many of the homes of this modern hemisphere "We have a house but we have no food to put it in. Perhaps, in a sense, many of the refugee children are long for a mother's care and a father's protection, are more fortunate than our well-fed, well-housed children.

A friend, who recently returned from an extensive European tour, brought back a few profound observations relating to the behaviour, habits and aspirations of many of the young Europeans he conversed with.

He remarked, "Like their parents, they were grateful to merely be alive. Wars and unrest, living with the constant and terrifying fear of invasion by nearby enemies, have made most young Europeans more sober and thoughtful than we find our teenagers to be."

He said, "They are grateful for just the simple things. They have learned to properly emphasize the real and important values of existence. They look through a clear lens of acute introspection with shiner vision, rarely on the attributes of mind and heart and soul and the need to develop mental and spiritual qualities first."

POST WAR HARDSHIPS

Many of the parents of young Europeans knew slavery, torture of mind and body; many were battered and subjected to horrible brute force, and by starvation, were robbed and stripped of all material possessions and simple comforts.

"Thousands of European teenagers are the products of literary suffering. Most of them have cut their baby teeth on the cold sharp knife of starvation and privation."

Most of the youth of Europe have learned that the essential and intrinsic values of human existence do not depend on material comforts. Unlike our careless young Canadians and Americans, most of them are sober minded and thoughtful. They read excellent books and discuss them intelligently. They cycle or hike alone or in groups over the continent to obtain first-hand knowledge of history and geography. They often travel without proper food or lodging. A personal privation is not a new experience for them, they accept it philosophically.

"When I had the good fortune to intimately brush shoulders with the youth of Europe, I found them possessed of excellent manners. I found them extremely polite, kind and kind, particularly with visitors and elderly people."

"Some of them, like our teenagers, seem to be held in the grip of a restless urge. However the perturbation of mind they are invested with springs from a desire to make every minute count in amassing and retaining valuable knowledge of literature and art and world affairs. They show little concern for fashionable clothing. As few of their middle class friends have cars, they seem content to walk and cycle."

There are about 2,750 million people in the world today; 2,000 million of them never get enough to eat. Most of our Canadian and American children are among the 750 million who are prone to hungry to bed. Fortunate we say? One wonders.

TOO MUCH EASY LIVING

Are we Canadians wrapping our children in a stifling cocoon of over indulgence due to soft, luxurious living? Are we entangling them in a web from which they will never emerge vigorous with mental endurance and robust with faith in God?

Barren cottages and lowly crusts have produced the great souls of this earth. Our Divine Leader and Guide eked out a bare existence at a carpenter's bench. He admonished us constantly to put the things of the spirit first in order to gradually rise to a mansion in the world hereafter. If we are to walk in His steps along a safe path and place the feet of our children in the "straight and narrow" we should repeat daily the wise words of Solomon, "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches and loving favor rather than silver and gold."

When we set sail for that far shore,
For promised sunny lands,
We needs must shed our golden cloak
And leave it on the sands;
We needs must drop our silver shoon
On fleeting earthly time
And clutch the knapsack of a faith
Tinged with a love sublime.
The things of earth will not suffice
To strengthen soul and heart;
Let it be said when we set sail,
"He chose the better part."

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hagner Shaw

TELEPHONES ARE NOT FOR SMALL CHILDREN!

This morning, while rushing busily from one thing to another, I remembered an important message that should be relayed to Mrs. Inexperienced. Hurriedly I dialed her number. I heard the receiver taken off the hook, then a jumble of sounds — among others, that of the receiver being dropped. Finally, a piping little voice said "Hello." For what seemed like ten minutes, I urged little Junior to call his mother to the telephone. Getting no place, I started to bang up, when Mrs. Inexperienced took the instrument from the child, and then added insult to injury by inquiring if "it" didn't think Junior was cute when he answered the phone"!! What I thought is best left unsaid!

Although most children are fascinated by the telephone instrument, there is still a time and a place to teach them how to use it. It isn't quite the fair to ask this painful learning period on one's friends and associates. A toy telephone is an excellent answer to this dilemma. By making it possible for a child to play with the child through this medium, an early knowledge of how to answer a telephone correctly will become second nature. When the time comes that Junior is old enough to handle the real instrument, he will know how to go about it in a gracious way.

Teaching a fourteen-year-old to deliver a message by word of mouth will also help prepare him for future message-taking on the telephone. First messages can be sent from Mother in the kitchen to Daddy in the bedroom, or a request to the milkman to deliver that extra quart of milk can do much toward giving Junior a feeling of responsibility when he is given a message to deliver.

Telephone courtesy is of prime importance today. Of all our modern inventions, the telephone is the one used most often in our daily contacts — yet too often our telephone manners fall way below common standards of courtesy and graciousness.

Therefore, it would seem to me that teaching Junior how to use the telephone correctly is of paramount importance. Thought and time should be taken by parents to see that children respect the value of telephone courtesy from an early age. Above all, guard against the too-prevalent practice of letting Junior impose on one's friends while becoming accustomed to using the instrument. His pitter-patter may seem very cute to you, but it may drive your friends to utter distraction!

Telephone Bridge Held by St. John's IODE

At the general monthly meeting of the St. Julien Chapter, I.O.D.E., Mrs. C. A. Mott, convener of the telephone bridge, held last month, reported a most successful event financially, and thanked her co-conveners, Mrs. G. Watkin and Mrs. G. Vince for their help.

The Regent, Mrs. M. Patterson complimented Mrs. Mott for her capable organizing of the bridge and called on the conveners of the various departments for their reports.

Mrs. G. Wilson, Empire and World Affairs convener, gave an interesting talk on certain leaders of countries in Africa who are working towards independence.

Mrs. K. Putnam, educational secretary, told of the work being done in the schools and students in this area.

Since the St. Julien Chapter is a member of the United Appeal, it was suggested that even more money should be spent on these schools. On Mrs. Putnam's recommendation, a motion was made and carried that a $25 prize be donated to the new Moira Secondary School, to be awarded at the discretion of the staff. Audience prizes and that $10 worth of handcraft articles be purchased for the school for retarded children.

Considerable discussion was held on suggested projects for the Chapter to undertake next year.

Mrs. G. Hume, convener of Immigration and Citizenship, was empowered to investigate the possibilities of one, and bring details concerning it to the meeting next month on May 2nd.

Oven Fish Chowder

As the years roll on, the calorie needs of an individual become less, but not the importance of having protein and calcium-rich foods in the diet. Older people need easy-to-eat, easily digested, protein foods to replace worn tissues. They need calcium to maintain healthy bones. Just how much to supply both of these needs is to serve a milky fish chowder.

The home economists of Canada's Department of Fisheries have sent us a recipe for an unusual good fish chowder which is easy-to-eat and also easy-to-make. Old and young alike will enjoy the combination of tender fillets and minced clams, simmered in a creamy onion broth. This soup can be served as the introduction to a meal, or it can be the main dish.

OVEN FISH CHOWDER

2 pounds cod or haddock fillets; 1 teaspoon salt; ¼ teaspoon pepper; 1 tablespoon butter melted; 2 tablespoons chopped onion; 2 cans (7½ ozs. each) minced clams; 2 cups milk cream; 2 cups rich milk Croutons.

Separate fillets and cut into 2-inch-sized chunks. Place in the bottom of a 2-quart casserole. Season with salt and pepper. Fry onion in butter for about 5 minutes and add to the fish. Add clams, their liquid, cream, and milk. Cook soup for 30 minutes in a moderate oven (350 F). Serve in heated soup bowls, topped with a sprinkling of crisp, golden brown croutons. Makes 6 servings.

BRITISH CUTLERY

Annual output of Britain's cutlery and flatware industry, centred in Sheffield, is valued at about £11,000,000.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by experience and counsellors.

Myra B. — Belle should come live with me in the city.

Belle F. — She can't understand a mother's feelings.

Myra B. —I am an unmarried career woman in my 50's and I am trying to help my sister Belle who was widowed a little over a year ago.

She died Belle recently and was shocked at what I found. She is only two years older than I am, but looked at least 10 years older. She takes no interest in her appearance, in any activities or, in fact, anything except her two children.

From what I saw her daughter-in-law is using her as a drudge. She visits her home every day, takes on a lot of the housework and looks after the children while her daughter-in-law gossips on the phone. Belle's daughter-in-law is shiftless and ungrateful and does nothing to contribute to Belle's happiness. I want Belle to sell her home and come live with me, but she is too attached to her son.

Belle F. — Myra has never been a mother and just can't understand. Everything I do is for my son and I don't care for any gratitude from his wife. She is lazy and she'll never change, but as long as I'm around I know my son will have a hot dinner and a clean home. If I didn't know that I couldn't be happy.

Myra should know by now that I'm just a small-town woman. I never like visit as the city from time to time, but I'm always glad to come home. There's no place like it.

Sometimes I'm tempted to sell my home because it's getting too much to handle. My son and daughter-in-law would be perfectly willing for me to live with them, but I want to hang on to my independence as long as possible, Myra means well, but we never could really understand one another's way of thinking.

The Council: We think Myra is right to be alarmed about her sister's appearance and general way of living, but her pat solution isn't much good for Belle.

It's always easy to solve other people's problems because we don't have to take their feelings and way of thinking into consideration. It's so much harder to solve our own because we can't dismiss our emotions and patterns, nor would it necessarily be good if we could.

It is possible, however, to take a hard look at reality and make necessary adjustments. In this way we expand and enrich our personalities. Belle has refused to see her real situation — that of widow and mature woman. She has forced herself into a false position in her son's home and is suffering because of it. Her emotions are involved with her son in a way that can bring no reasonable return. The satisfaction of knowing that her son is having his hot dinner really can't be enough. Surely, Belle must wonder what will happen when she is no longer around to provide it.

No matter what good she is doing in her son's home, Belle is in the way and knows and feels it. This destroys her bit by bit. It will be hard to fight her way out of this pattern, but she should force herself.

In her community Belle will find many possibilities for making herself useful and enjoying a larger life. She certainly should get out of the present, but should consider renting a portion of it to a family.

MASSASSAGA W.A.

The April meeting of the Massassaga W.A. was held at the home of the president, Mrs. George Flower, with 18 members present.

It was decided to provide lilies for the church on Easter Sunday, to be taken to sick members of the congregation after the service.

A letter of thanks was read from the Laymen's Foundation for student ministers thanking the W.A. for its contribution to their fund. Letters of thanks for cards or flowers were read from Mrs. J. Beaumont, Mrs. McEachron, Mrs. W. Grey and Roger Lane.

Mrs. F. P. Roblin gave a report on the meeting to plan the rally at Crofton on April 27th. Massassaga was asked to take charge of the devotional.

Mrs. B. Thompson conducted the worship period with Mrs. E. Morris reading the Scripture. Mrs. A. Cook gave a reading on "Easter" and Mrs. B. Thompson read a poem, entitled "Christ Crucified". Mrs. Neddow closed with prayer.

Everyone enjoyed a social hour while tearing bread for turkey dressing for the banquet, April 19th.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and Mrs. B. Thompson and her group.

Fish With A Chef's Deft Touch

by Mary Moore

It has been said by folks who are authorities on the subject of reader interest that food writers should not plague their readers by stressing economy.

Yet when I take a casual poll of my friends and acquaintances there is not one of them who does not at one time or another lament the high cost of food. Yes, verily, many of them say they must control their food budget or they would not have any money left for the children's shoes.

generously and is very economical. I prepared it with a white sauce this way.

SMOKED FINNAN HADDIE WITH GREEN PEPPER AND ONION WHITE SAUCE:

Purchase one 1-lb. package fresh frozen haddie. Here are 2 ways you may cook it. 1.- Pour half cup salted milk in shallow baking dish. Lay strips of fish in dish, sprinkle with foil and bake 20 minutes at 375 deg. Fahr., or 2 Pour half cup milk in large frying pan, lay strips of fish in pan, cover and simmer 15 minutes. For either method pour off and discard milk. Meanwhile make white sauce with green pepper and onions: In 2 1-2 tablespoons butter or margarine gently saute 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper and 1 tablespoon chopped mild onion until onion is yellow but not at all brown. Add 2 1-4 tablespoons flour, stir to blend, then stir in 1 1-2 cups milk until thick. When haddie is cooked, if it has been baked and drained and is still in baking dish, pour sauce over it and return to oven to heat it through again. If it has been cooked in frying pan, arrange it on serving platter and pour sauce over it. Garnish with a few additional green pepper rings. Serve with this with new beets and hot Rolls.

PAPRIKA FISH:

8 portions of fish (haddock, cod, halibut, fresh, frozen or smoked cod, Finnan Haddie will serve 4 or fillets), 1-4 cup margarine or part margarine, part cooking oil, 2 large onions, sliced, 1 cup evaporated milk, 2 tablespoons paprika (yes! 2 tbsp.), 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon fresh ground black pepper.

In baking pan melt margarine, add onions, gently saute until pale yellow, place fish on onion. (Note: If fillets are small you may roll them and fasten with toothpick). Mix remaining ingredients and pour over fish. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr., basting frequently. Boiled fillets require 15 minutes. Thicker steak require 20 minute to half hour but do not overbake. To serve pour pan sauce over fish and garnish. This was served to us by my hostess with Potato Rolls.

Dinner Menus

MONDAY

Crumbed Sweetbreads; Creamed Diced Parsnips; Quick-cooked New Cabbage; Pickled Beets; Cherry Crunch (using fresh frozen cherries); Tea.

It is just pure common Canadian sense to practise economy and make the finest of meals at the lowest cost. Those readers who can afford luxuries often — or seldom — receive lots of help from me and their friends anyway; and when they dine at swanky restaurants the chef can trigger their imagination.

Scouting activities

By CHRIS LEGGAT

There were 16 mothers present at the last meeting of the Boy Scouts' Auxiliary.

After the Scout Mothers' Promise was repeated the Boy Scouts entertained the ladies with demonstrations of their various skills. This proved very interesting and educational.

The ladies served hot chocolate and refreshments to the Scouts before sending them on their way rejoicing.

EUCHRE AND TEA

The Guides and Brownies are holding a euchre party in the Park Dale community hall on April 27th at 8.30 p.m. Since this is the next meeting night of the auxiliary, Mrs. Muriel Thompson has invited the mothers to meet at her house. Members will please note this change. The date of the annual Boy Scouts' banquet has been changed to May 4th. A successful white elephant has also been put on by Mrs. Margaret Hull. The proceeds will be used towards the expenses of the banquet. After the ladies repeated the Scout Mispeh, lunch was served and a social half hour enjoyed. Thank you Mrs. Charles Keeble for this report.

WATER SAFETY

Mr. Lew Andrews, who is doing a magnificent job at the YMCA swimming pool, informs us that the following boys have qualified for badges: Cubs: T. Sullivan of the 11th; L. Dempsey, 17th; B. Hull, 18th; J. Hull-quist, 18th; T. Nobes, 14th; T. Wallers, 19th; D. Kelsey, 1st. Scouts: T. Hutchison, 2nd; T. Johnston, 2nd; R. Herring, 2nd; B. Guay, 18th; D. Deacon, 18th; D. Spring, 18th; D. Finkle, 3rd; J. Fraschuk, 1st; G. MacDougall, 1st; G. Adams, 1st; B. Alley, 1st; A. Fort, 1st; J. Adams, 1st. Rescuers — Scouts Neil Miles, 6th; Jim Pickering, 1st; Glen Rainbird, 2nd; Ron Herring, 2nd; Ivan Vogeler, 18th; David Spring, 18th.

The Rescuer's Badge is a very difficult badge to pass, as Mr. Andrews points out as a boy has to be an expert swimmer, efficient with all life saving methods and know how to bring a struggling person to safety without panic. It sometimes means two and three separate weeks to complete the test.

FOXBORO BANQUET

About 75 fathers and sons enjoyed the excellent dinner provided by the Foxboro auxiliary. The tastefully decorated tables were set in the United Church hall.

After "The Queen" was sung guests at the head table were introduced: Mr. James Reynolds, vice-chairman; Mr. C. Finnemore, treasurer; Mr. Angus MacPhee, secretary; Rev. R. F. Darke, padre; Sgt. Jack Glyden, RCAF; Mr. Percy Reid, Mr. Gerald Taylor. The chairman was Mr. M. J. Waller. Scout Teddy Arthurs proposed the toast to the fathers and made a very good job of it too. Mr. Lloyd Sheppard responded. The ladies were thanked by Mr. Finnemore and the ovation they got was a good sign of how their wonderful dinner was appreciated.

OPERATION SURVIVAL

Sgt. Jack Glyden showed two most interesting films on how to keep alive if lost in the bush. The Cubs and Scouts enjoyed the pictures immensely. It was explained by the sergeant who forgot the military clipped lecture manner and spoke to his audience in their language. This is an art often neglected by service men when speaking to boys. Instead of a lecture we were given a very good show. May we congratulate Sgt. Glyden on his masterful delivery on a subject in which he is an expert, and the RCAF for sending such competent liaison officers to speak to us.

Scouter Harry Ashton thanking the speaker also announced that that it was Jack's birthday. If good wishes mean anything, Jack's troubles are over.

Sensational 'Birdies' Finish Wins Masters For Palmer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (CP) — Champion Arnold Palmer, the big fellow from Pennsylvania, led after each round of the Masters tournament but with the chips down Sunday he had to win it the hard way.

Aiming for his second Masters title, Palmer needed birdies on each of the last two holes to leave Ken Venturi and Dow Finsterwald behind in the dust.

He got them.

"I knew what I had to do," the broad-shouldered Palmer said after providing an estimated 40,000 golf lovers with an electrifying finish.

RECORD JACKPOT

His birdie-birdie finish enabled the 30-year-old professional to post a chart of 67-73-72-70—282 and pick up a record cheque of $17,500.

The disappointed losers, Venturi and Finsterwald, had been in about an hour when Palmer charged home. Venturi had 72-69-71-70—282, Finsterwald 71-70-72-71—284. Par for the Augusta National 3-year-old is 36-36—72.

Canada's Stan Leonard fired a 74 on the final round, following steady 72s in the first three days, and ended in a tie for ninth with Lionel Hebert.

The Vancouver pro said he was "a little disappointed" although he had a cheque for $1,575 to pack with him to North Carolina where he'll play in the Greensboro Open.

"I had three good birdies but it wasn't enough to make up for all the bad shots," Leonard said.

"I just didn't play too well. The cold didn't worry me and the wind was no more than on the first three days."

"Palmer had two lovely birdies on those last two holes of his. Mine weren't quite good enough."

Leonard said he plans to go home to Vancouver after the Greensboro Open.

After Palmer failed to birdie Nos. 13 and 15—par-five holes where his great power will an advantage—few thought he would be able to overhaul Venturi.

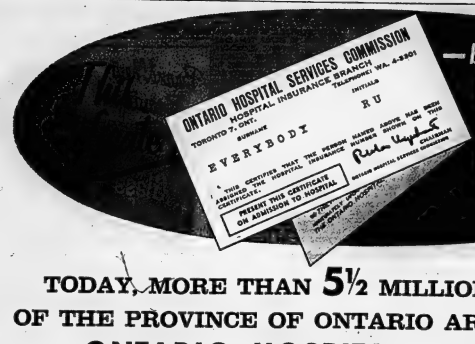
But they reckoned wrong. Palmer stroked in a putt of about 37 feet for a birdie on 17 and made a great six-iron shot to the 18th green, then holed a six-foot putt to clinch the victory.

For Venturi, the loss was particularly galling. As an amateur, he had the 1956 Masters in his pocket until he soared to an 80 the final day and lost to Jack Burke Jr.—also by one shot.

Finsterwald, who staged a tremendous head-to-head battle with Venturi in the final round, bogied the last hole. The stroke he lost there, plus two penalty strokes assessed for a practice putt in the first round, cost him the chain pleatable.

NO CRYING

Reminded of that costly penalty, the Tequesta, Fla., pro just shrugged and said:



"You never know, if I hadn't lost those strokes, I might have played it differently and not even been in the running."

Venturi picked up a $10,500 cheque for his runner-up score and Finsterwald collected $7,000.

Billy Casper, the U.S. Open champion from Apple Valley, Calif., finished fouth with 74 and 287. Julius Boros, from Mid Pines, N.C., took fifth with 73 and 288. Ben Hogan, aging two-time winner, tied for sixth at 289 with Calif., finished fourth with 73 and Waller Burkeen of Franklin Hills, Mich. Hogan, of Ft. Worth, finished with a 76. Player had a 74 and Barbasco a 73 Sunday.

Palmer's big check boosted his 1960 earnings to $44,264, surpassing his total take ($43,807) in 1956, when he topped the money winners. He won $53,875 last year.

TODAY, MORE THAN 5½ MILLION RESIDENTS OF THE PROVINCE OF ONTARIO ARE COVERED BY ONTARIO HOSPITAL INSURANCE

THIS MEANS THAT 93% OF THE POPULATION NOW HAVE MAXIMUM PROTECTION AGAINST THE COST OF NECESSARY HOSPITAL CARE

4,290,000 ONTARIO RESIDENTS, IN GROUPS, are now insured . . . 26,000 business firms and other organizations are co-operating to make these benefits available to their employees and members.

1,200,000 RESIDENTS, NOT IN GROUPS, are insured through premiums paid directly to the Commission.

100,000 MUNICIPAL WELFARE RECIPIENTS are also covered for hospital care.

$158,000,000 WAS PAID IN 1959, through the Commission, for standard ward hospital care received by insured residents.

EVERY MONTH LAST YEAR, MORE THAN 80,000 PATIENTS received hospital benefits under their Ontario Hospital Insurance Certificates. These benefits covered cases ranging from minor emergency treatments to long-term illnesses costing several thousands of dollars.

8,000 ONTARIO RESIDENTS RECEIVED BENEFITS for hospital care while outside the Province.

MORE HOSPITAL BEDS IN ONTARIO

Communities, hospitals and the Commission are working together, assisted by Provincial and Federal grants, to meet the need for more hospital accommodation in a growing Ontario. In 1959, 2,000 new beds were added; accommodation for 3,000 beds was under construction and facilities for 3,500 more beds were in advanced planning stages.

WHAT DOES ALL THIS MEAN TO YOU?

It means many things. But, to you as an insured person, probably the most important is the fact that hospital expense is no longer an obstacle when your doctor recommends hospital care for you or your dependants. This means greater peace of mind for all concerned.

KEEP INSURED!

HERE'S WHAT TO DO

IF YOU CHANGE YOUR JOB...
Be sure to get your Certificate of Payment (Form 104) from the firm you are leaving. Follow the simple instructions on the back.

IF YOU GET MARRIED...
Family Hospital Insurance premiums are required. Be sure you are both protected. Tell your employer or collector right away. If you pay direct . . . tell the Commission.

IF YOU ARE NOW NINETEEN...
This means you are no longer insured under your parent's Hospital-Insurance Certificate. When you become 19, separate premiums are required. Application Forms are available at hospitals, most banks and any office of the Commission.

IF YOU CHANGE ADDRESS...
If you pay through a group, no action is necessary. If you pay on a direct basis, tell the Commission immediately.

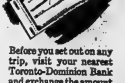
IF YOU GO TO HOSPITAL...
Make sure you take your Hospital Insurance Certificate or, at least, the Certificate number. To avoid confusion jot the number down now, when it can easily be found when needed.

IF YOU NEED EMERGENCY CARE...
Remember — Emergency Outpatient hospital care is insured only if received within 24 hours following an accident.

AND REMEMBER...
Always pay premiums when due. Don't take chances. Prompt payment of Hospital insurance premiums safeguards your future protection. It may be a blessing to you some day.

READ YOUR HOSPITAL INSURANCE "GUIDE"
— an interesting little folder which gives you the answers. Copies are available from insured groups, all hospitals, most banks, or any office of the Commission.

IF YOU ARE NOT INSURED
YOU ARE NOT ELIGIBLE FOR BENEFITS



Application forms are available at hospitals and most banks or any office of the Commission . . . Firms having 6 to 14 persons on the payroll may elect to form groups. Obtain details from the Commission.

Not only has he learned the value of earning his own way, but he's also learned the importance of keeping a part of what he earns — in his savings account at "My Bank". People are going to have to look out for — not look after — this young man. First thing you know, he'll own the paper.

Wonderful indeed! Nickel stainless steel won't rust... withstands corrosion from the atmosphere and weather... tends to wash itself clean with every rainfall. Never needs painting. Stays bright and new-looking for years and years. And it harmonizes so beautifully with stone, wood, glass and enamelled surfaces to produce striking architectural effects.

Indoors, stainless brightens up a home, too. In stair railings, sinks, door hardware, even kitchen utensils and tableware, this lovely lustrous metal blends beautifully with interior fabrics and finishes for gracious elegance... lasts indefinitely and is so easy to keep clean. That's why so many architects, builders, interior decorators—and modern housewives—are using more and more nickel stainless steel for modern living.

Pots and pans, kitchen utensils and tableware made of nickel stainless steel are so practical for the modern home.

McFarland coach Gordie Bell is expected home tomorrow or Wednesday from his talent-seeking tour out west and on the quiet, and according to managerial sources will be the bearer of good news for hockey fans.

In a telephone conversation with Manager Keith MacDonald over the weekend, Gordie said he had signed a forward named George Ford, at present with the Victoria Cougars and an old American League buddy of the coach.

Toronto-born Ford is 29 years of age and a former member of the Galt Black Hawks junior "A" squad. He has seen pro service with Springfield, Syracuse, Ottawa, Vancouver and Victoria clubs.

Bell told MacDonald he had almost closed negotiations for a working agreement with an undisclosed National Hockey League club. McFarland scouts will attend the training camp of the pro organization and according to Gordie will have first choice of players unable to make the grade.

And don't be surprised to see the colorful Russ Kowalchuk, the hero of the 1958 Allan Cup series in Kelowna, who has been with the Okanagan Valley League club since that time, and compiled an enviable record, wearing a McFarland uniform next season. Bell said another well-known Okanagan Valley league player would likely accompany Kowalchuk here.

It is recalled the likeable "Russian" and Gerry Goyer went to the Kelowna Packers the season following the Macs Allan Cup success. Both were immediately successful, finishing with fine points records. Gerry had a mark of 90.

Goyer caught the eyes of the western pro moguls and was given a contract by the Seattle Totems, playing with them during the 1958-59 playoffs.

He remained with the Totems for the greater part of last season eventually being sold to the Victoria Cougars with whom he is at present playing. A recent report had Goyer fifth in the league rookie voting, and second in the points scoring in the Western Pro League playoffs.

Back to the Macs. Coach Bell is holding a press conference immediately following his arrival here and will have definite news of the new player situation.

HODGE-PODGE

Special tribute to an old friend and a great athlete and sportsman was paid over the weekend by the "Ole Cluicker" Herbie Herm. Herb, whose health has improved to the point where he can do the odd spot of work, said of the late Jim Barriage, who was laid to rest this afternoon, was "one of the finest guys I ever played with or had anything to do with, both inside and outside of softball. Jim was very good to me during my illness," Herb said, "and his passing came as a great shock to me as I know it did to a lot of fellows who were associated with and knew Jim in the old softball days. I would like to extend my sincerest sympathy to the family" . . . Speaking of softball, Belleville District League president Harry Morgan said the loop is holding a meeting at the Moira Street Fireball Wednesday night, starting eight o'clock. He wants to see a big turnout as he is anxious to get the league under way early in May. Harry said the Trenton SCAP and Napanee-Deseronto Combines are definite entries, so it looks like a well-rounded circuit will represent the league this season. There are a lot of wrinkles to be ironed out before opening date and Harry would like to get the desk clear before Al Kelleher and his cohorts boiler "Play Ball."

And a great big bagful of congratulations to a splendid fellow who assisted us in the sports department here for a number of years, and who deserts bachelordom for the happy life of a benedict on April 21st here. He is Dr. Boyd Upper, now of Toronto, who weds the very attractive Miss Eva Hrachovec of this city. Boyd enjoyed widespread popularity both in sports and other circles during his tenure in this city, and we join them in wishing Dr. and the future Mrs. Upper the very best that life can offer.

Punch Imlach's Leafs didn't win a game on Montreal ice as the ebullient coach said they would, but their adherents were not downhearted over the 2-1 setback Saturday night. They feel that after the Leafs' showing in holding the mighty Montrealers to two goals the Toronto crew, playing at home before a rabid Toronto fandom, can turn the tables on Tuesday and Thursday and square the series . . . And Noranda-Rouyn got over their banana-belt stage fright after absorbing a 7-0 licking at the hands of Chatham to hold the southern champions to a 3-2 verdict Saturday night. Tonight's fifth and final game for the Ontario senior title should be a thriller.

Complete Back-to-Back Wins With 2-1 Victory Over Leafs; Time Beats Puck for 3rd Goal

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens, last becoming predictable favorites to win their fifth straight Stanley Cup championship, set out for Toronto today hopeful of wrapping up the best-of-seven final series in short order.

Shorn of an unneeded but much talked-about goal as the game ended Saturday night, Canadiens completed back-to-back victories on home ice with a 2-1 win over the Maple Leafs.

Just as in last Thursday's 4-1 win, Canadiens jumped in front early and the battling Leafs were struggling to catch up the rest of the way.

Now down 2-0 in games, the Leafs will be on home ice for the third and fourth games Tuesday and Thursday.

All the goals Saturday came in the first period, Dickie Moore and Jean Beliveau scored at 1:26 and 5:56 for Montreal—both on backhand efforts—and Larry Regan drilled in a 15-footer for the Leafs at 19:32.

CLOSE MISS

Johnny Wilson of the Leafs missed by a whisker in a bid to tie the score in the third period. The Leaf thought the puck had edged over the line before skittering off the post.

Frank Mahovlich, whose pass set up the play, swung around behind the net and raised his stick in the traditional goal-scoring gesture. The play went on.

In the dressing room, Mahovlich said:

"I'm sure that went in. I was right behind the net. I could see it perfectly. It seemed to hit just inside across the red line".

The scoreboard flashed the score as 2-1. But referee Eddie Powers was seen signalling "no goal." Canadiens protested wildly, but to no avail.

Power said the puck hadn't crossed the line when the green light flashed. Linesmen Neil Armstrong and Loring Doolittle confirmed his ruling.

FLASHES AUTOMATICALLY

The green light is wired to flash automatically when the time clock registers the 20-minute mark ending a period.

There were all sorts of versions as to when the green light and the goal judge's manually controlled red light did or didn't come on.

Coach Toe Blake of Canadiens maintained that the red light went on and then off before the green light flashed.

"I don't care except for Provost; we won the game anyway," said Blake.

Losers besides Provost were bettors who gave 7-to-5 odds and called Canadiens to win by two goals.

Imlach said he thought his team outplayed Canadiens and that "we'll beat them if we play like that."

Assistant coach — manager Frank (King) Clancy added shaking his head sadly:

"They were lucky. Imagine, to outplay a team like that and lose."

Blake readily conceded that the Leafs had played a good defensive game. He was more concerned over what he felt was a difference in the refereeing.

FEWER CALLS

"In the first game 17 penalties were called. In this game only six. Yet they seemed to be the same type of infractions. The refereeing went from one extreme to the other."

Although the Leafs were outshot 36-27, they collected Canadiens to relentless checking.

The methodical checking gave the game a dull appearance for long stretches.

Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard set up Moore for the first goal of the game, it was the fifth straight time—in as many goals by Montreal up to that point in the two games—that the little Rocket had had a hand in the scoring. He accounted for three assists and a goal in the first game.

Regan's goal, off George Armstrong's pass, was smartly executed. Regan was almost straight out from the net when he beat Plante with a well-timed 15-foot drive.

The Other Day

Ken Finder

We were told that it is estimated that in the past six or seven hundred years, some 30,000,000,000 (30 billion) people have lived on this earth.

Of course, all world population figures are no better than educated guesses, based on records, for even today, there are areas in which no census has ever been taken. In others, even the modern census is an estimate, no other than an actual count. But for all practical purposes, these figures are used, and some interesting thoughts come from them.

It is obvious that world population is increasing now at the fastest rate in recorded history, and that each larger generation compounds the next. World population now is said to be some 2,500,000,000 (2 billion 500 million) and it is estimated to be increasing at the rate of 30,000,000 a year. These figures indicate that we have about 8 ½ percent as many people now living as have lived in all these thousands of years.

To get back to the present, our job is to serve our local population, you and you, in such a manner as to make you sure we are the place on earth for you to trade.

Belmont Shades Wellington To Square Bantam 'D' Finals

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Youthful Billy Richardson was the hockey toast of Belmont, Ont., over the weekend.

For Billy sparked the third period victory drive of his club that enabled it to square the OMHA Bantam "D" championship series with the Iron Dukes of Wellington here Saturday night. The Dukes took the first tussle 7-4.

Richardson's goal at 9.13 of the period, his second of the game, gave Belmont a narrow 5-4 victory in the best-of-three series. The third and deciding game will be played in Picton, Ont., next Friday starting at three o'clock.

The game, one of the best OMHA clashes seen in Memorial Arena was a thriller from tart to finish. Only once did more than a goal separate the teams, and it was short-lived.

The Dukes, paced by the near-sensational two-way performance of Wayne Craig, took the lead three times, and three times they failed to hold it.

They led 2-1 at the end of the first period, and held a 4-3 edge going into the final frame. They rifled another at before the third period onslaught of the winners yielding a pair of markers, then missing good chances to knot the count.

In fairness to the Dukes they were shy the services of one of their key forwards Gary Lavender who suffered an injured ankle in the first game. He will be able to play next Friday.

While Richardson was the Belmont "hero" he shared goal-getting honors with John Wiltsie, cash scoring a brace. Schuyler scored the other.

The Dukes divided their goals, Craig, Robert Bailey, Billy Gallagher and Tommy Lavender sinking the puck. Gallagher and Lavender each drew assists as did Garry Dempsey.

The Dukes drew two of the three minor penalties, all coming in the third period with one reducing the team's offensive when it was a goal down.

Craig's 11k-foot clearing hoist from the Duke's side of the red line at 2.14 bounded twelve feet in the air. It dropped about 12 feet from the Belmont goal, bounced crazily and hopped into the net for the first score of the game.

Wiltsie got that one back two minutes later going in closer to the goalie Larry Holmes. With seconds to go Dempsey flipped Billy Gallagher a rinkwide pass and the winger blasted a low corner shot from a sharp angle to put the Dukes in front again. Richardson tied the count after five minutes of the second period, banging in this third rebound off Holmes pads from Wiltsie's pass. The Dukes took the lead again when Budajewski scored on a three-way foray with Gallagher and Tommy Lavender.

They held their only two-goal lead of the game when Robert Bailey smashed home a loose puck from outside the crease. A minute later at 18.15 Wiltsie stole the puck from a Dukes' stick, broke into the clear and raced in to cut the margin to 4-3.

The Belmont team took over in the third period. The Dukes, especially their ace line led by Don McNeil, appeared tired after doing the brunt of the attacking.

Schuyler tied the count at 2.32 after a three-way ganging at tack with Buchanan and Wilson. The Belmonts maintained the pressure and a Dempsey penalty didn't help the Dukes cause.

Mitten and Budajewski, Richardson pounced on a loose puck and blasted home the winner. The Dukes battled hard and Neill got a breakway but fired the puck into the goalie's pads. They ganged hard when Belmont's Graham was chased but could not put the puck in the net.

Then Budajewski was given the heave-ho and the Dukes chances faded. They pulled their goalie with 41 seconds to go but the Belmonts held the fort and skated off with the victory.

The teams:

Belmont: Goal, Pogue; Richardson, J. Graham, Clarke, M. Graham, Wiltsie, Schuyler, McKeen, Buchanan, Farquahar, Weaver, McClennon, Johnson.

Wellington: Goal, Holmes; Craig, Lavender, Dempsey, McNeill, Bailey, Ogilvy, Budajewski, Gallagher, T. Lavender, Channell, Bailey, Beales, Dick.

Rochester wrapped up its semi-final with the Cleveland Barons Sunday night with a history-making 4-1 victory. The Americans took the series 4-3 after losing the first three. No other team in the 24-year history of the AHL ever came from an 0-3 deficit and won a playoff series.

Springfield, which eliminated Providence in four games to one, in the other semi-final, will have the advantage of the last two ice for the first two games. The first two games are at Springfield Wednesday and Saturday nights. The third and fourth games are at Rochester next Sunday and either Tuesday, April 19, or April 20. Dates for the other games, if necessary, have not been arranged.

SAYS WILL QUIT

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Catcher Joe Glosberg of Baltimore Orioles popped up on the American League waiver list Sunday, and the veteran said he will retire unless claimed by another league club.

Glosberg, 33, joined the Orioles in 1956 and has been the club's No. 2 catcher behind Gus Triandos. He played for Kansas City and Cleveland after being purchased by the American League by Detroit in 1958 and catching three years for the Tigers.

Since last season the Orioles have picked up two other catchers, Gene Green from St. Louis Cardinals and Elliot Cuppy from Washington Senators.

TeePees Defeat Brockville In Eastern Junior A Finals

The line accounted for all the goals and assists Sunday as the Teepees whipped Montreal Royals 4-1 before 5,000 of the 10,051 fans who saw Montreal Royals defeat Sudbury Wolves 4-1 earlier in the Eastern Professional Hockey League finals remained for parity on all of the junior game.

Centre Cullen collected one goal and an assist, right winger Maki two goals and three assists and left winger Haddleff two goals and an assist.

TOPS IN CANADA

Considered one of the best junior forward lines in Canada, the trio had a prolific season in the Ontario Hockey Association.

Maki was the leading point-getter in the total of 93 and Cullen tied with Wayne Connelly, now with Montreal Royals of the EPHL, as the leading goal-scorer with 37.

The combination saw little action in the opening period, with Haddleff and Cullen taking a pair penalties in the first half and Maki a minor and a misconduct in the second half.

Brockville went into an early 1-0 lead when Bobby Rousseau, one of the classiest players in junior hockey, shot in a blistering 15-footer.

With the line functioning smoothly in a penalty-free second stanza, Cullen netted the puck at 13:37 to tie the game.

TWO HARE HURT

In the third period, with Canadiens missing forward Claude Morrissette and Wayne Freitag, injured in the first and second frames, respectively, the line scored four times.

Maki notched the tie-breaking counter unassisted at 1:07. Haddleff netted the fourth goal of the game from Maki and the sixth from Cullen and Maki.

Maki scored an easy final goal at 19:26 when Canadiens goaltender George Lafleur was withdrawn in favor of a six-man attack.

The second Brockville goal, the fifth of the game, came on a breakaway by Giles. Frascoeur skated in alone from the halfway line after an assist from Keith McCreary.

The Teepees go to St. Catharines Wednesday, returns to Montreal Friday and moves to Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto Sunday.

Chatham Nips Noranda 3-2, Play Deciding Game Tonight

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chatham Maroons defeated Coupn-Noranda Alouettes 3-2 Saturday night, forcing their Eastern Canada Allan Cup semi-final to a deciding fifth game tonight in Chatham.

The Alouettes, who appear to be putting acclimatized on their Southern Ontario invasion, made things very interesting for Chatham. The northerners had won 3-2 and 10-2 at home and lost 7-0 in Chatham Friday. The Ale have outscored Maroons 15-14 in the four goals played.

The winner tonight will meet Hull Legion, who edged Amherst Ramblers 2-1 in Hull Sunday to take that Eastern Canada semi-final series 3-2.

In the Western Canada Allan Cup finals, Trail Smoke Eaters lead Port Arthur Bearcats 3-0 in their best - of - seven series, and also play tonight.

Maroons opened strongly Saturday but had to hang on grimly in the third period against the resurgent Alouettes.

SHARP SCORERS PAIR

Gary Sharp scored twice for the home team in the first period, and Bill Forban put Chatham ahead 3-0 in the second minute of the second period. Fine play by goaltender Bob Smith who made 18 stops checked the Maroons from scoring further.

Both the Alouette goals, by Ray Dupuis and Dino Leggio, came in the third period. Maroons had to use strong forechecking tactics to retain their lead.

The game, watched by 2,200 fans, had 13 penalties including a bench penalty to each club.

At Hull, Pit Richer and Hay Rudesic scored for Legion and the lone Amherst goal was by Max Gauvin.

National League Opens Tues. American Loop on April 18

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—The National League opens its regular season Tuesday with four games, but the American League won't play a full schedule until April 19 although Washington will stage its traditional "presidential" preview April 18 against Boston.

With the help of San Francisco's new $15,000,000 Candlestick Park which seats 42,549, the National expects to draw a league record of 185,000 for its four-game program.

Although the Dodgers won the world series in 1959, Milwaukee Braves have been made the favorites with San Francisco Giants and Los Angeles also drawing solid pennant support.

NEW MANAGERS

Two "new" managers will be on the job. Charlie Dressen succeeds Fred Haney at Milwaukee and Charlie Grimm takes over from Bob Scheffing at Chicago.

San Francisco, Cincinnati, Chicago Cubs, Philadelphia and St. Louis were among the most active in trading during the winter.

The Giants believe they have strengthened their lineup with a talented second baseman and leadoff man in Don Blasingame and added pitching in Billy O'Dell and Billy Loes. To bolster their weakened bench, they recently added Jim Marshall and Dale Long.

Baseball men say the new Candlestick Park, with a prevailing wind blowing toward right field, will help lefthanded hitters such as Willie Kirkland and Willie McCovey.

The Giants game with St. Louis Cardinals will provide fans with a first-hand test of the December deal between the two clubs that brought Blasingame to the Giants for Daryl Spencer and Leon Wagner.

GAME TRIM

Dodgers manager Walter Alston has the same front line that beat Chicago White Sox in the world series last October. The Dodgers did no dealing, concentrating on their own young talent and the farm system. Defending Chicago Cubs will provide their usual opening opposition.

Milwaukee, which bowed to Los Angeles in two straight playoff games last fall, play Pittsburgh.

Cincinnati manager Freddie Hutchinson may start Cal McLish, Cleveland Indians castoff in 1958. McLish, acquired with Billy Martin in the deal that sent Johnny Temple to Cleveland, is a key man in Hutchinson's hopes.

Amazing Cards Show Form, Win Citrus Circuit Crown

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Staff Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals are the National League champs of the exhibition baseball season and when manager Solly Hemus cautions them "don't underrate us", it might be time to listen.

Seventh and woeful with a pos...ous defense, erratic pitching and little batting punch in 1959, the Cardinals came back hard in the Tuesday's National League opener at San Francisco after a rigorous spring training.

While the exhibition season is sometimes about as helpful as second guessing yesterday's weather, the Cards have been a eye - popping revelation this spring.

ADDED STRENGTH

They've added pitching in ex-Pirate Vernon Kline and young Bob Miller, more sock with Daryl Spencer, Bob Nieman, Leon Wagner and Stan Musial, and a healthier defence with Spencer at short and Musial at first instead of the outfield.

Add these to pitchers like Larry Jackson, Ernie Broglio, Lindy McDaniel and Vinegar Bend Mizell, and steady hitters like Cunningham, Bill White and Ken Boyer, and there's reason for Hemus' optimism.

Broglio and Gibson handled the pitching and Musial had three hits Sunday as the Cards posted victory No. 13, a 5-3 decision over Chicago Cubs.

In other Sunday games, which wound up the warm-up season for the Nationals, Los Angeles whipped San Francisco 8-4, Cincinnati's four first-inning runs clipped Milwaukee 4-2, Pittsburgh edged Kansas City 3-2, Baltimore blanked Philadelphia 5-0, New York Yankees stopped Chicago White Sox on a one-hitter 11-0, Cleveland edged Boston 6-5 and Washington beat Detroit 5-4.

SOX BLANKED

Righthander Jim Coates and reliefer Ryne Duren combined for the Yanks' one - hitter that cost the White Sox their first shutout. Elston Howard had two hits for New York, including a three-run homer.

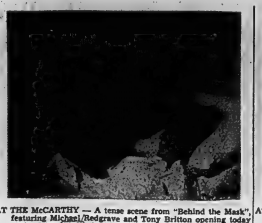
Cleveland had 20 hits—16 off Ike Delock in six innings — but needed Bubba Phillips' ninth-inning home to beat Boston. Gene Stephens homered twice for the Red Sox.

Rookie Chuck Estrada and lefter Rip Coleman combined for Baltimore's fresh shutout of Philadelphia. Frank Robinson's two-run homer off Juan Pizarro featured Cincinnati's big 4 - 2 win against the Braves.

Smoky Burgess, pinch - hitting for winner Roy Face in the ninth, singled to score Don Hoak with Pittsburgh's winner over Kansas City. Julio Becquer's double scored Jim Lemon from first in the ninth for Washington's squeaker over Detroit.

Larry Sherry, Roger Craig and Danny McDevitt, each working three innings, kept the Giants under reasonable control while the Dodgers clipped George Machado, Joe Shipley and Ray Moczant for 13 hits, including five doubles.

Celtics Win Cage Title



BOSTON (AP)—Boston Celtics defeated St. Louis Hawks 125-123 Sunday for their third National Basketball Association championship in four years.

The seventh and final game of a best-of-seven playoff series was settled in the second period when the Celtics scored 41 points.

Reserve Sam Jones tallied 12 points and Frank Ramsey 10 in the second, while playmaker Bob Cousy got six assists and Bill Russell took command of the backboards.

'Cradle Song' Was Sweet And Sentimental Story

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—NBC television's Hall of Fame had a delightful production of The Cradle Song Sunday night.

The program was a sweet and sentimental story about a community of cloistered nuns who raised a foundling. The drama lay in their mixture of joy and sorrow as they long her to marriage and the world.

Based on a play written almost a half-century ago, Cradle Song was an appropriate choice for Sunday evening viewing. Beautifully mounted production, it had the expert services of Judith Anderson, Siobhan McKenna and Helen Hayes.

It was followed immediately by a program on Marian Anderson about Andrew Carnegie, Millionaire's Mile, however, bit off quite a piece of biography for a 60-minute show. It attempted to take the Scottish industrialist from a poor boy to a dying old man at 80—with highlights of his career shown in flashbacks.

You can't get that much in, particularly when the subject lived a full, many-faceted life. Nevertheless, it was an interesting show, David Wayne played Carnegie. Judith Anderson played his mother. (Miss Anderson had a busy night, first as a princess and then as a millionaire's parent.)

During the afternoon, NBC gave opera lovers Mozart's Don Giovanni, and CBS took the sports watchers to the Augusta National Golf Club for the windup of the Masters tournament.

Frank Sinatra's welcome home for Elvis Presley on ABC May 12 ought to send the show's rating through the roof. Besides Elvis in his first television appearance, guests will be Peter Lawford, Sammy Davis Jr. and Joey Bishop.

Safari for Souls
With Billy Graham in Africa

By TOM McMAHAN
Religion Editor, The Stair, Columbia, S.C.

CHARLOTTE, N.C.—A green caterpillar was robbed of passage on railroad tracks as Billy Graham returned from his African crusade to his home town where he used to milk cows and dream of a baseball career.

The famous evangelist; tanned, and rested after a voyage across the Atlantic, was met by his 70-year-old father and several dozen well wishers, among them an old negro who wept as Graham clasped his hand.

A brief, informal press conference was held in a roped off area of the station platform. Then Graham drove to his boyhood home to see his mother who was unable to meet the train because of a foot ailment. Later in the day Graham and his lovely wife, Ruth, who had met him in New York three days earlier, motored 100 miles to their mountaintop home where he saw their children for the first time in three months.

Graham told reporters he hopes to relax a bit after one of his most strenuous campaigns. But he also promised to write articles this month for two of the nation's largest magazines. And he also plans to prepare a statement in time for wire service on the new anti-segregation movements in the south.

Questions about the racial situation dominated most of the attended press conferences in New York and Washington. Graham condemned Africa's apartheid policies as unchristian and un-workable. He declined comment on the wave of southern lunch counter sit-ins. He said he has had time to learn about the situation at first hand. He also said he will wait until he returned to his native southland before speaking to the South on her own terms.

In Washington Graham saw President Eisenhower, lunched with Vice-President Nixon and went to the state department where Secretary of State Herter assembled some of his top aides for an informal briefing that lasted several hours.

The President expressed interest in Graham's suggestion that he visit Nigeria next October when the most populous African nation will receive its independence. Such a gesture would demonstrate America's solidarity with the new African nationalism, Graham said.

The New York Graham gave impressions of his African tour at a luncheon in his honor by the chairmen of his 1957

Foreign Affairs Chiefs Prepare For Summit Meet

Cannot Hope to Settle Cold War at One Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — Allied foreign ministers prepared for a round of pre-summit talks today under a blunt reminder that Eastern leaders won't hope to settle their bitter disputes at a single conference.

"The road to peace is a long and hard one and no one can now say when the goal will be reached", the United States state department said in publishing a book of historic documents.

The series of meetings opens this afternoon with a strategy session bringing together State Secretary Christian Herter, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville of France.

DRAFT PROPOSALS

The foreign policy chiefs, meeting in an atmosphere of low-key optimism, were reported confident that they can draft the combined proposals their government chiefs will lay before Russia's Nikita Khrushchev at next month's Paris summit meeting.

Heinrich von Brentano, West German foreign minister, flies to them Wednesday and the Italian and Canadian foreign ministers will be brought in on the disarmament phase of their discussion Thursday.

In a move to curb excessive hope, the state department published a talky document which recalls how the 1955 summit meeting at Geneva failed to break the East-West deadlock.

With an eye on his second conference, the state department said in a summary:

"It would be unrealistic to expect that these grave issues can be resolved at one heads-of-government conference."

Despite the obstacles, however, it foresaw "an important tangible result" from such a parley — a closer personal contacts established by President Eisenhower and Khrushchev in their Camp David talks last September.

Traffic Begins To Move Freely On Great Lakes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Traffic began to move freely on the Great Lakes Monday and five ships have already reached the Lakehead.

First into Port William was the Captain C. D. Secord which docked late Sunday to load grain. The arrival was 10 days earlier than the 1959 opening.

A spokesman for the Lakehead Shipping Clearance Association said "there's still quite a fleet enroute" including the new 730-foot Murray Bay. Grain was also earlier on the Great Lakes, making its maiden voyage.

At Sault Ste. Marie two locomotives were still clearing paths through the middle Neebish Channel in the Lower St. Mary's River.

Ice jams in the channel had backed water up Monday night and the Canada Steamship Lines's Georgian Bay was fast in the ice.

The new government icebreaker Alexander Henry is due back at the Lakehead Thursday after travelling east to five ship ships at Midland, on Georgian Bay.

The icebreaker is expected at Goderich on Lake Huron today where the Paul L. Shaw was freed from heavy pack ice outside the harbor Sunday.

HOPE FOR NORTH WIND

Upbound traffic through the Welland Canal cleared the last Lake Erie and port officials are hoping for a north wind to break the ice packs into the lake where there is weak spots.

The Canada Steamship Lines' freighter Donaconna, trapped for 24 hours off Port Colborne was freed late Monday and was locked downbound through the canal.

Five coastal vessels pulled out of Kingston to line up for the April 15 opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

5 Committees Named by Frost

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost Monday night named the chairman of five select committees to handle subjects ranging from accident compensation to the cost of living.

The committees will sit between sessions. Provincial Treasurer Allan will be chairman of the finance committee, Attorney-General Roberts of the committee on boards and commissions and Highways Minister Cass land expropriations.

Leslie Rowntree (PC—Toronto York West) will be chairman of the drugs committee and William Stewart (PC—Middlesex North) the crop insurance committee.

The committees will have 11 or 12 members representing all three parties—CCF, Liberal and Progressive Conservative — and have the power to subpoena witnesses and examine them under oath.

Today's Chuckle

Money may talk, but today's dollar doesn't have enough say much.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — An area of high pressure covering over the Great Lakes from the west brought sunny skies and lighter winds to Southern Ontario and partial clearing in the north country today. A small disturbance developing in Colorado will move rapidly eastward, reaching the Great Lakes Wednesday. A return to cloudy skies is forecast Wednesday with a few showers expected in the southwestern portion of the province. The multiple temperatures will continue with little change.

LAKE POLLUTION BLAMED ON U.S. BY MINISTER

Detroit Is Worst Offender - Macauley

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Resources Minister Macaulay says most of the pollution in the Great Lakes comes from the United States side and the worst offender is Detroit.

In a heated debate Monday night on the eve of the prorogation of the legislature, he cited instances to support his claim the U.S. were the main offenders and announced formation of a Great Lakes "working group" or committee "to make a thorough study of lake pollution this summer."

Liberal Opposition Leader Wintermeyer supported the Macaulay claim but said no solution would be found unless other jurisdictions such as Michigan join Ontario in studying the problem.

LONGEST SESSION

The last session of the 12th legislature was to close today after the longest and one of the noisiest sessions on record.

Lieutenant - Governor Keller was to read the throne speech prorogation and give royal assent to a long batch of bills and legislation.

The Ontario Municipal Board Laws committee will be headed by Prof. F. B. Lasghed of the University of Toronto, recently appointed to head a special committee studying the board's operation in the laws. This committee is still looking for public hearings and has not yet made its report to the government.

Mr. Macaulay said oil and gas drillers were very minor contributors to pollution of the lakes. More harm was being caused by industrial waste, garbage and discharges from the increased shipping brought to the lakes by the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Ships' toilets were being flushed into the lakes, he said.

Ships entering ports such as Detroit were also flushing oil into the lakes before taking on

Wedding Service Will Include Word 'Obey'

LONDON (CP) — Princess Margaret has chosen for her wedding the Church of England service that includes the word "obey," the dean of Westminster, Dr. Eric N. Abbott, told a press conference today.

The dean said the introduction to the service would be taken from the 1928 Prayer Book, but the central section will come from the Prayer Book of 1662, when the princess weds Antony Armstrong-Jones on May 6.

The 298-year-old prayer book is the version in which the bride vows to obey.

Youth, Holding Sister-in-Law As Hostage, Barricaded in Home

PULASKI, Va. (AP)—A young husband, holding his 19-year-old sister-in-law hostage, waved a shotgun at lawmen and shouted wild threats early today as he stayed barricaded in a brick bungalow.

The youth, 19-year-old Jack Jennings, vanished into the hills Monday after he broke away from police who were taking him to jail. He had been charged with unauthorized use of his father-in-law's car.

He took his little sister-in-law, Barbara Ann Bolin, into the bungalow, the home of his father-in-law C. W. Butts. And he demanded that the 16-year-old wife, Sandra, be brought to the bungalow "or I'll come out and get her."

Early today a small army of police surrounded the home as Jennings threatened the lives of the police, Barbara, and anyone who came near him.

"I am a dead man and you know it," he shouted through a broken living room window.

"You're not," state policeman Steve Shelton replied.

"The time for talk is over," Jennings fired back. "It's time for gunplay now."

And, a little while later, Jennings fired his shotgun for the third time that morning. No one was hurt and police continued to plead with him in this southern Virginia town.

The sister - in - law apparently was unharmed. Officers said she seemed to have had several opportunities to escape during the night but for some reason remained with the wild youth.

Jennings's shouts from the bungalow grew viler during the night. Police said the obscenities were directed at his father-in-law.

At one point during his barricade Jennings phoned the Associated Press in New York to discuss his situation.

"I'm not mad at anybody," he told the AP. "I just want the world to get off my back."

In the small town of Pulaski, most of the neighbors had decided opinions about the 19-year-old. They considered him as a foolish, immature boy who always feels that he is persecuted.

Castro Revolution at Crisis, Little Men Hurt, Educated Ones Being Disillusioned

The Castro revolution is at a crisis. To find out the situation today, Publisher Paul Scott, Associated Press news analyst, went into the provinces and interviewed scores of Cubans. This is one of a series.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

CIEGO de AVILA, Cuba (AP) "Fidel doesn't know. It can't be he knows what is going on in Cuba. When Fidel knows, he will change things."

So speaks a little man who has been hurt, one who still clings to faith and hope in the Cuban revolution.

But more and more, in educated circles, those who had such faith are being disillusioned.

In the home of a man who once fought with Fidel Castro against the Fulgencio Batista dictatorship, I watched former 26th of July Movement revolutionaries beer bitterly as their one-time leader told about his first privatized before television cameras.

In the home of a middle-class businessman I heard the curses for Fidel, muttered by one who pointed with pride to the mountain hideouts of the embattled Fidel rebels.

On a city street corner I had a brief rendezvous with a man who once fought with Fidel. Suddenly he started talking about "informers," whispered in the former revolutionary, leaving quickly.

In one town I arrange a meeting with the local police bureau chiefs. The meeting failed to come off. Only one man was at the appointed place. "It's cancelled," he said. "We're afraid."

Under the Castro government's rule, Cuba sometimes seemed a police state.

The man who cuts sugar cane and the mill worker still believe most of the revolution. So does the white collar worker in the mill or factory office. They make up Castro's mass support. But many have begun to believe that they believe Havana's constant anti-American propaganda.

A peasant, despite Havana's bold words about fighting hoard to house if need be, does not relish the prospect.

"In Guantanamo Bay there are ships with 10,000 marines waiting to come in and kill us," he says echoing a propaganda line. Actually there is barely a platoon of marines at the naval base that United States leases from Cuba under treaty.

The Cuban businessman is afraid. How long can he support his family when laws, regulations and arbitrary seizures are crowding him to the wall?

Even moderate elements are afraid. Some sense bloodshed in the offing. They have been told: "There is no neutrality — either you are for us or all against us."

Disorderly in tense Camaguey province have been grabbed in roundups, Jails are being filled with those who were in the wrong of turn. American consular authorities are busy issuing exit visas to Americans jailed on the flimsiest of excuses.

Cuba's Avila loves fiestas and gaiety. Now the city of 45,000 is dismal. Two months ago at least 80 per cent of its men would fight anyone anywhere, if Fidel said fight. Today I found that only a doubtful if more than 20 per cent of the men would.

The town is bullied by 300 hard-core Communists.

A professional man who was with Castro in the mountains during the revolution says now: "Every possible solution leads to a dead end, and there is hardly a decent man left in the government. The outlook is black."

Canadians Rush to Get Rid Of American Silver on Hand

TORONTO (CP) — Thinking the way to get rid of the old United States coinage has become almost a game here as Canadians rush to get rid of the silver now discounted at an extra two per cent by Canadian banks.

They are using vending machines, pay telephones and tips to get rid of the U.S. silver without loss.

Even transit collection plates were weighted with U.S. coins on Sunday.

Metropolitan banks announced last Thursday they would discount U.S. silver by two per cent more than bills, in a move to drive an apparent excess of U.S. silver back to the United States.

Ontario Travel Minister Cathcart said Monday night the move was a silly one.

"We help to the tourist trade," said John Fleming, executive director of the Canadian Tourist Association.

PREMIUM DROPPING

The increased discount came as the first step in a steady drop in the premium on the Canadian dollar. Only a little more than 11 months the Canadian dollar has gone below $1.04 on the New York money market.

U.S. coins became worthless in some Toronto parking lots, restaurants and the Toronto Transportation Commission refused to accept them. Many coin-operated machine operators met the Canadian Bankers' Association machines so they would reject U.S. coins.

Ottawa Transportation Commission also refused to accept U.S. coins. Commissioner Harry Brady said the decision was made to keep the OTC from becoming a sink hole for American silver.

"Drivers were charging two cents extra on a U.S. quarter, and one cent on dimes and nickels."

Mr. Cathcart said the discount may affect the tourist trade as expected in the tourist trade. He said he favored a move to place an embargo on the flow of U.S. and Canadian money.

"Five invisible Americans over here and then we give them only 94 or 95 cents on their dollar," he said. "The exchange rate emanates from Wall St., but I think our federal government should do something to help Canada."

Mr. Fisher suggested that no discount be charged on nickels and dimes. He hoped the banks would end the discount before the start of the tourist season. Commissioner Brady said he can change the silver with a smile "which may help reduce the irritation . . ."

An official of the Canadian Bankers' Association said a change in policy is unlikely "until the whole silver situation is in the balance of U.S. silver."

The Ontario Hotel Association recommends that visitors exchange their currency at Canadian banks before attempting to spend it. Managing director Clint Melville said hoteliers expect confusion in beverage rooms serving the new 15-cent glass of draft beer.

R. C. Huddart, a director of the Canadian Restaurant Association, said the association is not recommending any policy to its members. "It is up to the individual."

Liberals Fail To Hoist Farm Marketing Bill

TORONTO (CP)—The Liberals failed Monday in a second bid to hoist controversial Bill 86, amending the Farm Products Marketing Act.

Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer said the bill was being given third and final reading to leave it in the pot still for six months, the traditional motion to hoist or ditch the bill.

The motion was defeated in a divisional vote of 58 to 13, the CCF abstaining. Only seven of the Liberals in a motion similar to one introduced by the parties at the last session.

The bill gives the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Board authority to control over local marketing agencies.

Drug Addicts Get Delivery At Their Homes

TORONTO (CP) — Controller Jean Newman disclosed today that drug addicts in downtown Toronto now have their drugs delivered to their homes.

"All we have to do, no matter what area of the city he's in, is pick up the phone and call for some cops," Mrs. Newman said. "Then five minutes later he goes down to the front door of his home and gets drugs from the policeman.

"It's incredible to think that doing something as evil as drugs has grown so much that this is happening," she said.

Mrs. Newman, who has been waging a fight to clean up prostitution in Toronto, said she has received the home delivery service for addicts from police in a letter received about prostitution in the city.

She said the pusher charges $3 for a heroin capsule plus $1 for delivery. "Only one addict is involved" in going near the addict's house instead of to a "contact place . . .

"It's horrible and frightening the way our vice and crime have been growing."

Foreign Editor Of Toronto Star Is Released

DURBAN, South Africa (Reuter)—Canadian newspaperman Norman Phillips was released from jail here today.

Police said Phillips, foreign editor of the Toronto Star, would leave here later today by air for Johannesburg on his way out of the country.

Phillips was detained last Saturday under the 90-day detention emergency laws after a cable office employee sent justice officials a story written by the Star correspondent.

External Affairs Minister Eric Louw said Monday that Phillips would be released when police had finished questioning him, on the condition that he leave South Africa immediately.

Canada had made a strong protest to the South African government over Phillips' detention.

'White Man Must Learn To Work As Father Did' South Africans Are Told

But Government Makes It Plain Apartheid Policy Will Continue

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (CP)—Prime Minister Verwoerd's government today promised a drastic revision of the "cheap black labor" system on which white South Africans are dependent.

Justice Minister Francois Erasmus told a meeting: "The white man will again have to learn to work as the workers and fathers have worked".

Meantime, 150 policemen supported by three armored cars raided 10 Negro townships southwest of Johannesburg. The "clean-up" operation followed a similar raid on Western Township Monday.

Verwoerd, who was shot twice in the head when he was attacked Saturday, continued his painful recovery today in a Pretoria hospital.

HITS COMMUNISTS

Erasmus, a firm advocate of the government's racial segregation policy, spoke at Cradock in Cape province. He called for the eradication of "the undermining activities of communism and its related organizations" to keep peace between whites and non-whites.

The justice minister also blamed "idlers and other superfluous Africans" in the cities for the racial rioting. They should be sent back to Negro areas and compelled to work, he said.

Labor Minister Paul Sauer, who is heading the government in Verwoerd's absence, said authorities are determined to stamp out Nazo - ism - lers and intimidators." Similar charges were made by Foreign Minister Eric Louw, and newspapers today were filled with government warnings that there will be no letup in Verwoerd's policies.

The government was criticized in unfriend leaflets that fluttered down from tall buildings in Johannesburg.

Addressed to "white South Africans," they demanded an end to the emergency, abolition of the laws requiring non - whites to carry passes, release of political prisoners and consultation between government and African leaders.

"Where are we going?" the leaflets asked. "Fresh pass raids and more arrests? Is this government's new step leads to disaster?

"Our future in Africa, is at stake. Act before it is too late," the leaflets said.

A call for an inquiry into the Sharpeville shooting disclosed emergency laws after a cable office employee sent justice officials a story written by the Star correspondent.

External Affairs Minister Eric Louw said Monday that Phillips would be released when police had finished questioning him, on the condition that he leave South Africa immediately.

Canada had made a strong protest to the South African government over Phillips' detention.

SOUTH AFRICAN ISSUE WILL BE DEBATED IN HOUSE

Views on Apartheid Will Be Expressed

OTTAWA (CP)—Apartheid and its repercussions in South Africa will be debated in Parliament, likely before the end of the month.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker agreed in the Commons Monday to a suggestion by Opposition Leader Pearson that the views of the House on apartheid be expressed through a resolution.

It would be placed before the Commons after April 25, when the House reconvenes following the Easter recess. The recess begins Wednesday when the current budget debate ends.

Timing of the resolution will be decided by any subsequent suggested by the government is almost certain to be a point of contention in the House. The Canadian move would come shortly before Mr. Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London next month.

URGES SOFT APPROACH

Mr. Diefenbaker cautioned against any action that might force him to raise the apartheid issue at the conference. He said he fears for the Commonwealth's future if the conference should become a forum for debate and injury on the conduct of member nations.

Previously, Mr. Diefenbaker had said no beneficial purpose would be served by a formal diplomatic protest to the South African government. He added Monday that "outspoken criticism" now might make matters worse and, in the light of this, the Canadian government has taken a sense of restrained responsibility."

"I would also point out that if I were not dealing here as I am with the responsibilities that are mine I would express myself somewhat differently from the way I am at the moment."

PEARSON CONFERS

Mr. Pearson's restraint also was evident. He asked only that the resolution "include the text of this Parliament that, before it is too late, some action of the distressing situation in South Africa may be found and before

Drug Used on Humans Shows Promise of Treating Leukemia

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian cancer researchers have discovered an inexpensive anticancer drug in the leaves of a common Canadian garden plant, it was reported here today.

Tested on only a few persons so far, the drug has shown promise in treating leukemia and some other types of cancer—but still has undesirable side effects.

Dr. Robert L. Noble of London and J. H. Cutts of the University of Western Ontario's College of medical research laboratory at London, Ont., discovered the drug called Vinblastine.

Sent leaves of a Jamaican plant called periwinkle, the doctors were studying its uses as a possible treatment for diabetes.

Tea brewed from the leaves had no effect on diabetic rats but the report said some died from a "generalized infection apparently related to depression of white blood cells."

Leukemia is characterized by over-production of white blood cells. The doctors managed to isolate an alkaloid from the plant called Vincaleukoblastine which stopped the progress in leukemia.

Researchers are reported trying to find a chemical brake to control the drug, which apparently can go too far in suppressing white blood cells.

The report says means also must be found to control such side effects as severe constipation, urine retention, mental depression, skin tingling and temporary loss of hair.

Prince Edward Flying Club Justly Proud of Fine Record

TRENTON — Any night after five, any Saturday and every Sunday, the Prince Edward Flying Club, located in Prince Edward County ,northeast of Picton, is a beehive industry.

The club, formed in 1953, with Murray Clapp as manager, is justly proud of its fine record . . . not one serious accident in seven years of operation. The club has received a safe flying certificate for 1958, 1958 and 1959. Last year, the club also received the Yorath Trophy as being the most efficient and progressive flying club in the Royal Canadian Flying Club Association. The flying time of the club was doubled last year, over that of the previous year and the members flew the greatest number of hours with the greatest record of safety. The lone accident in the seven year period of operation of the club occurred in 1957 when a club plane was forced down by bad weather at another airport. The pilot walked away uninjured.

There are 157 flying members in the club. Businessmen, laborers, men and officers from the nearby Royal Canadian Air Force base at Picton, and teen-age students of both sexes from the Quinte area are among those taking advantage of the "learn to fly" facilities at the club.

cense, the student must put in 35 flying hours and 30 hours of ground instruction in such subjects as air navigation, meteorology, airmanship and air regulations. A certain amount of aerobatic and practical instruction is also taught.

MUST PASS 4 EXAMS

With reference to the time element involved, the course may cover up to one year's instruction. Following this, the student must pass four examinations set by the Department of Transport.

Planes used by the club for instruction purposes three: one Aeronca, one Cessna 140 and one Cessna 150.

Following the first solo flight of any student, a square from the aircraft's tail is cut out, signed by him an dtacked up in st. Catharines. This is a custom of all the flying world to see and admire. Door frames, window frames and shelves are covered with such "tails." Overdue for his "shirt-tail" parade is Pete Flagler, announcer at radio station CFRC, who has been receiving instruction, hoping to promotions for rebroadcast as he flies. Phil used to have a big solo flip on Sunday but because of low ceiling conditions Murray Clapp postponed the momentous event.

As at any airport, during the operational hours, an avid crowd of would-be aviators crowd the airstrip and spill over into the lounge. Many of those who have long to become pilots spent leisure moments at the airport, out on the field or assuming informal managerial duties in the lounge. Bill Dent, a member of the Royal Canadian Artillery unit at Picton acts as office manager and unofficial receptionist for the pilots and many visitors.

Among future club activities planned are an "Open House" on May 8th and 9th; a combined air show with the Deseronto Club at Deseronto, in which the Mohawk Indian tribe is expected to participate, a "Fly-In" in June, when, for a 72-hour period, planes from the club will be at set continuous times and a combined air show with 418 Squadron (RCAF) Association.

Delegation Spokesman Asks School Board Members to Resign to End Pink-Listing

TRENTON — At last night's regular session of the Trenton Board of Education, Dr. R. W. Dow, heading a delegation of citizens, asked: "What did Mr. T. S. McIlwain do to bring about the Board's "honor" and that of "non-confidence?" Dr. Dow assured the board members that the people of Trenton would get an answer to this question. Still as a spokesman for the delegation, Dr. Dow asked the board to resign at once to "protect the fitting of the pink-list" of the school by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation."

He said that the parents of children attending the school and the taxpayers of the town were concerned about the present status of the high school. Dr. Dow said that, under the present circumstances, the quality of any student to fill such a position at the school was bound to be "poor" and that the salary demands of teachers applying would be in excess of all the flying world to see and admire. Door frames, window frames and shelves are covered with such "tails." Overdue for his "shirt-tail" parade is Pete Flagler, announcer at radio station CFRC, who has been receiving instruction, hoping to promotions for rebroadcast as he flies. Phil used to have a big solo flip on Sunday but because of low ceiling conditions Murray Clapp postponed the momentous event.

As at any airport, during the operational hours, an avid crowd of would-be aviators crowd the airstrip and spill over into the lounge. Many of those who have long to become pilots spent leisure moments at the airport, out on the field or assuming informal managerial duties in the lounge. Bill Dent, a member of the Royal Canadian Artillery unit at Picton acts as office manager and unofficial receptionist for the pilots and many visitors.

Among future club activities planned are an "Open House" on May 8th and 9th; a combined air show with the Deseronto Club at Deseronto, in which the Mohawk Indian tribe is expected to participate, a "Fly-In" in June, when, for a 72-hour period, planes from the club will be at set continuous times and a combined air show with 418 Squadron (RCAF) Association.

Dow as spokesman to stadd. Members F. J. Ash, Frank Brown, Paul Tripp Dr. T. A. McNally and Basil Brooks voted to let the motion carry. Cadets Greer and Robert Barlow said that they thought representatives of the delegation should be allowed to speak. The original motion carried.

At this point, V. P. Carswell, reportedly acting on the school's cash grass and started to read his monthly report. The angry rumblings of the crowd made it impossible for those present to hear the report.

TO MEET MINISTER

During the discussions, the chairman informed those present that the whole matter of the controversy between members of the board who had passed the vote of non-confidence against the principal and the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation had been "taken out of the board's hands." He said that the board members of the board would meet with the Minister of Education today, and that the board would take the matter "higher," if "we get no action on top." There was a great deal of speculation from the audience as to just whom the phrase "the very top" could apply.

During the discussion of the correspondence, Mr. Carswell, secretary of the board read a letter from a Mr. James Richardson of Belleville.

Mr. Richardson, in a devious way, advised the board members to play it cool and wait for action. He said that the board should engage the services of a legislature in its "war" with the Teachers' Federation. He said that Belleville had such a man. Many of these remained standing throughout the meeting.

Following the closed portion of the meeting by board chairman T. S. McIlwain, a board member George Greer moved that the correspondence be accepted by Robert Barlow.

However, members of the board agreed to the terms of the motion after the mayor spoken, man was named for the position.

Later Dr. Dow had spoken for the delegation, Harold Beggs asked that he be allowed to speak. He said that he had asked earlier to be allowed to present views of certain citizens, and that he had been told that the agenda for the meeting had been prepared. Mr. Beggs said that since Dr. Dow had been permitted to speak, he felt that he should be given the same opportunity because of the principle claim.

At this, the crowd burst into loud applause. Several persons spoke out in favor of allowing at least one other member of the delegation to voice the views of the others.

The board chairman polled the members on the question of allowing the motion naming Dr.

But the CCF group prefers Opposition Leader Hazen Argue. Leader Hazen Argue has pressed for a strongly-worded diplomatic protest to be made by Canada at the Commons April 2, advocated that Canada boycott South African manufactures.

In John Argue's absence Monday, H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) frowned on Mr. Diefenbaker's proposal to wait until after Easter to debate the issue. He said that would be "just the time for the prime minister of Canada to speak up for Canada," he said.

VIEWS WELL KNOWN

Mr. Diefenbaker said his views on racial discrimination "have never been muted." Commenting on Mr. Diefenbaker's speech, he recalled that the government has stated previously we deplore happenings which brought about bloodshed in South Africa."

Both Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Herridge referred briefly to Saturday's attempted assassination of Premier Verwoerd of South Africa. The prime minister said he was "glad" Mr. Herridge saw it as evidence "of a grave social conflict arising from the practise of tyranny in South Africa."

Three Quinte District Men Held at Guelph

GUELPH (CP) — Three men were charged by Guelph city police on vagrancy charges during a search of their vehicle early on April 6, were charged with more serious offences.

James Henderson, Point Anne, Lawrence Baker, Foxboro, and George McFarlane, Belleville, elected trial by judge and jury when arraigned on charges of breaking into an Arthur service station where no indictment offence was committed.

They were remanded until May 21, when the trio requesting permission to obtain legal aid. Baker asked that bail be allowed but Magistrate Mitchell refused, and judge,then held in custody.

Chief Arthur Worden reported the entry had been gained to Rowe Motors at Arthur early on April 6 and a safe had been pried open. It is believed that $1,000 in cash was obtained by the thieves, who also carried off some overalls taken from the garage, supposedly to use while the safe was being opened.

MAY PLEAD GUILTY

LOS ANGELES (AP)—District Attorney Evelle Younger said on Monday a lawyer has asked him if the prosecution would allow Bernard Finch to plead guilty to charges of murdering his wife and thus avert a second trial. McKesson said he made no commitment to Finch's lawyer, Grant B. Cooper. Finch and his mistress, Carole Tregoff, face a second trial on charges of murder and conspiracy to commit murder in the shooting of Finch's wife. The first jury failed to reach a verdict.

School Board in Statement Claims Teachers' Federation Attempts to Dictate Policy

TRENTON — The rejection by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation of the proposal made by Mr. F. S. Hardiet, chairman of the Ontario School Trustees' Council, to the effect that the present Trenton Board of Education members would all resign some time prior to the 1960 Trenton elections, thus allowing a new board to be formed, and that a consultant from the Federation and the Trustees' Council attend all regular meetings of the board until that time, has prompted the members of the board to make the following statement:

"1. The Board of Education was elected by the citizens of Trenton to administer the schools of Trenton within the confines of the School Act. Nothing that has been done contravenes these laws in any way.

"2. It is the right of any board to determine the policies for the proper administration of the schools under its care. It is therefore the right to dismiss any person or persons who do not carry out laid-down policies.

"3. The proposal made to the Federation executive to the effect that the Trenton High School would be staffed for the new school year was the first that had been removed. Time was given for the important Resignations of the present members would solve nothing. An election would not be in the best interests of education in Trenton because a new board would have to be elected, and the time required to familiarize itself with things and election, not to mention the extra cost of an election. For this reason it was considered. By the time that Trenton Board is composed of newly-elected board would have to tackle the job of staffing the new school. The supply of available teachers would be at a minimum. There was no guarantee given by the Federation that that body would discuss matters with us when such action was taken, and the statements made by some of the present members were re-elected it would be considered by the entire board. In the interval, there would be no one in authority over the schools, no authority for the signing of contracts for employees and other creditors.

IN STUDENTS' INTEREST

The suggestion of Mr. Bartlett was made in the interests of the students of Trenton and it is difficult to placate the Federation by calling on the board to resign at the end of the year, even though their terms are not complete, so that the electorate could decide on who the representatives of the community should be on the Board for the following years. The action of the Federation in continuing its controversy with the Trenton board belies the statement of the Federation secretary that it has the best interests of the students in mind.

"4. The statement of Mr Robinson, secretary of the Federation, in the discussion with the Board on April 4, 1960, that the Federation had had trouble with the Trenton board for a period of fifteen years indicates that many honorable gentlemen of Trenton who served without remuneration and to the satisfaction of the Trenton public, did not carry out their duties to the satisfaction of the Secondary Teachers' Federation. If, then, no elected representatives over a period of fifteen years have conducted thet business of the administering of the Trenton schools satisfactorily, (to the Federation that is) does it not predicate that the Federation had become so powerful that it thinks it is the right and only body capable of carrying out such duties?

"5. In these days of unions and federations we hear of negotiations between employer and the employee, management and union, but has any one heard of a union which states that it will not deal with the management then in power? Such, in effect, is the statement of the Secondary School Federation, through its secretary, Mr. Robinson, who said on April 4, 1960, "I can't make it plainer than this. This Federation has no faith in the present Board of Education. We can no longer do business with the Board." When queried if he meant that the board should resign, he emphatically stated that what he said was very precise, and what the board did was its business. In short, Trenton electors are being told by an organized union that their chosen members are unfit to carry out the business for which they were elected.

"6. The board is aware that the secretary of the Secondary School Teachers' Federation visited a certain home in Trenton and made statements to the home present that were interpreted to mean that the present members had no alternative but to resign. It is Mr. Robinson's right to visit where he wishes. We leave it to the public to decide the professional ethics of such action.

"7. Mr. Robinson intimated by certain remarks that the board was interfering in matters dealing with the operation of the school. His remarks contained expressions as follows: "You don't run a principal. You nine members can run the school. What you need is an office-boy who will report every night to the board." Such statements from the leader of the Secondary School Teachers' Federation seem a bit irresponsible to say the least. We leave it to the public to judge.

"8. The Ontario School Trustees' Council is working with the Trenton Board in the hope that the present impasse can be solved with the minimum interruption to the school."

The statement was signed by T. S. McIlwain, chairman of the board.

Three Injured As Late Model Car Hits Truck

The sky was heavily overcast but the air was clear so visibility was excellent as a procession rolled across the Bay or over the fields and sense the surge of spring. But at the side of the north lane of Highway 2 about two miles east of the city two vehicles battered and torn and facing the wrong direction, lay like wounded creatures silently waiting.

A few minutes earlier Percy Eldon Pearsall, 36, and his father, Harry Pearsall, 64 both of Belleville had been travelling the east along the south lane of the dual highway in their late model sedan. Also on that same part of the highway was Leroy Calvin Hayes, 44, driving a 5-ton stake truck belonging to the Bellewood Lumber firm.

It was at about 9.30 o'clock that the Pearsall car apparently hit the stake truck amidships, the force of the impact being sufficient to cause both vehicles to carry on over the boulevard and across the north lane where the passenger car ran into a hydro pole and the truck came to rest straddling the median and ditch.

Provincial Police were at the scene of the accident shortly after and the three people involved were immediately removed by Bush's ambulance to Belleville General Hospital. Mr. Hayes was apparently suffering from a broken left shoulder whilst injuries to the two Pearsalls was undetermined although hospital nurses reported that one of them had his face covered with blood. All have been hospitalized.

Later the wrecking trucks came and towed away the car, almost unrecognizable mainly by the tail fins and the front, where driver's side door had been buckled into a shape not too dissimilar from a 45 potato chip. It was about 10:30, the sky was still overcast but in the west the sun could be seen trying to break its way through. All was quiet in front of Normand Hall's roadside lunch counter. Except for some weird tire tracks in the soft brown earth at the side of the road and a sprinkling of some finely broken glass the peaceful countryside revelled in new life of the coming spring.

Council Accused Of Breaking Own By-Laws

The city of Belleville has broken its own by-law covering the use of trailers as permanent living accommodation.

According to Alderman Lee Reid the city has two by-laws covering trailer occupancy in the city. One by-law says trailers cannot be used unless they have the necessary sanitary facilities, while another rules that even with the necessary facilities trailers cannot be used as living quarters for more than 60 days.

But the city has side-stepped its own by-law by allowing a trailer camp to be established on the Dundas road at the edge of the city. One by-law says trailers cannot be used unless they have the necessary sanitary facilities, while another rules that even with the necessary facilities trailers cannot be used as living quarters for more than 60 days.

But the city has side-stepped its own by-law by allowing a trailer camp to be established on the Dundas road at the edge of the city.

No Action Taken To Set up Bus Commission

Although in just three days time the city will be officially in the bus business, city council has still taken no action toward setting up a transportation commission.

On April 15th the city is scheduled to take over operation of the Bawson Bus Lines which it has purchased, but before setting up a transportation commission is awaiting final approval of its private bill in Toronto.

"Until the matter is finalized by the Municipal Board we actually have no authority to proceed," noted Acting Mayor Lorne McDougall. "When this approval comes through the bus committee will bring in a recommendation."

Bus committee chairman Alderman Ben Corke was not certain it was within the powers of his committee to bring in a recommendation regarding the transportation commission personnel.

He said, however, that it would be happy to do so and had already considered several names which the committee would be glad to discuss with council.

Fire Departments Thanked by Frankford

Members of Frankford village council through Fire Committee Chairman Carmen Sills, have expressed their appreciation to members of the various fire departments who assisted in fighting under control the fire which two weeks ago threatened the village.

"I am sure the villages of Frankford as a whole is happy and proud that its own fire department is a member of the Mutual Aid Program under the capable direction of Fire Chief Gerald Vance," stated Councillor Mikel.

Chief Vance was responsible for directing aid from Trenton, Batawa and Belleville, when Trenton RCAF also sent equipment and men.

Appreciation was also expressed to local and provincial police and also to local citizens who helped provide coffee and lunches for the firemen.

Amateur Radio Exams Held

Examinations for amateur radio experimental station licences for Belleville and district enthusiasts were held Monday evening at the Kiwanis Centre. The examinations were conducted by three representatives of the Department of Transport from Kingston, W. H. Doubleday, E. Murray and J. Whitaker.

Results of the tests will not be known for about 30 days. Examinations consisted of questions on the proper operation of an amateur station, radio theory, design of equipment, etc. Candidates were also required to copy and send Morse Code at not less than 10 words a minute.

Training classes prior to the examination were conducted by the Belleville and District Amateur Radio Club over the past three months.

School Board Will Receive Same Grant as Last Year

The Belleville Public School Board has received assurances from Minister of Education, Hon. John P. Roberts, that legislative grants for 1960 will not be less than for 1959.

This was indicated at the April meeting of the board held Monday evening when assurance from the department was given stating that Belleville will not receive less than $327,104.65, the amount received last year. Calculation of grants under revised legislation indicated the board is entitled to in Belleville will be $309,928.24 this year.

As result, Lyle Langabeer, chairman of the finance committee, and Board Chairman James Ritchie will meet with a delegation from city council and have authorization to adjust the board's requisition by $18,000, lowering the requirement for current operation from $500,000 to $482,000.

This reduction of $18,000, together with an amount of $17,-707.24 now on hand in the public school board from previous years, should enable the public school rate for this year being no higher than in 1959.

The board noted with regret, however, that while legislative grants for 1960 would be in the same amount as 1959, they would be proportionately lower because of the larger enrollments, more classrooms and generally higher costs in city public schools.

REPORT RECEIVED

The auditor's report for the year 1959 was received from George Lee, who stated Public Instruction was given to request from the municipal auditors to provide one for each board member in order that due attention could be paid to the text.

The April meeting of the board was held a week early due to the Easter holidays when Inspector Ross will be in attendance at the Ontario Educational Association in Toronto.

Jack Dickens Will Be New Manager of Memorial Arena

The new manager of the Belleville Memorial Arena as of June 1st will be Jack Dickens of this city, former Fort Street bakery and tea room operator.

Announcement of the appointment was made yesterday at council by Arena committee chairman Alderman Don Whalen. Mr. Dickens will receive a salary of $3,000 per year as arena manager and will have the operation of the arena canteen. The canteen enterprise, paying $2,000 of the canteen profits back to the city.

"In effect this means we are getting Jack Dickens as arena manager for $1,000 per year and the city is getting out of the bookkeeping," noted Alderman Whalen.

25 APPLICATIONS

Previously the arena canteen has been operated by Mr. Larry Bush as a private enterprise but with the city purchasing all canteen requirements. The present arena manager, Mr. Wilbert Lowe is being retired but will be retained "on an advisory basis." There were 25 applications received for the position of arena manager. Dickens was chosen.

"We were pleased to secure such a capable and interested man as Mr. Dickens for arena manager," noted the arena committee chairman. "He is a local boy and we know his character and ability."

The appointment of Mr. Dickens was unanimous on the part of council, but there was one objection from outside the bar.

BUCK OBJECTS

This came from Larry Buck, present arena canteen manager, who said he also had applied for the position of arena manager. However, his understanding now was that the new manager would take over operation of the canteen.

Noting that in the four and a half year in which he had been canteen manager Belleville's $72,000 had been taken in and $15,000 in profits returned to the city, Mr. Buck asked council what he had done wrong.

Mayor Lorne McDougall replied he was sure council appreciated the job which Larry Buck had done at the canteen but noted it was the wish of council to have the arena manager and arena canteen manager-ships.

TWO DIE

FREMONT, Calif. (AP)—Two men died Monday after being trapped in sewage slugs on which they had air in a 48-inch pipe. The victims, John Nilo and F. Ald. Whalen said, were rescued from the feeder line into a filtration plant. Fifty volunteer workers pulled the men out but they died as firemen attempted to revive them.

Council Waited Too Long to Submit Bid

City council waited too long to submit a token bid for the former post office property at the corner of Bridge and Dundas Streets.

Last evening at city council a recommendation for the city to place a token bid of $10,000 for the property was withdrawn on the advice of City Solicitor Bruce Porter, who said the city would have to apply to the Municipal Board for permission to purchase the property.

It was explained that the token bid by the city was necessary for the municipality to exercise its privileges of buying the property for $1 more than the highest bid received in tenders now being asked by the Department of Public Works.

Alderman Jack Thomas said the reason for the bid was that the city did not want the property to be sold too cheaply without a token bid by the municipality.

However, it was explained that private interests were bidding on the property and it was expected a substantial building would be erected on the site.

Alderman Walter Elliott however wondered whether the city should not bid for the land as the property now being used as a parking lot.

Acting Mayor McDougall said the property was being offered as a whole. And as he previously said, the city had left it too long to bids closing and he said there was not now time to obtain permission to purchase from the Municipal Board.

Historical Society Outlined To Rotary Club Members

The purpose of the local Historical Society were outlined to local Rotarians yesterday afternoon at their weekly dinner meeting by Gerald Boyce of the Bank of Nova Scotia staff and who added to this interesting talk by the relating of a number of humorous incidents of Belleville recorded by a number of people, who either visited the town or settled in it in days long gone by.

Back in the days when Belleville was a mere 36-hour stage coach jaunt from Toronto (it was noted that it was faster to walk the distance) and the only other transportation available was by water, people saw Belleville as a town with many "fine churches and broad thoroughfares" and as a "progressive community," Mr. Boyce told his audience. Of course not all statements were favorable, the speaker continued, and gave a few extracts from writings, which noted that the frame houses were laid out in irregular and in-straight fashion, that the town was dirty and that the streets were a sea of mud and irregular pavement (this was in 1832).

Some transportation was one of the complaints voiced by travellers in 1835 and it was noted that the trip between Belleville and Trenton was made slow due to frequent stopping at "every tavern" between the two towns (a total of approximately 28 taverns in all).

The McMaster University graduate, in noting the progress that since the Historical Society mentioned that it was hoped that the society would be able to obtain space for a museum and offices in the County Registry Office in the near future. This would allow a place for historical documents and records could be kept where material which had been collected could be displayed. The society has put on a display at the Belleville Fair for the past two years.

The speaker was introduced by Judge J. C. Anderson and thanked by Rotarian Ernie Burnham.

A motion introduced by Dr. A. E. MacKenzie to the effect that the members of the Belleville Rotary Club support the founding of a district Rotary International scholarship was carried. This matter will be attended to at the forthcoming annual district convention in Guelph.

The club's new directors were introduced formally by Ernie Burnham, secretary. George MacIlhern introduced the guests. The meeting was chaired by club president Bill Kurst and Harold "Joe" Mott gave grace.

That's the Spirit!

Hume Crowe is a person we should like to know.

At a meeting held at Elliot Lake on Saturday business representatives and organizations presented briefs to Hon. Gordon Churchill, Minister of Trade, and Hon. Michael Starr, Minister of Labor, in the Federal Cabinet. These briefs outlined steps which the Elliot Lake organizations and individuals thought the Federal Government should take to alleviate the problems facing the uranium mining community as the result of the failure of the U.S. to take up options for future uranium purchases.

Mr. Crowe seems to have been the lone dissenter. He said that the residents of Elliot Lake arrived at their unhappy suitation by relying on government assurances when they first went there. "We are going to the Federal Government for more assurances, which seems to me foolish and undignified," said Mr. Crowe, "‘. . . our salvation lies in our own hands."

Mr. Crowe's self-reliance is admirable. It may be that it is not an adequate answer to Elliot Lake's problems but the spirit he shows is certainly the kind needed by any community facing problems. It seems to us to be akin to that displayed in the Bancroft area, another uranium centre facing trouble, where most residents are merely asking that the district be given an opportunity to solve its own difficulties by having restored to it all those uranium properties which were originally held by district mines, before Dyno transferred its $26,000,000 contract to Gunnar.

Story-Go-Round

To the left of its masthead it carries this slogan: "All the News That's Fit to Print."

To the best of our knowledge, no other newspaper makes that boast. Some of them of course, seem to think that all news is fit to print, while others, not being so rotund as the Times, obviously have less space than there is news.

We have always considered the Times' slogan to be a rather sneaky way of making excuses for any omissions. It is impossible to score a recognized scoop on a paper which brags that, if it does not print a story, it is not fit to be published.

Still, even small papers sometimes refrain from printing stories because they do not consider them fit and proper, rather than because space is lacking. Some of these stories are spicy and are passed joyously from mouth to mouth. Just the other week, for instance, there was one about three Belleville residents, a story complete with names when it reached The Ontario Intelligencer office. This circulated freely until one more than the staff decided to print it two or three weeks earlier, only with different actors and a different locale. Then somebody said the incident was supposed to have happened earlier in Toronto.

Imagine our surprise, therefore, when we ran into the same story, printed in Jack Wasserman's column in the Vancouver Sun, April 6, under a Vancouver dateline.

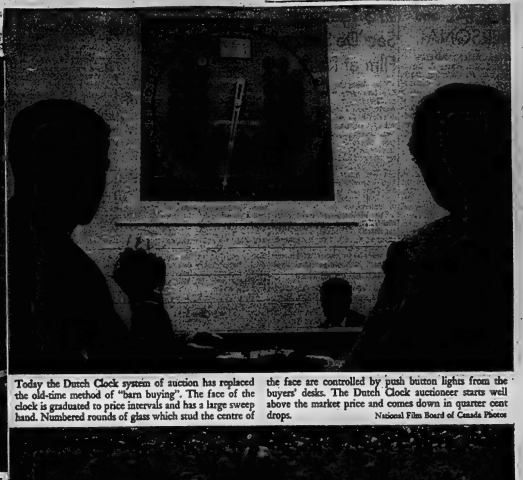
"The stories go 'round and 'round and they come out here, as with the yarn about the cement truck driver. Police station wags are now relating how a traffic officer stopped a giant ready-mix truck in South Vancouver and asked the driver what he'd have his licence but said he was close to home and could pick it up. Policeman said, "Okay." Driver whipped home. Noticed a shiny new convertible parked outside. Thought nothing. Walked in. From the hallway heard his wife entertaining a gentleman. Thought something! Retched to his stomach, wheeled over beside the convertible, adjusted the shute, pulled the lever—and filled the convertible to window level with cement. Wonderful story. In fact, it's too good to be true. And it isn't. Heard the yarn first two months ago when Original Blouse maker Mac Aires returned from a visit to Texas, Okey stateroom. According to the local paper, the incident was supposed to have happened. Two weeks ago Norman Kaye, the Mary Kaye Trio, told me the same story—almost! Only it had happened in Nevada, the convertible was a sedan and the owner was demanding payment from his insurance. Next locale—Fairbanks?"

By way of Belleville!

How Camels Avoid Thirst

Scientific American

What biological mechanism enables the camel to survive for weeks without drinking? Some observers have pointed to the animal's fatty hump as the reservoir. Though the hump undoubtedly does contain water, it is rich in hydrocarbons from which water cannot be manufactured. Others have declared that one of the camel's five stomachs is a reservoir for water. But neither of these assumptions withstood an investigation conducted by Dr. Knut Schmidt-Nielsen, a zoologist at Duke University, who, with a group of colleagues, spent considerable study on the physiology of the camel in an oasis of the Sahara desert.



"The camel's tolerance for drought is real enough," Schmidt-Nielsen reported. "It can travel across stretches of desert where a man on foot and without water would quickly die of thirst. But the mystery of its remarkable ability to go for long periods without drinking has been traced to the camel's extraordinary ways of using its physiology, not to a special organ for storing water.

"Like the kangaroo rat, the camel conserves water in a number of ways. It reduces the production of a urine very rich in urea. Moreover, under certain circumstances, the animal can withstand a loss of body water equivalent to 25 per cent of its body weight in water, the camel is able to concentrate its urine so that it is not toxic. The lethal limit, is probably much higher but for humanitarian reasons we did not attempt to determine it during our experiments.

"The camel not only tolerates dehydration much better than other animals but it recovers much more slowly. One reason for this is that it loses a small volume of urine—in summer urine as little as a quart a day. Still other important considerations are the high body temperature at which the camel sweats and the wide range of its body temperature. In contrast with man, the camel sweats very little until its body temperature has risen a few degrees. In addition, it lowers the heat load by letting its temperature fall at night. At dawn its temperature may have dropped as low as 93 degrees. Thus much of the day will elapse before it heats up to the sweating temperature of 105 degrees. The heating, incidentally, is slowed by the camel's insulating properties of its hair. Another aid to the camel is when the sun beats down. The camel's hump also helps indirectly to shade the heat load on the animal.

"Each of these factors plays a part in the camel's complex system for coping with drought. Living in a desert environment, it encountered the problem—solved by natural selection—long

$85 Million in "Green Gold"

Today the Dutch Clock system of auction has replaced the old-time method of "barn buying". The face of the clock is graduated to price intervals and has a large sweep hand. Numbered rounds of glass which stud the centre of the face are controlled by push button lights from the buyers' desks. The Dutch Clock auctioneer stares well above the market price and comes down in quarter cent drops.

Tobacco is one of Ontario's most profitable agricultural products and the 1959 crop presently being marketed is expected to bring in an estimated $85 million. While last summer's production was slightly down from the 1958 all-time high of 176 million pounds of flue-cured tobacco, higher prices for what is considered to be the "finest quality" crop" ever harvested is expected to compensate for loss due to acreage reduction, hail and early frosts. Above, buyers at the Ontario Flue-Cured Growers Marketing Warehouse at Tillsonburg, Ontario.

Today's farmers include many of Dutch, Belgian, Hungarian, German and Polish descent. Nimble-fingered women tie the leaves for the kiln. After that the success of the crop is in the hands of the "cure-man". He must keep a fire going; raising the temperature gradually, for 5-6 days. A mistake on his part could be costly. Many of the "cure-men", such as the one shown above, come up from the American south.

With employment in Canada at the highest level in history, manpower to harvest the "green gold" presents a problem. Tobacco is planted by machine, cultivated by machine but it must be harvested by hand, one leaf at a time, when that leaf is ripe. Primers, who work 6 to a team filling horse-drawn "boats", are paid $14 a day (plus board) during the frenzied 6-week harvest of what has been described as one of the richest but "chanciest" crops in Canada.

Belleville's long-awaited deficit figure showing the city's unauthorized expenditures to the end of 1959 is now announced as being very close to $400,000.

Monday evening at the regular meeting of city council, Alderman William Jarvah, as the chairman of finance, said, with a few possible minor adjustments, the deficit figure was $393,857, plus an additional $91,437 for arrears up off street parking lots which will be debentured for separately.

He said the deficit is expected to call city taxpayers a special levy of about 17 mills, of which three and a third mills will be attributed against the annexed area.

Alderman Jarvah said the deficit to the end of 1958 was $502,533. This would be assessed entirely against property owner. in the old part of the city and would amount to 13.6 mills.

The deficit for 1959 given as $93,272, would be assessed against the entire city and would amount to 2.3 mills, bringing the total deficit mill-rate for the old section of the city to 16.9 or 17 mills.

Only that part of the deficit accruing since January 1, 1959, when annexation became effective, is being assessed against the annexed portion of the city.

SELF LIQUIDATING

Ald. Jarvah said the debentures for the parking lots would be carried by the parking authority as it was expected the parking lot cost would be self liquidating.

Approximately $145,000 of the total deficit is attributed to unauthorized payments to the McFarlandi Senior Hockey team and operation of the Belleville Memorial Arena. The hockey team for three years was sponsored by the city and it was found city funds were being used to help pay the players.

First indication that hockey was costing the taxpayers money came last May when payments showed up in the 1958 auditor's report.

Since then Denzy S. Denyes, former city manager and treasurer, and also hockey team manager, was dismissed by city council, and last October a Royal Commission enquiring into the city's financial position was held before Judge A. B. Willmott.

The enquiry indicated that Belleville's unauthorized expenditures were far greater than had been at first realized, but the final deficit figure had to await completion of the 1959 audit.

Also the deficit had to be apportioned between "old" Belleville and the annexed portion of the city.

The special solicitate to cover the city's floating indebtedness will be in addition to the current year's tax rate which is still to be set by city council. Council has sought legislative approval to spread the deficit tax payments over a period of years. In the meantime Alderman Jarvah last night said the finance committee was working desperately toward completion of the 1960 budget and it was expected this would be ready for presentation to council some time next week.

And the increasingly high cost of education, reflecting directly on the city tax rate, came up for discussion at yesterday's meeting of council.

Alderman Don Whalen posed the question asking why it was that high school salaries in Belleville seemed out of line with many other centres where maximum salaries offered were as much as $1,000 lower than here.

He said the salary increase for this year alone was $50,000.

Alderman Leslie Reid, principal of Quinte Secondary School, replied that the $9,500 maximum for high school teachers in Belleville was comparable to other centres of similar size and even at this maximum the local board was having difficulty in obtaining teachers.

The board was having difficulty in obtaining teachers.

Acting Mayor Lorne McDougall said unfortunately the city had no control over the high school board budget.

Council, however, had asked the high school board to curtail costs wherever possible, but nothing definite had yet come from the request.

Finance chairman Alderman Jarvah said his committee was meeting with the public school board which had promised to make every effort to curtail costs wherever possible.

LAKE POLLUTION

U.S. GARBAGE

He told of a huge pile of U.S. garbage being dumped near the front lawn of Speaker William Murdoch. Progressive Conservative member for Essex South who lives near Amherstburg on the shore of Lake Erie.

Mr. Macaulay said Americans dumped 40,000 tons of "garbage, muck, filth and crud" on Bakio Island. The island is a fisherman's haunt, owned by the United States but on the Canadian side of the lake. The Ontario government had issued fishing permits valued at $20,000 in the area.

"The muck was then removed and dumped a short way away from the front yard of the Speaker of this House."

Mr. Macaulay said he called "a certain general" and "the muck is now being removed and put where it should have gone in the first place."

He charged that industries around Detroit were the most serious offenders in water pollution. Canadian industries operating around Windsor were also offenders but to a lesser degree.

WATER LIKE SOUP

Lake Erie has become so polluted, he said, that much of its shore waters are virtually nothing but "soup."

He tabled pictures showing the United States Army Corps of Engineers dumping hundreds of tons of refuse into the lake.

Offshore oil drilling on the American side was a greater offender than similar operations on the Canadian side, he charged.

On the pollution of the lakes by oil drilling, Mr. Macaulay said such drilling had been stopped in Lake Huron and there was only one well in operation in Lake Erie.

Arthur Reaume (L — Essex North) reported that he had pictures of "various" spots in Lake Erie where oil was being drilled. Oil wells in the area were spoiling shoreline property and hurting the tourist industry.

TO VISIT AREA

He invited the minister to visit the area and Mr. Macaulay accepted. Date of the visit will be settled later.

In other House action Monday, John Spence (L — Kent East) rapped municipal utilities commissions for getting into competition with retail appliance dealers by selling and financing appliances.

He said the practice had contributed to the going out of business last year of 90 hardware businesses and 114 furniture and appliance businesses. The hardware firms had total liabilities of $3,254,000 and the other firms $5,297,000.

He asked if the Ontario hydro commission approved of such deals and if Hydro itself sold appliances to the public or its employees. The questions went unanswered as Mr. Macaulay was not in the House at the time.

CONCERNED ABOUT DEBT

Freshman Andrew Thompson (Lc—Toronto Dovercourt) rapped the government for not taking positive action to retire Ontario's $1,000,000,000 debt.

The government had never followed the pay-as-you-go policy enunciated in 1943 by Premier Frost when he was provincial treasurer and was now paying $50,000,000 a year in interest on a debt of more than $1,000,000,000.

The government wouldn't admit "this albatross of debt to the citizens of Ontario."

"The government juggles the statistics and pronounces a small surplus each year," he charged.

Mr. Thompson also suggested that highways should be paid for "by those who use them."

He said the government should establish now the amount of money needed for highway expansion, set the "required tax on gasoline and automobiles" and start the building program right away.

"The sooner the highways are built the sooner they start paying for themselves."

The week before Easter is a special time for prayer and meditation. It is indeed a Holy Week. Thinking of the gospels of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John will help prepare one for the momentous events on Good Friday and Easter Sunday. The most natural and the most reasonable place to find a group dedicated to God's service is the place of Christian worship. "What wonders there would be if all went to the House of God in the spirit of prayer, meeting, anxious and ready to hear the voice of God. Moses heard it out of the burning bush.

"If it this time before Easter, as the world about us is awakening to new life and beauty, we go to God's House in this eager seeking mood, the beauty of the Lord will be upon us and we will be changed into the beauty of His holiness.

"Not only in the church do we realize the presence of God but in our homes. Christian living should begin at home. How blessed are the children to be brought up in a Christian home.

"Let us work in the office or in the factory, in the field or in the store as though we were working for the Lord."

Belleville Choral Society Presents Handel's Messiah

By EUGENE LANG

"I did think that I did see the Lord God Himself standing before me". Thus did George Frederick Handel describe the intense spiritual and emotional feeling that developed during the seventeen days that he isolated himself from the outside world and with the white heat of religious passion, penned the most famous Oratorio "The Messiah". That was in London in 1742 and ever since the first presentation of this gigantic sacred masterpiece during Easter Week of 1743 musical organizations from both teeming metropoli, provincial cities and rural towns and villages have sincerely coped with its nearly 200 pages of beautiful melodies, left in between for short ten or twelve seconds as it was done. However, all are to be praised for their fine individual and collective musical portrayal of this beautiful Oratorio. Mr. Alec Gordon, the accompanying organist, gave an extremely sensitive and carefully molded accompaniment to all members. Only in the base aria "The Trumpet Shall Sound" did the registration of the organ not fully enhance the singing of the voice. Trumpet challenge, to these ears, sounded more like tuba and then, these ears could be wrong — and we do hope that they were.

The Invocation was said by the Rev. H. M. Davis, B.A., Minister of the Bridge Street United Church, and the closing Benediction was pronounced by the Rev. R. D. MacLaren, B.A., D.D., Superintendent of the Belleville Ministerial Association.

For those who missed this performance it might be mentioned that it will be broadcast over CJBQ later this week. Check your printed listings for time of this broadcast.

FIVE SOLOISTS

The five soloists each gave with their vocal best in their various offerings, Patricia Downes, soprano; Jean E. Szczarba, soprano; Lorne Loretta McDougall, contralto; Ronald K. Manley, tenor, and C. Murray Irwin, bass, all are to be complimented for their efforts to make this performance a qualified success. With malice to none if I was evident that one of these five voices was miscast, but the more musical the better. The impact of the choral sections could have been greatly improved if more singers had not been left high and dry hanging onto those marvelous dominant pedalings. Example: At the end of the "History of the Lamb" chorus, there should have been about three second pause (no more) and then the Hallelujah Chorus attacked with the utmost of fervor, not a space left in between for about ten or twelve seconds as it was done. However, all are to be praised for their fine individual and collective musical portrayal of this beautiful Oratorio. Mr. Alec Gordon, the accompanying organist, gave an extremely sensitive and carefully molded accompaniment to all members. Elect New Slate of Officers At W.I. Annual Meeting

By MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN

STIRLING — Mrs. E. C. Hayden Ellis was hostess at her home on the bank of the Trent River on Thursday for the annual meeting of River View Women's Institute with an attendance of 31.

Mrs. Ray Tucker opened with "The Mary Stewart Collect" repeated in unison. In her presidential address she said the year had been one of interest in various activities and there have been several good programs as well as social affairs. The new year should be a busy one from first and each group had made a contribution of time and talent, she said. She added that River Valley Institute is very much alive to the needs of the organization, and every member should be proud to belong to River Valley W.I.

Mrs. George Hessman gave her financial report with receipts and expenses.

GAVE VARIED RECEIPTS

During the year the total receipts amounted to $1,380, and this included funds from catering for the Progressive Conservative rally; tea and a bake sale; a bowe'en pie social, a small sale of sprouts, and another of plants and cuttings at the Gifford sale; a profit on souvenir spoons, and from the district annual in May, 1959, sale of two quilts, donations, and collections. Net proceeds from the euchre parties amounted to $131.

The Institute also has on hand for April the money realized from the one-act evening play at the lodge hall, the last euchre and five hundred party on April 1st, and two more donations.

Seventeen members paid their fees at this April meeting and two life members were in attendance.

Total expenses for the year amounted to $1,324. This included over $722 paid on the new building and the school house, gifts to various charitable funds; the River Valley school children, expenses to the area convention, cancer flowers, officers' banquet, flums; insurance, repair of card tables, printing of programs, advertising Stirling Fair Board, the F.W.I.O. World Refugee Fund, and Adelaide Hoodless Museum, gifts of two magazines to the "Goodship Ina Institute" in England, membership in Hastings County Historical Society and a subscription to the A.C.W.W. magazine, "The Countrywoman", girls club work, pooling fees and the Guelph conference fees, special caretaking expenses, gifts to guests speakers and miscellaneous items; also prizes for the health posters winners on Children's Day. There are still a few accounts that have been laid over until May to be paid then.

It has been a year of activity and co-operation, although there was a very small bank balance at the close of the year.

PLAN 50TH ANNIV ERSARY

Some discussion was held regarding the Institute's 50th anniversary to be held Monday, May 23rd. A few replies have been received; also special invitations. The offer by two members to make and decorate a tiered anniversary cake, was accepted. Invitations have been sent out to the older members and past officers and to the four branch institutes. Any former member living in the Stirling area is very welcome to attend the anniversary party so please accept this as your invitation.

The president gave a resume of the March activities and expressed thanks to those who donated prizes, coffee and food also to the two groups who contributed the potluck supper and program.

Mrs. George Hessman, leader of the Girls' Club, gave a resume of the meetings held to date.

The district director, Mrs. Percy MacMullen, reported the district executive meeting held in Belleville, and outlined the plans she had arranged. West Hastings District Annual will be held on Thursday, May 12th, in Scotts United Church with the morning session commencing at 9.30 a.m. The Unionville branch will serve a 75-cent salad plate luncheon. Each branch is to discuss the scholarship fund prior to the annual meeting.

Plans for the centennial tray to be framed are to be completed by the president and past president. Anyone having clear negatives of centennial pictures is asked to leave them with Mrs. R. Tucker, Mrs. Percy Ostrom or Mrs. Ross Bush, at an early date. Those in charge will then decide which are most suitable to put in the frame. The secretary was thanked for a letter of appreciation received.

COMMITTEE REPORTS GIVEN

Mrs. Ernest Carr, citizenship, agriculture and Canadian industries reported three meetings, the topics of which included "Springtime in the Country," "Propagating Our Plants," and "A Trip to Newfoundland." This group convened two barn sales and the September meeting when other institutes were entertained.

Mrs. Glenn Bush, chairman of citizenship and education, reported two meetings based on further education along interpersonal and A.C.W.W. lines; a social contest on cities and towns of Ontario; an afternoon on the theme, "Getting Acquainted With Our Tweedsmuir Village." This group convened the March 1959 annual banquet and the Hallowe'en pie social.

Mrs. Allen McDonnell, the chairman of home economics and health, reported arrangements for the Children's Day last July, and in November, Hallowe'en and Christmas items were sold. Fancy quilts were exhibited by this group set the tables for the March banquet. She read a farm accident survey for Ontario when there were 1,850 accidents on farms, 225 of which were fatal. The institute donated prizes for the children's health posters in July.

Mrs. Jack Bush, chairman of historical research and current affairs, reported three meetings held. The subjects were Current Events that Affect Our Modern Lives," "An Old-Fashioned Christmas Program," and "Canadian Composers participating, and a special historical program. This group cleaned the school kitchen this morning and they catered for the Gifford sale and also were responsible for the program for the March banquet. Also this group have they sponsored a donation of candles for the kitchen and their prize was a pendant an electric clock.

Mrs. Ralph Ulman reported no resolutions made for this past year.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, press, friendship link and public relations chairman, reported 49 articles in the paid corner of the Stirling News Argus. She sent in accounts of 12 regular meetings, 15 euchre parties, Hallowe'en pie social, district annual, and March social evening, a total of 126 reports in two newspapers. She also forwarded letters of announcements and items re F.W.I.O. and A.C.W.W. papers, friendship link news, quilting.

The public relation report tabulated two charitable donations, two educational, several miscellaneous and four F.W.I.O. and F.W.I.C. projects besides the work in the Valley accomplished. She has forwarded clippings of meetings, copies of newspaper printed programs four items and Country magazines, several letters and cards, to the "friendship link Institute" at Abbots Leigh in England. She forwarded the two magazines for River Valley. In closing she read a letter of thanks which Miss Hay-Ellis had received from Mrs. Marjorie Parker of Bristol, England, for magazines sent.

The secretary then presented her report and said the average attendance was 18 and there were 41 members. Three members attended all meetings during the year — the president, secretary and public relations representative.

Mrs. Claude Tucker read an appropriate poem entitled, "Just A Moment," which stressed how easy it is to send a bit of cheer to others.

INSTALLS NEW SLATE

Mrs. Harry Morrow was in charge of the election of officers and then installed the new slate. She read the summary of the aims and objectives which stress greater home efficiency, to stimulate and train leadership, develop more abundant life in rural communities and above all to develop happier and more useful citizens.

The members were reminded that Women's Institute work not only comprises a unit in the community, but also is a large sphere of activity — West Hastings District, Trent Valley area, F.W.I.O., F.W.I.C., and A.C.W.W.

The re-elected president, Mrs. Roy Tucker, welcomed back the old and new officers and said careful preparation was essential in making good plans for the coming year. She read a worthwhile poem, "A Happy Smile at Mealtime."

Some new business was discussed. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ralph Ulman, Englehart. Seventeen members paid their dues.

The hostess and lunch conveners served a delicious supper after which Mrs. Percy Craig-head expressed thanks for hospitality, refreshments and program.

QUESTION BOX

Question: Is there any way that one can feel at ease when meeting adults about whom one knows nothing? More specifically, is there any way a girl can know whether or not the first time she is with the parents of her boy friend, especially if they are rather reserved, almost to the point of giving you the impression they are not glad to see you are?

Answer: This is a particularly blunt question for you! The adults are the ones who should keep the conversation going. If they don't, talk about some of the fun you and their son have had together, about something that is making headlines in the news, or about your special interests in school. If they have any blindness in their hearts at all, they should certainly loosen up and help you along!

Question: I am about to ask a friend of mine, who lives in another city, to visit me. Is it all right to write and ask her, to set the length of time she would be due me, or should I just be as long as I could manage to have her, but I am afraid I would be a bit blushing to ask?

Answer: Not at all. It makes it easier on both sides if you set the time. When you write, give the date you would like to have her arrive and then say for how long she can stay for a week. She would be the one who is rude, if she stayed any longer.

Question: I am sixteen years old, and I wish you would help me with something that causes trouble with my mother. When I receive letters from my friends, mother feels that she has a perfect right to open them. However, isn't anything in the letters that I don't want her to see. It's just a principle of the thing. I feel that I have a right to open my own mail, and share it with my mother if I want to. She says definitely not. What do you think?

Answer: I think your mother is going to have to lose. It is the right of all of us to open letters that are addressed to us personally. No other person should have the prerogative. Even if the letter is obviously an advertisement, it should be opened by the addressee. Her anyone else is to open it constitutes a definite infringement upon one's privacy. This is a principle.

Question: When you are invited to a cocktail party, and the hostess on the invitation says six to eight o'clock, is it all right to stay after eight? We are having an argument about this because so many people do stay long after this time, while my husband and I always try to leave around the deadline. If you are having a good time, is it permissible to stay on with the others?

Answer: If the hosts have indicated on their invitation that the party is to end at a certain time, I think the hostess-guest will make it a point to abide by this. I have seen many a "six to eight" party last till the wee small hours, leaving at nine-thirty or even ten o'clock. I think this is taking advantage of hospitality to an unpardonable degree. The unfortunate hosts are placed in a very awkward position. Short of bluntly asking the hangers-on to leave, they have no help left! Note to hosts: one way to avoid the departing guests is to stop all refreshments, both liquid and otherwise. This usually ends these rude people on their way.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and a lawyer. Each article is a summary of a actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Gloria R. — "I don't want anything to do with my father."

Roger D. — They should be reconciled.

Gloria R. — My parents were divorced when I was 4 years old. My father remarried and raised a family. My mother didn't marry again until I was 19 and away at college.

I have had very little contact with my father in these years. I always felt uncomfortable in his home. He took very little interest in me. Now I am about to be married myself and I feel as if I would like to get acquainted with my father. Roger and I are both in the same business and feels it would be beneficial to know him.

I have no desire to give my father the satisfaction of forgiving him. I don't want to feel that I want a thing from him, and I'm hurt that Roger should want to get close to him for the reasons of my feelings. It's all wrong.

Roger D. — If Gloria's father is as bad as she says, he doesn't help or hinder her one anyway. If he isn't we really ought to know it.

I don't see the way things look that isn't my main motive in urging Gloria to contact her father. She always spoke bitterly about her father and I told her she should let him explain, not knowing the whole story. That made her very angry.

The other reason I would like to reconcile Gloria with her father is that she'll find that her home life has been very unhappy. Gloria's mother is a disagreement because they say Gloria has been spoiled and embittered by her mother. I want to show them she can change in some ways.

The Council: Certainly it is laudable to reconcile those who should love one another. Yet we think Roger has been too hasty in involving himself in deep matters and his motives are somewhat suspect.

We are not referring merely to the business benefits he frankly confesses he hopes to gain through this contact. An equally poor motive is his desire to change his fiancee and prove something to his parents.

At this point in their relationship, Gloria's concern should not be the happiness of his fiancee. The fact that he seems to have a number of other fish to fry gives the relationship a rather shaky quality.

There is little doubt that Gloria would be a happier person and more capable of a good marital relationship if she could get over her bitterness against her father. But she can't be pushed into a reconciliation. That would have to come out of her own deepest feelings and unless it does, it won't mean very much. Sometimes women in Gloria's situation find they have an estranged parent after they have found satisfaction in married life. A child estranged from a parent is likely to project all the ills onto parents. When he finds acceptance to love he is more at peace with himself and is less likely to air his warm feelings to those around him.

Gloria can't enjoy that sense of security being loved as long as her face shows so want to change her basic feelings and is unwilling to admit and explore her on a matter that ordinarily she would discuss with her love. We think Roger should stop out of this area until Gloria asks for his opinion.

Sea Scallops Delicious for Lenten Season

A good supply of frozen sea scallops will be available during the Lenten season, according to information received from federal Department of Fisheries. Because scallops are usually sold in the form of dressed, shucked meat, many people are unaware that they are a shellfish, and also don't know what similar to the clam.

The firm, tender centre meat of the sea scallop is surprisingly low in calories, high in protein, and available when baked, broiled, or fried. Scallops are especially delicious when prepared with other foods in a baked dish.

The home economists of Canada Packers have contributed some suggest the following Sea Tang recipes, one of which for the whole family.

SEA TANG THERMIDOR

1 pound scallops, 4 cups boiling water, 2 tablespoons salt, 1 can (5 ounces) mushrooms, drained, ¼ cup butter, melted, ¼ cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon powdered mustard, Dash cayenne pepper, 2 cups milk, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, Grated cheese, Paprika.

Thaw frozen scallops. Rinse well to remove any grit. Place in boiling water to which 2 tablespoons salt has been added. Bring to simmering temperature and simmer 5 to 7 minutes. Drain. Fry mushrooms in butter for 5 minutes. Blend in flour and seasonings. Add milk gradually and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add scallops and parsley. Place in 4 well-greased, baking shells or 8-ounce custard cups. Sprinkle with cheese and paprika. Bake in a slow oven, 300 degrees F.) for about 10 minutes or until cheese browns. Makes 6 servings.

All of the amounts given here are for making dainty sandwiches for a tea or reception.

TEA SANDWICHES

When estimating requirements for mixed receptions and parties, allow 3 slices bread or 3 to 4 small sandwiches per person. For ladies' tea parties and showers, etc., allow 1 to 1¼ slices bread or 2 to 3 small sandwiches per person.

BREAD

(Amount) A 24-ounce loaf will cut into 38 to 42 ¼" slices and will serve 24 to 26 ladies.

Butter should be soft. Allow ½ to 1 teaspoon butter per slice of bread when crusts are to be left on but only ½ to ¾ teaspoon when crusts are to be removed. (1 pound butter contains 96 teaspoons or 32 tablespoons or 1⅓ ounces.) Example: For regular sliced loaf containing 20 slices allow 15 to 20 teaspoons (1¼ to 1⅔ ounces) butter when crusts are to be left on but only 10 to 15 teaspoons (⅔ to 1¼ ounces) when crusts are to be removed.

FILLING

For one 24-ounce loaf allow: ½ cups (1¼) finely sliced meat, chicken or fish spread (1 pound raw chicken including bone yields about 1 cup diced cooked chicken) or 1 dozen hard-cooked eggs for egg salad filling or 2 cucumbers (approximately 10 ounces each) for slicing to make 5 or 1 to 1¼ pounds thinly sliced meat, cheese or 3 to 3 ounces pressed luncheon meat, 1 can (7 oz.) soft cheese and 1 medium-head lettuce.

BREAD

(Varieties) Plain Breads — white, whole wheat, cracked wheat, rye, pumpernickel, or good with most every kind of filling.

Unemployment Insurance Facts

In this column are published questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you:

Q. I have been working for nearly a year and a half in a grocery store but am not paying unemployment insurance although I would like to do so. My employer says he has never paid contributions on behalf of women employees and doesn't intend to start. Can he dismiss me to hire another to whom he will not have to pay contributions?

A. There does not appear to be any reason why your employer should not be paying unemployment insurance contributions on your behalf. You should report the matter to the local office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission which serves the area in which you reside.

Q. I am a middle-aged single woman and I have never drawn benefits. I have worked 15 years, the last four at a fixed salary of $2,500. To what rate of benefit am I entitled? How long may I draw benefits if I am unemployed in the future?

A. Your rate of benefit would be based on your most recent 30 contributions (those within the 104-week period immediately prior to your claim. If all of these contributions are on the weekly equivalent of a salary of $2,500 per year, your benefit rate would be $19 per week. The duration of your benefit would be calculated on a basis of one week's benefit for every two contribution weeks made during this 104-week period, but in any event a benefit period cannot exceed 52 weeks.

Q. I received regular benefits last year and this year I have 24 contributions. Can I receive seasonal benefits for last year before using my last contributions?

A. No. A seasonal benefit period may be established only for a claimant who is unable to fulfil the qualifying conditions for regular benefit.

Q. Is a farmer allowed to give stamps to a man who builds a barn for him? Also, is a man who hires somebody to cut wood for the market allowed to give stamps?

A. Under certain circumstances a farmer is required to pay unemployment insurance for persons employed by him to build a barn or cut wood. For a precise answer in any specific case you should consult officials of the local office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission serving the area in which you reside.

Q. I am a truck driver. I would like to know whether I am entitled to unemployment insurance. In the summer I work with my truck for International — and in the winter I work with my tractor.

A. Employment as a truck driver in which you own and use your own truck is not insurable. However, if you have obtained sufficient unemployment insurance contributions from other insurable employment to qualify for benefit, and you are now unemployed and able to fulfill all the conditions for entitlement to benefit, you may be paid benefit for periods of proven entitlement.

Q. I receive benefits. I am a married woman with seven children and I employ a domestic. I could work two or three hours a day at 50 cent an hour. Would this influence my benefits?

A. If you are only able to work two or three hours a day your availability would appear to be too restricted to meet the requirements of the Act and there is a question of your entitlement to benefit. You should, therefore, consult your local office.

Q. While I was away from town recently someone applied for and received benefit in my name. I reported this to the UIC and they sent the RCMP to see me. Why is the investigation not handled by the enforcement branch of the UIC?

A. The enforcement branch of the UIC is not a police force. Matters such as theft, forgery and impersonation are criminal offences and as such must be handled by authorities who are fully qualified to handle this type of work. The UIC, naturally, co-operates with the RCMP or other police agencies in handling investigation in these categories.

Q. Why are we, the claimants, penalized for drawing unemployment Insurance benefits falsely when part of it is money paid into the fund out of our wayes?

A. Unemployment Insurance, like any other insurance, was established to provide a form of protection. Penalties are provided for deliberate misrepresentation to protect and maintain the fund for the purpose it was intended to serve. Punitive action is determined according to the seriousness of the offence and may result in either prosecution or a disqualification against further benefit.

Heart Disease Is Hereditary Says Doctor

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. Harold E. Pomerantz of Montreal's Jewish General Hospital says the conditions which cause coronary heart disease are hereditary and can be identified and treated early.

Basing his conclusions on a study of 152 heart disease patients aged 34 to 45, he said nearly two-thirds of the group had a family history of hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure, diabetes and coronary heart disease itself.

This was a significantly higher percentage than that found in a control group of non-heart disease persons of similar age and background.

From this and other evidence Dr. Pomerantz told the Star he was led to believe coronary heart disease is a hereditary or constitutional disease. A high blood fat level, high blood pressure, diabetes or a "vascular defect" which makes arteries harden is passed on by parents to their children and leads to the premature hardening of arteries which produces coronaries.

Dr. Pomerantz said modern drugs could control diabetes, modify some high blood pressure and lower the blood fat level—along with a special diet—but to control the conditions which produced coronaries if they were detected early.

SUCCESSFUL TRAPPER — Trapper Lucien Dsoust, 24, has built up a successful trapping trade in the French River district of Ontario, 35 miles south of Sudbury. He is shown here with two wolves he snared in his trapline, a 525 bounty each. Father of three children, Mr. Dsoust also traps beaver, mink, muskrats, foxes and racoons. In three years he has trapped about 900 beaver. (CP Photo).

TEEN-AGE BUSINESS — Gladys Lapierre displays some of the products made by teen-age companies in Windsor, Ont., under the Junior Achievements Incorporated plan. The plan, sponsored by industrial groups which lend adult advisers to each miniature company, gives Canadian high school students practical experience in operating a business. More than 1,000 students in Vancouver, New Westminster, B.C., Calgary and Windsor are currently running 62 enterprises. Other cities are interested in establishing similar teen-age companies. High School Students Get First-Hand Experience in Operating Own Business

By STAN ADLAM
Canadian Press Staff Writer

More than 1,000 Canadian high school students will get first-hand experience as business executives—head fall for running about 60 business enterprises.

They'll be out to make a profit—in experience if not in cash—on sale of items ranging from hamburger presses to dog repellents.

The venture is Junior Achievement Incorporated started 15 years ago in the United States and now grown to 75,000 teen-age participants and 14,000 sponsoring groups in the U.S. and Canada.

Students in four Canadian cities—Vancouver, New Westminster, B.C., Calgary and Windsor, Ont.—will choose their own type of business under supervision of an adult advisory committee, and handle their own production, advertising and sales. Students in many other communities are interested in forming similar plans.

TYPICAL OPERATION

Each sponsoring firm seeds three advisers for each miniature company they agree to establish. The advisers themselves are given training individually and collectively, by an executive director of Junior Achievement and then are assigned to supervisory posts in production, sales and business aspects of the enterprise.

The student enterprises are financed at the outset by donations of businessmen in the area, but after that the students have a free hand. The companies are organized by the issuing of stock, selling at 50 cents a share, with a limit of five shares to a customer.

An executive board of students is appointed by the advisers, and most of them become involved in every phase of the company's operation, from making the product to selling it.

Students work at their business one night a week, from October to mid-May, when it is liquidated and profits, if any, are turned over to stockholders.

THRIVING GROUP

The Vancouver Junior Achievement organization, first to be established in Canada, was instituted mainly by Ralph Baker, president of Standard Oil of British Columbia. It now has 21 companies manned by 200 students.

All but one of these firms manufacture items ranging from hamburger presses and fireplace pads to seat slats and feed boxes. The exception is a Bank of Progress which provides loans for the other businesses.

Student interest has become so great that last year 180 applicants for participation in Vancouver Student Achievement firms were turned down because there were not enough sponsoring companies.

New Westminster, whose organization was founded in 1958, now has six companies in operation with about 100 students involved and is expanding. Chief items of manufacture include plaster figurines and planter boxes.

Interest in Junior Achievement activities has been shown in Prince George, Prince Rupert, Trail and Victoria where the Junior Chamber of Commerce is working on plans to open branch.

GOOD SUPPORT

In Windsor, whose Junior Achievement association was founded in 1958 by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and about 60 businessmen, a campaign raised $20,000 from business and private donors within a few months.

Headquarters for the organization was found in a city-owned building and the city also helped out through a sub-rate rent. The venture began with 17 miniature companies and has grown to 20. This year 550 students applied but 150 were rejected because of lack of accommodation.

Last year, 17 of the 19 Windsor firms turned in a profit, one broke even and one went bankrupt. Best record for the year was turned in by a Chrysler Corporation of Canada group which found the best customer for its desk sets in Ford of Canada, which bought 100 of them for presentation to long-service employees.

The year's only financial disaster occurred when the public showed complete disinterest in wooden knife-holders. Products in Windsor range from hot dog skewers to dog repellents—a gestation preparation designed to keep dogs away from shrubs.

In Calgary, latest of the four cities to join, about 200 businessmen and executives have agreed to donate $19,500 to establish 15 firms this fall.

Light manufacturing, of such items as lamps, coasters and lawn furniture, is planned. Accounting, banking and publishing firms are also being considered. One group of girls is thinking of setting up a modelling agency.

Other Canadian cities where establishment of Junior Achievement groups is being considered include Montreal and four Ontario centres — Toronto, Brantford, Guelph and St. Catharines.

Experience in centres where the student groups have been organized has shown that about 80 per cent of the companies show a profit, 10 per cent break even, and 10 per cent show a loss. 1956.

Band of Horses Covered With Curly Hair

PENDLETON, Ore. (AP) — A band of horses literally covered from ear to hoof with curls is yielding a new breed of horse—the Pendleton.

C. A. "Bus" Wolf said today he first noticed the curly animals 15 years ago running wild in the remote Blue Mountains of eastern Oregon.

Wolf said he and a neighbor, Virgil Brunson, caught a stallion and a couple of mares and are raising curly foals.

The animals are about the size of a large Shetland.

They are covered with about one inch of curly hair the year around. The Appaloosa horse has a curly mane and tail, but nothing like these animals, an observer said.

Wolf said the animals are a cross-breed from thoroughbred, Apaloosa and cayuse.

Political Revolution Sweeps Down Face of African Land Mass Against White Bastions

By LYNN HEINZERLING

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—The murmured saga of the white man in Africa is unfolding towards its climax at a bewildering, breakneck pace.

The political revolution sweeping down the face of the huge African land mass now is washing with violence and bloodshed against the final bastions of the white masters in the lower third of the continent.

Only 10 years ago these countries in the south—South Africa, Angola, Mozambique, Rhodesia, Nyasaland and the Belgian Congo—were considered invulnerable to the political changes taking place to the north.

Not now their destiny is uncertain.

The Congo becomes independent June 30. The British protectorates of Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland are as good as lost ot white domination. Reports of unrest trickle out of Portuguese Angola and Mozambique.

And in South Africa all but the most bitter - end observers of Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd are raising serious doubts about the wisdom of the government's harsh apartheid policies.

Those segregation policies and the Negro protest against them are creating a bloody legacy which may never be erased. A flood of protest from around the world followed the recent violent episode at Sharpeville, where 70 to 80 persons were killed and nearly 200 wounded when a police garrison fired on a crowd of Negroes demonstrating against the South African pass laws.

Then came a wave of incidents marked the Negroes' "day of mourning" work stoppage called in tribute to the dead at Sharpeville. The South African government struck back with widespread arrests of all who might be spreading leadership for rebellious elements. This set off still more demonstrations, the largest one in Capetown where 30,000 Negroes massed before a police station to demand release of their leaders. In town after town there were mob riots, stonings, burning, hatred, death.

The momentum achieved by the violence sent a shudder through South Africa. The white man has been here in the role of master to servant for more than three centuries, but now parents wonder about the future of their children.

Tradition and the law have kept the races in South Africa a world apart. A Negro may not remain in a town more than 72 hours unless he was born there or has 15 years continuous residence or 10 years of unbroken employment there. Negro servants never live in their employers' homes. White doors are locked and burglar alarms are turned on each night.

The South African economy the most advanced on the continent, is built on apartheid. The rich gold mines and industrial plants are manned by Negro workmen on wages far below the scale white workers would accept. It is illegal for Negroes to strike.

Late last month—while the government mobilized reserves and declared a state of emergency in many parts of the country—Parliament was buying arms created a run on gun shops. Police armed with machine - guns patrolled Negro townships in armored cars.

Although the future of South Africa have an overwhelming population edge—about 10,000,000 against some 3,000,000 whites and 1,500,000 Indians and coloreds (people of mixed races)—the chief political organ, the African National Congress, has been weak and inefficient. Its leader, former Zulu chief Albert Luthuli, is an intellectual who preaches multi-racialism and a moderate approach to the problem. He has been jailed.

Despite their weakness politically, the recent cries of "freedom" and "independence" ringing out to the north have found a response in a militant offshoot of Luthuli's organization called the Pan-Africanist Congress.

Its leader, Mangaliso Sobukwe, now also under arrest, was once a lecturer at Witwatersrand University. He has attacked the denial of votes for Negroes by 1936. He campaigned for the abolition of South Africa's pass laws.

The obvious inequities of apartheid in the 20th century has brought about some profound understanding in South Africa. Afrikaner intellectuals, acquiescent in the past, now are openly questioning the government's course. The recent bloodshed moved Jagie Basson, long-time member of Verwoerd's National party but recently expelled, to say: "Apartheid has gone mad."

South Africans have watched with apprehension as the flame of nationalism has spread from West to East to the states to the north. They listened uneasily when Kenya's smooth-talking 38-year-old Tom Mboya said:

"There is no future here for anyone who believes in European supremacy. We believe strongly that these Europeans who are hesitant to accept independence have only one alternative—sell out and leave."

Mboya had just returned from constitutional talks in London where he had won concessions that will give a greater voice in the Kenya government and a virtual promise that a Negro government would be ruling the 35,000 whites and 6,000,000 Negroes within a few years.

Little more than a year ago the Belgian Congo, nearly twice the size of South Africa, was regarded as one of the most tranquil.

In January of last year riots erupted in Leopoldville and next June the Congo's 13,000,000 natives, with only a handful of university graduates among them, are to be free.

The only training Joseph Kasavubu, the leading Congo politician, has had is one term as mayor of his commune in Leopoldville.

In neighboring Ruanda-Urundi, a Belgian trust territory, the big worry a few years ago was the excessive number of cows, cherished by the tall, slender Watutsi tribesmen as a sign of wealth.

More than 300 Negroes were killed there in riots last November. Now the streets of Usumbura are guarded by riot troops and demonstrators agitate for independence by June 31.

The Black Africans who were lumped into the background of the continent's history for centuries now are writing the history.

They may not know how to float a loan, build a railroad or farm their vast lands efficiently, but they are riding what Britain's Prime Minister MacMillan calls "the wind of change," and they know it.

But, someone will point out, Kwame Nkrumah had no particular training for his job as prime minister of Ghana, and that West African state, independent since 1957, is more or less the showpiece of the African revolution.

Its cocoa crop gets harvested. Accra, the capital, is slowly getting its talks in London, city. A tremendous harbor is being built. The Volta river is being surveyed for a huge hydro-electric project.

But Ghana also illustrates some of the fears raised by the swift transformation of the continent. Opposition leaders are jailed under preventive arrest and Nkrumah says his Convention Peoples party "is the government, and the government is the party."

Justice Minister Says Recent Action Aimed at Agitators Trying to Enforce Boycott

By ADRIAN PORTER

CAPETOWN (AP)—The South African government claims Negro intimidators have beaten the feet and hands of law-abiding Negroes until they were unable to move or work.

Justice Minister Francois Erasmus told a press conference Monday that the recent police action was aimed at agitators trying to enforce work boycotts in the campaign against South Africa's racial laws.

Erasmus said many of the victims of intimidation "today are on crutches and using sticks."

He said intimidators stood on street corners and made the sign of slitting throats when any Negro was seen going to work. This meant, the minister declared, that the workers would be beaten up when they returned home.

He said intimidators threatened to burn down the homes of workers and the factories of employers, pulled workers off buses and trains and searched Negroes for their passes.

TAKING ACTION

"We are taking action against intimidators. We are prepared to do the same thing, we are for strict Africans to develop along their own lines and like their own societies. The bulk of Africans are being intimidated and we are determined to establish law and order."

Asked about reports of police abuses in enforcing the law requiring non - whites to carry passes, he said the police have been ordered to give Negroes a chance to get their pass books if they do not have them when stopped by police.

"You must not judge the whole police force by the actions of a few individuals," said Erasmus, when a reporter cited instances even after telling police they had passes and were being refused a chance to show them.

Erasmus said many Negroes had been forced to destroy their passes by Negro political leaders who had in fact kept their own or only burned the covers.

RED INFLUENCE

At the same press conference Foreign Minister Eric Louw brought up the question of Communist influence in South Africa. Saying the now-outlawed African National Congress had active Communists among its leaders, Louw noted that the Moscow newspapers Pravda and Izvestia "recently boasted that Communist policy and work in South Africa had been paying off."

Louw said the anti-apartheid attempt on Prime Minister Verwoerd showed a rise of gangsterism and intimidation. Terrorism was playing a big part in the current troubles.

Fattest Budget In Toronto's History Passed

TORONTO (CP)—A provincial sales tax, a municipal income tax and drastic belt-tightening were proposed Monday as city council passed the fattest budget and highest tax rate in Toronto's history.

Council passed current estimates for 1960 totalling $180,668,179 of which $106,172,900 must be raised by taxation. The increase is $6,547,826 over 1959 requirements.

The residential mill rate was formally struck at 58.1 mills, 2.1 mills higher than last year.

Controller Mrs. Jean Newman said she would ask board of control to discuss with Premier Frost a five-per-cent province - wide sales tax.

"Sooner or later we are going to have to have this if we cannot get higher provincial grants for education," she said. More than $42,872,000 of Toronto's 1960 tax revenues are slated for education costs.

Alderman Francis Chambers said he thought it was time to discuss with the Ontario government the possibility of a Metro-wide municipal income tax.

Controller William Allen said sales or income taxes would be unworkable, unfair, inequitable and costly. He said there was only one certain way of freeing taxes—stop over-spending.

Mr. Allen said the future of Toronto "looks very attractive and frightening picture. The city's capital debt was about $27,000,000 in 1957. By the end of 1959 it had climber to $40,000,000.

Garden Notes

Dahlias Should Have Early Start

By FLORA M. HAVILLE

About mid-April dahlias should be started into growth to insure early bloom. Plump up the dry and shriveled tubers by placing them in a pail of warm water for three days. Keep them above 50 degrees. If the dry tubers are planted as soil it will take them much longer to absorb enough water to start them into growth. Greenhouse men often spread them out on a bench and spray them several times a day for two or three days instead of soaking them.

When the tubers become plump it is easy to see the dead and decayed portions and to cut them away with a clean sharp knife. Allow to dry for a little time then dust the cut surface with equal parts of ground lime and sulphur.

Separate the tubers if they are still in clumps. Be sure to have a piece of the neck of the tuber in each section, also a part of the old stem, which should be cut back almost to the eye finally part. It is here that the new sprouts start. Dust with hormone rooting powder and plant in sterile medium. This may be sterile soil, sand, leaf mold, peat or sphagnum moss or vermiculite or any mixture you choose. Any of these will hold the moisture and start the roots and leaf sprouts. Set in a light place and have temperatures around 60 or 70 degrees.

CAN TAKE CUTTINGS

If you have a rare or special dahlia and wish to increase your plants you can take cuttings. Wait until the new shoots are three and a half inches high. Cut off the top three inches, leaving the lower two nodes these will send out new growth. Trim off the two lower leaves, dip the cutting in water and dust with root hormone powder. Use a sterile potting mixture such as sand and peat, or vermiculite. A four inch pot will take four cuttings. Have the soil damp and make a hole with a pencil, put in the cutting and firm the soil around it. Label and date the pot. Set in a good light and keep barely moist. In three weeks they will have rooted and be ready for transplanting to larger pots.

These plants will be a month door to disease.

"Just a Second"

"It's you and Dad who are to blame for our disobedience, because you won't let us do as we like."

or more later in blooming but if started early they will make sturdy plants and new tubers. As a rule they are not as sturdy as those grown directly on the tuber.

When ready to plant out, plant a short stake near the tuber or replace this with a large one when the plants grow tall enough to require staking. Stakes driven in blindly often damage the tuber and open the

Seaway's First Year Proved Economic Value to Canada And U.S. Says Administrator

WASHINGTON, (CP)— Canada Lake Ontario to Montreal—in 1959 got 73 cents of every dollar earned by the St. Lawrence Seaway during 1959 while the United States got the remaining 27 cents, Congress was told Monday.

The seaway's first year of operations proved its economic value both to the U.S. and Canada and "its success from a financial point of view seems reasonably assured," said Lewis B. Castle, administrator of the U.S. St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation, in his annual report.

He predicted traffic would more than double during the first 10 years of operation. But in the meantime "revenues might not be sufficient to meet even the annual financial requirements."

His estimate of the 1960 apportionment of revenues on a 73-27 basis includes Welland Canal tolls which go entirely to Canada.

The apportionment is worked out on the basis of a joint Canada-U.S. agreement of the estimated $142,000,000 cost of the seaway. Canada is putting up $101,000,000 or 70 per cent while the U.S. is putting up $131,000,000. In addition Canada is financing Welland Canal improvements estimated to cost about $30,000,000.

Reporting on the seaway from a U.S. viewpoint, Castle said:

"Traffic on the St. Lawrence-River section of the seaway—tonnage originating in Montreal—in 1959 was 41 per cent of the traffic expected to be reached by 1970. The future build-up of traffic on the seaway is expected to be gradual.

"The first 10 years of operation are considered to be a developmental period during which the revenues should meet all out-of-pocket expenses for operations but only a part of the debt-service charges, that is, the payment of interest and principal.

"Any interest that is deferred during the developmental period is expected to be earned and paid as increased traffic generates more revenue. Under this plan, tolls are averaged within wide range of prospective revenue and the rate users of the seaway are not penalized because the seaway is not being used to capacity."

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)— An economist for the Association of American Railroads in testimony Monday that tolls on the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Seaway system are too low and must be made more realistic.

Dr. Bernard M. Behling of Washington told the annual Syracuse transportation conference at Syracuse University:

"Unless the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence is to be built to all its parts is a fully self-supporting transportation facility, with an element of subsidy to the users, it cannot properly contribute to the true economy."

Herter Convinced Russia Dragging Feet in Negotiations

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

State Secretary Herter is convinced the Russians are deliberately dragging their feet at the Geneva 10-power disarmament negotiations.

He believes this stalling is designed to give Soviet Premier Khrushchev an opportunity to air some new disarmament idea at the East-West summit conference which opens at Paris May 16.

Herter's aide say this conviction remains although there is evidence of embarrassing internal dissenions and basic conflict of view between the secretary and his chief disarmament negotiator or as to the reasons behind the agreed-upon six-week recess in disarmament negotiations.

The conflict and irresolution-as may raise grave misgivings among the small Western powers which look to the U. S. for Western leadership in strengthening prospects for world security. Is there in fact any strong central U. S. policy on disarmament and how great a battle is there control over administration of U. S. foreign policy?

Last Friday Herter told a press conference the Russians were seeking a long recess from the Geneva negotiations which opened last March 15. He suggested a Soviet stall at Geneva was designed to give Khrushchev an disarmament platform at Paris. He made clear also that while he wouldn't mind a short recess he was opposed to a long one.

The next day Herter found himself in an embarrassing posi-

Port Arthur Member Urged To Forget Narrow-Mindedness

OTTAWA (CP)— Theogene Ricard (PC — Vaudreuil-Soulanges) appealed Monday to Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur) to "forget his narrow-mindedness" with regard to Quebec's French-speaking Canadians.

In the Commons budget debate he read a newspaper report of a speech by Anglican Archbishop William Carrington of Quebec at the 1958 Lambeth conference in London. It quoted him as saying the Anglican minority in Quebec had always been well treated by the Roman Catholic clergy and the provincial authorities.

"Any reasonable persons not blinded by prejudice" would realize that such a situation could not occur "under a dictatorship as was mentioned in the House," Mr. Ricard said. Then he made a fervent appeal to the member from Port Arthur" to understand the position of French-speaking Canadians. Fisher was not in the House.

Mr. Fisher said in a Commons speech April 1 that French-speaking Quebecers appeared to have a "superiority complex of Canadianism."

MARTIN QUIZZED

Mr. Ricard was followed in the debate by Murdo Martin (CCF—Timmins), who prefaced his attack on the budget by speaking a few minutes in French.

Mr. Martin was asked by Louis-Joseph Pigeon (PC — Joliette-Rawdon) to translate his remarks for subscribed to Mr. Fisher's report on French Canada.

The CCF MP replied that Mr. Fisher's statements had been distorted "more than likely" by persons allotted in the newspapers "a long, long time."

"It is unfortunate that extremists on both sides should take a position which is more like the attack it around to the detriment of the country," he added.

In the budget debate, Martin said that "stripped of the double talk, it is nothing more than a dismal and abject confession of failure."

Canada did not even reconcile, let alone grapple with, the five great problems facing Canada—inadequate educational facilities, unemployment, slums, inadequate housing and poverty.

Mr. Martin criticized Immigration Minister Fairclough over the fact that advertisements have appeared in British newspapers promoting immigration to Canada even while there were 700,000 unemployed.

He quoted from an ad in the Birmingham Mail Jan. 27 headed: Canada needs immigrants.

"What this immigration policy is doing is just confounding the position of the minister of labor," he said.

Otto J. Godin (L — Nickel Belt) said the Conservatives could have kept their promises to reduce the tax load by permitting taxpayers to deduct their municipal tax payments for income tax purposes.

Mr. Fleming realizes the $12,000,000 surplus he has forecast for 1960-61, it will be because the government didn't keep its promise to boost veterans pensions.

SCARLET FEVER DEATH

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Oliver Hubert Ormond, 49, of nearby Byron, became London's second scarlet fever fatality this year. Dr. J. R. C. Robinson, coroner, said Mr. Ormond had been ill at home for more than a week and had received no medical treatment before arriving at Victoria Hospital Saturday night. His illness was complicated by a severe diabetic condition.

Anglican Archbishop Calls On Dutch Reformed Church to Repudiate Racial Segregation

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — The Most Rev. Ambrose Reeves, Anglican Archbishop of Johannesburg, South African city, an outspoken critic of South Africa's racial laws, has called on the Dutch Reformed Church to repudiate compulsory racial segregation.

If the Dutch Reformed Churches don't do so, Most Rev. Joost de Blank said Monday in Cape Town, "other churches should no longer be associated with them in any council or federation."

The 52-year-old bachelor Anglican bishop has held his post since 1957, asserted that the March 21 clashes between Negroes and police in which more than 70 Negroes were killed "confronted the church in South Africa with the gravest crisis in its history."

"On that day," he said, "the Africans turned against those who have considered it their white oppressors, but also against the Christian church as being identified with them."

In succeeding days "churches were burned, ministers of religion attacked and Christian members of congregations were threatened and accused of betrayal."

"To every African the Dutch Reformed Church is known to be closely associated with the government," he said, adding that many government ministers are known to be members of the Dutch Reformed Church.

"For this reason the future of the Christian faith in South Africa is today so largely in their hands.

"Their identification with the rest of the Christian world at present could give hope for coming days.

"Without such identification the prospect is black indeed."

He said that other churches in South Africa "must make it clear that they have no connection whatsoever with any so-called Christian body that advocates racial discrimination and the suppression of the legitimate aspirations of the weaker races."

He added that the Anglican Church in South Africa "can no longer be linked with the Dutch Reformed Churches in the World Council of Churches" unless:

1. They "have accept the decision of racial discrimination adopted by the World Council of Churches at Evanston, Ill., in 1954.

2. "Openly repudiate the policy of apartheid race segregation and its tragic outworkings" in recent clashes between Negroes and police.

Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd, who was wounded in an assassination attempt Saturday, himself did not witness the alleged occurrences but received information from a third person.

3. "There is no country where press freedom is so strictly observed as in South Africa" suggest you retract the unfounded allegation contained in the concluding paragraph of your telegram.

"Even during a time of emergency when journalists from many countries have swooped on South Africa in search of sensational news and have been abusing the freedom of the press by sending exaggerated and distorted accounts of happenings here, to which I apologize, this is the first press telegram that has been held up and which has been intercepted by postal telegraph authorities and referred to the minister of justice for such action as he might consider necessary."

Louw concluded by saying that a similar state of emergency existed in Canada, "for instance in connection with a nation-wide general strike leading to riots and clashes with police. I am convinced Canadian authorities would act similarly if a foreign journalists were, to send prejudiced distorted reports to his paper for the press purpose of paper for the press purpose of damaging Canada's reputation abroad".

Insurgent Band Bottled up by Castro's Forces

HAVANA (AP)—An insurgent band led by a former Castro officer was reported bottled up in the Sierra Maestra Mountains of eastern Cuba today, but the government refused to talk about it.

Unconfirmed reports said troops and militiamen in Oriente Province were moving in on an encircled group of about 40 guerrillas led by Manuel Beaton, former captain in Fidel Castro's army. Word from these mountains that Castro launched his revolution.

Castro himself, was reported somewhere in the Oriente Mountains today, and there was speculation that he was personally directing the military operation against the guerrillas.

NOBODY TALKING

Military authorities in Havana and officials in Oriente Province said they knew nothing about Beaton or his activities.

The semi-official newspaper Revolucion said Saturday that Beaton was heading a gang of "bandits" in the area.

Another unconfirmed report said a second guerrilla band was roaming the Sierra Cristal, a mountainous area north of Sierra Maestra.

Beaton recently escaped from Havana's La Cabana military fortress, where he had been held since July 1959 on charges of major and two soldiers at the sales of Camp Libertad, outside the capital, several months ago.

Beaton said he was responsible for the shooting, and friends said he had been made a scapegoat.

REJECT U.S. REQUEST

Castro's government meanwhile was rejecting a Washington plea to return two Americans who were held down in Cuba after a sneak flight from Florida. The United States at the same time announced its rejection of requests by Cuban protests on other matters.

At the time the two flyers were arrested Cuba said they were trying to spirit out of the country a former agent of dictator Fulgencio Batista.

U.S. authorities later said, however, that they obtained a statement from one of the Americans, William J. Schergalis, 34, that Castro's regime cooked up the charge to embarrass the U.S.

Cuba's refusal to return the men heightened Washington suspicions on this score.

Freedom of Press Strictly Observed in S.A. Says Louw

CAPETOWN, (CP) — External Affairs Minister Eric Louw said today that South Africa has one of the world where press freedom is strictly observed as in South Africa".

He made the assertion in a letter to the editor of the Globe and Mail, Toronto, signed by J. P. Hogue of Montreal, which he read to the Commons Newspaper Publishers association luncheon Hogue protested by cable Sunday at the attempt by Dr. Hendrik Philips of the Toronto Star, Mr. Louw suggested that Hogue retract the concluding paragraph of his cable.

Hogue's message read:

"I would express concern and alarm over the repeated arrest of an accredited Canadian newspaper man, Norman Phillips.

"Such flagrant disregard for Canada would indicate that Phillips has observed the best traditions of a free press in reporting facts as he has observed term without prejudice.

"His arrest is a startling negation of freedom of reporting as generally understood within the Commonwealth of Nations".

The minister's statement said:

"I, Mr. Phillips was not arrested as alleged but held for questioning under emergency regulations. He will be due course be released from detention and be required to return to Canada.

"2. What ever the content of his previous dispatches to which you refer, I can assure you the dispatch that led to his detention was anything but in "the best traditions of a free press." It was violently prejudiced and contained gross exaggerations and distortions, also untrue statements.

"I note your reference to 'reporting facts as he observed them.' I have to inform you that on Phillips' own admission his lengthy dispatch was telephoned to Toronto from about 900 miles from Capetown," by a journalist who himself did not witness the alleged occurrences but received information from a third person.

"3. There is no country where press freedom is so strictly observed as in South Africa" suggest you retract the unfounded allegation contained in the concluding paragraph of your telegram.

New Violence Erupts in U.S. Southern States

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — New violence has erupted in the southern United States, now in its 10th week of sitdown demonstrations.

A fight, the brandishing of a shovel and the drawing of knives marked protests against segregation in Nashville, Tenn., Monday after nearly 1 the six weeks of calm. Two arrests were made.

The first Negro boycott of white merchants in Mississippi was reported at Jackson. Police and merchants said it fizzled, but a spokesman for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People declared the attempt a 70 per cent effective.

More than 100 Negroes demonstrated at four stores in Concord, N.C., and six of them were arrested. The woman proprietor of a store was charged with assault.

BOYCOTT PLAN?

At Atlanta, Rev. Martin Luther King, a Negro integration leader, said Negro college students from 40 communities where city council to battle racial segregation.

At Nashville a white divinity student picketing with Negroes was struck by a white driver, and both were arrested on disorderly conduct charges. A city employee brandished a shovel at a demonstrator, two white youths hit Negro picketers and a Negro man and a white youth drew knives on each other but were separated.

Earl Admits Putting Bats in Hair of Women

SAXMUNDHAM, Eng. (Reuters)—The Earl of Cranbrook Monday admitted putting bats in the hair of three young women in a London restaurant by placing bats in their hair.

"It was all in the cause of science," he said, "only one bat was present."

Mr. Michael Redmond, president of Britain's mammal society, said he was destroying the legend that bats become hopelessly enmeshed in women's hair.

He invited the long-haired blonde and brunettes one at a time to his mansion here.

"We gave each guest dinner first at a few drinks to break down her natural resistance to bats in the hair," he said, "then, with her permission, of course, I put a bat in her hair and stood back to watch results."

The bats walked about a bit, then carefully climbed to the top of the head and took wing. There was never any danger, as it is supposed, of their being entangled."

The earl reported the results of his experiments to the Suffolk County Naturalists' Society of which he is president.

Did he get bats in his wife's hair, too?

"I never asked my wife," he said. "And she did not volunteer."

Royal Commission Named To Probe Daley Land Deal After Frost Rejects Report

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost surprised the legislature Monday by announcing that a select committee report saying there was no collusion or improper conduct in a 1948 land deal involving his labor minister.

Instead, Mr. Frost named a one - man royal commission to make another inquiry into the transaction.

The committee on legislative privilege had just reported its findings in the purchase by Labor Minister Daley of former Niagara Parks Commission property.

The committee also reported it had voted 3 to 3 against a Liberal opposition amendment to its report saying the land deal smelled of "irregularity" and was of general public because Mr. Daley is a public official.

Rising in the House two hours after the committee reached its decision, Mr. Frost said:

"Where the honor of a minister is at stake it is not good enough for me to have a report backing a committee unanimously in its conclusion."

Observers said the premier established new grounds for appeal by his rejection of the report and the appointment of the royal commission.

He named Judge Ian Macdonell of the York County bench and said his terms of reference would be the same as those for the legislature committee: To examine all aspects of Mr. Daley's purchase of the 40-acre farm.

The labor minister has been under fire since the opposition charges during Ontario's longest legislative session. Conclusion of The session was to end today, the first day of its 12th week.

The premier's decision on Monday's sitting said an investigation into the land purchase by the legislature committee was unsatisfactory.

The committee was originally owned by the Niagara Parks Commission, but Daley, a Toronto garages grocer, was named chairman of the commission. Grocers and merchants said it fizzled, but a spokesman for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People declared the attempt a 70 per cent effective.

The commission sold the land in 1948 to Dr. Catherine Macdonell, Arthur Schmon, president and general manager of Ontario Paper Company Ltd., and Daley bought it from him in 1948.

"Speculation arose that several years ago that there was collusion between the labor minister and Mr. Schmon and Mr. Frost ordered the legislature's committee on privileges and elections to investigate the deal. Mr. Daley seconded the move for the committee investigation called Feb. 18.

Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer said the evidence taken under oath indicated no "collusion, connivance" and he did not believe Mr. Daley had done anything wrong.

"But the purchase created concern in the public mind," he said.

Former Liberal leader Farquhar Oliver said: "We agree there was no evidence of wrongdoing but I suggest the framework was there in which there could have been collusion. No minister of the Crown should put himself in that position."

Leon Frenkel, a member of the one-man royal commission shutoff further debate on the matter. Kenneth Bryden (CCF—Toronto Woodbine) asked whether the judge's terms of reference would be broader than the committee's. He wanted the judge to be able to inquire into the land sale by Mr. Daley of parks commission property to the town, a golf and bowling club and build roads on his property.

The premier said this would be taken care of.

When Mr. Wintermeyer rose to speak, Mr. Frost reminded him the matter was now sub judice and that this prevented further comment.

Mr. Daley has been under fire for his assets.

Last week CCF Leader Donald MacDonald asked for the resignation over the recent North York sewer tunnel fire that killed five men. Another royal commission has been called to investigate the fire and cave-in as a result of the accident.

Earlier in the session a legislature committee has cleared charges against the parks commission. Grocers were exonerated.

Last week James Trotter (L—Toronto Parkdale) claimed the department of education switched plans to build a teachers' college at Welland to St. Catharines as "political payoff."

He said the land at St. Catharines was bought at $3,500 an acre from a former campaign manager of Mr. Daley when land near Welland had been available at $1,000. Mr. Daley denied any knowledge of the transaction.

Supreme Court Ruling on School Debentures Is Called 'Disastrous'

TORONTO (CP)—A Supreme Court of Canada decision that Catholic taxpayers are not obliged to support public schools with the coming Roman Catholic separate school supporters is "disastrous", Dr. Matthew Wilson, chairman of the Ontario Public School Trustees' Association, said Tuesday night.

Dr. Wilson said the Supreme Court ruling affects the security of public school debentures. In a statement issued in Toronto, he said the majority of public school supporters would withdraw and form a separate school leaving a few public school supporters to pay debentures owing.

"In the majority of school districts, there are Catholics on the public school supporters," he said.

"The trouble is," said Mr. Mills, "that in a one-way street A Roman Catholic can leave a public school and can a Protestant do unless he changes his religion."

Public school districts having as many as 25 per cent Roman Catholic supporters in addition will have to think twice before they issue debentures for new schools.

"It was all in the cause of science," he said, "only one bat was present."

Public school districts having as many as 25 per cent Roman Catholic supporters in addition will have to think twice before they issue debentures for new schools.

"A SMALL PART"

Michael Redmond, president of the Ontario Separate School Trustees' Association, said most schools would not be affected because debentures are a small part of the mill rate.

"Many public schools are old and have paid off their debentures," he said, "and would hurt them if some of their supporters left."

The Supreme Court decision said debenture costs must come from all taxpayers and not just public schools. It said if a property owner switches his support he cannot continue to be taxed by a municipality for public school debentures when he was a public school supporter.

ANTI-GAMBLING RAIDS

BUFFALO (AP) — State and local police joined with investigators from the Erie County district attorney's office Monday in raids aimed at numbers racket operators alleged to be doing $2,000,000 annually business. District Attorney Carman F. Ball said he expects 10 or 12 arrests.

Britain Fears Revival of Old Boer Enmity

LONDON (AP) — The British government is reported gravely worried that South Africa's race crisis may take a new turn with a revival of the old conflict between Boer and Briton.

There is a real possibility of a breach among white South Africans following the attempt on Prime Minister Verwoerd's life in Johannesburg Saturday.

The would-be assassin has been identified by Johannesburg police as farmer David Pratt, wealthy, Cambridge-educated and son of a British settler.

In general, the attack on Verwoerd and the shocked condemnation of almost all South African leaders including responsible Dutch-speaking opposition political motive has as yet been ascribed to the assailant.

ANTAGONISM STILL THERE

Nevertheless, British leaders here are all too conscious that the feuding which set the Afrikaner Boers against Britain in the South African war for 1899-1902 still festers just beneath their surface calm.

Right now the main fire and fury in South Africa's race crisis has been generated by the struggle between the 3,000,000 ruling whites and the 12,000,000 Negroes demanding a better deal.

The white supremacy policies of Verwoerd's all-Afrikaner government is backed by most of the country's 1,500,000 speaking citizens—about 40 per cent of the white population, although they don't like his strong-arm methods. The English also oppose the declared republican aims of Verwoerd's men.

WON'T ATTEND

It became known Monday that Verwoerd definitely will not be in attendance at commonwealth prime ministers in May because of his injuries.

The Solunar Tables in Florida

You who read this column no doubt know that we come to the Florida Keys each March and, generally, for the early part of April. We do this for two reasons — health and business. As the years pass, we find that cold winter weather is not kind to older people. By cutting winter short and migrating south into the subtropics, we profit immeasurably from the standpoint of health.

But, actually, health is a lesser reason for our annual trip. Always there is work to be done. Any scientist or physician will tell you that our general fund of known facts is but an infinitesimal part of the total which has yet to be learned. Each new item of learning which comes to light brings with it uncontestable conjectures. Items about which we know little. And this includes, quite naturally, the solunar theory upon which the solunar tables are based.

It was in Florida, way back in 1926, where we had our first inklings of the daily cycle of activity and rest periods among fish and wildlife. From the grandson of a Georgia market hunter came the first hint of the periodic progression of feeding and activity periods, which, for convenience, have since been named solunar periods.

As you know, the warmer latitudes of Florida mark the concentration spots of wildlife during the winter months, notably fish and birds. For this reason, the vast areas of marsh, prairie and swamp which comprise the Everglades, and the waters which surround the Florida Keys make an ideal proving ground in which to study the rhythmic behavior of wildlife. Here it is that we find a wealth of material for study and about which to write.

"NORTHERN NONSENCE"

Back in 1948 we first introduced the solunar tables to the bonefish guides of the Keys. The great majority of these are southerners, born and reared in Florida or south Georgia. They knew then, as they do now, that there were, and are, unexplained periods of activity among the game fish which supply the angling sport that their customers enjoy and pay for. But the fact that the explanation (partial, to be sure) of this cycle came from a Yankee was a rather bitter pill to swallow. They had no hesitation in branding the solunar tables as so much northern nonsense.

Time went on. Gradually the guides have come around to our way of thinking. Of course, there are still some hold-outs, but generally the guides admit that the solunar tables do have some virtue.

The other evening, at the Islamorada Fishing Club, an attractive young matron came to me. "The other day," she said, "I was talking to Capt. Blank (unnamed for obvious reasons) about your solunar tables. He takes no stock in them whatsoever. I knew that he had been misfishing that day so I asked him what luck he had. He had seen only two sailfish and his angler had caught one of them. I asked him when he had seen those fish — sure enough, right in the major solunar period."

My own guide, Rolle Hollenbeck, was telling me of the excellent luck he and his angler had experienced only the day before. "Funny thing," he said, "we saw quite a few fish on the flats when we first came out. They would follow the fly but refused to take. Then around ten o'clock we hooked our first fish, a nine pounder. From then on those bonefish would take just about any fly we showed them." I showed him a copy of the solunar tables — major solunar period, nine-forty.

Many times letters come in from people who want to know if the solunar tables "work" in salt water. Of course they do, just as they will show you the best fishing of the day in fresh water.

BIRDS RESPOND TOO

The birds respond to the promptings of the solunar periods just as reliably as the fish do. The other day we were cruising the sand flats near Rodrigues Island, off Key Largo. Near one of the boat docks a flock of about 15 pelicans sat on the water, regarding us in their comical, dignified fashion.

Knowing, that a major solunar period would "come in" shortly, I watched the pelicans, off and on, to see what they would do. Sure enough, just as though they carried watches, at the start of the solunar period, the flock took off and flew out to the far land where they spent the next three hours diving among a school of mullet.

Now I happen to know that school of mullet and the pelicans know it even better than I. It lives in a shallow cove in the shelter of the island. Just the same, the mullet swam about in peace until old Mother Nature reminded the pelicans that they were hungry and in need of a meal.

So, emulate the pelicans and keep track of the daily solunar periods. It is a habit that will pay dividends in sport in the long run.

REUNION 32 YEARS LATER

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—A 57-year-old Ohio man was reunited today with the mother he thought had died 32 years ago. Mrs. Elizabeth Connorty, 78, was so overcome by the meeting she collapsed. Airline hostesses gave her first aid. Her son, John Patrick Connorty, 25, a Canadian Air Force corporal, had gone to Adelaide and remained.

Sport Snapshots

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Teddy Morris, the homespun farmer with a voice right out of Hollywood jail, a Toronto Argonaut since 1951, doesn't allow excitement to sway his feelings when he scouts a youngster for the Big Four football club. Not even Lionel Conacher Jr., an athlete whose name is synonymous with Canadian sport.

Sentimental fans—and, in the final analysis, what other kind are there?—say Teddy, and Argos, pulled a rock when they passed up the son of Canada's all-time great athlete in this year's college draft. It was only natural, fans argue, that Lionel Jr. should wear Argos' Double blue, as his father did 30 years ago.

They had first choice in the draft but picked up Bill Mitchell, a team-mate of Conacher's with the University of Western Ontario Mustangs. Montreal Alouettes, who had second choice, grabbed Conacher and signed him to a contract last week.

Was this another mistake by Argonauts, who haven't been able to get out of the Big Four cellar since 1956? Morris, who runs a farm in suburban Toronto and acts as chief of Argos' Canadian talent scouting, says no.

NOT CONVINCED

"I've still got to be shown that we pulled a boner," Morris said in an interview. "The boy could prove me wrong, but I'm not convinced yet."

But critics are willing to argue the issue.

They point out that the Conacher name is traditional with Toronto sport and is known to every sports-page reader in the country. They point out also that Montreal Canadians general Howie Morenz Jr. until the youngster was convinced he couldn't make the National Hockey League and follow his famous father, a million-dollar box-office attraction with Canadiens of another era.

Why wouldn't Argonauts sign Lionel Jr.? Brawny college star and a natural drawing card?

Morris knows all the background of Lionel Sr. The Big Train was almost a one-man show in football—a hard-running halfback who had the stamp of greatness put on him in 1921 when he captained Argonauts to a 23-0 victory over Edmonton in the first East-West Grey Cup final. Lionel scored 15 points that afternoon.

He was voted the country's outstanding football player and its all-round male athlete of the half century in a poll conducted by CP 10 years ago.

"We had a choice," explains Morris. "Would we take a name or would we take a player whom we thought would be best for the Argonaut football club? Mitchell is one of the best placement kickers I've seen. He's a good kick-off man. He's a big, rough boy and he has the talent for other jobs besides kicking.

"I don't want to knock young Conacher. I sincerely hope he makes the Montreal team and nobody can say, except for sentimental reasons, that we did wrong in passing him up. I picked Mitchell and I hope I'm right.

"Lionel Jr. is an offensive halfback. He's still a youngster—and do you think he could take over from such established Argo stars as Cookie Gilchrist and Dick Shatto?

"That's the question we had to decide. What would you do when you're picking players in an effort to strengthen a last-place club?"

That's a good question. But if Lionel Jr. comes back to haunt Argonauts this season in Big Four play, fans won't let Morris or managing director Lew Hayman forget the college draft.

Dodgers, Braves or Giants? National League Starts Work on Big Question Today

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Can the Dodgers do it again? Have the Giants found the pitching? Can Chuck Dressen regain the touch with the Braves and-or can the Braves regain the touch with Chuck Dressen?

The answer to one of those questions may answer them all, and the National League gets to work on the quiz today, opening the 1960 baseball season a week ahead of the American League.

The world champion Dodgers, still at home in spacious and audacious Los Angeles Coliseum, open with a night game against the Chicago Cubs. Milwaukee's Braves, who lost the 1959 pennant in a playoff with the Dodgers, and San Francisco Giants, popular pre-season picks, opened at home in afternoon games. The Braves against Pittsburgh and the Giants in their new Candlestick Park against Los Angeles.

The Cincinnati Reds, as usual, also opened at home in the afternoon against Philadelphia.

DRYSDALE STARTING

It's righthander Don Drysdale, whose troubles in a 17-13 season made it tough for the Dodgers a year ago, against the Cubs and righthander Bob Anderson. Dodger manager Walt Alston has showed virtually the same lineup that won it all last season—Gil Hodges at first, Charlie Neal at second, Maury Wills at short, Junior Gilliam at third, Wally Moon, Don Demeter and Duke Snider in the outfield and John Roseboro behind the plate.

The Cubs, with Charlie Grimm replacing Bob Scheffing for his third stint as manager, have four new faces among the starters, Richie Ashburn, late of the Phillies, is in centre; Frank Thomas, last with Cincinnati, at third; Don Zimmer, a good Dodger, at short, and rookie Lou Johnson in left.

The Giants, who blew a two-game lead in the last 10 days that season, picked 21-game winner Sam Jones for their debut in the new $15,000,000 park against the Cards and righthander Larry Jackson (14-13).

THREE-WAY FIGHT

Manager Bill Rigney, on the spot in what shapes up as another three-way fight with the Dodgers and Braves, has Don Blasingame at 2nd, but the rest of the Giant lineup is about the same. Right fielder Leon Wagner and shortstop Jim Spencer, whom the Giants gave up to get Blasingame as a lead-off hitter, were in manager Solly Hemus' starting lineup for the Cards.

Milwaukee, missing a third straight pennant under Fred Haney by just one game last year, try this time with Dressen, a manager given after serving as a coach with the Dodgers. Dressen had just one rookie, left fielder Al Spangler, behind southpaw Warren Spahn (21-15).

The new faces club is Philadelphia. Manager Eddie Sawyer, whose Phillies are almost a unanimous pick to finish last again, named only three holdovers—starting righthander Robin Roberts (15-17), making his 11th consecutive opening day appearance; left fielder Harry Anderson, and first baseman Ed Bouchee. Manager Freddie Hutchinson picked Jim Brosnan (9-6) to start for the Reds.

Nixon, Governor 'Goof' at Park Dinner

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Vice-president Nixon and Gov. Edmund Brown talked baseball Monday night at a dedication dinner for the San Francisco Giant's Candlestick Park—and both bobbled the ball.

Brown said he expected the 1,000 fans at the dinner to be at Candlestick Park this fall "watching the world series between the Giants and the Dodgers."

"You may think the Giants will be playing the Dodgers here next fall, governor, but the opposition will come from the American League," said Joe Cronin, AL president.

Nixon declared he hoped Giant manager Bill Rigney wouldn't have to use Sam Jones as a pinch hitter. Jones is Rigney's ace pitcher. The vice-president also said he hoped the Giants would be sharp in late October and early November. The baseball season ends early in October.

Rookie Stars For Senators; Yanks Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rookie Don Mincher, a first baseman Washington has tapped for future stardom, picked up three hits Monday as the Senators defeated the American League champion Chicago White Sox 7-2.

Mincher, acquired along with catcher Earl Battey in a trade that sent Roy Sievers to the White Sox, boosted his exhibition baseball average to a hefty .326.

In other games, Baltimore Orioles moved into a tie with the White Sox for the American League's exhibition lead by beating Kansas City Athletics 5-2, Cleveland Indians edged Detroit Tigers 5-3 in 11 innings and Boston Red Sox defeated New York Yankees 3-1.

The Senators pounded White Sox pitching ace Early Wynn—a 22-game winner last season—for 11 hits in eight innings. Don Lee, who hurled the first seven frames, won for Washington.

PORTOCARRERO HOT

Brooks Robinson and Gene Green homered for the Orioles to back Arnold Portocarrero's seven innings of shutout pitching.

Rocky Colavito zapped his record double in the 11th inning to drive in pinch - runner Carroll Hardy for the deciding run against the Tigers. Cleveland starter Jim Perry gave up only one run in six innings before Detroit tied it with two in the sixth against Jim Grant.

Jerry Cassie and Mike Fornieles checked the Yankees on three hits. The Red Sox had put the game out of reach in the first inning with three unearned runs off Whitey Ford. Mickey Mantle's homer was the only Yankee run.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The gentlemen of the "backrooms," that conglomeration of coffee-bulls; the supposedly erudite fraternity of baseball's high places, and other experts, do not look with favor on the chances of the Yankees and the Braves to acquire the various league banners and principal the world series this year.

But the men who play the game, the players themselves, look down disdainful noses at the higher-ups and make their own selections. And they, men aside, do predict the Yankees and Braves to duel next October in the annual big classic.

They did so via the ballot box in a magazine poll. And furthermore, you Yankee-haters, they picked Mickey Mantle as the 1960 "Most Valuable Player" to the American League and also its top home-run hitter; Frank Lary as the leading pitcher and Harvey Kuenn, the league's leading hitter.

Looking over the National circuit, the play-for-pay boys figure Hank Aaron to be the season's most valuable player and leading hitter; Ernie Banks as the top homerproducer and Sad Sam Jones as the senior league's mound master.

In 1957 and 1958 the players hit the prediction jackpot. They goofed last season when they selected the Yankees and Braves to repeat and the White Sox and Dodgers crossed them up. We believe they have "goofed" again this year. It will be the White Sox and the "Jynts" in that world-series jousting.

Here is the order in which the managers and players voted the leagues to finish:

AMERICAN LEAGUE — Yankees, White Sox, Indians, Tigers, Red Sox, Orioles, Athletics and Senators.

NATIONAL LEAGUE—Braves, Giants, Dodgers, Pirates, Reds, Cardinals, Cubs and Phillies.

But the managers-players selectors figure the race in both circuits will be close—very close. On a points basis, Milwaukee drew 1053 while the Giants were a solid second with 1041. They figured the two Billies, Loes and O'Dell and Blasingame are what the Friscans need. But they were convinced the Dodgers could not be as good as last season—and placed them in third spot.

They expect the Yankees, White Sox and Cleveland to battle in out neck-and-neck in the American League. In the poll, the Yankees beat out the White Sox by only 36 points and Chicago in turn, outpolled the Indians by only three points.

Each of the top three made trades during the winter but the players think the Yankees pulled the prize package by acquiring Roger Maris.

The Tigers, with three players high in the individual voting, drew 15 first-place votes to finish fourth. They drew a lot of mentions with a heavy vote coming from National League players.

The Orioles and Red Sox each polled 559 points to tie for fifth. Strangely enough the Orioles picked up only one first-place vote, that by a National Leaguer who was traded to the Orioles ten days later.

With all their Yankee cousins on the roster, the Kansas City Athletics failed to impress the voters and were given seventh spot with the Senators placed in the janitor position.

Despite the fact Mickey Mantle has crossed them up two years out of three, the loyal voters again picked the Mick for the MVP and home-run leader positions. Now 28, the Yankee centerfielder stands out as one of baseball's greatest enigmas, a gifted athlete who has lived up to early promise. Many think the Mick is on the way down and out. The ballplayers don't think so.

Two votes behind Mickey was Al Kaline in the MVP department. Cleveland's Rocky Colavito was a point behind Kaline while last year's winner Nellie Fox drew fourth place, a point ahead of Luis Aparicio. Then followed Shoreham, Malzone, Francona and Kuenn in order.

In the National Hank Aaron had a runaway for the top-hitter award, but edged Willie Mays by a point for the MVP honor. Behind Willie was a newcomer, the Reds' Vada Pinson who finished ahead of Joe Cunningham and Wally Moon.

Behind Sam Jones the top hurler selection in the National came Don Drysdale, three points ahead of the Giants' Johnny Antonelli. The Braves' Lew Burdette and Warren Spahn received only three votes each. Then came Roger Craig, Vern Law and Bob Friend.

Last year the Yankees' Whitey Ford and Bob Turley shared top polling honors but this time Ford dropped to third and Turley to seventh. Running second to Frank Lary was a newcomer to the poll, Chicago's Bob Shaw. Then comes Ford, Camilo Pascual, the Indians' Gary Bell and Baltimore's Milt Pappas. Two-voters were Bud Daley, Tom Brewer and Hoyt Wilhelm. And lookit this, Ole Early Wynn received but one vote.

One of the most-talked-about figures last season was the Pirates' ElRoy Face who finished with an 18-1 record. Was it luck—or was he good? someone asked. The ballplayers didn't mention luck in the poll this year, but they didn't mention little ElRoy either.

Canadiens Had Better Smarten Up Or - - - Imlach

Punch Three Down, 1 to Go In Playoffs Predictions; Olmstead to Lead 'Killers'

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Punch Imlach is fast running out of predictions—and Stanley Cup games.

"If we get to win one game in Montreal," the Toronto Maple Leaf coach said before the Leafs-Canadiens best - of - seven final started in Montreal last week. Now, two games and two losses later, he says that if Canadiens don't smarten up, his heroes will square the series at home.

Canadiens slopped into town almost assembled Monday night and were quiet but confident they would wrap up the series in two more games.

Bernard (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, Henri Richard and Jean Beliveau paused and smiled for a photographer and reporters welcomed them.

"We'll make up for it when we walk out again Thursday—with the Stanley Cup," Henri said.

ON TONIGHT

Leafs get their chance at Maple Leafs Gardens tonight when the third game of the nationally televised playoffs start at 8 p.m. EST. The Leafs say this is it for the Gardens Thursday and that's the way it might seem, many hockey observers figure Canadiens will win to go for the fifth consecutive season.

But the Leafs, who started out as 1-to-3 underdogs, have done anything but pushovers. They dropped the opener 4-2 and the second game 3-1—a contest that could have gone the other way.

"We'll win it here in Toronto if that's the best Canadiens can do," Imlach said Monday.

Coach Toe Blake of Canadiens, who shudders at the thought of making predictions, had only this comment to make before the National Hockey League champions left for Toronto: "We will be given as many goals as the Maple Leafs or more; mark my word."

GLAMFIELD THE LEADER

Imlach had another forecast. "When we start killing the Canadiens," he said in interview, "Pappy will be the guy who showed us how." Pappy is the 31-year-old Bert Olmstead, an 11-year NHL veteran and a Montreal resident.

Olmstead is in a fifth-place scoring tie in the series with two goals and four assists.

Canadiens have an old-timer on their roster who has shown he can all how to win games. He is the incomparable Maurice Richard, the game's all-time high scorer and a player who has broken up many playoff and league hopes.

The 38-year-old Rocket is overdue. He has managed only one assist in six playoff games this year, a most unusual performance for Richard who has burned up the league over an 18-year period.

The Rocket has been on Toronto goalkeeper Johnny Bower but the puck just wouldn't bounce for him.

TORONTO'S REVENGE

The series made news in another department Monday when the Leaf management took steps to retaliate for the poor seats alloted to Toronto supporters in the Montreal Forum for last week's two games.

Toronto officials said Leaf fans were sold tickets in the upper-tier section of the Forum—a spot they referred to as Moss-Bird Alley. Workmen Monday finished a new 20-seat section high up in Maple Leaf Gardens, behind the grays and just under the roof girders. The Gardens officials said the 50 seats would be reserved for Montreal-ers.

BOUT GROWS IN STATUS

CALGARY (CP)—A scheduled light heavyweight fight between Harold Johnson and Tiger Floyd has been postponed until April 27, promoter Nick Zubray said Saturday.

Zubray said the fight, originally scheduled for this Wednesday, was postponed at the request of Johnson's manager, who wanted more training time for his fighter because there was a possibility world champion Archie Moore would agree to fight the winner.

Moore has said he is interested in an offer by Zubray of $20,000 to fight the winner in Calgary this summer.

Howard, Avila Cut by 'Bums', Braves

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frank Howard, Los Angeles Dodgers' highly publicized bonus rookie and veteran Milwaukee second baseman Bobby Avila headed a list of players cut from major league rosters Monday as National League teams battled to get down to the opening day limit of 28.

Dodger brass said they felt the 6-foot-7 Howard needed more experience playing first base. Howard was originally an outfielder, but is being groomed to replace the aging Gil Hodges. Howard was optioned to Spokane of the Pacific Coast League.

Avila refused to sign his contract this season. The Braves placed him on the restricted list, thereby retaining rights to his services.

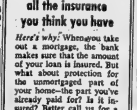
The Dodgers also sent outfielder Ron Fairly and shortstop Charley Smith to Spokane.

Another Dodger roster move was infielder Bob Aspromonte, outfielder Sandy Amoros, pitcher Ed Roebuck, outfielder Tommy Davis—now in the Dodger batting champion—catcher Norm Sherry, brother of world series pitching star Larry Sherry, and shortstop Bob Lillis.

Cincinnati also trimmed down by shipping pitcher Orlando Pena to Havana and pitcher Bob Purkey to Seattle, both on 24-hour recall. Cincinnati also restored coach Jimmy Dykes to the active list.

George (Sparky) Anderson, who played 135 games at second base for Philadelphia Phillies last year and hit only .218, was sold to Toronto in the International League for a reported $25,000.

The Phils assigned pitcher Ed Keegan to Buffalo also of the International, and shortstop Rubes Amero and Valmy Thomas to Indianapolis of the American Association.



Machine Will Do Counting For Knockdowns

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — Champion Gene Fullmer and challenger Joe Giardello won't have to worry about a long or short count in their middleweight title fight here April 20.

If either is knocked to the canvas, an electronic machine will do the counting.

It's known as an electronic knockdown timekeeper, a machine which lights up showing the number of seconds a fighter has been down. This will be the first time such a machine has been used in a championship scrap.

The device operates like a basketball scoreboard, flashing each second on a large board. The machine automatically takes a photograph of the knyoed fighter when the count reaches 10.

Wolves Whip Montreal 3-0 To Even Series

SUDBURY (CP) — Montreal Royals' four - straight winning spree came to a halt Monday night as they lost 3-0 to Sudbury Wolves in the Eastern Professional League's final series.

The result tied the best-of-seven set 1-1. Montreal won the opener 4-1 Sunday. The next game is at Montreal Wednesday night.

Brilliant goaltending by Gerry McNamara played a big part in McNamara's shutout victory. He stopped 30 shots compared with 22 saves by Royals' Gerry McNeil. McNamara was particularly active in the scoreless second period when he kicked out 15 shots as Wolves held on to a 1-0 lead.

Sudbury scorers were captain Sam Bettio, Tom McCarthy and Wally Boyer.

CAHA Taking Wire Vote on Sudbury Squawk

SUDBURY (CP) — Sudbury Cubbings hockey club has taken exception to statement by George Dudley, secretary of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, that a Sudbury protest delayed the Eastern Canada Allan Cup playoffs.

Combines official Max Silverman said Monday that Mr. Dudley's statement carries a strong insinuation that Sudbury's protest against the use of ineligible players by Rouyn-Noranda Aloutettes in the Northern Ontario finals was responsible.

"We were told by three ranking CAHA officials that Rouyn-Noranda could not pick up additional players for that series," said Mr. Silverman. He named the officials as Alan Duncan, Sudbury district governor for the NOHA; Red Mahoney, NOHA president, and Dudley himself.

Mr. Dudley said earlier that the dates for the Allan Cup finals were changed because Sudbury's protest might make a replay necessary in the latter series, but said Monday it will be about two days before he receives the report on a telegraph vote of the CAHA executive on Sudbury's protest.

Sudbury, eliminated by Rouyn-Noranda, claims it was prevented from strengthening its team with imports.

Trail Enters Titular Round For Allan Cup

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Trail Smoke Eaters advanced into the championship round for the Allan Cup Monday night with a 7-1 victory over Port Arthur Bearcats. Trail took the best-of-seven western final series 4-0.

Cal Hockley and Pinoke McIntyre, a recruit for the playoffs, sparked Trail with two goals each. Norm Leonardon, Hal Jones and defenceman Harry Smith added the others.

John Irving scored the Port Arthur goal late in the final period. The Bearcats tallied only four goals in the four games.

It is the first western championship for Trail since 1937-38 when they went on to capture the Allan Cup and the world hockey championship.

The final series opens here April 25 against either Chatham Maroons or Hull Legion.

. . . there are real emergencies where he is forced to borrow money—yet often they occur when his assets are poor collateral.

This is one of the many reasons why far-sighted men make sure they have adequate permanent personal life insurance, for the mounting values are always available for either direct or collateral borrowing—and at reasonable rates of interest.

Other forms of life insurance are fine in their places—but only permanent personal policies give a man control over finances any time the need arises.

Chatham Wins All-Ontario Senior A Crown

CHATHAM (CP)—A convincing 5-0 win over Rouyn - Noranda Aiouettes Monday night sent Chatham Maroons into the next round of Allan Cup playdowns. The Maroons won their eastern Canada semi-final 3-2 in games after dropping the first two contests to the Als.

The Eastern Canada final with Hull Lesbianettes opens next Monday in Chatham. The winner of the best-of-five series will meet Trail Smoke Eaters in the Canadian final.

A weeks rest will be appreciated by the victors, who ousted Windsor Bulldogs 4-1 in a hard-played series for the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A championship before meeting against Noranda, the Northern OHA champions.

GIVEN HIGHEST TROPHY

Maroons now are All-Ontario Senior A champions. After Monday's game OHA convener Lloyd Pollock presented Maroon captain Ted Power with the W. A. Hewitt Trophy.

The teams fought through a scoreless first period. But early in the second the Maroons broke the visitors' spirit by firing three goals in two minutes. Two more goals in the third period clinched the victory.

The scorers were Gary Sharp, Fred Fletch, Frank Battagnie, Jim Connelly and George Aitken.

Bobby Smith, 16 year - old Noranda goaler, again played well, stopping 31 shots compared to 17 by Chatham's Cesare Maniago.

The Maroons began the series with 3-2, 10-2 losses at Noranda, but recovered on home ice to win the third 7-0 and fourth 3-2.

Russians Bid To Revive Horse Racing

By JOHN MILLER

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Past glories of Soviet horse racing are being evoked here in a bid to revive the sport from a post-war slump and produce horses good enough to compete with the best on international tracks.

Critics say the sport is suffering from an "inferiority complex" and point to the few, and unsuccessful, excursions to European and American race courses.

The best remedy for this, they would be to increase international visits, especially to Italy, France and Sweden. They add that with the Soviet Union's racing background and potential, its horses and jockeys should be able to make a good showing.

POPULAR SPORT

The sport has a considerable following in the Soviet Union. Official statistics say that flat racing attracts about 400,000 fans a month to race tracks throughout the country, Trotting at the Moscow Hippodrome, headquarters of Soviet racing, packs in about 700,000 people during a three-month, three - days - a - week summer season.

There is parl - mutuel betting but no bookmakers—and a complete absence of racing gossip, tips, touts and form sheets which are a feature in other parts of the world.

Soviet horses since the end of the war have made little showing in European and Continental races.

In both 1958 and 1959, two horses each year carried Russia's colors abroad for the first time in the Washington, D.C., International at Laurel, Md. All finished out of the money.

STAY AT HOME

Since then, the Russians have made rare trips to European courses for steeplechasing and trotting.

Now the critics are suggesting a radical reform of the Soviet racing system. The main complaint is that the horses are just not getting the right racing education after leaving the country's many collective, state and stud farms for the Moscow Hippodrome.

Fewer horses are being stabled there — about 600 compared to about 5,000 some years ago—and some potentially good material from the farms is not even being considered.

The critics also demand a training school for young jockeys.

Blow Hard to Get 'Em Out In New Candlestick Park

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The first pitch, make no mistake, have their work cut out for them in Candlestick Park, opening new home of the San Francisco Giants.

The clamp home run, especially for the righthanded hitters, is all but impossible.

First and third base foul lines are so deep many balls that usually go into the lower stands now will be catchable. The infielders must run and run and run.

The infield is fast, lightning fast.

The Giants had only one workout before today's National League opener against St. Louis and not one ball was hit out of the park by the club's right-handed sluggers.

Willie Mays clobbed a ball high and far. By standers thought it was a cinch homer. But the ball dropped just short of the fence sign marked 397 feet.

Willie, a bit disgruntled after putting two in the same spot, commented:

"This park is big, too big."

He added, "Somebody's gonna take some terrible salary cuts around here."

Orlando Cepeda, another power hitter, had similar luck. His reaction was, "Much wind."

There was a 22-mile-an-hour wind — stronger than usual — blowing in from centre field.

Meteorologist corday counts has said the breezes could shift as much as 180 degrees in the layout, seven miles south of Golden Gate.

The left and right field foul lines are 335 feet with the fence fanning out to 397 on both sides and 420 in dead centre.

The lefthanders had more luck. Dale Long pumped two over the right field barrier and Jim Marshall and Matty Alou one each.

ONTARIO MONASTERY — Nine survivors of the Order of the Brothers of Mondoibis, a religious order founded in Russia in 1900 and which at one time had more than 200 adherents, have established themselves on a farm near Woodstock, Ont. The Studite monks, living under a vow of poverty, operate a farm and are planning to build a permanent church and monastery. They came to Canada in 1951. Rev. Filotej Kocj, an artist with the order, looks over his collection of paintings — most of them Madonnas — in tiny room on the farm. He has still to complete the large one in foreground. (CP Photo).

Talking Wife Puts Speaker on Tough Spot

LONDON (AP)—The Speaker of the House of Commons was put on the toughest spot of his political career Monday. He must rule whether his own wife is in contempt of Parliament.

The Speaker is Sir Harry Hylton-Foster and his wife is the Hon. Audrey Hylton-Foster, a daughter of the late Viscount Buckmaster.

Lady Hylton - Foster got Sir Harry into his jam by talking, as women will. She talked to an interviewer from the Sunday Express. She said, among other things, that she doesn't think women are bright enough to be members of Parliament.

Be that as it may, there are 24 women in the House of Commons.

"In Socialist Emrys Hughes this offered a wonderful opportunity to heckle the government. Armed with a clipping of the interview, he rose in Parliament Monday and asserted that it was a breach of the privilege of Parliament.

Hughes quoted the interview as follows:

"Lady Hylton-Foster, wife of Sir Harry Hylton - Foster, who became Speaker of the House of Commons last October, holds strong views on women members of parliament.

"'I cannot think why they do it,' she tells me. 'I just don't understand them. Women don't have enough education to become politicians.'"

Hughes said he didn't want Sir Harry to hand down a snap judgment, but "I submit this is a question of privilege."

He handed the clippings to Sir Harry, who remarked amid roars of laughter from members:

"I do not conceal from the House that I have already read it."

Persons accused of a breach of parliamentary privilege may be called before the Assembled House, severely dressed down by the Speaker, and required to apologize.

Sir Harry told Hughes: "I am allowed to take 24 hours to consider such matters. That I will do."

"BECAUSE THEY'RE YOUNG"

Dick Clarke, idol of the teenagers, reportedly makes a happy motion picture debut in "Because They're Young," a drama of youth growing up, opening Wednesday at the Park Theatre. A Drexel Production for Columbia release, "Because They're Young" also stars Michael Callan, Tuesday Weld and Victoria Shaw, features Warren Berlinger and Roberta Shore in supporting roles, guest stars James Darren and Duane Eddy and the Rebels.

Clark plays a high school teacher in "Because They're Young," an educator who tries to be a friend to his growing charges. According to Hollywood it is the kind of role he plays outside of the film world where on radio and TV he speaks up and for teenagers. Advance audiences, thrilled by the absolute warmth and honesty of "Because They're Young," predict a tremendous new career for the star.

"Because They're Young" is said to be more than a cross section of our high school populations; it also is an entertaining and dramatic study of their backgrounds, and the problems they bring to — and take from — school. It is a film of youth, to be seen by everyone.

Rapidly-rising Michael Callan who made his bow in "They Came to Cordura," plays a transferee who comes to Clark's school ready to fight the world; Miss Weld, a girl whose experience goes far beyond her years; Victoria Shaw appears as Clark's romantic interest, secretary to the high school principal; she gets to like Clark in a manner which had yesterday's teen sudiences happily absorbed. In a star appearance, Duane Eddy and Darren sings the title song, "Because They're Young." Popular recording stars, Duane Eddy and the Rebels, furnish the musical highlights in the picture.

Lot of Communist Since '47 In Hollywood Not Easy One

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Since 1947, the lot of the Communist in Hollywood has not been an easy one.

That was not always so. During the '30s, when the depression made radicalism more fashionable, a light group of leaners on the far left arose in the film colony.

With the advent of the Second World War, they became rebels with a cause—the cause of victory for Russia over the Nazis. Many non-Communist Americans joined them as a gesture to the United States wartime allies.

The capitalist producers, with the encouragement of the U.S. government, made such Red-praising films as Mission to Moscow, North Star and Song of Russia.

HEIGHT OF POWER

The height of the Communists' power came when muscling in on some of the guilds and unions especially the old Screen Writers Guild. But that power started to melt with the raising of the Iron Curtain and the nation's disillusionment with the aims of the Kremlin.

Armageddon for Hollywood communism came at the Washington hearings of House of Representatives committee on un-American affairs in October, 1947. It was a star-studded show with such anti-Communist witnesses as Robert Taylor, Louis B. Mayer, Gary Cooper, Adolphe Menjou, Ronald Reagan, Jack L. Warner, Robert Montgomery, George Murphy, Walt Disney.

Another group of witnesses was not so friendly. The film creators refused to answer whether they were members of the Communist party. They were cited for contempt of Congress.

Eric Johnston, head of the motion picture producers, and Ronald Nelson, leader of the independents, joined in deploring the action of the 10. Said Johnston:

"We will forthwith discharge or suspend without compensation those in our employ, and we will not re-employ any of the 10 until such time as he is acquitted or has purged himself of contempt and declares under oath that he is not a Communist."

The unfriendly 10 appealed their contempt convictions and lost. They were fined $1,000 each and sent to jail for a year, with a touch of Hollywood-like irony, some of them served time with J. Parnell Thomas, the committee chairman who asked them the questions and later was convicted of payroll padding.

The 10 got out of jail and lapsed into obscurity, except for Edward Dmytryk, who recanted and became a bigger director than before.

Little was heard of the still-unfriendly nine until the affair of the unclaimed Oscar.

In 1957, the motion picture academy gave a scripting award to Robert Rich for The Brave One. No Robert Rich came forth to claim it, and everyone was vague about just who he was. Finally, he was identified as Dalton Trumbo, an unfriendly witness.

Trumbo now says: "It is a matter of public knowledge that I and other blacklisted writers have done many scripts for major producers. In some instances, my identity has not been known by the studios; in some instances, it has."

OUTDOOR OPERA

Olympic wrestling matches in the daytime, operatic drama at night, are planned for Rome's Caracalla baths outdoor stage in 1960.

Lee J. Cobb and John Ireland also star. In the same program "Tunnel of Terror" starring Doris Day, Richard Widmark and Gene Nelson. Complete show starts at 7.30 p.m.

Studite Monks in Canada Since '51 Showing Progress

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP)—Nine Studite monks, survivors of a religious order that fled persecution in Eastern Europe, are making progress in their struggle to establish themselves in this southwestern Ontario community.

The monks are members of an order that was based in Russia early in the century. They are the last adherents of a Ukrainian Greek Catholic group that once numbered more than 200.

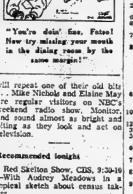
They worship in a small white chapel—for merly a slaughter-house—on the farm they operate on the outskirts of Woodstock. They have been in Canada since 1951 and, although they live under vows of personal poverty, their farm now is almost self-supporting.

They recently opened a campaign to raise $200,000 for construction of a permanent church and monastery.

During the First World War, members of the order—mostly Ukrainian peasants—were conscripted, interned or deported and their monastery looted.

In 1918 they made a new start at Univ, Poland. When the Second World War began they had 220 members in five monasteries. During the war the order was again persecuted and the monasteries wiped out.

Many of the monks were shot by Russians, others were deported to Siberia and the remainder were imprisoned in Poland.



Only 11 members escaped and from 1944 to 1948 they wandered through Western Europe, then settled in Belgium. In 1951 they moved to Canada and were given temporary shelter by the Redemptorist Fathers here until they acquired the farm.

They grow grain, vegetables and fruit and raise livestock—geese, ducks and chickens.

Direction of farm operations is by Brother Joseph who attended night school here and can speak English well enough to act as interpreter for the monastery.

Rev. Theophan Shewaha is superior of the monastery.

Brother Filotej painted and sculptured the chapel's religious icons and oriental tapestries and painted the large Madonna on the ceiling while lying on his back on a scaffold.

"You're doin' fine, Fatso! Now try missing your mouth in the dining room by the same margin!"

Jimmy Durante, Garry Moore To Have Fling on April 19

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Ernie Kovacs, usually involved with broad jokes and sight gags, turned up on the television screen Monday night as an urbane murderer. The playlet, on NBC's Goodyear Theatre, was Author at Work, a comedy in the French manner.

The tale concerned one Honore St. Etienne, bookkeeper turned bank-robber, beautifully played by Henry Jones. After 10 years of diligent research he has proved that the plots of a number of famous novelist, played by Kovacs, are based on the maestro's own experiences. The plots in 22 books add up to 22 murders. St. Etienne suggests a small pension in exchange for silence.

Kovacs, usually suavely looking, says, "I can only write what I experience."

End of bookkeeper, beginning of new book, and curtain. Unfortunately, most of us now are not acquainted with Alfred Hitchcock's sophisticated and gay killers that the ending came as no particular surprise.

Jimmy Durante and Garry Moore, partners in a weekly radio show between 1943 and 1947, will be back together on April 19 for the first time in 13 years. As well as on Garry's Tuesday night musical variety show, the School and his one-time junior partner

By CARROLL RICHTER
Wednesday, April 13, 1960

General Tendencies: The early morning brings a potential upset where open and secret eqiemes are concerned. Be sure to keep your own sciiens beyond reproach. Then the afternoon and evening are excellent for all sorts of constructive analyzation of whatever material or emotional arrangements for the future are concerned.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) You cannot quite decide in A.M. whether to go after financial gain or be off for pleasure. Be sensible. P.M. fine for going out socially with good comrades and combining business with pleasure. Work clever angles.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — not permit an unhappy family tie to deter you for stepping out with clever associate who has good ideas and will help you to advance in financial matters. P.M. get together with a good friend for further discussions.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Particular care must be taken on the road today or there can be a serious accident. Also, labor diligently and confer with a higher-up for good suggestions that will help you get ahead faster. However, be sure to follow them.

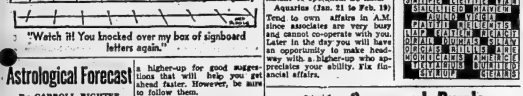
Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Try to take it easy or enjoy some sport in a.m. so that you will be in condition to meet with that interesting person who will open up a new avenue of financial gain in the afternoon. P.M. go out socially. Have fun.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Make it your business to reach for greater understanding and accord with family ties in a.m. rather than add to present tenseness. Bring home little gifts tonight and have a most enjoyable evening at own fireside. Smile.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Get a grip on yourself. It will do no good to worry over spilt milk. Get out in afternoon and work constructively at whatever will ameliorate your present position. Also, do shopping. Then get letters written.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 21) — You now know where and how to increase income, provided you pay no attention to a pal who knows nothing about your present financial condition. P.M.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — You are tempted to break all laws pertaining to you without heeding the consequences today. But this is just the day when you must be more careful than usual. Utilize all that energy going after what will bring real profit.



Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — It is best you look into that troubling situation and adopt a new attitude if you want to gain your hopes and wishes right now. Begin unirend in affairs. P.M. do whatever is necessary to give family ties what they need most.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Try not to make any drastic changes in A.M. to injure someone else. Later in the day you can then discuss matters diplomatically and thereby come to a real understanding and get instant co-operation. Be kind.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Tend to own affairs in A.M. since associates are very busy and cannot co-operate with you. Later in the day you will have an opportunity to make headway with a higher-up who appreciates your ability. Fix financial affairs.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Nothing seems to go quite right at work and your surroundings are hardly as you would like them to be. However, this evening you are inspired exactly how to ameliorate all of your affairs so that you can start an upswing.

What your child is born today: The delightful child born today is the type who must have a reason for everything within his or her orbit. Train your child early in investigative channels so that this rare gift can become most lucrative in adult years. There is much ability to tackle large projects and make them workable, in this chart, too. Do not neglect the spiritual tenets either for greatest results and success.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers was a very wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Bio-Dyne is now available in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Bomarc Fired Successfully Says Peerkes

Announcement Follows U.S. Senator's Criticism

OTTAWA (CP) — The Bomarc anti - aircraft missile has been fired "completely successfully," Defence Minister Pearkes said today in the Commons. He interrupted regular Commons business to make the announcement.

Mr. Pearkes said he received the report at 12:05 p.m. EST.

A few minutes earlier, he had told the Commons that he had no further report on the Bomarc since March 28.

He said later he had no information on the test when he had made this statement.

Commenting on the successful test, Paul Hellyer (L — Toronto Trinity), former associate defence minister, said the announcement does not increase the Liberal party's confidence in the missile or "one iota."

The Liberals consider money spent on the Bomarc-B "makes no sense whatever and is a flagrant waste of the taxpayers' money." He urged the government to "make quite plain" its position on the Bomarc and cancel plans to acquire it on the ground that the weapon is of no military value, he claimed.

PRIVATE OPINION"

Earlier, when asked to comment on a statement of U.S. Senator Dennis Chavez implying that Canada is getting an "inferior weapon" from the U.S. in the Bomarc, Mr. Pearkes said this was a private opinion and that the Democratic senator not disagreed similar to the views expressed by Mr. Hellyer.

Mr. Hellyer said he agrees with Senator Chavez, who is chairman of the U.S. Senate appropriations subcommittee.

Did Mr. Pearkes still have confidence that the Bomarc alone would provide adequate defence for Canada?

Mr. Pearkes said he has never claimed that the Bomarc alone would be the best defence for Canada.

EGLIN BASE, Fla. (AP)—The first completely successful launching of the Canadian Bomarc-B interceptor missile was made early today in the Gulf of Mexico from this air force base today.

The 47-foot missile soared from the Santa Rosa Island launch site and streaked more than 190 miles down range before impacting in the Gulf of Mexico. It was self-fired at a target.

A series of failures had resulted in lengthy hardships of the Bomarc-B at Cape Canaveral and the air force announced March 28 that it was cutting the program in favor of an expansion of the Atlas intercontinental X-17 missile.

The air force said today's flight was the longest made by the advanced Bomarc. The missile's solid propellant booster rocket took it to a cruising altitude of about 12 miles.

French Auto Tycoon's Son Is Kidnapped

PARIS (Reuters) — The distraught son of a French automobile tycoon offered to pay the 50,000,000 odd francs (about $28,000) demanded for the return of his kidnapped 20-year-old child to anyone who could help find the boy.

Roland Peugeot, son of Jean Peugeot, head of the rival French Peugeot car-making firm, made the offer after two telephone ransom demands Tuesday night and early today.

Peugeot's son Eric was snatched from the playground of a golf course near here Tuesday as he played with his brother, 7, and a girl playmate.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Warm, moist air from the Gulf of Mexico is forecast to spread showers into extreme southwestern Ontario today and over most of the remainder of the province tonight and Thursday.

WASHINGTON (CP)—Senator Dennis Chavez, touching on the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile program, said Tuesday he would not like to see Canada get an inferior weapon.

"Perhaps we are trying to impose on the poor Canadians a missile that is so bad we cannot use it," the chairman of the Senate appropriations subcommittee added in an interview following a closed-door hearing of United States Air Force witnesses.

"We ought to respect the Canadians and give them the best we have and not something that I not good enough for us," the New Mexico Democrat said. "The Bomarc study is not over. There are other missiles coming into the picture."

Asked to explain what he meant by "other missiles," Chavez said he was referring to such long-range ballistic missiles as the Atlas Titan and Minuteman. The Minuteman still is under development.

Sen. Chavez declined to disclose details of the senator's interrogation of witnesses at both

ONT. MPPS FACE STIFF WORK LOAD THIS SUMMER

Six Commissions To Be Functioning

TORONTO (CP) — The legislature was prorogued Tuesday on its 58th sitting day, after its longest and perhaps wordiest session yet.

Members had sat through more than 300 hours of the first session of the province's 26th legislature. Lieutenant-Governor J. Keiller Mackay gave royal assent to 179 bills. Four others were given royal assent earlier for a total of 183.

But work is far from over for the 98 legislature members. Many will sit on six select committees between now and October to keep at the province's business during the summer.

The House will meet again in November in the first fall session in Ontario's history. SUMMER WORK

The six select committees will inquire this summer into government boards and commissions, land expropriation legislation, cost of medical drugs, crop insurance, automobile insurance and operations of legislature procedure.

Royal commissions will investigate the hiring practices of civil service commissioners and the province's municipal affairs department.

U.S. Testimony Indicates Govt. Misled on Arrow

OTTAWA (CP)—Military testimony before the United States Congress indicates that the Canadian chiefs of staff gave the government an incorrect or incomplete intelligence estimate last year on usefulness of the Arrow interceptor.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker told the Commons Feb. 23, 1959, that the supersonic Arrow was cancelled because the chiefs of staff "do not believe that the information they can secure," determined the Arrow will be "of assistance to continue expenditures on it."

U.S. VIEW DIFFERENT

The opposite picture has been given by U.S. Congress and Representatives defence appropriations sub-committee. Gen. Thomas D. White, chief of the U.S. Air Force.

In testimony recently released Gen. White said:

"We have plenty of information that their (Russian) manned aircraft are continually being developed and manoeuvred at a very high rate, in fact, at an increasing rate.

"According to our intelligence, the air defence command thinks at a reduced rate of their heavy bombers. We have this intelligence that they are developing new bombers. . . .

"Well, there is there a future for the manned fighter interceptor?

"I would say definitely, very definitely.

"I still foresee a requirement . . . for a long-range fighter interceptor for the simple reason that the air-launched missile is here."

The general said defenders must be able to reach the enemy bomber "before the missile is launched.

"Even the Bomarc (an air-craft missile) won't do it. So I

Police Use Anonymous Bomb Threat As Excuse to Break Negro Sitdown

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A new manoeuvre — the anonymous bomb threat — was used to end Negro sitdown demonstration against segregated lunch counters in a Woolworth Store, department store Friday.

Police and firemen, acting quickly after claiming to have received a telephone tip that a bomb was in the building, cleared customers and demonstrators from the downtown variety store. No bomb was found.

The sitdown movement and threatened racial incidents which resulted in the arrest of two white persons and five Negroes.

Negro college students, for the second consecutive day, took seats at eating facilities at several department, drug and variety store lunch counters. None was served.

The bomb threat also figured in an incident at Montgomery, Ala.

Richard Patterson, identified as a 35-year-old Canadian from Montreal, was charged with disorderly conduct after an anonymous telephone caller told The Associated Press in New York that bombs would explode in Montgomery's high schools.

The tip was relayed to police in the Alabama capital before action was picked up at a hotel. He was quoted as saying he made the call to end sympathy for Negroes in the southern states.

Negro leaders in Miami threatened boycotts and picketlines unless lunch counters there are integrated by Monday. The mayor asked that the ultimatum be withdrawn.

Six Negroes in Concord, N.C., are appealing trespass convictions which resulted from a March 25 demonstration at a drugstore lunch counter. They were given $25 fines and 30-day suspended sentences Tuesday.

State Secretary Christian Herter, Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville emphasized the desire of their governments to negotiate reasonable solutions to these problems in the interests of world peace."

They agreed also to consult with the smaller Western powers on summit preparations through the North Atlantic council — a decision which is in line with Diefenbaker's insistence on the greater exchange of views among all of the Atlantic powers.

The big three will be expanded into a conference of five today with the addition of General de Gaulle's External Affairs Minister Couve de Murville to co-ordinate Western position on disarmament.

The West has asked for Russian agreement to a practical, gradual form of disarmament with a nuclear test ban treaty at the start. An awkward point is that France is not a party to the nuclear test ban negotiations and seems none too eager to throw away her newly won position as a nuclear power without other countries eliminating their atomic weapons-making ability.

Fleming Says Liberals Are Using Recession Spectre

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Leader Pearson accused the government Tuesday of refusing to heed warnings that a serious economic recession may be around the corner.

Finance Minister Fleming retorted that the Liberals are trying to make political hay out of the unemployment spectre, the Liberal party, he said, "now is a time with a definite recession complex."

It was quite clear that the leader of the opposition "just cannot wait for the next recession to come . . . He is an exaggerated unemployment, just as honorable members opposite have been doing this long time, and he has created gloom so thick that he has lost his own shadow."

The finance minister said there is a sound basis for confidence in Canada. Inflation had been contained, though vigilance was still necessary. His balanced budget had stimulated renewed confidence.

Mr. Fleming and Mr. Pearson spoke on the second last day of the eight-day Commons debate on the finance minister's 1960-61 budget.

Mr. Pearson was supporting a Liberal non - confidence motion forecasting an over - all budget deficit and charging the Conservative government with offering

U.S. Navigation Aid Satellite Successfully Put Into Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — United States launched its first navigation aid satellite into successful orbit today.

The space messenger, a device with highly important military possibilities, was fired from this missile launching center at 7:03 a.m. EST. Then in Washington the Navy announced that a tracking station at Las Cruces, N.M., had reported the transit satellite passed over that point at 8:30 a.m. EST in its swing around the earth.

While the rocket engines were still pushing the satellite into the sky, tracking stations in the United States, Newfoundland, England and Germany began reporting strong radio signals from the satellite.

It was the third major American space achievement in little more than a month. On March 11 Pioneer V, carrying man's first interplanetary communications system, winged into orbit about the sun. Three of the weather-spying Tiros cloud-watching satellites followed.

Officials emphasized that Transit 1B, as today's satellite was called, is merely a test of equipment and secrets that may be used in an operational system. Two or three more advanced test Transits will be launched later this year, with the first operational Transit scheduled for 1962.

Development on an operational transit system of four satellites by 1962 is a major U.S. military goal.

It will be especially important to Polaris missile submarines and bombers carrying long-range Hound Dog and Skybolt air-launched rockets. Quick, accurate information on position will be of great value in plotting missile trajectories from these mobile launching platforms.

By studying signals from the satellite, scientists also will be able to gain a better idea of the exact shape of the earth and the precise distances between certain points. This would enable some American land-based rockets as the Atlas to zero in more accurately on an enemy target.

Although transit is primarily a military aid, the air, commercial shipping and airlines are expected eventually to make use of it.

Hope Grows Summit Meet Will Agree on A-Tests Ban

WASHINGTON (CP) — The hope is growing in Western camps that an East-West nuclear test ban pact will be hammered out and concluded at the Big Four summit conference at Paris next month.

This source, close to Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, anticipated that the Paris meeting may last about a week—but he emphasized that no one could be certain, for the Western leaders are unsure what to expect from Premier Khrushchev.

As the Western foreign ministers meet here Tuesday to begin their pre-summit strategy talks, there was a general among Britain, the United States and France that Russia must not be allowed to settle outstanding issues by force or unilateral action.

CHURCHILL WILL SIGN NEW TRADE PACT WITH REDS

Flies to Moscow For Ceremony

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Churchill flies to Moscow today to sign a new trade pact that pegs sales of Canadian products, especially wheat, to the volume of Russian goods purchased in this country.

The new three-year agreement sets a target of $25,000,000 for Canadian purchases from Canada and of $12,500,000 for Canadian buying from the Soviet, Mr. Churchill informed the Commons Tuesday.

The U.S.S.R. has agreed that for every $1 worth of Russian goods purchased in Canada, Canada in turn will buy $2 worth from us," he said.

However, the government has not ensured that Canadian purchases will amount to that sum, he told Opposition Leader Pearson. Canada is not a state trading nation.

"This is a matter for the businessmen of this country who are alert to seize business opportunities."

REPLACES 1956 PACT

The new agreement, replacing a three-year pact that expired in February, 1959, is expected to be signed Saturday.

Under it, Russia has agreed to buy about 7,000,000 tons of Canadian wheat annually, worth between $19,000,000 and $12,000,000 annually in other goods, provided Canadian imports from Russia are within between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000.

What apparently was a stumbling block in the negotiations which had gone on more than a year, was Russia's demand for long-term credits and the ultimatum that Canada must buy enough of what it had gone on more than a year.

Under the previous agreement, Russia agreed to buy 14,800,000 bushels annually and it understood to have had no desire to be tied down again to such large purchases. At that time, it was an economic proposition to ship western wheat via Vancouver to Russia's pacific coast and Siberia but new lands there have since moved the country closer.

MUST BOOST IMPORTS

To get Russia to take the increased 7,000,000 bushels annually under the new agreement, Canadian imports from Russia will almost double those of last year. Imports totalled $2,- 000,000 in 1959 and will reach $12,740,000. Exports have been mainly wheat, but also flour, barley, oats and chemicals.

Canada will accord Russia the most favored nation rate as it does most favored - nations such as the United States and other non-Commonwealth countries.

The new agreement, which Mr. Churchill said, would come into force on ratification by the parliaments of both countries.

Renew Licence

TORONTO (CP) — The Metropolitan Toronto licensing commission Tuesday renewed licences of the business licence of one of the two restaurants involved in the city's light drug battle.

Metro Chairman Fred Gardiner and Commissioner Allen Lamport of Norm's Grill in the downtown district voted to renew it in a satisfactory manner.

The licensing commission had ordered revocation in 1956 of the licence of Norm's Grill and the Coq Rouge, because on the ground they were a gathering place for criminals.

Britain Abandons Rocket, Depends On Jet Bombers

Will Buy U.S. Skybolts To Prolong Bombers' Use

LONDON (Reuters)—The government announced today that it is abandoning its Blue Streak ballistic rocket as a strategic weapon.

Defence Minister Harold Watkinson announced the major shift in British defence policy to the House of Commons. He declared that the vulnerability of rockets launched from ground sites was partly responsible for the decision.

Watkinson said other vehicles eventually will be needed to carry British-made nuclear warheads.

But, he added, this is not immediately urgent because the nuclear weapon can effectively be carried for several years by the country's present force of jet bombers.

In addition, Watkinson said it now is practical to launch missiles of considerable range from mobile platforms.

BUY FROM U.S.

The defence minister said the effectiveness of the present jet bomber force can be prolonged by buying supplies of American Skybolt missiles.

"The government understand," he said, "that the United States will be favorably disposed to the purchase by the United Kingdom, at the appropriate time, of this vehicle."

Whether Blue Streak programme can be adapted for launching space satellites, Watkinson said, will be considered.

The announcement that the Blue Streak, which was expected to have a range of 2,500 miles, was being scrapped as a military weapon touched off an uproar in the House of Commons.

The opposition accused the government of wasting money and demanded to know how much had been spent on the Blue Streak programme.

Watkinson replied that the cost to date was £65,000,000 ($173,550,000). The cost for completing the project would be between £500,- 000,000 and £600,000,000, he said.

The government felt that only the United States and Britain have the economic and military resources for an independent rocket programme.

The cut in Britain's rocket development had the support of Derick Heathcoat Amory, chancellor of the exchequer.

Labor opposed the shift.

The shift in defence policy had been predicted in front-page stories in most of today's papers.

Electronic Beams Will Support Platform in Sky

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Electronic tubes capable of sending out beams powerful enough to hold at platform 70,000 feet above the earth, have been developed by engineer says.

Dr. Ronald McFarlan of Brookline, Mass., new president of the Institute of Radio Engineers, told a press conference Tuesday that rays from the beams could be dangerous to birds flying through the rays quickly.

Plucky Girl, 10, 'Wasn't Scared' By Her 30-Hour Ordeal as Hostage

PULASKI, Va. (AP)—The 30-hour stand of a teen-age deepsea coded Tuesday night when police dragged him shrieking from the home where he had held his young sister-in-law hostage.

The plucky 10-year-old girl—"I wasn't scared"—was unharmed.

A barrage of tear gas shells touched Harlem Hamlin Lee and Jennings from the trim brick bungalow of his in-laws at 10:36 p.m.

Jennings came out firing wildly with a revolver in each hand and pushing Barbara Butts out the door ahead of him.

"Duck, Barbara," officers called an instant before they snatched her aside. Then Jennings, an 18-year-old unemployed mill hand who is six feet tall but weighs only 124 pounds, was overpowered and pulled screaming down the walk to a police car that whisked him to a mental hospital.

Barbara, examined at a local hospital, showed no signs of injuries and seemed unruffled by the ordeal. She was released late afternoon.

She was when Jennings, who had served time in industrial schools in Virginia and Maryland, grabbed her after escaping from police as he was being taken to jail for allegedly beating up of his father-in-law's car.

Barbara said she had not been terrorized that "Jackie never hurt me."

Her eyes were red and puffy, although "I shut my eyes tight" when Jennings fired the shots into her parents' home. She said Jennings gave her plenty to eat, mostly hot dogs and toasted cheese sandwiches.

Police launched the tear-gas assault — following a night-and-day vigil — after the parents of Jennings' 18-year-old wife, and Barbara's sister, agreed that a direct attack should be made.

African Police Seize Letters by Nash, Brundage

CAPETOWN (Reuters)—Police disclosed today that they have seized hundreds of letters from foreign sports celebrities and others in a raid on the non-racial South African Sports Association.

Correspondence seized Tuesday night included letters from Prime Minister Walter Nash of New Zealand, Avery Brundage, American president of the International Olympic Committee, and British track star Christopher Chataway, now a member of Parliament.

Police said the letters were seized in the homes of three leading members of the Sports Association in Port Elizabeth.

In Capetown today, police seized documents and copies of the African magazine Drum in a raid on its headquarters. Rumors that a member of the staff, who represents a London newspaper here, had been detained were denied by police.

DEMANDS

The Dutch Reformed Church in South Africa wants to take a stand against the government's racial segregation policies, and the government is mapping plans to make South Africa less dependent on non-white labor.

Meanwhile, Norman Phillips, foreign editor of the London Daily Star who was freed Tuesday after having been jailed since last Saturday when a cable office employee sent his story to government censors instead of to him, it, was preparing to leave the country by air today.

Leaders of the Dutch Reformed Church, of which many Afrikaner nationalists of the government belong, are considering criticisms by Mary Rey, Joost de Blank, Anglican Archbishop of Capetown, who said Sharpeville killings the Dutch Reformed Church repudiates compulsory racial segregation. Church leaders say they should refuse to be associated with any form of racial discrimination.

The government, meanwhile, has embarked on a two-pronged program to make South Africa less dependent on Negro labor in support of its program of fostering complete separation of races.

Interior Minister Tom Naud announced Tuesday a major overhaul of immigration policies to encourage more white settlers, and urged white farmers not to import Negro labor from nearby countries.

Retarded Children's Group Hears Talk on Recreation

The regular monthly public meeting of the Quinte Association for Retarded Children, (Belleville and District Association for Retarded Children), was held recently in Prince Charles Public School. The President, Mr. Alvin Parkhurst, was in the chair.

In his address, Quinte's association for Retarded Children will be known as Belleville and District Association for Retarded Children. The name of Mrs. R. Johnston as Recording Secretary was omitted in a previous report. Mrs. Johnston is the Quinte Association, Mr. Tom Shevell is chairman of Region 10, which consists of the association from Belleville, Trenton, Kingston and Brockville.

After the business session, the highlight of the evening was an interesting talk by Mrs. June Braston, Recreational Director of the Toronto Association for Retarded Children.

VALUES OF PROJECTS

Mrs. Braston spoke of work and pilot projects that have been undertaken in Toronto to show how recreational hours of the retarded can be utilized in furthering training and development. Some retarded children have made their own music and should be using this time constructively. Under a specially prepared and supervised recreational program, retarded children fulfil their physical needs, form good social habits, sense the feeling of achievement, learn independence and are taught discipline by obeying rules and regulations. The most important fulfilment they receive is the feeling of companionship, friendship and love. Special programs for retarded recreation can be set up by preparing activities suitable for the swimming, dancing, camps, camping, bowling, camping excursions, skating, gymnastics, music and indoor activities during winter. Mrs. Braston named several municipalities with Recreation Commissions which integrate their recreational work in the city by including programs for the retarded. It is hoped that the Belleville Recreation Commission will be able to prepare a program for our retarded children.

By using the public playgrounds, the swimming pool and the arena retarded children would be able to enjoy the companionship and fun of normal children, take for granted.

Film was shown of summer activities of retarded children at Guelph Kiwanis Club's Camp Bellwin. This camp was also listed by the Ontario Lodges and Chapters of the Grand Order of Moose.

While in Belleville Mrs. Braston conferred with Mr. L. Doran, Recreation Commissioner, Mr. R. Dismantler, Y.M.C.A. and Mr. Ken Hurndall, Recreation Programmer of the Belleville and District Association for Retarded Children. Mrs. Braston was also interviewed on the Harriet Stevens radio program.

Rapids-Shooting Canoe Trip Down Moira River Planned

Two young men will set out Sunday from Plainfield on a 30½ mile rapid-shooting canoe trip which they hope will take them safely down the Moira River to Belleville harbor.

Ron Vanderwelde, 21, 149 MacDonald Ave., and Benny Van Lunteren, 17, R.R. 1, Corbyville, will start off in their 18-foot canoe at 1.15 p.m.

"We've got a better than 50-50 chance of making it," Benny said Tuesday. "We're not worried about it, though."

Benny estimated the current in the river to be 10 miles an hour and expected that in a small area of the Moira near the pea factory at Foxboro the canoe will clip along at 25 miles an hour.

"Most of the way we should do 15 miles an hour," he said.

They will shoot rapids at Foxboro just will portage around dams at Corbyville and Canniton.

Ron, a self-employed jewellery designer, owns a canoe, a cook in a logging camp at Yellowknife, N.W.T., and shot rapids in the Peace and Mackenzie rivers in a 35-foot freight canoe. Last May he set out alone on a 1,000 mile canoe trip but was forced to give up 100 miles north of Medicine when his canoe was damaged.

Both Ron and Benny, a grade 10 technical student at BCIVS, attempted to ride the Moira down to Belleville last year at about this time but gave up at the Fairfield bridge north of the city.

Winter Ice In Quinte Bay Almost Gone

Strong winds of the past two or three days have speeded the spectacular break-up of winter ice in the Bay of Quinte.

Ice on the Bay Bridge open water is visible almost as far as the eye can see, while west of the bridge only scattered floes appears only a matter of days away.

High winds this week have cleared the bay from Trenton down almost to Rednersville its ice carrying with it abandoned fishing shanties left to long by their owners, as well as other debris.

From Rednersville to the Bay Bridge the ice field still appears in one piece, although wind ridges are appearing indicating an imminent general break-up.

And when the last of the ice disappears down the bay the feeling of most residents will be that it "is not a bit too soon."

IN MEMORIAM

DUESBURY. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Percy Duesbury, who passed away April 13th, 1947.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last;

In silence he suffered, in patience he bore,
Till God called him home to suffer no more.

Sadly missed by wife and family.

DUESBURY. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Percy Duesbury, who passed away April 13th, 1947.

Dear Lord, we bow our heads in prayer,
And ask a blessing for him there.
The blow was hard, the shock severe,
To say we loved him is not enough,
To know we never said goodbye,
Is the heartache that makes us sigh.
But the hearts who loved you dearly
Are those who never forget,
Sadly missed by wife and family.

MELROSE BANQUET

The warm, hearty welcome given guests at this annual banquet more than made up for the tough roads travelled to get them. Tasty decorated tables laden with huge platters of turkey and all manner of good things to eat greeted the fathers and boys. Mothers ladies excelled at banquets.

Grace was said by Cub Billy Delmage after the flag break, and then a wonderful meal was served by the ladies. Queen of Queen was toasted, Mac McClelland was discovered holding a large chocolate cake. He said there wasn't any room on the table to put it down and since he is A.D.C. Cubs we will accept this—but I'm sure was a good looking cake.

Guests introduced by chairman Kunkel included Frank Lancaster, president Belleville District Council; District Commissioner Phil Allcorn, Mrs. Lillian Ashley, A.D.C. training; Don Hickson, A.D.C. Scouts; Mac McClelland, A.D.C. Cubs and Cub Jimmy Kunkel.

Scout Wayne Pascoe, proposing a toast to the fathers, thanked them for being on the group committee and generally assisting boys, making Cubs and Scouts proud of their fathers. Newton Demille, replying, said that they were just as proud of their sons for their behaviour and smartness. Both compliments were well deserved.

CERTIFICATES PRESENTED

S.M. Thomas Howard, A.S.M. Carman Milligan and P/L John McLaren, received their troop scouters certificates from A.D.C. Don Hickson for passing the basic training course. A.C.M. Mabelle McLaren (Rainbow) and A.C.M. Ruby Howard (Bagheera), received their pack scouters certificates from A.D.C. Lillian Ashley.

The speaker, Phil Allcorn, was introduced as a faithful and dedicated leader. He has spent a great deal of time and effort to advance Scouting in Belleville and his results have proven highly rewarding and satisfactory to himself and those who have been privileged to work with him.

D.C. Allcorn delivered a very interesting and inspiring speech, with many amusing anecdotes. He said we have enough talkers in the world, we require leaders—particularly in the Scout movement—are those who live by the principles that actions speak louder than words. The boys in an extremely cautious individual and we, as parents and Scouters, must satisfy that curiosity in such a way that we are helping to build a foundation in the lives and characters of our boys for tomorrow. There are now 24 groups with 1,200 boys and leaders. The Boy Scouts' Association are proving themselves a great strength to us. They are doing a great job and the more could take a page from their book. The speaker challenged the boys to get out and do their part if it is the right kind, quoting from James, "Dare Be A Daniel." He closed, anecdotally on the subject, "Challenge Men and Boys," with sacrifice and heroism, and told the story of Jackie Cornwall, V.C. the highest award in Scouting is called the Jackie Scout Boy, who was a Sea Scout, the Cornwall Badge, awarding for great courage, endurance and gallantry. May we all accept the challenge and consider our Promise to "Do our duty to God and the Queen, and to help others at all times."

Youngsters Must Endeavor To Straighten Out World

TRENTON — Students at Trenton High School had the thrill of a lifetime Monday when they played hosts to "Whipper" Billy Watson, all-time wrestling great, and Phillips Minty of Toronto, Ontario's 1960 "Timmy" for the Ontario Society for Crippled Children's Easter Seal campaign.

Accompanying the "Whip" and Timmy was Gerry Moran, assistant supervisor and Easter Seal publicity chairman for the society.

On the platform with the out-of-town guests were little Yvonne Rouxel of Trenton and her father, Bernard Rouxel; Fred Preston, president of the Trenton Rotary Club; Ernest Sydney, Easter Seal chairman, and E. S. McIlwain, principal of Trenton High School.

The "Whip" said that he had spent the past month travelling from coast to coast, meeting and entertaining handicapped young people. He said he had visited homes, hospitals, training centres and schools, and that everywhere he had met courageous handicapped children who were more aware of the opportunities offered by education than were normal youngsters.

He urged his youthful listeners to take advantage of all opportunities and to work hard at their studies to repay the hard work their parents and teachers do on their behalf. He said that the world was so mixed up that it must look to the younger generation to straighten it out.

Mr. Watson said handicapped children learn how to overcome physical limitations by sheer determination. He told the students that they should do everything possible to help handicapped children and above all that they should include them in their social life and treat them the same as their normal companions.

Mr. Watson rounded out the program by "taking on" R. Green, a student, and demonstrating wrestling holds to the glee of the students.

Later, thirty - one crippled children from Trenton and Belleville were guests of the local Eatser Seal party sponsored by the Trenton Rotary Club.

Phillips Minty attended the dinner and spoke to the Rotarians and their little guests. He said this was the first party he had attended since he had been selected to represent the crippled children of Ontario and that he was "enjoying himself immensely."

He thanked the Rotarians for their work during the Easter Seal campaign. At the end of his remarks, Timmy turned to the children and said, "God bless you all."

The children polished off a sumptuous meal prepared and served by the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary.

Mayor James MacDonald welcomed the small guests and thanked the Rotarians for their activities on behalf of handicapped children.

Rotarian past-president John Garrett presented gifts to three guests, Miss Laura Cummings, Miss C. Haslam and Miss Dawn Wood who will represent Miss Colton as district nurse for the Ontario Society for Crippled Children.

Trenton Sea Cadets demonstrated a precision drill for the entertainment of the youngsters. A novelty act by Doug Bannon and a dance routine by Judy McKnight of Belleville were popular with the children.

The Shrine Club of Belleville was responsible for the transportation of the Belleville children.

MACHINE-GUNNED

ROSARIO, Argentina (AP)—A Peronista political and labor leader, Omar Orestes Neyra, was machine-gunned to death Monday from a speeding vehicle. Police said they were unable to trace the killers.

Camp Training Session Held For Guides

TRENTON — A pre-camp training session was held recently in Rotary Hall for Blue and Brown Guiders of the Northumberland Division.

About 45 Guiders from Batawa, Frankford, Trenton, Middleton Park, Belleville and Campbellford attended.

The object of the session was to train Guiders who have had no previous experience in taking Guides to camp and Brownies on pack holidays.

The Blue Guider training was conducted by Mrs. Eva Smith, and the Brown Guiders were instructed by Mrs. Enid Keary of Trenton.

Division Commissioner Mrs. Helen Ferguson presented warrants to Mrs. A. C. Newman, as district commissioner for Campbellford, and to Mrs. Marion Moore, as division secretary.

Members of the Batawa auxiliary served refreshments.

Roller Skating At Gardens Easter Monday

TRENTON — The Community Gardens' Commission met Monday night.

Present were Councillors Howard Aziz and Vago Lange, chairman of the commission, Ralph Weaver, Don Senik, Bruce Todd, Carl Wesse, J. Johnston and Ron Thornton, Gardens' manager.

Mr. Thornton said that the ice had been removed from the ground floor of the Gardens and that plans were being made for an active spring season.

Roller skating will commence on Easter Monday. Later in the season, midget car racing will be held. This has always been a drawing card at the Gardens.

Commission members decided that wrestling will not appear on the Gardens' program this year. It was felt that the good wrestling teams would accept chances to appear in Belleville in preference to Trenton and that the commission might come out second best financially on a deal.

Chaperoned dances will be featured during the summer months for the teen-agers in the area.

Public Speaking Finals Tonight

TRENTON — The area finals of the Legion public speaking contest will be held in the Legion hall tonight.

There will be eight contestants, four from the district and four from the Ottawa district.

R. A. Beresford, mayor of Gananoque and regional vice-president of the Legion, will be the guest speaker of the program.

Isabel Williamson will be the only contestant from Trenton Isabel, a grade 8 student at Maurice Hudson Public School, won the Trenton Legion branch contest, the zone contest in Brighton and the district contest in Port Hope.

The winner of tonight's contest will go on to the grand finals in Windsor.

Deputy Mayor Temple said he had met Mayor Bobrovnikov N. I. Bobrovnikov during his trip and had invited him to come to Belleville to visit with Ottawa next summer.

Mr. Temple said there was a possibility the Moscow mayor may accept the invitation.

During his European vacation Mr. Temple also met the mayors of Vienna and Prague. He said he had been treated with the utmost respect by officials of the cities visited and described the people as being kind and hospitable.

Sportsmen Tardy Buyers

A big upsurge of business is reported by retail merchants, according to a Canadian Press story Monday. Spring is given the credit.

There appears to be only one exception. "Dealers in the recreation field blame the protracted winter for keeping customers away from the sporting goods stores."

The promise of spring, apparently, is not enough to start the sport lovers buying. They wait for the real thing.

This does not coincide with theory. The fisherman is supposed to have his reel oiled and his lures in shape weeks before the opening of the season. Perhaps he has—and yet experience will confirm the suggestion that most sport lovers do not get the itch to buy new equipment until the new season starts rolling.

The gardener may spend the winter evenings poring over catalogues and selecting the seeds and plants which will, he hopes, beautify his property next summer. The sportsman, though while he may check over his present equipment, does not get spring fever until the weather makes the outdoor life attractive. A backward spring dampens his ardor. It is not until his reel fouls up his chance to catch a whopper on opening day, or his tennis racket's gut proves lifeless on a tough volley at set point, or his putter lets him down on a try for a birdie, that he suddenly becomes obsessed with the necessity of acquiring new equipment.

Or, at least, that's one man's experience. Apparently it holds true for other men. But we wonder whether it is also true of women. Or do they, in the sporting goods field as in so many others, buy prudently during the off-season, when discounts can often be obtained?

James Muir

If James Muir could have read Monday's edition of The Ontario Intelligencer, and presumably the Monday editions of other Canadian newspapers, too), he might have derived satisfaction from noting that even in the timing of his death, (although he did not choose it), he indirectly served the interests of the Royal Bank of Canada, the great financial institution of which he was chairman and president.

On Page 5 of The Ontario Intelligencer there appeared an advertisement stating: "High School Graduates—You Can Climb Fast in the Royal." The advertisement, of course, was planned many days or even weeks before.

On Page 1 of the same issue was the account of Mr. Muir's untimely death, while visiting his birthplace in Scotland. The report told how he had joined the Royal Bank as a junior at Moose Jaw, Sask., after emigrating to Canada in 1912, and 23 years later had become assistant general manager, being promoted to that office in 1940. If anything was needed to confirm the accuracy of the Bank's advertisement on Page 5 it was more than adequately proven by the account of Mr. Muir's career.

The Bank, though, will be fortunate if, among the many high school graduates who will enter its employ this year, it finds even one who matches the ability, energy and high principles which made Mr. Muir not only an efficient bank executive but also a great Canadian.

Fine Italian Example

The Italian attitude to politics, as revealed by the demand for the resignation of Premier Fernando Tambroni's government, is encouraging proof that the Italian people have little love for Fascists.

Tambroni is a Christian Democrat, far removed from any Fascist connections. But in Italy, as in France, there exists a multiplicity of political parties. No one party holds sufficient seats to govern. Governments depend on the support of other parties. Tambroni managed to win a vote of confidence, but only because the neo-Fascists supported him. His own party then demanded that he resign, rather than hold onto office by virtue of the support of a party with which it had nothing in common.

It is unfortunately all too rare these days to find politicians who believe in avoiding even the appearance of evil.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

ETERNAL FOUNDATIONS

Jesus Christ is "the same yesterday, today and forever."—Heb. 13:8.

Many are the like remarkable testimonies to him, but essential to belief is the Person. Strauss, the father of modern destructive criticism, said, "Jesus is the mythical center of religion, and no perfect piety is possible without His presence in the heart." Fichte the philosopher said, "Till the end of time, all the sensible will bow before Jesus of Nazareth." Familiar are the words of Rousseau, "If Socrates died like a philosopher, Jesus lived and died like a God." John Stuart Mill confessed that the ethics of Jesus are unequaled and that Christianity has not only made a bad choice in pitching on this man as its representative but also made a wonderful choice.

Let Us Disturb the Peace

Editorial in the New York Evening Journal in 1900, on the death of John Ruskin.

"His pen is still. His hands are dust (or soon will be), his soul is with the saints, we trust."

Ruskin is to be buried in Westminster Abbey. It is a fine home for a fine man, with Chatham and his great son Pitt in one tomb, and the other great statesmen of the race made spring side by side so neighbourly. The death of a wolf means a meal for the other wolves. The death of a great man means a meal—mental, instead of physical—for those left behind. Wolves feed their stomachs. We read our brains.

There is many a meal for the hungry brain in Ruskin's remains. We offer now a light breakfast for that gaiety of American talent called "editorial writers."

Editorial writing may be defined as the art of writing a compunctious and inoffensive way what everybody knew long ago. There is a great many competent editorial writers, and the difficulty in carrying on the trade by the side of some genius is about as influential as the ordinary editorial writer rolled into one.

Why is it that we are so worthless, O editorial writers? Why do we produce such feeble results? Why do we talk daily through our newspapers to ten millions of people and have not influence to elect a dog catcher?

Simply because we want to sound wise, when that is impossible. Simply because we are too foolish enough to think that commonplaces passed through our commonplace minds would sound some new value.

But we are still with a wrong notion. We think that we are going to lead, that we are going to remedy, that we are going to do the public thinking for the public.

Sad nonsense, the best that the best editorial writer can achieve is to make the reader think for himself! As this point we ask our fellow editorial men — our superiors of course — to adopt Ruskin's idea of a useful article.

In a letter to Mrs. Carlyle, written when he was a young man, he outlined the purpose which he carried out, and which explains his usefulness to his fellowmen:

"I have a great hope of disturbing the public peace in various directions."

This was his way of saying that he hoped to stir up dissatisfaction, to provoke irritation, impatience and a determination to do better among the unfortunate. He did good because he broke thought in thousands of others, in millions of others.

Editorial writers, don't you know that stirring up dissatisfaction is the greatest work you can do?

Tell the poor man ten thousand times:

There is no reason why you should be overworked. There is no reason why your children should be badly fed and ill-educated. There is no reason why you should sweat to fatten others'?

Tell them this often enough. Tell it to the honest government sufficiently that they will find their own remedies.

If you want to drive out the handful of organized rogues that infest politics, don't tell the voters, don't talk smooth platitudes to the people over and over again that the thieves are thieves, that they should be in jail. The honest government would mean happier citizens, that the individual citizen is responsible.

Tell it and the country will be made better by it. Tell it alone can make it better — the people.

Little Word Much Abused

Hamilton Spectator

Of all the words that have been dragged to rags in recent years none is more pitiful than the innocent little word "fun."

"You get more fun when you buy ——," says a penetrating radio announcer.

"And there's a bonus, there's more fun in it," says a smiling TV Brother.

Once upon a time fun meant the bubbling mirth of children at play, or the spontaneous amusement of fellow-men and friends. Now it has become a commodity, an article of existence on escapist's mood. One can get more of it by popping something in the mouth or the gas tank, by wearing this or eating that. It is the symbolic of the age.

This emphasis on fun exposes the artificial nature of the pleasures in the soul. Far from being able to buy it, you have buy a pound of bacon across a counter, it cannot even be planned, for it is spontaneous and almost always a joyful accident.

Many things have changed, and have known since childhood. We do not need anyone to tell us that the most essential joy is only a pursuit of a love-devouring that eludes us. Nothing is so empty of satisfaction as fun devised in its chief aims to entertainment.

This is spiritual starvation at its most desperate.

So now we have become a devotee of fun. We are fun-mad. In our private lexicon its meaning is innocent and untarnished. But in public it is a word for low laughter that so often rings in our ears. Some years ago this excitement around the superbly-equipped picnic basket; the fun of the midway; the meal-forgetting children at play, the laughter-provoking and almost unhinged with envy and the pleasure of the spirit that comes from having done a good and simple job with one's own hands. That is fun.

He Protested His Pay Boost

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

Now we've seen everything.

The Manitoba legislature by a vote of 41 to 10, has boosted the pay of the leader of the Opposition by $1,000 a year despite the stern objections of the present incumbent of the office, D. L. Campbell himself.

He argued, and quite properly, the cabinet-sponsored measure claiming this was no time for "fancy raises," but finally lost as the bill providing for this and other general revisions, including advances in sessional indemnities from $4,000 to $6,000 went through. And with one of his own supporters voting with the government party members in favor of it.

Now he has had to go out seeking some charity that 'will be glad to take the unwanted money back.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

APRIL 12, 1940

The time of the year has come when members of the Belleville Beaches Association and all interested in this civic enterprise turn their thoughts to the development of the beaches along the Bay of Quinte. At the first meeting which is to be held Monday it is confidently expected that many will attend and watch the organization in this year's program. For the children, youth and adults of Belleville and district it develops, offers the opportunity for health and recreation. Extension of the boats and many improvements will be undertaken just as soon as the people of Belleville co-operate fully.

A high spot of land in the garden of Mrs. Ida Gelcaun, on Donald Street, can lay claim to having had the first seed of the 1940 season. According to its owner, he has planted a pack of potatoes, just for the experiment.

Dorothy Thompson, one of the most brilliant columnists and said to be one of the clearest thinkers in journalism today, is now touring the central and belligerent countries of Europe. She is writing a series of articles for the New York Herald Tribune and a group of United States and Canadian newspapers including The Ontario Intelligencer. Miss Thompson has written six books, has been given the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters by six universities as well as other awards for achievement. She is married to Sinclair Lewis, the famous novelist.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Do people with sneezy, contemptuous expressions develop the expression through being sneezy and contemptuous? Or are they born with a sneezy and contemptuous expression and are sneezy and contemptuous as a consequence?

This is a question that has troubled me for years. It is not far, nobody has ever given me a reasonable answer. Is each of us born to be what we are? Or are we free to be what we choose? Yet.

When I was a small boy at school, there was a girl in another class who caught my attention because of the quizzical smile that adorned her face at all times. Whether marching in file into class, or romping about the schoolyard, or on the street and from school, there was that unfailing, fixed smile on her freckled face. At that stage, I thought she was merely exhibiting shrewd about me.

As Vaughn Shaw turned up again, still with the quizzical smile and the half-shut eyes; and though I never met her, I confess I often wondered what she found so amusing in life. Since then, and I envied her tireless good humour.

Last week, I met her, now an elderly woman still smiling.

She was utterly without humour. She was a dull-sten-minded, puritanical lady with sharply critical opinions on all subjects, a bigoted soul, without compassion.

You see? The expression does not always match the character.

NEITHER SULFA DRUGS NOR ASPIRIN DAMAGE HEART

Dear Dr. Molner: I asked this question before but did not get an answer: Does a sulfa drug weaken the heart? — Mrs. R. D. H.

I'm sorry you had to wait, but there are times when I have quite a pile of questions waiting to be answered, and at such times I do not take much time in the order in which they arrived.

There is a common belief that sulfa drugs, and aspirin, may weaken the heart.

This is false. Neither drug damages the heart.

No doubt this idea got started in the first place because the drugs are used to combat certain conditions which may affect the heart.

Modern sulfa drugs are an accepted and reliable treatment for strep infections, and strep throat is common.

It is true that some of the early forms of sulfa had their weaknesses, but they are not serious in using them, but even then heart damage was not one of their faults.

The early drugs of the sulfa type sometimes caused a drop in blood count, sometimes caused rashes, sometimes contributed to kidney damage, but not to the heart.

Today these complications are virtually non-existent.

Aspirin, of course, continues to be an excellent drug for relief of pain, and in treating rheumatic infections and colds that go with them.

It is true that some individuals may suffer from rashes or from upset stomachs if they take some quantity of aspirin, and some may even be bleeding.

Some of these side effects, particularly the bleeding and stomach irritation, can be avoided by taking the drug with food or milk, or combined with an alkali, so with proper handling results are entirely satisfactory.

A resulting rash, either from sulfa or from aspirin, is largely limited to people who are particularly sensitive, or allergic to the drugs. In such cases, the best I can do is to advise other allergy sufferers must do is refrain from food or other materials: Avoid them and substitute something else.

I hate to say no, but if I gather reference material for all the girls and boys who are doing term papers, it would take me several hours a day, and I have other work to do. Anyway, the purpose of a term paper isn't to have somebody else collect the material for you. But, first, there's an excellent medical library in your city where you can do some reading. Second, you or visit the branch of the canadian Cancer Society in your city. I find that it has material available on this topic.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BACKGROUNDS

Backgrounds are far more important than we suspect. It's the background that gives a picture with light and character. Many artists put in the background of their paintings first of all. Then they paint the themselves into their art. But they never look upon any feature of their creations as not important and expressive of themselves.

Wherever a writer starts to create a biography he starts off with a mass of material which he calls his background for his subject's life story. For the people to know the background of one desiring public office is extremely important. It's mood interesting as well.

Look at beautiful white flowers, how wonderful they are with their green background! In nature everything is balanced. Sunshine and shade, and grass. What a wealth of knowledge we can earn from her! Nature's is a supernatural force that created health in the heart. The more we learn about nature the more we learn about ourselves.

How wicked it is that we choose to destroy nature's future materials with which to fight the battle of civilization. Give a background in all life to know the background of one's goodwill to all mankind.

Strictly Personal

Novelists Tough On Colleagues

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A New York publishing house has published a translation of the old novel "The Torrents of Spring," in a new translation. The ad for the book quotes Ernest Hemingway as saying it is a love story if ever there was one.

We are used to seeing such approving quotes, on book-jackets put on by contact killers, but we are written by critics, not by fellow novelists. Hemingway is, in effect, the whole, take a dim view of their contemporaries' work, and it is rare to find him praising being the nod to another Master.

Thomas Wolfe once remarked made out that novelists are hardest on one another because they are so few of them. It was the great Byron, after all, who called Shakespeare a "drunken barbarbug." Emerson, on the other hand, declared that Whitman was a poet at all; and liked Shelley even less.

Henry James once remarked that an admiration for Edgar Allan Poe "is the mark of a primitive mind." George Moore dismissed Conrad as "a demi-gifted worldling writer." And Mark Twain said you couldn't finish Jane Austen's novels or the novels of Jane Austen.

Horace Walpole opined that Spenser's "Faerie Queene" was "sad stuff." Coleridge sneered at "A Sentimental Journey" as "poor and sickly stuff."

Such instances could be multiplied for many pages. Only a few months ago, Norman Mailer, author of "The Naked and the Dead," drew up a list of his novelistic rivals in modern-day America, condemning nearly every one of them to literary limbo. Even more heartless critic as rough on writers' as they are on each other.

This confirms an old theory of mine that creative minds are perhaps the worst judges of other persons' creations. The writer of fiction or of imagination rarely has balance and perspective. He is too much of the world into himself, and is incapable of appreciating the other temperaments differ too widely from his own. Most of them, unconsciously, blame fellow creators for not being more like themselves.

Flaubert was just, and generous, in his estimate of Turgenev, and Turgenev in his of Tolstoy. It can expect in the way of this kind of literary pollinese.

Man Who Made Jeep Is Dead

Cleveland Plain Dealer

It rode hard, and it made calculuses in peculiar places, but there was little about the military jeep which was a part of the engineering of World War II, and later — it got you there! It could travel through sand and mud and snow and water it could haul a heavy load; it was dependable.

It was unwise to take a corner too fast or cut on a gravelled road, but if you kept it in low gear and it saw you through, and thousands and thousands of Americans looked — and still look — upon it with affection.

Those who rode the jeeps in France and elsewhere probably never knew that Brig. Gen. Delos Willys — Overland's wartime vice-president in charge of engineering, who is credited with having designed the tough little vehicle.

His death, at 72, removes a man to whom the armed forces of a great nation will always be indebted, and civilians, too, for the still popular jeep has many peacetime uses.

Tremendous Steps Have Been Taken Towards Producing Safer Car Kiwanians Told

People involved in automobile accidents today stand a "considerably better chance of avoiding serious injury or death in modern automobiles than in the cars of about 30 years ago," Ian McNabb, of Oshawa, manager of the special activities division of the General Motors' public relations department, told members of the Belleville Kiwanis Club Tuesday that he, personally is thankful they "don't build cars like they used to do in the good old days."

"They were good products, considering the limited facilities available to industry 30 years ago, and also taking into account a great many of the people whose job it was to produce them were not the highly-skilled technicians and engineers we have today," he said.

While noting today's automobiles are not "accident-proof" and serious accidents do occur on our streets and highways, he emphasized the fact tremendous steps have been made towards producing safer automobiles.

In "the cars of the good old days" mechanical defects and engine failures were prevalent, but today's cars, with the many structural and mechanical improvements, are more reliable, safer and more durable and reliable, the speaker stated.

Mr. McNabb, a member of the public relations committee of the Canadian Highway Safety Council, explained new types of experimental cars undergo gruelling tests at the G.M. proving grounds at either Milford, Mich., or Mesa, Arizona, after their individual components have been thoroughly tested in the laboratory at the new Technical Centre at Warren, Mich.

"The big job is to test the new design so adequately under all possible conditions, that before it is finally adopted we can be absolutely certain it involves no risks for ourselves, for the users of our vehicles, or for others on the highway," he said.

CONSTANTLY STRIVING

The speaker stated, however, the ultimate safety of a new design still depends on well-developed production techniques, the application of quality control methods, and inspection tests, to insure the same maximum safety for each production part sold the customer.

Noting the automobile industry is constantly striving through research to build safer cars, Mr. McNabb, editor of the G.M. monthly publication, mentioned a few safety developments that have come into existence within the past few years. These included the all-steel, all-welded body safety glass for windshield, hydraulic brakes, padded instrument panels, tubeless tires, more comfortable seats, greater glass area for better visibility, and more recently, the now generally adopted quadri-beam headlight system.

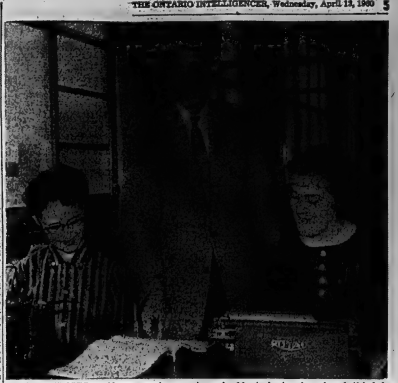
To emphasize the industry's neverending search to the development of safer automobiles, Mr. McNabb outlined the evolution of automobile lighting from the simplest form of oil lamps first used on the horseless carriages at the turn of the century, up to today's four-beam headlamp system.

He related the greatest development in automobile headlights was the development of the "sealed beam unit", which was the first system uniformly adopted throughout the industry. He disclosed, although the quadri-beam system was a "great improvement", work is still going on to refine and improve this system.

Mr. McNabb predicted automobile driving in the future will be safer and more enjoyable when a "vastly improved highway system incorporating some device for automatic car control", has been introduced. Such a system, which is being experimented with at the G.M. proving grounds, would do something like the automatic pilots in today's planes.

SPEAKER INTERVIEWED

In an interview afterwards, he explained G. M. is also experimenting with an automatic demarkation device— underground cables running along the centre and the side of the road—which insure the car stays on the road in a heavy fog or snowstorm.



Improvements in "crash injury protection," and better methods for "packaging" passengers, are also anticipated, he said, although these won't provide "absolute immunity" from serious injury in high impact collisions.

"We must never lose sight of the fact, that's a car is only as safe as its driver," he stated, in stressing the campaign for greater highway safety must be fought on many fronts, the most crucial of which, is in the field of driver education.

The speaker was introduced by safety chairman Leo McKee, and thanked by Newt MacFee. Added thanks on behalf of the club were expressed by president George Tripp, who presented the speaker with a small token of the club's appreciation.

President Tripp welcomed back Kiwanian Len Foxard who recently returned from Florida, and read a letter of appreciation from the Hastings County Old Folks Home to the members for outing arranged by Kiwanians George Forman and Fred Rawson.

Past president Gerry Wishart announced the start of the Girl Guide campaign for funds to build a new camp at Waupoos. He disclosed the local objective is $3,000, and the camp will serve guides from the Quinte district bounded by Brighton, Peterborough, and Napanee. He urged all Kiwanians to support this campaign, the first ever held by the Girl Guides.

Quinte Students Second, Third in Typing Contest

Typing honors were won by two students in the commercial department at Quinte Secondary School in the recent annual provincial typewriting competition held under the auspices of the Ontario Commercial Teachers' Association. Lois Rombough, a grade 12 student from Foxboro, won second place honors and the Smith-Corona Trophy in the junior section with an average speed of 67.2 words per minute.

Third place award in the same section went to Judy Lang of Belleville, also of Quinte, with an average speed of 61.2 words per minute. She wins the Underwood Trophy. Both girls will go to Toronto on April 19th to attend the Ontario Commercial Teachers' Association Dinner and will be presented with their awards at that time.

The competition was a province-wide event with the top students from secondary schools all across Ontario competing. The final results of the event were judged in Toronto.

Northern Stamp Collectors Have Library Display

Belleville stamp collectors and the general public will have an opportunity of viewing an interesting philatelic display at Corby's Public Library this week.

The display, consisting of 10 large frames of old and new issues of foreign and Canadian stamps, was loaned to the library by the Northern Electric stamp collectors' club. It went on exhibit Tuesday and will be there for the next 10 days.

A big feature of the display is a collection of Europa stamps—common stamps designed annually for the European Common Market countries, comprising Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, West Germany, France and Italy.

A junior exhibit of stamps collected by the children of Northern Electric Co. employees, is also on display, along with trophies and prizes awarded in both the junior and senior divisions. Donated by J. B. Daugherty, personnel superintendent, these trophies and prizes were awarded on Monday.

President of the Northern Electric stamp club, which has 21 members, is J. Aitken. The secretary is A. F. Miller.

Soccer Team Opens Training Saturday

The Northern Electric soccer club has announced that it will start training operations at the Fair Grounds on Saturday starting at three o'clock.

In the event of inclement weather indoor calisthenics will be held in the Bridge Street armories.

All district players are invited to attend the workouts. It is hoped, again this year, that a second team will be formed. This to accommodate more of the junior players in the area. The second squad will play in the May of Quinte League.

A referees' clinic has been scheduled for the RCAF Station, Trenton on Saturday, April 23 starting one o'clock. Following the clinic an exhibition game will be played at 4.30 for instruction purposes.

Rawson Agrees to Continue Buses Until Sale Approved

Although the city's private bill seeking permission to take over the Rawson Bus Line has still to receive Royal assent, and also needs approval of the Ontario Municipal Board, there will be no disruption of bus service in Belleville after April 15th.

This was assured today by Acting Mayor Lorne McDougall who said that although the original agreement was for the city to take over the buses on April 15th, Mr. Fred Rawson has agreed to carry on the service until the city's private bill is signed by the Lieutenant-Governor and is approved by the Ontario Municipal Board.

"I never had any hope that final approval would be received by April 15th but in any case there will be no disruption of service," Acting Mayor McDougall said. "Mr. Rawson yesterday agreed to carry on the service until approval was received."

Acting Mayor McDougall noted that the city's private bill had been approved by the Legislature, and now awaited signing by the Lieutenant Governor, following which it will go to the Ontario Municipal Board for approval.

Feeling of council is there will be little delay on the part of the Municipal Board after Royal assent is given the bill. Signing of the bill by the Lieutenant Governor is expected within a few days.

Belleville Collegiate Night Art Class Has Display at McCarthy

An exceptionally fine collection of paintings by the Belleville Collegiate night art class, conducted by Miss Mary Moult, is now on display at the McCarthy Theatre. This exhibit which will remain open for the next ten days or more, is most worthy of note, and included some twenty-odd works comprising seascapes; landscapes; portraits; still life; mountain scenes; winter scenes; colorful autumns, and one of flowers.

That of the flowers depicts a pretty blue piece of pottery holding a collection of full-bloom roses in deep cream shades, pale and dark pinks, greenery, and polyanthus sprigs as well as the hybrid teas. This shows a fine appreciation of color, arrangement, and an eye to detail, with the blue of the vase being a delicate foil for the various tints of the flowers.

LOWLAND LAKE

The woodland lake with its winding road, wooded hills of many shades and blue sky gave one a sense of peaceful solitude. The heavier snow with white pleasure boats riding at anchor in the quiet waters outside the boat hangers.

The spreading willow tree along one of a child's open-minded of an old willow overshadowing the shore on the Bay of Quinte at Bayside, where the sandy beach was ever a popular swimming spot, that has drawn and nicely painted giving the lovely shadows and their light and airy nature. Also a peaceful, dull atmosphere.

Another picture with rocks and water was that of the lighthouse in the midst of water with outcropping rocks' forming a sort of needles around the island. Here was a sense of loneliness, the sturdy but solitary lighthouse building at the far end.

SMOKING WINTER SCENES

Among the charming winter scenes was that of a little hamlet nestled among the hills. The white church with its tall spire, and the few houses about roundabout reminded of a Swiss or Tyrolean village, with its woods, with little huts among the tall trees, the long shadows in the foreground most attractive.

Another painting of a willow in graceful form beside a stream had a unique background of rich greens, deep brown intermingled bringing out the light or pale greens of the trees' greenery, as the wind were ruffling the leaves showing the lighter side. A well done bit of painting, holding the attention.

The still life paintings included the traditional fruits, colored jugs, and green decanter; one with a fetching tray of mixed fruits—red apples and bananas, looking pears, while the other depicted a group of three lemons, the beige jug, and the drapery, a white cloth with delicate sugar bowl. All showed nice grouping or composition, and contrasting backgrounds.

COLORFUL AUTUMN

The autumn scenes which are so colorful and intriguing, were also lovely, one with its red-dening maples, all the more gorgeous shades of scarlet, crimson, gold and green, backed by the vernal hillsides, and the white stems at the bottom of the slope, were most charming; while that of the silver birches in the wood was equally charming, both in detail and in truesness to life.

The rocky promontory, the blue-green waters and the keeper's cottage, and the distant lighthouse, showed strength and vigor and good perception.

Somewhat in the same line was that of the lonely flowering waters over rocky ledges, which showed a fine appreciation of nature.

FARM SCENES

There were two farm scenes in the exhibition. One showed a cluster of farm buildings, a tall elm standing guard nearby, a big cumulus cloud overhead, and the ripened field of grain, while the other depicted a smaller group of outbuildings on the farm nestling beneath the shade of a towering elm, in the rolling cleft of hills, with distant cornfield. A red roof on one building added the needed accent of color for interest.

The group as a whole showed strength of drawing, and gave a sense of serenity. The suggestiveness of the rocks was well portrayed.

STILL LIFE

There were two paintings, somewhat bearing out the same theme — that of the shoreline—which held the interest. One depicted a sandy shoreline with tall marsh grasses waving in the gentle breeze, with flitting clouds, and dull blue sky betokening autumn's approach. The other was a windswept shore with blue-green waters, a vista caught between deciduous trees, with the coarseness showing the onslaught of many winds, the smooth they were.

Other paintings included a cluster of farmers' buildings and possibly a keep, reflected in the rain-washed street; a mountain with Chasers song "Down by the River" and "Casey." At this time it was announced that the Bell Telephone Quintet will be held in the Collegiate Auditorium, that the Quintebelles Chapter has been asked to participate.

VIEW ART DISPLAY

During intermission, the patrons had the opportunity to view the art displays in the wings around the gymnasium. Much credit goes to Miss Moult, art teacher, and students, for such a splendid display.

The second half of the program was conducted by Mr. A. Orr, principal, who spoke on how streamlining and various subjects and courses found in the high school, starting at grade 9 and working up to grade 13. He also explained about the rocks taught in the three high schools. There is also provision for different entry requirements, Mr. Orr stated that subjects be made as to the number and kind of subjects needed by the universities their self or by wishes to attend.

There was a question and answer period, and it was encouraging to see so many parents participating. The reports said they had learned a great deal from the display and that they were now in a better position to help their students select courses and subjects.

NO BANQUET

Owing to a lack of sufficient funds, it has been decided there would not be a banquet in the Collegiate this year; instead the money will be used for scholarships.

Nomination forms were distributed among the parents for the purpose of voting for executive, committee members, and chairmen for 1960-61 season.

The next meeting will be held on May 2nd, when reports will be given, officers installed, and the program will be in charge of the Home Economics department. Plans are in place to have a fashion show and other events.

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria, ending a most successful meeting.

Plans were made for the pie social to be held in the Church hall on April 22nd at 8 p.m.

The next meeting will be held in the Church hall on May 4th. An invitation to attend an open meeting at Cannifton United Church on May 5th has been accepted.

B.C.I.V.S. H-S Hears Talk on Scholarships

The April meeting of the B.C.I. & V.S. Home and School Association was held in the boys' gymnasium, Mr. Lincoln, president, welcomed the parents and teachers, Mrs. B. Dinson gave the secretary's report and the treasurer, Mr. Ellis, also reported.

The meeting was turned over to Mr. Metz, head of the guidance department, who spoke on scholarships are grants given explaining that a bursary is a sum of money given annually to students to enable them to go into higher education, and that scholarships are grants given for scholastic ability. There were many questions asked by the parents.

A special feature of the meeting was the singing by the Quintebelles Chapter of the Sweet Adelines, Incorporated, who looked most attractive in their red and white costumes. Under the direction of Mr. P. Squires, they sang "Sweet Adeline," "My Nearest and Dearest," "Ida's My Boy." In addition the Quintebelles sang "Down by the River" and "Casey." At this time it was announced that the Bell Telephone Quintet will be held in the Collegiate Auditorium, that the Quintebelles Chapter has been asked to participate.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' LIBRARY

The auditorium has been used every Saturday morning for Children's Story Hour. The attendance has been excellent. Two students, Gloria Wilson and Carlene Smith, have been taking after "Story Hour" (due to the lack of a qualified children's librarian at the present time.) They deserve a great deal of credit. They have planned interesting programs and have had the satisfaction of increased attendance. Parents in the audience would be a definite asset. It would also be the library to provide more varied programs.

'Unit System' Topic at Bayview H-S

The regular monthly meeting of the Bayview Home and School Association was held in the school last Tuesday evening. The meeting opened with Mrs. F. Walsh reading a portion from the Bible and the Home and School prayer.

The chairman of the Civil Defence committee, Mrs. F. Vancompanay, gave a short report on civil defence and presented a diagram of how a public school would be turned into a disaster centre in case of attack.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. Gordon Hutchinson introduced the speaker for the evening, Mr. J. Cousins, public school inspector in Belleville, whose topic was "The Unit System in the Junior Grades." Mr. Cousins said, in part, that "there was a better opening for more pupil in school today and that there was more understanding between teacher and parents. After all said we know, are equal in ability and we there's more to the child's score, should plan the child's school life. We, as parents, should look at the child objectively and see the potential that is there."

"The unit system," he said, "begins in kindergarten with a readiness program for the more slow learner, six years. It is not a time of play but of well organized work. The unit system comprises 12 units which takes the child to the end of grade four. A rapid learner will complete these 12 units in four years, at school, this includes kindergarten; the normal learner, five years, and the slow learner, six years.

"The advantage of this system is that no child faces the terrible experience of failure."

Following Mr. Cousins' talk a lively and informative question period followed. Mr. Linton read the minutes and Mr. C. Bonnetts and her committee.

EASY PAYMENT

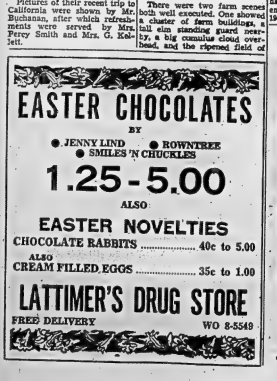
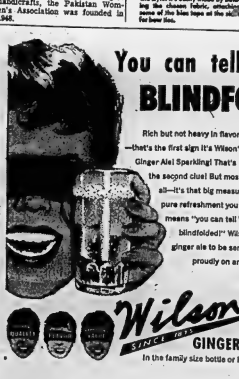
Bishop Evans Confirms 63 Candidates



St. Thomas' Church was crowded to its fullest capacity on Sunday morning for the annual visit of the Right Reverend K. C. Evans, M.A., D.D., when the Rector, Canon A. S. McConnell, M.B.E., L.TH., presented 63 candidates for Confirmation.



The Reverend J. C. Riesberry, B.A., S.T.B., acted as Bishop's Chaplain for the occasion.

Music included in the service accompanying the duties of the newly confirmed and also carried out the theme of Palm Sunday.

The Bishop, speaking first to the confirmation candidates, impressed upon them the responsibility of the important step they were taking in being received into the full fellowship of the Church. He reminded the large congregation that to follow Christ could be very costly, and that this following included not only the things that were carried out in daily life, but also meant a full use of the Sacraments given by Jesus Christ.

The newly confirmed will receive their first Communion on Easter Day.

Mrs. Janie Gladstone Cut Off Indian Braids Before Joining Senator Husband

By ELIZABETH MOTHERWELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Janie Gladstone cut off her Indian braids before joining her senator husband in Ottawa.

James Gladstone resolved not to be a "feather and buckskin" senator upon appointment in January, 1958, as the first treaty Indian in the upper house. His wife wants an inconspicuous role too.

It took some coaxing for the senator, born Akay-es - maks (Many Guns), to bring Po-ge-dun (Little Doll) to Ottawa for the present session of Parliament. Mrs. Gladstone's other visits have been short.

She finds life in the shadow of Parliament Hill far different from her prairie home on the Alberta Blood reservation in sight of the Rocky Mountains. "You see nothing but trees down here," she says.

FIRST FORMAL

Besides cutting her black hair and substituting a beauty parlor hairdo, she put on her first evening dress in preference to her own beautiful Indian ceremonial costume. "I was scared but I told myself I was going to a fancy dress ball."

She was often lonely during a month in Ottawa last summer and rode up and down the Rideau Canal in boats.

"I'd get myself lost on long walks, then sit in a cafe."

Now that she lives in an apartment instead of a hotel, she feels happier. A neighbor often keeps her company watching TV.

She wishes she had her sewing machine here to keep up her work for the Anglican women's auxiliary on the Blood reservation. Failing, she might keep busy from the embroidery and bead work she once enjoyed but she is still handy at stitching pillow slips.

FATHER WAS SCOUT

Mrs. Gladstone recalls that her father, Joe Healy, couldn't read or write but spoke "beautiful English" having been adopted as a child by a white man from Montana. He was a scout and interpreter for the North West Mounted Police in the days of the whisky traders, a post Senator Gladstone took when the couple was married.

"We drove off to Fort Macleod in a borrowed wagon. We had nothing." Senator Gladstone later prospered as a rancher and their shack was replaced by a two-storey house, the first on the reservation with electricity.

The Gladstones moved to a bungalow in Cardston, Alta., when he was appointed to the senate. "We have three acres be-

INCONSPICUOUS WIFE

At Ottawa gatherings the Gladstones are sometimes persuaded to sing songs taught them by a missionary who was a Boer War veteran.

Mrs. Gladstone was among the first Alberta Indians sent to school but regrets that she attended for only eight years. "There are so many things I'd like to understand."

One of her four daughters became a stenographer and now is married to a Calgary historian. Another daughter is a nurse. A daughter who studied mother-craft in Toronto was sent to New Zealand to study midwifery, married a New Zealander and now lives in San Francisco.

Melville L.A. Holds Social Evening

WELLINGTON — The Melville Ladies' Aid held a social evening on March 31. The following program was presented: a reading by Mrs. Arnold Cruickshank; tap dancing by six young ladies; reading by Mrs. Jack Root; a sing-song was enjoyed by all. Chorus by band selections played by the young married ladies of the neighborhood. The instruments of the band were all gadgets from the kitchen, pie tins, egg beaters and anything which gave out a musical sound. This was amusing and enjoyed by all.

Mr. Elmer Tanner called Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Cruickshank and Elmer to the platform, where they were presented with a lovely wall mirror from the community. Elmer received a set of brushes from his school mates. The Cruickshanks, formerly of Melville and now living in Wellington, expressed their sincere thanks to their friends. The ladies served refreshments, bringing a pleasant evening to a close.

tion. One, a calf-roping champion runs the family farm. The other, an agricultural instructor, was for a time assistant Indian agent at Hay Lakes in Northern Alberta.

Four of the children are married to whites. "Some people wouldn't think of marrying off the reserve but I think it is good for Indians to make their own life," she says.

Trinity WMS Enjoys Talk on Bermuda Trip

MADOC — The April meeting of Trinity W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. John Storring on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Holmes, the president in charge, opened the meeting with a poem, "Mary or Martha."

In the absence of the treasurer, Mrs. Nayler, the monthly report was given by Mrs. A. Empey. The conveners of Community Friendship are, Mrs. F. Fleming on literature, and Mrs. Ken Gordon.

Miss Holmes reported that two quilts were on hand to be quilted. A discussion on the layettes followed and it was decided to have the articles ready for display at the June meeting. Donations for the sale for overseas relief were also to be ready for the June meeting. Mrs. Tanner had charge of the worship service taken from the Easter leaflet. Assisting her were Mrs. Empey, Mrs. Burnside and Mrs. McCoy. Scripture reading was the story of Easter and appropriate Easter hymns were used.

Mrs. Tanner called on Miss Olive Ashe, who has just returned from a trip to Bermuda, Trinidad and the Barbados. Miss Ashe gave an interesting and informative talk on the missions on these islands as well as a most enjoyable trip throughout. While in Bermuda, she was pleased to meet Ronald Empey, a Madoc boy now in the Navy service, formerly visiting his aunt, a former resident of Madoc.

Mrs. Empey expressed the thanks of the society to Miss Ashe for her splendid talk.

Mrs. Storrings and her assistants served lunch.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Donald B. — I can't stand those Sunday get-togethers.

Rita B. — I love my family dearly.

Donald B. — My wife and I have been married eight years and have three children. Our one serious problem has been with us from the beginning of our marriage — in-law trouble.

I just can't stand Rita's family. I never could and never will. Her mother vets in my hair, her sisters and their husbands make me sick. The only nice one is her brother and he never comes around — for fear of meeting the others I guess.

Now this clan makes a point of getting together once a week for Sunday dinner. That just about finishes off my one day of relaxation. I have finally come to a decision — no more in-laws. Just won't go. I'll eat my Sunday dinner in peace at a lunch counter. Such nice people eat there on Sundays!

Rita B. — Don has absolutely no reason to feel as he does. My family has always treated him wonderfully. In fact, they've made a fuss over him and spoiled him.

As for his precious relaxation on Sundays, his complaints are ridiculous. He has always felt perfectly relaxed with my mother and sisters. After dinner he goes over to the couch and falls fast asleep and snores as if he were home.

I happen to love my family dearly and I hate to give up those Sunday afternoons. My sisters and I have a grand time and all the other husbands enjoy getting together for a game of cards. Only Don and my kid brother have to be different. If they don't fall asleep they sit around making wisecracks nobody else understands.

The Council: No matter how much Rita enjoys her family ties, she has made a big mistake in not devoting two or three days a month exclusively to her immediate family — which now means her husband and children. Husbands are of the greatest families in the world if they are overly exposed. Certainly a hard-working man needs one day in which he doesn't have to face sisters or persons that irritate him.

We don't think Don's "couch scene" in his in-laws' home is a sign that he is relaxed or "at home" there at all. It is a crude and deliberate statement of boredom and anger and shouldn't continue. If Rita agrees to a more sensible spacing of in-law visits, Don should agree to remain awake.

We're all for togetherness for those who enjoy it, but we don't think privacy-minded individuals should be crushed at the expense of others. Rita may feel some guilt at breaking the pattern of these jolly family get-togethers and will probably miss them, but she should recognize that her husband's needs deserve some attention too.

If Rita can't give up those weekly get-togethers, we think Don ought to follow through with his plan for Sunday dining.

Health Hints

(by Department of National Health and Welfare, Ottawa)

During pregnancy a mother-to-be needs extra nourishment, not necessarily larger quantities of sweets but food selected for its nutritive values. In addition, she requires a daily dose of vitamin D. Any symptom that suggests cancer should be discussed with the doctor. Mild worry and distress may be avoided if suspicious conditions are checked and found negative or, in case of presence of the disease, prompt treatment can usually help.

If a regular bed table is not available for the sick room, a light wooden box may be used. The sides should be removed and the ends used as supports. Cover the table with a cloth or a plastic cover.

If caught in a burning building, inside doors should not be opened if they are hot to the touch. Opening a door beyond which the fire is burning may send a searing blast of smoke and flame through the doorway. The door should be held firmly and only opened about an inch while ascertaining conditions on the other side.

W.M.S. E.A.

WELLINGTON — The April meeting of the Evening Auxiliary of the W.M.S. was held in the Sunday School room of the United Church last Tuesday evening with the W.A. members from Barry's, Bowerman's, and Rose Hall as guests.

The meeting was called to order by quiet music with Mrs. H. Foster at the piano.

Miss Viola Vallean, the president, was in the chair and opened the meeting with a poem, "He Is Risen." She also extended a warm welcome to the guests and members.

Reports were given by the secretary, Mrs. Young; the treasurer, Mrs. Parks; Christian stewardship by Mrs. Elliott and supply work by Mrs. Gibson.

It was decided to hold a food sale.

Mar. Cleave gave the devotional. Psalm 20 1-18 and a prayer closed this period.

Mrs. Jack McNeil favored with a solo, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Dingwall.

Mrs. Douglas Harris of Burrs gave a reading, "Three Days To See." This was written by Miss Helen Keller.

Miss Virginia Wood of Bowerman's rendered a lovely piano solo, followed by a piano accordion solo by Miss Marlene Courneyea of Rose Hall.

Mrs. Jim Dart gave an interesting illustrated talk on her stay at Five Oaks, which was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Parks thanked those who had helped on the program.

Lunch was served at attractive tables which were covered with white cloths and each centred with tiny miniature hats. A social time was enjoyed.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

With the winds of spring blowing a gale and whipping dust in the eyes, it is hard to settle down to one topic. Looking at some outline sketches of new Paris models (admittedly done from memory) it appears that a strong wind was blowing there, too, for to our eyes, they seem slightly fantastic.

Dior comes up with a model comprising a tight, short skirt, a ruminant bodice going into an exaggerated princess tunic; all this topped by a high bolleuse hat. Lanvin has a cape coat that looks sensible and not startling. Ricci has a collarless coat with round moulded insets at the sides which give hips even to those who have none. Cardin has numbers called 'chiffon blouson' and 'slow curve', while Fath has something modelled on the Eiffel Tower.

Many people feel that any deviation from the natural in clothes detracts rather than enhances. But the lady who drew the sketches says that view is not wholly feasible since men wear trousers but their legs are not shaped like stove pipes; and the full skirt for women is one of the most graceful and enduring styles, yet we are not made like lamp shades between the waist and the knee.

Three out of four Canadian women would dismiss the collarless coats and unsuited to the Canadian climate and unflattering. One Canadian fabric worker says that Canadian designers could do better. One man, a Canadian chemical engineer from the Dior look, but thinks that Cardin has gone too far with his mushrooming hips. Another man, a personnel man, says "designers are trying too hard and should look up in their salons for a few years in order to come up with something worth-while".

Again, as every year, we are thankful that the styles are modified before they reach us ordinary folks.

A new type of moulded bottle cap now is on the market. It is a polyethylene cover specially designed to discourage small children from opening it to get at containing pills or other medications which could be harmful if improperly administered.

The cap is so moulded that a tear strip indicates whether there has been tampering with the contents on its way to the buyer. When ready for use, the strip is torn off the cover and the cap is pried up for opening. The cover is held permanently on the container and the cap may be opened and closed as often as necessary.

Opening the cap requires "child" strength and it is this feature which should keep cagey little fingers from prying. Made of a medium-density material, the unique closure is being used in Canada by a manufacturer for bottles containing pills.

The hinged feature of the cap also solves those annoying moments when an ordinary bottle top rolls triumphantly under the basin. The hinge holds the cover in place and makes it easy to recap the bottle immediately after use, lessening the danger of spills.

Science Fairs are scheduled for Toronto April 21-23, for Winnipeg April 18-20 and for Vancouver April 30. This Science Fair movement, now rapidly spreading in Canada, has proven to be one of the most effective ways to interest children in science and lead them eventually into careers in education, medicine, science and technology.

A Science Fair is an exhibition of scientific projects, experiments or collections by students working outside school hours. They are sponsored in a number of Canadian cities by a variety of organizations — an educational body, Rotary clubs, the Chemical Institute of Canada, or maybe a Y.M.C.A. club. Exhibits, judged on the standards of creative ability, scientific thought, thoroughness, skill, clarity and dramatic value, reach a very high standard of achievement, like the model satellite which won a first prize for John Labow in last year's Toronto Science Fair.

4-H BAND-AIDERS

The Wallbridge Band-Aiders held their seventh meeting in Wallbridge Junior School on April 7, with 8 members present. Minutes of the previous meeting were read by Donna Cole.

Discussion covered Public Health Services and General Rules for Meal Planning, and the members judged menus on the basis of nutrition and appearance.

For the home assignment for the coming week, the girls are required to plan and cook a meal for their families.

The eighth meeting will be held on April 16 at 9.30 a.m.

Farmer's Wife Valued at $5,800 a Year

TORONTO (CP) How much is a farmer's wife really worth?

A Canadian Federation of Agriculture statement reported Monday notes estimated replacement values vary not so much with the wives but with the specialists who do the figuring.

The federation said one specialist figured a minimum of $3,000 a year while another placed the value of the farmer's spouse at $5,800.

The lower estimate came from Washington State University, the federation said, and was based on a minimum 40-hour work week at $1 an hour, as housekeeper, baby sitter, cook, nurse and governess.

The federation said to this figure should be added workmen's compensation and liability insurance for the housekeeper, the cost of advertising, interview and orientation, plus the cost of a training period.

The other survey with the higher figure, assumed a family of husband and two small children, aged four and 16 months.

This is the way its figures were listed: Combination nurse-governess for the children, $80 a week; part-time housekeeper, 16 hours at $1.50 an hour, $24 a week; baby sitters, six hours a week at $1 a hour for $6 a week. Allowing for a vacation, which few farm wives get, this brought the total to $5,800 for a 48-week year.

Federation officials said in comment:

"Isn't it time we were men wakened up to the fact that our most valuable asset is a really proportioned bundle of enticing humanity?"

The federation report noted an increase in the number of farm wives holding off-farm jobs in an attempt to supplement dwindling farm income. The extra jobs they take include rural school teacher, nurse, office worker and in small town industries and stores.

PROCEDURE FOR THE DOUBLE WEDDING

The same procedure is followed at double weddings as at the wedding of one bride and bridegroom, with a few exceptions. These occur chiefly in the grouping of the attendants and ushers.

If two sisters are being married, the older sister is escorted by her father and the younger sister by her brother or some other male relative. The older sister is the first to go down the aisle.

Preceding the brides down the aisle are the ushers of both bridal parties, walking two by two. Those belonging to the first bridal party lead the way. Following them are the bridesmaids, also two by two. The maid or matron of honor of the older bride directly precedes her. The bride follows on the right arm of her father. A few paces behind them is the younger bride's maid, or matron, of honor, and directly behind her is the second bride on the right arm of her brother, or near male relative.

At the altar, the ushers of the first bridal party form a semi-circle to the left of the centre, and the bridesmaids take their places in front of them. The attendants of the second bridal couple do the same on the right. The bridal pairs now stand facing the minister, one couple a little to the right of centre and the other to the left.

The ceremony itself conforms with that of the single wedding except that after the first couple have taken their vows, this portion of the service is repeated for the second couple.

After the service is over, the bride who went down the aisle first leads the return up the aisle with her bridegroom, followed by the second bridal pair. Then the maids of honor with the best men, and the bridesmaids each on the arm of an usher, just as in the usual wedding procedure.

If the brides are not sisters, a little different formation of the bridal parties takes place in the processional. In this instance all the ushers lead the way, but each bride is preceded down the aisle by her own attendants. Of course, each father acts as escort to his own daughter in this case.

It is extremely advisable to plan for considerable rehearsing for the members of a double bridal party. Care must be taken so that the grouping of the attendants at the altar doesn't seem crowded. Different groupings from the one I have suggested are sometimes advisable, depending upon the way the altar is placed in the church. The double wedding can be one of beauty and smoothness,—but only adequate rehearsal will make this possible.

Question: I am an undemonstrative person by nature. My fiance is quite the contrary and I am always embarrassed when he kisses me in public when we meet. Do you think I should ask him not to greet me in this manner?

Answer: In the eyes of many people, it is quite all right to exchange a greeting kiss, but if this is done, it should be more or less perfunctory. Personally, I am against any display of affection in public.

Elegance Afoot

By TRACY ADRIAN

Something new in formal footwear are shiny patent leathers for evening. They have long been a must for the gentlemen, but it is only recently that this smart leather has stepped into the limelight to complement cocktail and evening dresses.

The opera pumps shown have a low vamp and a high instep line in a bow of sparkling stones. Extremely pointed toes and high stiletto heels complete their elegance.

Jewelry Plays Dramatic Role

Jewelry plays its role as fashion accent more dramatically than ever this season. Simple silhouettes, emphasis on sleeves and shoulders, and soft or light hues call for support from jewelry with personality.

Large earrings, bold plus, shortened necklaces and bracelets each have a share in the limelight. The out-size earrings, in floral, dome, drop or upsweep shapes, are part of the fashion plan to play up the top of the silhouette.

Pins, often with big, flashing stones, make an effective show on sleeves, shoulders, collars and wide belts. Along with the upward movement go necklaces in many shortened styles —snugging them, the dog-collar look, bibs, chokers. Beads are important.

Since scarcely a sleeve reaches to the wrist this spring, bracelets have a good chance to shine. Bangles, chains, wide stone bracelets are now styles in charm bracelets are some of the choices.

Jewelry in subtle tones blend with spring costumes. A companion trend to the exotic look presents jewelry in rich colors, with a continuation of the Far Eastern influence and much interest in stones.

Simulated semi - precious stones such as jade, turquoise, coral and topaz take the limelight in many designs. Faceted stones blaze with brilliance, and sometimes combine with cascades of beads.

Soft Suede Tunic Top

By ALICE ALDEN

The tunic takes over this spring, for casual as well as dressy fashions. Samuel Robert, who is famous for his leather creations, has done a suede tunic that would be perfect on cruise ships now and for country wear at home later. This butter-soft suede is in palest beige, buttoned down the side of the smock-type tunic blouse. It has full sleeves, cuffed at the wrist, and is worn over long, slim, tapered pants of the same suede.

ROASTING CHART FOR SMOKED HAM

These times are for ham with rind on, taken directly from refrigerator. Roasting Temperature is 325 deg. Fahr. for all.

Weight	Time Per lb.	Time
12 to 15 lb.	16-17 min.	3½ hrs.
10 to 12 lb.	18 min.	3½ hrs.
Under 10 lb.	20 min.	3 hrs.
Half Hams	22 min	3½ hrs.

GLAZES FOR BAKED HAM

(1) Mix together ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons apple juice (or sherry) and 1 teaspoon ground cloves. Spread over ham. Bake ½ hr. longer at 350 deg. Fahr.

(2). Heat together 1 cup (an 8-oz. jar) red jelly, such as apple, red currant or cherry, ½ cup vinegar, ¾ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon powdered ginger. Bring to boil and simmer 20 minutes. Pour part over skinned end scored ham and return to oven of 350 deg. Fahr. for 1½ hour, basting at intervals with remaining sauce.

(3). Deeply stud each square or diamond on skinned ham with a whole clove. Carefully spread with paste of 1 cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 3 tablespoons vinegar or vinegar-syrup leftover from sweet pickles. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for ½ hour.

(4) Stud scored ham with whole cloves. Mix together ¼ cup peach juice (or juice from pickled peaches), ¾ cup liquid honey, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 2 tablespoons vinegar and shake of cayenne. Carefully spread over top and sides of ham. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes or until well glazed, basting once or twice with pan juices. Note: This glaze is designed for a ham which is to be served cold. An attractive garnish is made by slipping rings of sliced maraschino cherries over each clove all over surface. This may be served with spiced peaches. If it is served hot, garnish it with broiled peach halves.

Crofton

CROFTON — Mrs. Gordon Asher of Ottawa spent the weekend with her sister Mrs. D. B. Munro, Mr. Munro and Keith and attended the confirmation of Keith at St. Thomas Anglican church in Belleville on Sunday morning.

The Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. Harold Dunn on Wednesday afternoon. Plans were made for the rally to be held at the church the Second April.

The Good Neighbor Club met at the home of Mrs. Milton Schmidt on Tuesday evening.

Mr. John Gray and mother, Mrs. W. H. Gray were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gray and family at Deseronto on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Young and family of Belleville were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Munro and Keith on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Decker and Jean of Mountain View were callers at the same home in the afternoon.

Mr. Barney Ostrom returned to his home here on Wednesday from Brockville hospital. His many friends hope to see him out and around again soon.

Miss Sandra Gray was among those to attend the "formal" at Picton High School on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Salisbury and Mrs. Charles Haight of Belleville spent Sunday evening with Mrs. E. Crook.

Mrs. Charles Gray and boys of Deseronto were Saturday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Gray and family.

Mrs. Victor Bongard attended Chapter at Amelisburg on Thursday evening.

SIAMESE TWINS

BUFFALO (AP) — Siamese twin girls, joined at the abdomen, were born here Tuesday. A hospital spokesman said the twins had a combined weight of about nine pounds. They were reported "doing nicely." Names of the parents were withheld.

Former Revolutionary Major Castro's Agent in Important Field of Cuban Education

The Castro regime wants the youngest school child to know the truth, as Castro sees it, about the United States, says Associated Press reporter William L. Ryan, who spent time in the province of Cuba to find out how things are going.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

CAMAGUEY, Cuba (AP) "Tomorrow," says the teacher, "the class will——"

A student interrupts: "Gomez says no school tomorrow."

"Gomez has declared a holiday," shouts another.

Who is Gomez? (The name here is fictitious to protect sources).

Allegedly he is a student, although he may be years over-age for the school. If his assignment is the province, likely he has been sent by Havana. He is the local leader of the student union, and in effect directs the school. He can tell teacher or principal whether there will be classes on any given day. He can, when and if he chooses, declare a holiday.

CAN SHOUT HER DOWN

If students do not like what the teacher is saying, or do not agree, they shout her down. The student leader usually is in the forefront of this curious activity in the secondary and higher schools. Some teachers have stopped fighting—resigned rather than go on under such conditions.

Gomez, or his counterpart anywhere in Cuba, is the representative of ambitious, opportunistic Rolando Cubela, a former revolutionary army major who resigned the promising job of deputy interior minister to take over the presidency of the Union of University Students. He is Fidel Castro's agent in the important field of education and propagandising of students. Many support him, but a large number of students — and teachers — detest him.

Under Cubela, all levels get an indoctrination in hate, principally for the United States. It reaches all the way down to the ranks of children just learning to read. And there is indoctrination in a cult of Fidel.

Children now sing song these lines:

"Si, las casas de Fidel, son Communistas que me pongan en la vista, pues yo estoy con el," It means: "If the things a student sees Fidel doing are Communist, I am with him."

HATRED OF U.S.

New textbooks, required for primary schools, have been published. These make an undisguised attempt to focus young hatred on the U.S.

These books tell children the U.S. plundered Cuba for half a century in a manner typical of colonialism throughout the world; if Cuba is under-developed now, that is the United States' fault. All Cuba's troubles are blamed on Washington and "Yankee imperialism."

A cartoon book attacking American press media tells The Associated Press first. The AP is pictured as one of the claws on a horrifying beast labelled with a dollar sign. Uncle Sam is shown trying to take over Latin America. A Cuban with a machete stands alert, ready to defend this design.

Specific Measures to Aid Elliot Lake Residents Will Be Announced on May 7

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government will announce by May 7 specific measures to help the Northern Ontario uranium mining town of Elliot Lake, Trade Minister Churchill said Tuesday.

Reporting to the Commons on his visit to Elliot Lake last weekend with Labor Minister Starr, he said the Ontario government and the mining companies involved are also preparing specific plans to help.

Mr. Churchill gave the report at the request of Opposition Leader Pearson. He said he could make only a general report until plans were worked out in detail.

Help for Elliot Lake required action on a broad front. Its citizens had shown commendable interest in organizing committees to attract new industry to the town, and to look after the welfare needs of miners who are displaced by the slump in uranium markets. The mines involved are making plans for retaining and increasing employment, and also for attracting new industry.

The federal government is considering ways and means of assisting the community which, through no fault of its own, is facing "trying circumstances," Mr. Churchill said.

"I think we will be in a position to provide for some assistance, and the other interests I have mentioned will be doing something very soon."

Mr. Churchill described Elliot Lake as a model community representative of the development of northern Canada. It had great possibilities for the future.

The uranium industry was suffering a "contraction" at present, but experts believed that within a few years the demand for uranium would increase "and, that being so, there will be a good future for Elliot Lake."

There is a time lag between the expiry of current orders, which will be filled by 1965, and the time that uranium is expected to meet renewal demand, Mr. Churchill said.

"In that interval, certain things will have to be done to assist the community."

The people of Elliot Lake were showing initiative and courage under "trying conditions."

Mr. Pearson asked whether the government had any concrete proposals to make now.

Mr. Churchill said that by the first week in May some announcement will be made by the federal government. He said he had given this assurance while in Elliot Lake, and it would be carried out.

50 Years of Franco-Ontarian Life to Be Surveyed at Meet

A Canadian Press staff writer has been assigned to Ottawa to report on national affairs from the French-speaking Canadian viewpoint. Here he discusses the basic education of the French-speaking minority in Ontario.

By GUY RINDEAU

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—More than 1,000 representatives of French-language organizations in Ontario will assemble here next week for the 50th anniversary of l'Association Canadienne-Française d'Education de l'Ontario.

The association has invited all affiliated groups to hold their annual meetings in conjunction with its triennial congress April 18-22, to survey "50 years of Franco-Ontarian life."

Le Conseil de la Vie Francaise en Amerique, an organization interested in the promotion of French culture in Canada and the United States, could hold its monthly meeting here at the same time.

On the congress agenda are discussions covering the life of Ontario's 600,000 French - speaking people in all its major aspects: Religion, education, economics and society.

ORIGINAL OBJECTIVE

When the association was formed in 1910, its main objective was the advancement of bilingual schools. It sought for French-speaking pupils equal opportunities to learn their mother-tongue and English, the language of the majority.

The association at that time asked for a satisfactory French curriculum in primary and secondary schools and the use of French as well as English as a language of communication.

These requests were not granted. English was the prescribed language of communication and French instruction in school was limited to an hour a day.

In 1927, after 15 years of campaigning by the association and a two-year inquiry by a provincial commission, an eight-year bilingual curriculum was authorized for primary schools and five years of French for secondary schools.

French was also recognized as a language of communication.

SEEK EQUAL SUPPORT

One of the association's main objectives at present is to have Roman Catholic secondary schools state - supported on the same basis as the public high schools.

Affiliated groups expected to participate in the association's anniversary congress are:

The Federation of St. Jean Baptiste Societies of Ontario; French-Canadian Women's Federation; Ontario Association of Bilingual School Commissions; Franco - Ontarian Farmers' Union; Federation of Parent-Teachers Associations; French Education Association of Ontario; Franco - Ontarian Youth Association; Federation of Franco-Ontarian Clubs; and the Association of Bilingual Normal School Teachers and School Inspectors.

North York Man, 100 Years Old, Hangs Himself

TORONTO (CP)—They found the body of Max Rashal Tuesday hanging by a rope from a beam in the basement of his suburban North York home. His family said he was more than 100 years old.

North York police said it was a suicide and there would be no inquest.

Neighbors said Mr. Rashal, wiry and active far beyond his years, had often said he would not wish to return to the Jewish Home for the Aged on midtown Bathurst Street from which he had three times walked out.

"The home is for old people, not for me," they recalled him saying.

His family said they had become worried about him after his second wife went to hospital and had broached the matter of his returning to the home.

Neighbors said that he continued active, even shovelling snow from his own sidewalk.

Lady Chatterley's Lover Story Is Under Scrutiny

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal's city lawmakers was adjourned Tuesday until May 5 after defence testimony from two Canadian authors, a professor of English from the United States and the publisher of the particular edition of the book which has drawn the city police prosecutor's fire.

The hearing to determine whether the book is fit to be sold in the city's bookstores was adjourned Tuesday until May 5 after defence testimony from two Canadian authors, a professor of English from the United States and the publisher of the particular edition of the book which has drawn the city police prosecutor's fire.

Prosecutor Joseph St. Laurent, who said one has only to read the book to see that it is obscene, objected to several defence witnesses to rebut the defence testimony when the hearing reopens.

American editions of the famous novel dealing with the affair between Lady Chatterley—whose world-weary husband has been made impotent by a crippling war injury—and her gamekeeper Mellors sold openly in Montreal for several weeks in 1959. Then they were seized by the Montreal police juvenile squad.

173,000 COPIES IN CANADA

Victor Weybright, chairman of the board and editor-in-chief of the New American Library of World Literature, publishers of the seized edition, said it has sold 173,000 copies in Canada.

Harry T. Moore, professor of english at Southern Illinois University, a Lawrence authority currently editing a collection of the author's letters, said Lady Chatterley's Lover was Lawrence's last major work. It was great, and far from obscene.

Lawrence was asked to delete the "four-letter words" when he first wrote it, Professor Moore said, but he refused because he felt they were organic to the book.

Both Morley Callaghan of Toronto and Hugh MacLennan of Montreal, perhaps Canada's two best-known writers, defended the book as "refreshing for modern tastes."

Mr. Callaghan, father of two, said the book would allow young people to see "a clean, simple and direct approach to sex."

Mr. MacLennan, who has taught English at McGill University students for many years, said he would not thrust the book on 15 and 16-year-old children but would not prevent them from reading it.

Mr. Callaghan said Lawrence's aim was "to give dignity to the basic relationship between man and woman."

British Government Fears Revival of Intra-White Feuding in South Africa

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A new-old element in the South African tragedy has been brought into the open by reports that the British government fears a revival of intra-white feuding — between Boers and Britons.

The spectacular struggle between Negroes and the Nationalist government's racial policies was suddenly switched to a new sphere Saturday when a wealthy British-born settler tried unsuccessfully to kill Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd.

The traditional rivalry—a mild word—between the British people in general (man of Africa), once known as Boer, is easy to understand. South Africa was a rich prize in colonial days and has become richer since.

Smaller than Quebec but with a population approaching that of Canada, South Africa is the richest country in the world in gold and diamonds and-one of the richest in uranium—to mention only mining.

THE RUNDOWN

An A-B-C of the background goes like this:

Of a total population of 14,000,000, there are 10,000,000 Bantu (which simply means "people"), 1,000,000 colored (mixed blood), 500,000 Asians and 3,000,000 whites, of whom 60 per cent is Afrikaner and most of the remainder of British origin.

Although the Nationalist party, supported stoutly by the Afrikaners, holds two-thirds of the seats in Parliament, it won less than half the popular vote in the last election which excluded the vast majority of the population.

During the last 10 years Afrikaners who formerly were mostly farmers—Boer means farmer in Dutch—have moved into commercial life. They have heavy investments in banks, insurance companies, construction and mines.

THE HISTORY

The enforcer of apartheid (racial separation), they are descendants of a group of Dutch pioneers who settled in 1652 at the Cape of Good Hope, so named earlier by the Portuguese, who didn't stay. The English also came earlier, planting the Union Jack at what now is Capetown in 1620, but they didn't stay at that time.

As the Dutch pressed northward, they clashed with African tribes migrating southward but for 150 years they were free of interference from other white men.

During the Napoleonic wars Britain occupied the Cape Colony to protect its sea lanes and the period of English colonization began. In 1843 the territory northeast of the Cape, Natal, was annexed.

The British and the Dutch went at it from the start. They spoke different languages, the British attitude toward the natives was more liberal and—although both sides were Protestant—there were differences in religion, too.

BOERS' TREK

When the British colonists freed their African slaves, the Boer trekked off to the north again and set up an independent republic in what now are the Transvaal and the Orange Free State. But the British followed and conquered them in the Boer War, which ended in 1902.

Eight years later the entire area was welded into the Union of South Africa, a self-governing Dominion within the Commonwealth. But the nationalistic cleavage in the white population lives on. The government has been talking strongly of severing connections with the Crown and Commonwealth.

While the Afrikaner is the architect of apartheid, the idea of white supremacy is no stranger on the British side, either, and both branches of the white race have traditionally lorded it over the blacks, using them as a work force at object wages.

Observers feel it is in the labor arena, particularly, that the black man could bring the white economy of the wealthy country to its knees.

It's believed the Bantu could easily cripple industry — and force the government to barter—and this was indicated in erratic work stoppages since the current crisis began.

But the same observers say this would be for the future—the Bantu now lack the organization and resources to stage such a campaign. Often living from hand to mouth they would face virtual starvation by undertaking such action now.

Rabbits in Newfoundland Making Strong Comeback

BURIN, Nfld. (CP) — Rabbits, almost extinct in Newfoundland for five or six years, are making a comeback. It's a happy development for this island where rabbit meat is a popular food.

The rise in population of the usually fecifitic rodent is attributed in part to the upward turn in what oldtime hunters say is a nine-year cycle.

Another factor appears to be that their natural enemies, the fox and lynx, have left many sections of the interior for the coast where fish offal and other feed are more abundant.

Since the rabbit season opened last Oct. 15, thousands have been sold to retailers and householders despite a provincial law which prohibits selling, preserving or canning rabbit meat.

Rabbits were introduced into Newfoundland by Stephen Rendell during the 1870s. Brought from the Maritimes, they quickly took to their new environment. They provided the Sunday roast for families in hundreds of small settlements and until recently were a regular part of the diet of trappers and woodsmen.

Hunters who depended on rationing rabbit for their livelihood sought cheap methods of taking the rabbits when they found shooting was slow and uneconomical.

They observed that the animals usually travelled on easily recognizable trails and a snare was invented. The first snares were made of twine and were common until about 30 years ago when wire snares came into use. These, however, raised a problem. Wire does not decompose quickly and many men carelessly left their snares at all year.

In the spring when the snow began to disappear the wire traps destroyed thousands of breeding animals. This meant fewer animals to catch the next year and generally contributed to the decline of the rabbit population during the 1940s and early 1950s.

Today persons who snare rabbits must remove the traps from the woods at the end of each season.

Regulations provide for a shooting season from Oct. 15 to Nov. 30. The snaring season opens Dec. 15 to March 31. There is no limit to the number of rabbits that may be taken.

A ban on sale of rabbits was imposed in 1936 as a conservation measure. Canning has also been prohibited since it was felt that commercialization would further deplete the population.

During the years the restrictions have been in effect, trappers in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick found a profitable market in Newfoundland and large quantities of tinned rabbits were imported from Australia.

Police Recover $4,056 After Two Arrested

HILLSBURGH (AP) — The Royal Bank of Canada branch in this Western Ontario village of 460 residents was raided Tuesday for the second time in 16 years, when two masked women held up the manager and escaped with an undisclosed amount of cash.

An hour later police arrested two suspects at Palgrave, 19 miles northeast of here, after forcing a car to pull up on Highway 50. Police seized $4,056.

Robert Dueck, 33, and Garfield Rideout, 21, both of Bolton, were charged with armed robbery.

Sixteen years ago an attempted robbery at the bank was foiled because a lime lock had sealed the safe for the night.

MANAGER'S ACCOUNT

Bank Manager Hugh Oxley said one of two masked men held the lone teller at gunpoint Tuesday while the other entered the manager's office. There were no customers in the bank.

"He pointed the gun at me and told me to open the safe," Mr. Oxley said.

The bandits drove off in a car. Mrs. Harriet Dyrack, who operates a grocery store across the street, made a note of the licence number and gave it to police.

The suspects were arrested by provincial police constable N. H. Skinner of Alliston, in one of 30 police cruisers which had blocked roads around this village, 20 miles northeast of Guelph.

Political-Group Sparring Features Work of Committee

OTTAWA (CP) — Sparring to establish political responsibility featured Commons committee investigations Tuesday into self-confessing irregularities on Jacques Cartier bridge in Montreal.

Opposition MPs were unlucky in details of an extortion threat reported last year by a toll collector.

The sitting of the railways committee wrapped up main questioning of harbors board officials and the next session will be April 26 with four other witnesses.

Activity here coincided with the court appearances in Montreal of six former toll collectors on charges laid by the RCMP. They were remanded to April 27.

A new automatic toll-collecting system replaced toll collectors on Jacques Cartier bridge last September and revenues have increased immediately. Many of Tuesday's questions by Liberals and Progressive Conservatives were attempts to pin delay in getting the automatic system on the Quebec government or on the previous Liberal federal administration.

TELLS OF DELAYS

Guy Beaudet, Montreal port authority boss, said he recommended the new system to the harbors board in 1956. A new rates tariff was prepared and took two years. It was submitted to Quebec in May, 1958, and came back nine months later.

Transport Minister Hees, a constant committee colleague, said the Progressive Conservative government authorized the new equipment in 1958. To his knowledge the matter hadn't been discussed by the board with his predecessor, Liberal Transport Minister George Marler.

Bridge superintendent J. A. Clement briefly described a threat reported to him last year by a toll collector who said his wife had received an anonymous telephone call. It told her her husband to hand over $3,000 but it wasn't established who the money should be paid to. The RCMP had been called in.

MONTREAL (CP)—RCMP and city police provided the courthouse in vain Tuesday to find the man who earlier this month telephoned the wife of Montreal port manager Guy Beaudet and reported a plot to kill her husband.

The anonymous caller said he would identify himself by appearing at the courthouse for the trial of six former toll collectors on the Jacques Cartier bridge charged with theft of $25,000 and breach of trust.

But police said the man apparently did not show up or—if he did—decided against identifying himself. They waited fruitlessly for two hours.

NO BINGO

CHICAGO (AP)—Albert Cardinal Meyer has ordered Roman Catholic pastors in Chicago to halt sponsorship of bingo games. Cardinal Meyer, archbishop of the Chicago diocese, told the pastors in a letter this week that as long as bingo is illegal, the parishes must find other means of raising funds.

foresee a long-range interceptor, a manned aircraft."

Gen. White said Russia has about 1,200 long-range heavy and medium bombers, including jet bombers, comparable to the U.S. Air Force's B-47 and B-52.

"The need for a manned interceptor still exists and likely will exist for a long time to come," he said.

Only the manned interceptor could identify unknowns in the air defence system. Only the manned interceptor could destroy the threat of the bomber-launched air-to-surface missile.

SHORT OF FUNDS

Gen. White said the American F-108 long-range interceptor was cancelled last year because of a squeeze on funds.

This is said in some quarters to be the reason the Arrow was cancelled though Defence Minister Pearkes has denied this in the Commons. He said the main reason for cancellation were the "decreasing threat" of bombers and "increasing need" of interceptors.

Veteran Steamer Likely to Open Shipping Year

MONTREAL (CP) — The veteran steamer Lemoyne, holder of a half-dozen world cargo records during 33 years on the Great Lakes, will probably open the St. Lawrence Seaway Monday.

St. Lawrence Seaway officials announced that the 19,000-ton Canada Steamship Lines vessel likely will inaugurate the seaway's second season.

Ice along parts of the 135-mile route has forced the seaway opening, originally scheduled for Friday, to be postponed until next Monday. It will take until next weekend to complete buoy laying along the route, officials said.

Only two ships are at anchor, below Montreal awaiting the opening, a marked contrast to last year when dozens of vessels filled the stream before the seaway was opened April 25.

The Norwegian freighter Sunny Girl and the British freighter Seadrake are the vessels at anchor. About 10 inland ships and a handful of ocean vessels are tied up in Montreal harbor until the St. Lambert lock is opened.

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — The Lakehead shipping season is in full swing. Nine grain carriers were loading here Tuesday.

Monday, the Cecil T. Jessop, second, which opened Lakehead navigation the previous day, and the Scott Misener, sailed with about 1,000,000 bushels of grain. The second was forced to return to the Lakehead Tuesday because of damage suffered on the starboard side of the hull below the water line near Hare Island.

Cause of the damage was not known immediately, but the Second returned under her own power. It is expected she will be forced to unload some grain before repairs can be made.

Included in the vessels loading was the 730-foot Murray Bay, the largest grain carrier ever launched on the Great Lakes. She was to take on only about 60 per cent of her 1,000,000-bushel capacity because of perilous navigation in the St. Mary's River.

As the result of the shipping activity, 6,000 boxcars waiting here will be able to transfer their grain into the elevators.

The carrier T. R. McLean, CSL flagship, entered drydock Tuesday for extensive repairs to her bottom, damaged last season.

The package freighter Fort Henry is due here today for a 5,000-ton cargo, and several other vessels are en route.

TV Personality Taken to Task By Fleming

OTTAWA (CP) — A statement by Toronto TV personality Charles Templeton was described by Finance Minister Fleming Tuesday night as one that "ought to bring shame to any Canadian."

Mr. Fleming, speaking in the Commons budget debate, quoted Mr. Templeton as saying on the TV program Fighting Words Sunday night that there is a chance of a Liberal revival if the economic recession predicted "is hope accurately"—by a number of well-known economists takes place.

"If that is not the kind of statement that ought to bring shame to any Canadian, I hope we will never hear a worse one than it on television," Mr. Fleming said.

The minister referred to Mr. Templeton as "one of the rising stars in the Liberal party—there are even those who refer to him . . . as the possible next leader of the Liberal party." He said Mr. Templeton is "regarded as certain to be Liberal candidate in one of the Toronto or York ridings in the next election."

In Toronto, Mr. Templeton said, "I am afraid Mr. Fleming heard only what he wanted to hear."

"If he hadn't stopped listening he would have heard me correct any misapprehension that might have grown out of my initial statement."

Mr. Templeton told a reporter that Nathan Cohen, moderator of the Fighting Words program, had asked him on the program "did I mean that I was hoping for a recession?"

Mr. Templeton said he had replied: "Of course not, but for a Liberal resurgence."

On Mr. Fleming's reference to his being a possible candidate for leadership of the Liberal party, Mr. Templeton said:

"Mr. Fleming must be privy to information that neither I nor any other member of the Liberal party has."

Future Pattern of Life For Margaret's Husband Is Subject of Speculation

By ADRIAN HALL

LONDON (Reuters) — The future pattern of life for Antony Armstrong-Jones, Princess Margaret's husband-to-be, is the subject of speculation and comment throughout Britain.

Officially, there has been no indication of the role the 30-year-old former society photographer will fill in the nation's life.

Since the announcement Feb. 26 of his engagement to the princess, Armstrong-Jones has been living in Buckingham Palace, helping to plan the May 6 wedding in Westminster Abbey.

REMAINS SILENT

He has given no interviews and palace spokesmen have parried all questions about his future status.

Only one firm decision has been announced concerning the future of the first commoner to marry the daughter of a British king in more than 400 years—he will not continue his career as a professional photographer.

His studio and apartment in London's shabby, Bohemian Pimlico quarter now are closed and up for sale.

Armstrong-Jones' decision to give up his professional work has provoked adverse comment in some sections of the British press. Regret has been expressed that a young man who brought a fresh, lively mind into the photographic world should feel that a royal marriage obliges his retirement from it.

There have been suggestions that he could continue to work in a less "commercial" branch of photography—for example, in illustrating books.

It seems certain, however, that such hopes will be dashed since members of the Royal Family nearest the monarch never have taken any part in business in Britain.

STARTING ANEW

As the husband of a princess fourth in line to the throne, the 6-foot-2, slimly - built commoner will have to carve out a completely new life for himself.

Another question is whether he will be made a peer. There is a widespread belief the Queen will make her future brother-in-law a marquess, earl, viscount or baron—four of the grades in the peerage.

One object in raising him to the higher ranks of the peerage would be to ensure that any children of the marriage would have titles of their own and not become plain "Mr." or "Miss."

Cyril F. J. Hankinson, editor of Debrett's Peerage and one of the leading authorities on the British aristocracy, says that to give Armstrong-Jones a peerage would be "detrimental to the young man's self respect." Titles, he noted, are given only for public services or for constitutional reasons.

Princess Margaret's children could be given a suitable title by royal edict, even though their father remained a commoner. Another course would be to make her a peeress in her own right.

Jean Francis Pouliot Has Mellowed in the Gracious Atmosphere of the Senate

By JAMES NELSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Jean - Francois Pouliot, Fenlanf terrible for many years in the Commons, has mellowed in the gracious atmosphere of the Senate.

He now exudes goodwill towards all his former adversaries.

"In spite of the difficulties," he said in an interview, "parliamentary life is a great thing."

Senator Pouliot, who sat in the Commons as a Liberal and sometimes as an independent from 1924 until his appointment to the Senate in 1935, says that when he writes his memoirs he will tell "the unknown truth" about many things. But that may not be for some years.

CIVIL CODE

First, he intends to complete his work on revision of the Quebec civil code, commissioned by the late Premier Duplessis.

Looking back over 31 years as member of Parliament for Temiscouata and five years as Senator, his first reaction is that everyone has been kind to him.

"I have always lived 'n an atmosphere of kindness. It makes life very pleasant."

He did not say that life had always been pleasant. Reporters can remember many times in his Commons career when political opponents and leaders of his own party loved him. He did "raise Hell" with what he called "the brass hats in swivel chairs" at defence headquarters.

"I contradicted them bitterly but we remain friends," he says.

KING ADVERSARY

Although he frequently and openly criticized the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Senator Pouliot says his leaders underscored his point of view.

"Mackenzie King never asked me to do anything or blamed me for any action of mine.

"I am a party man but I believe that one is tied by the decisions of party only inasmuch as they are decided by the majority of caucus. I am not against the party, but on the other hand I have always stood by my friends. I have had very good friends. . . .

"In the long run, I have shown as much independence as it was possible to do so, within the party."

The short, round, round-faced senator with a jaty look now has a sixth - floor office over the Senate chamber. There, surrounded by pictures of family and friends and six steel filing cabinets of personal papers, he works in a relaxed atmosphere of respect for the past.

"I belong to a family that has been in politics all the time. My maternal great-grandfather voted for the Quebec resolutions in favor of responsible government. My grandfather was a member of the Lower Canada legislature before Confederation. He voted against Confederation but was elected again after 1867. My father was elected to the Quebec house and later to the federal house here.

"I made my first speech at the age of 18, at Murray Bay. I spoke about my admiration for Sir Wilfrid from my very early childhood."

FIRST TRIP

Senator Pouliot, who turned 70 on March 28, first came to Ottawa at the age of seven when his father was an MP. That was in 1897.

"I remember one day I was alone in the gallery and my father went out of the chamber with some of his friends. So I went downstairs in a hurry and paged Sir Wilfrid, who took me to his office and sent for my father. I remember that Sir Wilfrid was very nice to me."

Lad Travels 1,200 Miles In Two Days Without Money

BUFFALO (AP)—Dean Siering, 14, is a lad with an urge to travel and a tongue of pure honey.

An airline employee, a train conductor and assorted taxi drivers fell victim to the sweet talk as Dean covered 1,200 miles in two days. The jaunt ended Monday when police caught up with Dean in a Buffalo hotel.

Dean contributed substantially to his own undoing with a flamboyant gesture. He tossed a towel across a concession counter in Central Railroad Terminal after getting off a train from Chicago.

"Eldorado," was lettered on the towel. "Help. It's the man with the brown suit."

Dean left the terminal in a taxi. Police traced him to the hotel by checking taxi drivers. Thus ended a trip that began Sunday from the home of Dean's grandmother, Mrs. Robert L. Siering of Sea Cliff, L.I.

"Just say it's domestic trouble," Dean airily told police who found him in the hotel lobby.

Police said the towel "note" apparently was intended as a joke.

Dean began his trip with a taxi ride to Idlewild airport, where he approached United Airlines Officials.

"I told them I had lost my ticket and they'd better take me because my aunt was waiting for me at O'Hare airport," he said.

FOOLED RAILROAD

At O'Hare, in Chicago, Sunday night he said he had expected friends to meet him. He gave a fictitious address to airline employees. While they were checking in, Dean took a taxi downtown and used the same ruse with the New York Central Railroad.

"I lost my ticket. They're waiting for me in Buffalo."

Police said they would make the arrangements for the last leg of Dean's excursion—back to Sea Cliff.

In Sea Cliff, Mrs. Siering said: "We all love Dean dearly, but he's got to learn to curb his more - than - ample imagination. With all this publicity, he thinks he's been an event. I'll see that he gets home but we're going to let the proper authorities escort him here."

West Calls East Claim 'Phony Baloney'

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)— British Columbia basketball officials suspect "some" of the East's "phony baloney" is involved in a statement Tuesday that Kelowna Teddy Bears didn't really win the Canadian Senior B women's basketball championship.

Teddy Bears defeated Toronto Shamrocks in straight games here last weekend in a best-of-three series.

Fred Bibby of Toronto, a member of the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association's national executive and registrar for men's and women's leagues, said Tuesday the Kelowna series was "only an exhibition." He said the B.C. girls aren't registered among those who compete for the Canadian title and that the Canadian finals are to be held in St. Lambert, Que., April 29-23 between Shamrocks and St. Lambert.

Lake Moyis of Vancouver, president of the B.C. Amateur Basketball Association, said "it sounds like some of the east's phony baloney again. Evidently they didn't think Kelowna would knock over Toronto."

Hockey Figure Andy Bellemer Dies at 52

TORONTO, (CP)—Andy Bellemer of Bala, 52, former hockey player, coach, manager and referee, died Tuesday in hospital following a lengthy illness.

Bellemer turned professional late in the 1930s as a defenceman with Windsor and played with Montreal Maroons of the National League for part of the 1932 season.

He later played with Windsor, Cleveland, Syracuse, Rochester, Kansas City, Tulsa and Dallas.

Bellemer officiated for many years in the Ontario Hockey Association and for a time coached Parry Sound juniors. A year ago, he returned to Windsor Bulldogs where he served as coach and manager.

His wife survives.

Canucks Win Three in Row

VANCOUVER (CP) — Little Danny Bellile broke clear of a Victoria Cougar attack midway through the last period Tuesday night to score the winning goal as Vancouver Canucks' 5-1 victory in the fifth game of the Western Hockey League finals.

It was Canucks' third straight victory in the best-of-nine series and gave them a 3-1 lead.

Bellile, 22-year-old native South Porcupine, Ont., also scored the winner in Vancouver's 3-2 victory in the third engagement. The former Guelph Biltmores junior star is in his second year with Vancouver. He was Canucks' top goal scorer last season with 31. This year he was in the 20-goal circle.

Colin Kilburn got Canucks' first goal. Art Jones scored for Victoria.

GOVERNMENT HELPED

CHICAGO (AP) — Government gifts paid most of the costs of last summer's Pan - American Games in Chicago, a financial report showed Tuesday. Ticket sales brought in only $337,840 of the $1,394,640 the games cost. The federal government paid in $500,000 and private donations and sponsorships accounted for another $387,000. The city of Chicago put up $500,000.

Sugar Kings Better Club This Season

HAVANA, (AP) — Practically the same club that won the 1959 little world series will open the international League baseball season here April 20 for Havana Sugar Kings.

Owner Bobby Maduro thinks he'll have "a much better ball club—except possibly for the pitching."

The Kings open with a 14-game home stand that could provide a nice cushion for the league expected from a hot-weather ball club going into the frozen north early in the spring. After their long opening home grind they move to Montreal and Toronto.

Havana will be minus the services this season of two 1959 standouts, second baseman Elio Chacon and centerfielder Tony Gonzalez. But Maduro is high on the replacements: Alex Torres, 24, a Puerto Rican who hit in the cleanup slot for the major league star - studded club Puerto Rico used in the last Caribbean world series; and Lou Jackson, a .338 slugger for Lancaster in the Eastern League last season.

MARK DOUBTFUL

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Pole-vaulter J. D. Martin, University of Oklahoma junior, cleared the cross bar at a world record height of 15 feet, 8¼ inches Tuesday. But there was some doubt about the mark being accepted because the cross bar was set behind the upright and in front of another and because there was tape on the pegs which jut out from the uprights to support the cross bar. The existing indoor world record is 15-8½.

Here's How The Aussies Won By a Hair

SYDNEY (AP) — Australian coaches and swimmers are shocking over a story from New Haven, Conn., saying some experts are linking records made there recently to the fact the fast swimmers shaved their legs and chests.

"I was wondering how long it would take them to wake up to it," laughed coach Forbes Carlile, adding that Australian swimmers, both men and women, have been shaving themselves for years to speed their passage through the water.

"Today it is a ritual for swimmers to shave their legs a day before each carnival," Carlile explained. "Jon Henricks for one was shaving his legs long before the 1956 Olympic Games."

Carlile pointed out that research had its part in the shaving program.

"Scientific tests we carried out at Sydney University in 1950 proved that water resistance from hair on the legs and chest would retard a swimmer to the extent of a second in 110 yards," he said. "No doubt the Americans have noticed that Jon Henricks and Murray Rose were shaved when they swam. "It used to amaze me to see those great, hairy Yanks on the starting board."

Sponsor Won't Desert Golf

NEW YORK (AP)—K. Arnold Mikahin, president of Ralph Cigars, said today his company will continue to sponsor the world championship golf television program which received wide publicity following the Sam Snead "incident."

Snead, in a match filmed in Bermuda last December, intentionally lost two of the last three holes of his match against Mason Rudolph when he discovered he had an extra club in his bag. Under the rules, he already had lost the match but his admission that he "threw" two holes created a furore.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Up in Bemidji, Minnesota, there's a small state college by that name that provides small material for some 1,400 students.

They call Bemidji the "ice-box of the nation." On a sultry winter day the mercury flirts between the 30 and 40 below mark. It's about 200 miles north, as the polar bears waddle, of St. Paul.

WAYNE BOYAY

Athletics is one of the educational forte of Bemidji State. It has practically everything on ice, sportswise, but hot hockey. That is until Wayne Boyay of this city, not a bad athlete in his own right, landed the student body.

Some 14 of Bemidji's knowledge-seekers were Canadians. Eight of these were hockey players, mainly from the Canadian west. They were players of, say between junior "B" and junior "A" calibres.

There was no ice arena at Bemidji. But the campus bordera a king-size lake.

It irked these puck-loving Canucks to see that great big expanse of ice going to waste. But they had no pucks, no sticks, and no mother hockey coach under their wings.

Harry Fritz, the college athletic director, is tops in his field. What he doesn't know about football, basketball and other great American sports, you can stick inside a shoulder-pad.

Mr. Fritz is a southerner, sub, he's in Missouri. He had seen a hockey game or so on the living-room miniature screen. Live? Never. What he knew about the fundamentals, rules, regulations of the game, you could insert in the other shoulder-pad.

Would he stand in the way of his hockey-hungry Canadians if they wanted to do something about a team and a rink? No sub. Mr. Fritz was 100 per cent co-operation.

He appointed young Mr. Boyay coach, chief carpenter, sire-boss, architect, organizer, funds-raiser, and general supervisor of the entire scheme.

So Wayne and his Canadian cohorts lived, breathed, talked and dreamed hockey all over the campus.

Other state colleges had hockey, why not dear old Bemidji? Where is the old college spirit. We have player material right here in the school, they said.

It worked. Before long Wayne and the crew had wangled some $1,500 of college funds, and acquired the green light on the hockey project.

They secured equipment and practices started on the wide open spaces of the lake. They carried shovels with their hockey sticks, for more than likely a snowstorm would blow up—and the "rink" had to be cleared.

Wayne got a team organized with the help of Ron McKechnie of Estevan, Sask., and Laurie Ostry of Winnipeg, a youngster who had played goal with a junior "A" squad. Other hockey-playing Canadians lined up and it wasn't long before the boys had a hockey team which they thought could hold their own with teams from colleges of the same size.

So they arranged a four-game schedule with Concordia College, Northland College and St. Cloud State of Minnesota and Ashland College of Wisconsin.

But they needed a rink. So they spent the rest of the funds in a lumber purchase. It so happened the lumber did not arrive until the Wednesday before the opening game, slated for the following Saturday.

They got their heads together. A call for help was sounded, and answered by the hockey team and a number of the student body. They took off their jackets, rolled up their sleeves and went to work.

By Saturday morning they had a boarded rink, 200 by 90. It was built in sections, so the entire structure could be moved from one part of the lake to another, depending on snow conditions.

And so Bemidji State acquired its first hockey team and first open-air hockey arena.

The other college teams came, saw, wondered, but only two of them conquered. Bemidji's first-year hockey record was won two, lost two.

It was 10 below on the morning of the first game. But 800 of the student body came to cheer the alma mammy's first puck-chasing squad to victory. And they liked what they saw.

Next season, Wayne says, Bemidji will play a fifteen-game schedule. Before too long, it is hoped, the college team will step up to a higher class league.

He arrived home the other day for the Easter vacation. Said he hitch-hiked the 1,400 miles from Bemidji to Belleville, "without any trouble."

He saw several of the mid-west college hockey games. One of these sticks out in the memory of this Puck Pioneer of Bemidji.

Michigan State was playing another college team. Shortly after the game started a tall, red-headed youngster stepped down centre ice, swung around the defence and fired home Michigan's first goal.

A few minutes later he duplicated the feat. Before the period ended, the redhead again swept through the opposition and swung the puck over to a team-mate, who scored.

The redhead? His name was Gord Berenson.

Imlach's Crystal Ball Evil Eye; Leafs Clobbered

Left Hanging on the Ropes After Habs Whomp 'Em 5-2; Rocket Gets in on the Act

Ben BENWARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Montreal Canadiens, playing what coach Toe Blake called their best game of the playoffs, outclassed Toronto Maple Leafs 5-2 Tuesday night for a 3-0 stranglehold on the best - of - seven Stanley Cup final.

It left Leafs hanging on the ropes for the fourth game here Thursday night.

A scoring explosion by Canadiens' almost-forgotten third line of Phil Goyette, Andre Pronovost and Marcel Provost and the solid work of goalie Jacques Plante behind a stone-wall defence stymied Leafs.

Goyette, with two goals, was a standout on offence. Don Marshall and the dynamic Richard brothers — Maurice and Henri — got the other Montreal goals.

Johnny Wilson and Bert Olmstead handled Toronto's scoring.

The crowd of 13,307 had little to cheer about after Leafs' opening burst of the first period died out under fierce Montreal forechecking and some of the finest defensive work of the series by Doug Harvey, Albert Langlois, Tom Johnson and Jean-Guy Talbot.

Even Punch Imlach, Toronto's optimistic coach, agreed with Blake. Leafs "have no alibis about that one," he said.

Plante—who Imlach said was "material"—got the Montreal players' vote as the man of the night but shared the glory with Maurice Richard. Richard, whose shooting gave Bower trouble throughout.

The 38-year-old Rocket, defying an attempt by the years to slow him down, skated like a rookie. His goal, the first he has scored in seven playoff games this year, drew an appreciative shout from the Toronto fans.

BEST GAME

"That was the Rocket's best game in the two series," Blake beamed. "I was tickled to see him get one."

Marshall got the only goal of the first period. The fourth - line centre took a pass from Billy Hicke at the Toronto blue line and roared in on goalkeeper Johnny Bower with only defenceman Bob Baun to beat. Bower went after the shot, screened by Baun, too late.

Provost's fine pass put Goyette right on top of Bower and a quick flip lifted the puck over the netminder's stick at 20 seconds of the second period.

Leafs lost an opportunity when Plante came through with a sensational stop on Ron Stewart when the Toronto forward appeared to have him caught cold.

Henri Richard took the wind out of Leafs' pressure drive late in the second period. He stole the puck from defenceman Tim Horton on the side boards, tore across the blueline feeding off two other Leafs and fired a slider into the corner.

From then on Montreal's defence just about had the door locked. Leafs began tiring under the strain of trying to get a play clicking over the Montreal blue line and time and again Canadiens stole the puck in the corners.

Wilson made it 3-1 when Carl Brewer's 35-foot drive bounced off Plante's chest, struck Wilson and bounded off him into the net. During the play Brewer went in

Chatham Opens Eastern Finals In Hull Arena

By ART WILKES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HULL, Que. (CP)—Hull Legion and Chatham Maroons have one thing in common as they prepare for the Eastern Canada Allan Cup hockey final opening here tonight—both are come-from-behind teams.

The Ottawa district champions came back from the brink of elimination in the Interprovincial Senior A League playoffs and squeezed past Amherst Ramblers after dropping the first two games of the eastern semi-final.

Maroons dropped the first two games of their eastern semi-final with Rouyn-Noranda but took the next three.

Legion practised Tuesday night for their second straight eastern final. They lost to Whitby Dunlops last year.

"The second game of the best-of-five final will be played here Friday night with the series shifting to Chatham Monday. The fourth and fifth games, if necessary will be played in Chatham Thursday and Friday.

"We haven't the slightest idea how we'll fare," said Legion coach Marcel Legris. "Maroons lost 10-2 to Rouyn-Noranda and this indicates they have some weakness," he said.

"We're going to have to find out and capitalize on it."

Legion's top line is made up of Guy Beauregard, Gilles Champagne and Leo Gravelle. Gravelle, 35, has played with Montreal Canadiens and the old Ottawa Senators and has been the team sparkplug in the playoffs.

Hull will use five defencemen, four regulars and Don Thomson, picked up from Smiths Falls of the Senior Interprovincial League.

Roger Fortin is the netminder. Average age of the team is 28.

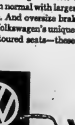
Volkswagen rides like a big car—with springs you can't even see! Sealed in tubes, they're protected from rust, dust and dirt. These torsion bars give independent springing to each of the four wheels—unlike any other family car. You get the same remarkable riding comfort front seat or back.



Volkswagen wheels are different, too. They are larger than normal with larger tires for softer, more comfortable ride. And oversize brakes give you maximum safety.

Volkswagen's unique suspension, large wheels, luxurious contoured seats—these are the important things when it comes to riding comfort—not size. Volkswagen's ride on any road is unmatched, even by big cars.

That Volkswagen's famous engine is different, is a well known fact. It's in the rear, of course. It's air-cooled. In fact, it has set a new trend in motor design. You get up to 40 miles per gallon and can drive at top speed all day long—if you wish.

All this makes Volkswagen different. When you drive it you'll find—

Favored Three Are Away To Flying Start

Giants, Dodgers, Braves Win Over Chicubs, Pirates, Cards In Senior League Openers

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

The National League's off on another pennant chase with Los Angeles, Milwaukee and San Francisco jammed together at the top.

The world champion Dodgers, drawing a record crowd at the Coliseum, defeated Chicago Cubs 2-0 in 11 innings Tuesday night. The Braves clipped Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3. And the Giants defeated St. Louis Cardinals 3-1 for a debut in their $13,000,000 Candlestick Park.

In the other afternoon game, Cincinnati's Reds whipped Philadelphia Phillies 9-4.

The four games drew 119,764 fans, an opening day record for the NL. The American League, still playing exhibition games, opens Monday.

ESSEGIAN WINS IT

Chuck Essegian broke it up for Los Angeles with a two - out, pinch-hit home run in the 11th off reliever Don Elston. He was batting for Don Drysdale, who blanked the Cubs on three singles over the last eight innings and got a jump toward another strikeout crown. He struck out 14.

The Cubs got four of their seven hits and both runs in the third. Don Zimmer opened it with a home run.

The Dodgers tied it on a pair of walks and a two-out double by Wally Moon in the fifth against starter Bob Anderson, who fanned nine in his eight frames.

The game drew 67,550, a NL record for a night game. The old high was 61,007, set at the Coliseum last August 8 for a game with the Braves.

FACE'S DOWNFALL

Joe Adcock's two-run homer in the eighth broke up a 2-2 game for the Braves before 39,888 at Milwaukee's County Stadium. The shot followed a single by Hank Aaron and came off Roy Face, the little right-hander who ran up a two-season streak of 20 victories by winning his first 17 last season.

Oddly, the Braves were the only club Face didn't beat in that streak, and the club that beat him last before he started the run. Fact is, he's dropped seven in a row to Milwaukee, going back to 1956.

Warren Spahn hit his 24th home run, a career high for pitchers in the NL, but gave way after blanking the Pirates on four hits for seven frames. Don McMahon came on in the eighth and won it, but needed help from Lew Burdette in the ninth.

Sad Sam Jones gave up only three hits—all by ex - Giants—while fanning the Cards for the fifth straight time since they traded him to the Giants 13 months ago. Bill White singled twice, in the first and the ninth, and Leon Wagner junked the stutwart with a home run in the fifth.

Orlando Cepeda drove in the Giants' runs, tripling home a pair of unearned markers in the first—after an error by ex - Giant Daryl Spencer at short — and singling home Willie Kirys in the third. Larry Jackson lost it before a full house of 42,269.

The Phillies and Robin Roberts blew a 4-0 lead at Cincinnati, where 30,075 saw Roy McMillan's two-on homer cap a five-run second. Hoodoo Tony Gonzales hit a two-run homer for the Reds, also off Roberts, while lefty Jim O'Toole won it with six innings of two-hit, shutout relief.

The American League, still playing exhibition games, opens next Monday with Boston at Washington in the league's first official first game.

Kansas City beat Baltimore 3-0 behind Bob Hooton, but Detroit 3-0 behind a joint one-hitter by Tom Sturdivant and Al Worthington. Cleveland smacked New York 7-4 and the Chicago White Sox blanked Washington 5-0 as Frank Baumann and Ray Moore combined for a three-hitter.

Third League Opens in 1961 Despite No Sign of Support

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Branch Rickey has reiterated that the Continental League, despite lack of support from organized baseball, will begin operations on schedule in 1961.

The 79-year-old head of the would-be major circuit said he is more certain than ever that the league would not only become a reality next year but would surpass the two major leagues in four years.

Rickey's optimism was voiced during a special ceremony in city hall Tuesday when a model of the proposed stadium for the New York entry was unveiled to reporters. Mayor Robert Wagner said the board of estimate will vote in favor of it for construction at a meeting April 27.

"I assure you," he said, "the city of New York is behind this and we are going to see it through to a successful conclusion. There is nothing in the way now for New York to have a second major league team."

ROTATING SEATS

Plans call for a 55,000 - seat stadium with movable sections for conversion to accommodate 80,000 for football. A proposed parking lot would accommodate 5,500 automobiles. The stadium also will feature two sections of rotating seats, the absence of pillars and columns or any other construction, escalators and continuous lighting.

The city will build the stadium and lease it to the baseball franchise owners. The venture, according to the mayor, will not cost the taxpayers a penny. It will be self-liquidating, on the basis of a 30-year-bond issue totalling $30,000,000 a year.

Rickey commented: "I'm not saying all of our cities will have their own parks by 1961 but we will expect even if it means we will play somewhere else. Eventually, we will have our own playing sites. That is no problem, as I see it.

Pitching: Sam Jones, San Francisco Giants, checked St. Louis Cardinals on three hits and walked one man for a 3-1 victory.

Patterson Has One Thought; It's a Swede

TORONTO (CP) — Former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson watched Tuesday night's Stanley Cup hockey game here but left soon after for his Connecticut training camp to resume training for his June 22 rematch with Ingemar Johansson.

He said that as far as he's concerned only two heavyweights are considerations for title bouts —Sonny Liston and Zora Folley. But the 25 - year - old Brooklyn boxer made no comment about subsequent bouts involving himself and either of his nominees.

"I can think of only one man now," he said. That's Johansson. If I beat him, there'll be another rematch.

Soccer Player Says Apartheid Cost Him Job

WOLVERHAMPTON, England, (AP)—South African soccer star Eddie Stuart claimed Tuesday the apartheid controversy has cost him his place with Wolverhampton Wanderers.

"I am getting letters and phone calls almost daily, insulting me because I am South African," said the right back from Johannesburg in an interview.

Stuart had an ambition to be the first South African to lead a team in the cup final at London's Wembley Stadium May 7. He captained the Wolves for a spell earlier in the season.

Wolverhampton has reached the cup final but Stuart has lost his place and is playing in the reserves.

Meanwhile, a new move was made to boycott the South African cricket team which arrives in England next week.

The South Africans are scheduled to begin their tour with a three-day game against Worcestershire at Worcester starting May 4. The committee of the Worcester Labor party announced it was recommending that "all those who view with repugnance the policy of apartheid show their disapproval by staying away from this match."

Playhouse 90 Viewers Will Get Course on Mental Illness

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Playhouse 90 viewers will get a course on mental illness on April 22 with the presentation of Journey to the Day.

The CBS drama is concerned with the treatment of six patients in a mental hospital, each suffering from a different type of illness. The actors and actresses who will play the patients have been engaging in a cram course in psychiatry supplemented by field trips to prepare themselves for their roles.

All the research was pretty much wasted in the case of comedienne Elaine May, who withdrew from the cast last week after a difference of opinion about the handling of her role. She was to play a schizophrenic of the catatonic type—withdrawn that she was almost immobile and had only four lines to speak.

One of the classic private eyes, Hercule Poirot, Agatha Christie's little Belgian sleuth, will be the hero of an hour-long filmed show with Jose Ferrer as the star. If Poirot becomes a hit of Perry Mason proportions, it might open a big new business other fast-fact-ing, non-violent literary detectives—Lono Peter Wimsey and Nero Wolfe among them . . .

NBC is planning to replace its Sunday Showcase dramas next season with a Shirley Temple series of fairy tales and classics —a decision which probably isn't causing new ulcers around the offices of rival CBS and ABC.

Numbers Racket, a semi-documentary.

One-Time Blacklist Victim Now Honored Screen Writer

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hedrick Young is a well-groomed man with steel-grey hair who is good-looking enough to be an actor.

Indeed, he was an actor until 1953. Since then he has been a luggage salesman, junk man and bartender.

Now he is a screen writer, well paid and well honored. Last year he and collaborator Harold Jacob Smith won Oscars for their original screen play, "The Defiant Ones. They have since written Inherit the Wind and Mr. Cory-dons Brothers, all for producer Stanley Kramer.

Young has written under the pseudonym of Mason E. Douglas "for obvious reasons."

POLITICAL STRAIN

The cause of Young's disparity of occupations is a political storm which has hung over Hollywood for 13 years and is still raging. Here is his story:

Young grew up in depression-years Philadelphia, a time and place which he admits were conducive to liberal political thinking. He had to quit Temple University in 1931 when his father died. The family lived by various enterprises, from running a seaman's boarding house to operating a restaurant.

Young got into acting, had some success on Broadway and in films before his wartime army service. After the war Warners signed him to an acting contract and said he was destined for big things.

One day Young was served with a subpoena to appear before the House of Representatives committee on un-American activities. He showed up and admits he was "a very unfriendly witness." He cited the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution regarding self-incrimination in refusing to tell if he had been a Communist.

BARRED BY STUDIOS

Young acted in three pictures at Warners. His contract over, he was dropped. He says he could not find a job as an actor or writer in movies—"My agent told me the doors were shut everywhere."

With a wife and two children to support, he sought jobs in other industries. He says he even helped a man pick up junk for charity until a kid recognized him from an old movie on TV. "The man was scared and let me go," says Young. "I'm the only man who was ever blacklisted off a junk wagon."

Later he took a job as bartender, and met an MGM producer one night. The producer reported the studio was planning to refurbish a script that Young had written for Gene Kelly. It was designed for Elvis Presley and called Jailhouse Rock. The writer asked for and got screen credit.

No great furor arose, and he was encouraged to write "Inherit the Wind." Then came "Defiant Ones" with Smith. Kramer bought it immediately and signed both for two more pictures.

Was Young a Communist?

"Do you really want to know?" he asked. I said I did.

"On the day when my answer makes no difference to whether or not I can get work, I will buy you a drink and tell you," he said. "I have been asked many times why I don't make things easy for myself and 'recent.'

"I simply won't do it just to secure an economic advantage for myself. Others can. I'm not made that way. A man has to live with himself."

Young was more explicit in his feelings about blacklists:

"I think the Hollywood blacklist was horrible, wasteful, stupid and idiotic. I think the nation suffered because of it, in that the quality of films started to decline about the same time as the blacklist started.

Young's views, of course, are violently opposed by many in Hollywood and the controversy continues. Throughout the years no one has been able to prove that Communists were able to put across their messages on the screen.

Says actor Ronald Reagan: "The danger is not what is on the screen. It is what these people do behind the scenes to gain power in organizations to further their beliefs."

Bettors Lax In Collecting

LINCOLN, R.I. (AP)—Wanted: Four persons to claim $8,320.80. Mutual manager Bill Kercher of Lincoln Downs race track issued a plea for holders of winning tickets still out to cash them as soon as possible.

On them, dating back to April 5, is worth $5,714.40. Another for April 7 is worth $1,822 and two from April 8 are worth $362.20 each.

Koppe Copped The 'Firsts' In First Game

CINCINNATI (AP) — Shortstop Joe Koppe practically initiated the baseball season Tuesday with opening-day "firsts" as Cincinnati Reds defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 3-1 in 7 innings.

Koppe was the first man up. He drew the first walk. This made him the first man on base, and he also was the first to score. Later he became the first to steal a base.

To top this off, he was the first to handle the ball for the Phillies and he muffed it. He was charged with the first error. He also had another error, becoming the first man to draw two errors in one game.

He also was the first of the Phillies to get two hits.

But Roy McMillan, Cincinnati shortstop, had the distinction of hitting the first home run. He got it in the second inning off Robin Roberts.

AT THE PARK — Yvonne De Carlo co-stars as a fearless mountain girl in Allied Artists' Technicolor "Shotgun," now at the Park Theatre with Sterling Hayden and Zachary Scott. Producer-director William Castle's next picture, "Because They're Young," starring Dick Clark with Michael Callan, Tuesday Weld and Victoria Shaw. Special Good Friday starts at 1.30. Doors open at 12.45 p.m.

AT THE PARK — Clark, the man who knows youth best, stars in "Because They're Young", Columbia Picture' drama of today's youth. Michael Callan, Tuesday Weld and Victoria Shaw co-star. Tonight at the Park Theatre for its first Belleville and district showings. On the same program in Technicolor, action and thrills, "Shotgun", starring Yvonne De Carlo and Sterling Hayden. Matinee Good Friday starts at 1.30 p.m.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Thursday, April 14

General tendencies: The daytime is fine for securing any article of charm or beauty as well as reconciling any differences of opinion. However, the evening becomes a time when harmony can be blown to the four winds unless special care is used to prevent arguments from arising. Also, be sure to sidestep hasty actions for some accidents could result.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — You are at your charming best today, so be sure to make a good impression upon persons who can pave the way to greater success for you. P. M. remain steady. Take care you do not let new and valuable contact. Think clearly.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — A kind deed you do for an invalid, plus intelligent decisions you reach with persons in secret conference, will pay off in big future dividends in the future. P. M. remain neutral when a higher-up lambasts a close comrade, or vice versa.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Conferences with associates, good customers will reveal just the information you require today. However, be certain you understand their viewpoint. P.M. stay way of higher-ups with a chip on the shoulder. Don't be the goat.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Get together with that charming higher-up who can make your future more successful and brighter. Be gracious. Be careful this evening not to fly off somewhere with some unknown newcomer. Be on the safe side — retire early.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — You will be wonderfully inspired today how to reach your goals with greater facility and speed. Be careful in P. M. you do not show any jealousy, no matter what the circumstances may be. Also, take economy measures.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — You can quietly and pleasantly give family ties your ideas for increasing harmony within the home and get fine results. P. M. a good friend may feel argumentative. Soothe ruffled feathers. Be objective.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — Make it a point to contact at many good friends as you go today and show a most co-operative spirit. Then shop for items you need. P. M. fix wardrobe, take health treatments.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — Add artistic pizzaz to present surroundings and realize greater charm and well-being to your daily existence. P. M. be certain you are not extravagant in matters of pleasure or you deplete hard-earned savings.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — This can be a very pleasurable day for you since you feel very dynamic. Dress nicely and have a ball. Be sure tonight you are understanding and kind with troubled members of your clan. Use a philosophical approach.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Secret anglings in financial and all other practical affairs produce excellent benefits today. Be sure you drive carefully in P.M. and also think carefully before you speak. Don't alienate the affections of others.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — It will be possible to confer with associates, kin, comrades of all today so that you can advance more quickly in your career or personal desires. P. M. do not invest unwisely in anything or you ruin present security.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — It would be wise to learn what your true position is with a higher-up who has power over your affairs. Do whatever is necessary to correct better relations. P. M. not good for social life. Get personal matters straightened out.

If your child is born today ...

The fortunate little child born today will enjoy a more pleasant childhood than most because of the fine environment in which he, or she is born. However, be sure you give your progeny as fine a practical education as possible, since the latter years are a definite desire to accomplish something very worthwhile. Also, so do not neglect training in important spiritual Truths.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE HELPS BREAK DOWN FATS

IN THE DIGESTIVE TRACT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fats ... actually breaks them down. It is an established fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fats are broken down and form a smooth, easy-flowing oil.

In your digestive tract, liver bile helps break down fats the same way. Many of the foods you eat reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down these fats ... for easier and more complete digestion.

Carter's Little Liver Pills' exclusive formula of vegetable ingredients relieves irregularity quickly and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fats in your digestive tract.

So when you feel sluggish, headachy, nervous and need a laxative, take Carter's Little Liver Pills.

FLEMING

no solution to pressing economic problems. Mr. Fleming has budgeted for a small $12,000,000 surplus.

The Liberal motion was defeated 116 to 71. The Conservatives trampling the combined forces of the CCF and Liberals.

Today, the House will vote on the budget itself, then MPs will scatter to their constituencies for Easter. The recess will last until April 25.

URGES PLANNING

The Liberal leader hammered away at the need for planning against the economic recession which he said the government have predicted will begin in the next year or so.

Asserting that the government's financial position is weaker than it was following the last recession, Mr. Pearson demanded to know what plans have been made for combatting the predicted downturn.

"Will the government once again fall back on a series of ad hoc expedients, while getting the Bank of Canada to bail it out through another round of rapid credit expansion and monetary inflation?"

DEFENDS FINANCING

Mr. Fleming defended the government's record of deficit financing in 1958 and 1959. The government had increased social security payments, thus boosting consumer purchasing. It had also spent a large sum on new industrial housing, thereby relieving unemployment.

It increased expenditures on public works, providing further employment, "and we went down the line in that way to put forward constructive measures to help the country out of the recession."

The Liberals were "completely, utterly and hopelessly self-confused," he said, "as to whether these honorable gentlemen desire a balanced budget or a deficit."

THRASHED TO DEATH

BOUND BROOK, N.J. (AP)—A year-old boy fell into a washing machine Tuesday and was thrashed to death by its blades. Owen Williams had wandered away from his mother, climbed through a kitchen window and fell on the washing machine lid. When his milk bottle fell into the machine, he reached after it and also fell in.

tigate Labor Minister Daly's purchase of a farm, worker safety codes and Ontario's purchase of land on the Sarnia Indian reserve.

Government - appointed committees on agricultural marketing and diversification, established in 1958, will continue to hold meetings.

During the session the legislature approved a budget calling for provincial spending of about $900,000,000, this year. Members also got pay rises of $1,000 a year, raising average income to $7,000 a year.

STRONGER DEBATES

A revitalized opposition provided some hard-hitting debates. The Liberal forces were doubled up to 22 and the CCF group increased to five from four in last June's provincial election.

Attacked by the opposition were farm marketing boards, liquor and energy resources legislation and amendments to the Farm Products Marketing Act.

Energy Resources Minister Macaulay ran into trouble on a second vice-president of Ontario Hydro. The opposition charged the Hydro with purchasing 173 acres of land at $7,000 an acre which a company had since purchased from Sarnia's Chipman Indians for about $3,000 an acre.

Mr. Macaulay and Mr. Frost were criticized for not finding some solution to the unemployment problem at the aluminum mining community of Elliot Lake.

Government amendments to the Labor Relations Act and the Liquor Control Act sparked anger and ridicule. The opposition and the labor amendments restricted unions' power to picket management more control. The liquor amendments now make it legal to serve a guest drinks in a private home.

CALEY IS TARGET

Favorite target for opposition attacks was Mr. Daly. By the session's end he had gone through two special inquiries, been accused of improper conduct in a chairman of the Niagara Parks Commission and subjected to criticism for the use or legislation, for buying a piece of NPC property and for not revising worker safety codes.

The House also implemented some sections of the Gordon report on the organization of government in Ontario.

Mr. Frost established a facfinding committee to report on portable pensions. He said they would have to be introduced soon to protect the growing number of older workers.

Other work included:

Legislation in license" and regulate private employment agencies, replacement of the fuel board by the Ontario Energy Board, expansion of provincial parks, increased education grants, provision for construction of an $18,000,000 international bridge between Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Michigan, amendments to the Highway Traffic Act and research programs into pulpwood fibreless and chronic drunkenness.

BOMARC MISSILE

his comments later it appeared some of the questioning dealt with Canadian plans to acquire two squadrons of Bomarc-B missiles for location at North Bay, Ont., and Mont-Laurier, Que.

The U.S. under its reduced program plans to have a total number of Bomarc bases — using both A and B type missiles—to eight from 18 planned last year and the 32 proposed two years ago. All of the U.S. bomarc program would be concentrated in the northeast corner of the U.S.

WOULD DIVERT FUNDS

Three weeks ago after the seventh consecutive flight - test failure of the Bomarc-B, the air force proposed that its Bomarc program account for the next fiscal year be reduced to $40,000,000 from $121,300,000, diverting the difference to long-range satellites and radar.

The $40,500,000 would be used for continued testing of the Bomarc-B.

A defence adviser who was at the Senate hearing told later the questioning was such that it indicated the senators would approve of the reduced Bomarc production or ask that it be cut still more.

Believe Family Has Made Contact With Kidnappers

Holders of Peugeot Boy Ask $98,000 for Return

PARIS (Reuters)—The million-aire family of four-year-old Eric Peugeot say they believed today they have made contact with two men who kidnapped the boy from a playground two days ago.

Mme. Giselle Banet, the bloods youngster's aunt, left the Peugeot home early today carrying a briefcase, giving rise to the belief that the family had arranged a meeting with the kidnappers.

The boy's captors are demanding 50,000,000 francs (about $98,000) for the return of Eric, the grandson of millionaire car parts manufacturer Ernest Peugeot.

As Mme. Banet left the Peugeot home, Eric's father, Roland Peugeot, refused to conduct on-the-spot searches in an attempt to find the kidnappers. But the public prosecutor ordered them not to intervene in the ransom negotiations for the safe return of the boy's life.

The only clue police had was a red smudge on the back of an envelope containing the kidnappers' demands. Police left near the spot where little Eric was snatched, after he was playing on a Peugeot car.

The kidnap note was sent to the police - laboratory to determine whether the smudge was red lipstick or blood. Police said perhaps involved in the kidnapping and had left traces of her lips stuck on the envelope when she sealed it.

The kidnappers telephoned Eric's father twice Wednesday, the second time from Lisbon, and the calls were made from public telephone booths so they could not be traced.

Millionaire of Frenchmen watched the 34-year-old father appear before television cameras and plead for the boy's release.

"It is a father whose son has just been taken from him who speaks to you tonight," he said. "I am sure everyone who has children will love them with understand me.

"My only worry is to find Eric safe and sound as soon as possible."

Meanwhile, French police began a search which included the whole of France and the United States by almost 30 years ago for the kidnapper of Charles Lindbergh's son.

The case has shocked France where kidnappings are rare. The last known case was in 1949.

Arrest Plane Passenger for Tale About Bomb

MONTREAL -(CP) — A man identified by police as Allard Mackay of Toronto was arrested early today after telling a stewardess aboard a TCA plane that there was a bomb in his brief case.

Police said Mackay was one of 39 passengers aboard a plane that had taken off from Montreal airport at suburban Dorval for Toronto.

A stewardess told police the aircraft was only minutes out from the airport when she reached for a briefcase and was told by a man sitting nearby: "Don't touch the briefcase—it contains a bomb."

The stewardess notified the pilot who decided to return to Dorval. Provincial police were alerted and the man's briefcase and bomb was found in the briefcase.

The plane was delayed two hours).

Police said Mackay, a Toronto salesman, will be charged, probably later today, with public mischief.)

OUT OF WORK

Mackay gave his age as M. He indicated to police that he is now unemployed and had come to Montreal in search of work.

Detectives said that crew members questioned Mackay aboard the plane after the stewardess had reported his remarks to the pilot.

"It's only a joke," he told the crew.

But other passengers aboard demanded a search of the plane. The pilot then decided to turn back.

An airline official estimated the delay had cost TCA approximately $7,000.

Conductor Fined, Blocked Crossing For 12 Minutes

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Conductor William T. Lasonde was fined $25 in court here Wednesday for blocking a railway crossing with his train for more than 10 minutes.

Lasonde, 37, was conductor on a CNR passenger train travelling from Montreal to Chicago with 15 coaches of hockey fans for a Stanley Hockey League semi-final game.

The comparatively rare charge was laid by Deputy Provincial Crown Ruscinan who testified that his car was one of the cars that had to wait 12 minutes at the Perth Street crossing.

MEMBER CHARGES AUTAIR SERVICES GIVEN PRIVILEGES

Got Govt. Licences, Contracts Is Claim

OTTAWA (CP) — Did Autair Helicopter Services Limited of Montreal get special treatment in terms of flying licences and federal government aid?

As the Commons began its Easter recess Wednesday, this question hovered in the air, along with another one:

Did former RCAF pilot D. W. Connor of Montreal, Autair's president, help to supply Communist Czechoslovakia with plane parts and equipment 10 years ago during the global aviation of New York, a firm he headed before it folded in 1951?

The questions arose from debate in the Commons of Lionel Chevrier, former Liberal transport minister, for a government inquiry into 1950 allegations by Slowsweek magazine about Mr. Connor and also into Autair's licensing and bidding on a government contract for helicopter work in the Arctic.

LEVELS CHARGES

Regarding Autair's licencing, Colonel Chevrier winding up a nine-hour-plus contract. Mr. Chevrier charged that Autair:

1. Defied air transport board decisions by withholding an 8 p.m. financial stability and other matters.

2. Flew light helicopters on charter for the Quebec government and other customers without ever obtaining a licence, contrary to law.

3. Successfully appealed to Transport Minister Hees to overrule the air transport board and grant it permission to fly heavy helicopters.

4. Won a contract to carry government scientists surveying the Arctic ice, after recommendation of Mines Minister Comtois, although the company's bid was not the lowest on all counts of the five received.

5. Was enabled to amend its initial bid for the contract to insert lower rates for the last seven months of the eight-month period when that was the chance is also theirs.

MINISTERS REPLY

Mr. Hees and Mr. Comtois replied on most counts except with the charge that Mr. Chevrier was with Global Aviation of New York. Mr. Chevrier read Newsweek reports of a Senate inquiry which said Global bought plane parts from Canada and shipped them to Czechoslovakia where they were used in planes ferrying Comintern agents.

In Montreal, Mr. Connor said he was in Global's employ in 1950 and had brought suit against Newsweek for libel. He said he likely never would be heard from on the death of witnesses.

Mr. Chevrier said that if the magazine statements are true "immediate action should be taken by the government and in the interest of the country should not be allowed to proceed with the Arctic] work until a thorough investigation has been made."

Outside the Commons, Mr. Hees said he regretted that from his experience in the Arctic the government had been doing nothing there that would affect security.

Tight Security Arrangements For Visit of French President

OTTAWA (CP)—Tight security arrangements have been made for the state visit of French President Charles de Gaulle next week.

RCMP and local police are not leaving anything to chance despite the widespread admiration and esteem in which the 69-year-old statesman is held in this country.

An RCMP spokesman estimated that altogether 2,000 to 3,000 policemen—plainclothes and uniformed—will be involved with security measures directly or indirectly during de Gaulle's four-day Canadian visit. Indirect security measures include traffic control and crowd control.

The French head of state and his wife arrive here at Uplands airport at 8 p.m. EST Easter Monday to be greeted by a 21-gun salute.

Memories of Ottawa residents will turn back to the time when Gen. de Gaulle was last here, Aug. 28-29, 1945, as provisional president of the Fourth Republic. This was just a few weeks after the capitulation of Japan had ended the Second World War and the heady tang of victory was still in the air.

The French leader had also visited Ottawa in July, 1944, as head of the Free French movement. This was about a month before the liberation of Paris.

For the coming visit three other provinces—Quebec City, Montreal and Toronto—are on his itinerary in addition to Ottawa. He will be here until Wednesday morning when he flies to Quebec.

South Africa Govt. Recesses While Police Raids Continue

CAPETOWN (AP)—South Africa's Parliament went home today for Easter, but police powers were as busy as ever.

The white-supremacy government appeared to have checked racial disturbances and blood-letting that threatened dealing with basic causes of the unrest.

The "midnight knock on the door" still spreads fear among black-skinned citizens. Security police continue nightly roundups in big cities.

About 500 detailed subversives are believed in jail—more than 1,000 when white-controlled state-of-emergency powers.

Hundreds of the outlawed African National Congress and Pan-Africanist Congress were arrested at the height of the trouble, but names of others held are being kept secret.

Attempts by opposition leaders in Parliament to learn more on the fate of the detainees produced only this meagre information:

They are granted special privileges compared with ordinary prisoners. For instance, they are allowed to supplement their prison diet with £30 worth of food from outside sources.

Justice Minister Francois Erasmus told reporters that special provisions would be made for hundreds of detainees who did not say what these would be.

In addition to the "political" detainees, police have arrested non-whites branded by the government as "agitators," "communist sympathizers," accused of fomenting disturbances which followed the police killing of 67 Negro demonstrators at Sharpeville, near Johannesburg.

As Parliament recessed until next week, the temporary leader of the National party regime declared that "the government has the situation well in hand and there is no reason to fear violence."

Paul Sauer, senior minister in the Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd is recovering from bullet wounds inflicted by a white anti-Nationalist gunman last week.

"There can, of course, be unforseen local disorderliness here and there, but it is not expected that such incidents, should they occur, will be of serious nature."

Meanwhile, a split over apartheid has deepened between the two largest churches, the Dutch Reformed Church to which most members of the National party belong, and the Anglican Church in which most South Africans of British descent belong.

The Dutch Church synod in the Transvaal province said future co-operation is impossible with the Anglican Archbishop of Capetown; Most Rev. Joost de Blank, because of his demand that the Church "remain faithful to its liege.

"We deplore the fact that the leaders of the Anglican Church did not have a word of admonition for the rioters and murderers and participated in organized poison current in overseas countries," the statement declared.

"We do not intend to be dictated to as to how we should act in this connection—first of all by people who fail to grasp the situation in our country."

This was obviously a rebuff to the Rev. Ambrose Reeves, bishop with headquarters in Geneva, which announced it would send a secret envoy to South Africa to consult with church leaders on the racial issue in the troubled land.

Dr. de Blank is understood to have demanded that the Dutch Reformed Church in South Africa be expelled from the World Council if it does not repudiate apartheid.

NUCLEAR DANGER

LONDON (Reuters) — Unless nuclear tests are stopped, they will cause diseases to 100,000 to 1,000,000 victims a year by the year 2000, Professor Alexander Kuzin writes in the April issue of the Soviet magazine Science. Mr. Kuzin took part in the 1955 international conference of scholars at Pugwash, N.S.

Another Appeal By Chessman

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An attack on Caryl Chessman's death sentence will be carried to the United States Supreme Court this week—for the 16th time in 12 years.

But the lawyer won't be George T. Davis, pressed by the controversial author of always grabbing star billing.

Chessman requested Davis, veteran San Francisco criminal lawyer, to withdraw from the case in a bitter 10-page letter made public Wednesday by the California Supreme Court.

Chessman, who has survived nearly 12 years on San Quentin prison's death row and escaped eight previous execution dates, was scheduled to die May 15 unless prevented by a last-minute reprieve.

He said Davis' actions in the case considered under federal jurisdiction.

GOVT. TO ENSURE CANADIANS GET SHARES IN WELLS

New Regulations Set up by Minister

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has attempted to ensure that Canadians can get a financial stake in northern oil and gas wells.

Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton announced Wednesday a new set of regulations designed primarily to keep solidly-foreign companies out of the oil and gas picture in areas administered from Ottawa.

Partial Canadian ownership—at least—would be ensured by requiring every company granted a gas and oil lease to be incorporated in Canada. The lease in brief would be issued only to a Canadian company.

In addition, the oil companies must either have half their issued shares held by Canadians in their own right, or must list their shares on a recognized Canadian stock exchange and satisfy the minister that "Canadians will have an opportunity of participating in the financing and ownership of the enterprise."

Thus, the success of the new regulations will depend to a large extent on Canadians themselves, Mr. Hamilton said in a press conference.

Mr. Hamilton agreed with suggestions that the regulations contain loopholes.

For example, the minister hold no discretionary powers to ensure that a parent company in the United States will not be forced by country doesn't operate its Canadian subsidiary in such a way as to drain off profits or reduce dividends to Canadian shareholders. There also is no way to prevent the subsidiary from offering prices to Canadians at such a level that no one would buy.

Another significant feature of the new regulations—changed for the second time since the Progressive Conservative government took office in June, 1957—is that the leases will no longer be considered under federal jurisdiction.

Russia Accepts Joint Study Of Nuclear Blasts

Discuss Co-ordination Of Underground Research

GENEVA (Reuters)—Russia today accepted a Western proposal that experts from the United States, Britain and Russia should begin informal meetings in Geneva soon to discuss co-ordination of their national programs for further research into underground nuclear explosions.

The Russian acceptance came as the 17-month-old conference of the three nuclear powers on prohibiting nuclear tests began at Easter recess until April 25.

Heads of all three delegations spoke optimistically at the 40-minute session about the prospects of agreement on a test ban treaty, Western officials said if negotiations went ahead without hitches a treaty might be signed in the next few months.

WILL CONTINUE

The three nations agreed today to keep the Geneva conference during the summit conference in Paris next month unless they are specifically told to cease.

Earlier this week, the West proposed an informal meeting of the scientists on underground explosions should start May 10.

In the comparable disarmament conference today the United States offered to accept the immediate agreement to ban the construction of underground tests for military purposes.

Ambassador Frederick M. Eaton told the 10-nation disarmament conference the U.S. is willing to allow Soviet nuclear explosions to international inspection on the territory of the Soviet Union does the same.

An international control staff would supervise the conversion of military flashable materials—including nuclear bombs warheads—to exclusively peaceful purposes, Eaton said.

Russia's delegate Valerian M. Zorin promptly rejected the proposal, describing it as contributing "more control than disarmament."

ON BEHALF OF WEST

Eaton made his proposal on behalf of his own country and four other Western delegations — British, France, Italy and Canada. He said that a treaty would be signed by the hopelessly deadlocked conference that is discussing a concrete disarmament measure.

The conference has been stalled for the past year by arguments over mutually unacceptable plans for international control.

The cut-off and conversion of nuclear weapons is part of the Western powers' plan for gradual disarmament in three stages under strict international supervision.

Eaton's proposal elaborated on part of the Western plan for the first time. He rejected the Soviet demand for outlawing first use of nuclear weapons.

Eaton listed the five major parts of Western proposals for substantial materials in the U.S., and he challenged the Soviet Union to do likewise.

He named the plants at Oak Ridge, Tenn., Hanford, Wash., Aiken, S.C., Portsmouth, Ohio, and Paducah, Ky.

"The location of all plants in the nuclear industry in my country is well known," he said.

"The Soviet Union to my knowledge has never published comparable information" available to the world.

Canada Is Not Alone in Spending Millions for Abandoned Weapons

OTTAWA (CP)—What I could have done with money like that!

This is the common and natural reaction of Canadians, probably including Prime Minister Diefenbaker, to announcements of cancellations of major weapons programs.

British Defence Minister Watkinson announced Wednesday that cancellation of the Blue Streak ballistic rocket after an outlay of some $173,000,000.

This is a relatively small expenditure compared to the nearly $500,000,000 the Canadian government has spent on the Avro Arrow jet interceptor, cancelled in February, 1959. In fact, taxpayers could have bought almost all of the Arrow. There's a final tab of $15,500,000 in the current fiscal year.

The Arrow was not the first Canadian experience with such cancellations. The Canadian-designed Velvet Glove air-to-air missile was cancelled about four years ago, after expenditures of some $2,000,000, in favor of the American Sparrow missile which was later also cancelled at a cost still not divulged.

Most cancellations are caused by the weapons under development being overtaken by rapid advances in military technology.

The United States has some big ones on its list, though.

Among them:

The Navaho long-range missile—$760,000,000; the F-108 fighter, $668,000,000; the B-70 bomber, $1,400,000,000; the F-108 interceptor, $180,000,000; the SAGE electronic countermeasures system, $448,000,000; the F-105 experimental fighter, $104,000,000; the Skybolt long-range decoy missile, $137,000,000; the Dyna-Soar rocket, $000; a high energy fuel, $55,000,000; the Pluto engine, $267,000,000; the Rigel missile, $157,000,000; the Jupiter missile, $12,000,000; the Polaris missile, $18,000,000.

These are cancellations made since July 1, 1957.

The U.S. has spent more than $1,000,000,000 on the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile, which Canada has not yet bit a supersonic target.

Defence Minister Pearkes of the weapon made its first successful interception only after seven straight failures.

Eddie Sawyer, Manager of Phils, Resigns

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Eddie Sawyer resigned today as manager of Philadelphia Phillies. Gene Mauch, now managing Minneapolis in the American Association, was named to replace him.

Bob Carpenter, owner-president of the National League baseball club, made the announcement at a press conference.

Mauch, 34, played as an infielder in the National League with Brooklyn, Pittsburgh, Chicago and Cleveland from Brave. He also was connected with Boston Red Sox of the American League.

His management experience began in 1953 as a player-manager with Atlanta of the Southern Association.

P.S.I. Alternative to State Medicine Says New President

Physicians' Services Incorporated, with its three plans of doctor-sponsored prepayment of medical care, is the alternative to state medicine that can satisfy all parties and still preserve freedom of enterprise.

Dr. John Wasylenko, who was elected for his second term as president of P.S.I. at today's twelfth annual meeting, said there is no secret that much of the uneasiness within the medical profession is due to the concern over state medicine. Everyone has a crystal ball (which will enable him to make some prophetic pronouncement of the imminence or inevitability of such a development. However, prepaid medical care, guaranteed and underwritten by the medical profession, is maintaining the best standard of medical care available in the world and giving the public the opportunity of choosing the form of insurance best suited for individual needs".

"The doctors of Ontario, through participation in P.S.I., have provided prepaid medical care for the majority of the people in this province. It is the feeling now that it may be initially restricted to those in which the lower income percentage of the population covering those $3,600 and under, but at least this will be a start," Dr. Wasylenko said.

Dr. Wasylenko warned that unless doctors take active interest in the service provided by their profession, they can very suddenly be catapulted by default into a situation they do not want".

New members elected to P.S.I. Board of Governors were: Dr. R. M. Hines — Oakville; Dr. D. W. Geiger — Kitchener; Dr. F. B. Hamilton — Ottawa. All are General Practitioners.

BIG MEMBER INCREASE

Highlight of the annual report to the 123 member House of Delegates governing body of PSI at the New York Hotel showed PSI subscribers at the end of 1959 totalled 2,344,092; an increase of 382,849 over 1958.

Commenting on this increase in enrolment, Dr. Wasylenko said "the significance of the year-end total is that more than 70 per cent of the population of Ontario is preparing its medical care through P.S.I. It is a source of satisfaction to know that an Ontario family covered with P.S.I. is adequately protected against the cost of medical care for less than the price of a package of cigaret's a day".

An additional indication of the growth of P.S.I. during 1959 was in the financial report which showed income from subscriptions for the year at $28,785,070; more than $10,000,000 over 1958. Of the 1959 figure, $25,019,414 or 87.10 percent was paid out for medical care whereas Service Administration costs were $2,- 078,239 or 7.23 percent (lowest in the Corporation's history). The remainder, $1,637,417 or 5.67 percent was reported to the general reserve fund.

Dr. Wasylenko said that coupled with the increase in enrolment and revenue was an increase in the number of participating physicians in P.S.I. He said 295 physicians signed agreements in 1959 which brought the total as of December 31 to 3,303. 3,394 general practitioners and 1,909 specialists. He said that today there are 5,250 participating physicians; the highest since P.S.I. was established in 1948.

MAY CHANGE COVERAGE

Looking to the future, Dr. Wasylenko said P.S.I. is studying the possibility of making the Comprehensive Medical Coverage to individuals. At present such a plan is available only to individuals below age 60 and either self employed or who work in groups of less than 10 people.

Replying in response to the "in-Hospital plan by individuals warrants its continuance it is apparent the interest of the public is directed more to comprehensive coverages. It appears that P.S.I. has become a household word, and in the mind of the average citizen P.S.I. is synonymous with comprehensive coverage. The Board considers that it is now making a detailed study and collecting data in anticipation of the day when it will be ready to offer our comprehensive medical plan to the individual subscriber. It is the feeling now that it may be initially restricted to those in which the lower income percentage of the population covering those $3,600 and under, but at least this will be a start," Dr. Wasylenko said.

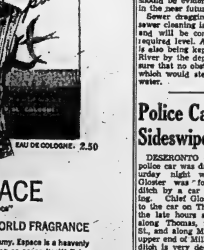
Plans for adding subscribers to P.S.I. plans received 4,471,165 services during 1959 as follows: 249,748 calls to doctors' offices; had 124,109 diagnostic x — rays; had 1,744 examinations by consultations and 51,781 eye tests. Hospitals received 344,092; anesthetics 12,977, 19,678 tonsillectomies; 13,116 fractures and 3,816 obstetrical confinements. The rest P.S.I. paid the medical cost of dental children brought into the world.

To Clean Streets On West Hill Early Next Week

The Public Works Department will commence quite busy on the annual spring cleanup to wipe away the last traces of winter's debris on the streets. Sand, cinders, old leaves and other debris have been piled around out of the gutters and curbs by both manual labor and sweeping and it is hoped to rapidly cleared away from the East Hill side of the city. Work on the West Hill will not be started to commence next week.

The annual cleanup program is also being carried out wherever feasible. Fluctuating temperatures may have a bearing on this program to be delayed several days or more however. It is expected that every gravel road in the city will be cleaned and oiled at least one oilling by the end of next week, however.

Grass cutting in some districts is being continued with all such roads being graded at least once a week. Front bolls are still maintaining the completion of this work, but should not be so for very much longer.



Now that the cuts made for sewers, drains, throughout the city during the past few years had a chance to settle in and it is now feasible to start with the replacement of permanent new sidewalks, City Engineer Malcolm Campbell advised. Work ought to commence with this work as soon as the by-law for the 1960 year is approved by city councillors.

Also in line with the spring clean-up routine there is the treating program which is to cover unsatisfactory trees throughout the city are being replaced. The painting of sign posts and the making meter posts is now starting and results in this work it should be evidenced by citizens in the near future.

Sewer dragging and storm sewer cleaning is also underway and will be continued at the required level. A careful watch is also being kept on the Moira River by the department to ensure that no obstructions occur which would stem the flow of water.

Police Car Sideswiped

DESERONTO — The local police car was damaged on Saturday night when Constable Gloster was forced into the ditch by a car he was pursuing. Chief Gloster gave chase to the car on Thomas Street in the late hours and followed along Thomas, up St. George St., and along Mill St. to the upper end of Mill St., where the ditch is very deep. It is claimed the police car was sideswiped by the car it was chasing. When the wheels struck the soft shoulder Constable Gloster could not turn back into the road and the car went on into the ditch. Fortunately Constable Gloster was unhurt but the police car suffered damage to the front end and the left hand door. The car was back in service on Monday but still shows signs of the accident.

Chamber Wants More Parking At Federal Bldg.

A recommendation that City Council give immediate consideration to the rectification of the congested traffic situation which exists around the new federal building and to make available some parking facilities will be made by the Belleville Chamber of Commerce. It was decided at their monthly business meeting yesterday afternoon.

The lengthy session, chaired by President Ted Davis, also highlighted by a discussion of the installation of curbside parking facilities for Belleville residents by Postmaster Al Shaw. Two parking areas suggested, one requiring the construction of a traffic island in front of the present "snorkel" located on it, the other suggesting that the island could be mounted on the curbside of the north end of Pinnacle St. to the south side of the lane provided for the convenience of guests.

It was indicated that either system was feasible but the latter offered results more suitable during peak traffic conditions. Discussion also centered on the parking facilities around the federal building. It was thought by most of the members present that meters of short duration, from 5 to 15 minutes, would be best for the convenience of post office users.

The local executive also passed a motion to recommend to the national body of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, that the facilities of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce be extended and that the latter's budget be increased accordingly.

Secretary Earl Dicknoether reported that the Belleville Chamber has applied for registration of charter for building campaign for $800,000 in the spring of 1961. It was suggested that the YMCA be requested to advise the Chamber as to what their campaign contributions from industry was so that the various local industries could make allowance for such when making up their budgets for 1961.

Enos David announced that the Chamber of Commerce had asked City Council that it was willing to take a 50 per cent cut in the annual grant it receives from the city for the year 1960 in an effort to help hold the line on taxes. This will entail a grant of 1.4 cents per assessed dollar instead of 2.8 cents.

It was announced that Chamber of Commerce Week will be held from April 24th to April 30th inclusive. Mention was also made that the executive of the newly organized Bancroft Chamber of Commerce was in Belleville as the guests of the local president and secretary on behalf of the local Chamber.

A motion was passed providing for the secretary, Mr. Dicknoether, to attend the special Chamber of Commerce managers's course which is being held this year at the University of Western Ontario under the auspices of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

The next meeting of the executive of the Chamber will be on May 5th at which time discussion of any of the resolutions to be voted upon at the annual meeting of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce will be allowed.

School Board Asks Council Reprimand MOH for Actions As Spokesman for Delegation

TRENTON — Trenton Council, meeting in committee of the whole this morning, heard a demand that it reprimand Dr. E. W. Dow, Medical Officer of Health, for his remarks as spokesman for a delegation of citizens at Monday evening's meeting of the Board of Education.

The demand was made by T. S. Ketcheson, chairman of the Board of Education and Frank Filion, a Board member, "on behalf of the majority of the Board."

Mr. Ketcheson said that Dr. Dow had made "unjust statements" to the press that he and Mr. Filion had been overbearing and exclaimed "To God, I suppose."

Council heard Mr. Ketcheson put his complaints in writing and they will be considered at a later meeting of Council.

If You Would Write a Sonnet About Milady's Easter Bonnet Better Do It Some Other Year

The Mad Hatter in "Alice in Wonderland" had nothing on today's twentieth century "Alice" at least not when it comes to hats.

With Easter almost here, women's thoughts have lightly turned to the purchasing of a new Easter bonnet.

Only this year the "bonnet" may resemble a stove-pipe, a flying saucer, an inverted flower pot, confectionary such as marshmaple buds, or "the rings" (a curling term for the three circle area).

Hats this spring come in a wide variety of colors and sizes and in a rainbow of color. One thing is certain though, a great many women will be going "high hat" this Easter.

The local spring millinery scene is flooded with high riding Chanel berets, baby loques, conical crowns, high profile cloches and the high-crowned clothes.

For those who desire the small-type hats, the derby style of last fall is still around. There are also a few low-crowned cloches; also floral wreaths, their bandeaux, for those who prefer the off-the-face type hats. (Of course which ones do these depends).

Those who don't want their hair "once-burned will be happy to know that there are numerous hats have come back into favor and are being worn some this season.

DECEIVE STYLE

As ever,one knows hats are designed to complement the new fashion, or is it vice-versa?) and with this season's high-crowned millinery, milady will have to exercise extra care to fit her coiffured headpiece properly. If her hair style happens to be the ultra "bee hive." Tall conical shapes, loques for example should top it nicely.

Some newspapers report girls with the "beehive" are adorning their hats with bees (simulated, of course), so boys, you better watch yourselves when you tell your girl she's "the bee's knees bonnet." You may be right.

Those who have designed who are something less than angels, but who want to disguise the fact, there is the new "halo" hat which should do the trick. It is banded by the head and has a circular brim swinging up from the front.

For those who want to look "countrified" there are red and white, blue and white, and checked gingham hats to match gingham dresses or skirts.

DUAL PURPOSE HAT

Some ingenious millinery designers have really come up with a clever design this year —a dual purpose hat. Made of stiffened crocheted yarn or net veiling, splashed with a few flowers, it can either be worn as a head covering or used as a dolle on your coffee table.

Hats can be purchased in a variety of materials ranging, including straw and fabrics such as silk, taffeta, velour and black lace. Straw seems to be the most popular.

Most department clerks report beige and white, with navy running trips, are the most popular colors this year, although hats can be found in every tint and shade of the rainbow. They can also be found in polka-dots.

Flowers are still popular decorations adorning this season's hats—in fact some hats look like a thriving flower garden. It is reported the wearing of flowers dates back to ancient times and is a practice surrounded with many beliefs. For example, medieval folklore attributed magical properties to certain flowers—such as insuring an easy childbirth or finding treasure. Twentieth century women, fortunately, probably wear flowered hats for other reasons or possibly because they like flowers and hats.

RIBBONS GAY

Brightly colored ribbon bands in contrasting color are also used for decoration, to turn an otherwise plain white or black hat into something trec chic as they say in Gay Paree.

This all adds up to a colorful "headline" for spring.

And when the gals go promenading down Front Street this Sunday, they will "paint" a picture that even Salvatore Dali in his most "imaginative moments would find hard to equal.

Yes, sir, the Mad Hatter's got nothing on the milliners of this serious females of the twentieth century!

Doctors Should Have the Say

The Ontario Association of Children's Aid Societies plans to ask the provincial government to make Sunday a judicial day for the purposes of the Child Welfare Act. This is to prevent possible 24-hour delays in the provision of blood transfusions to children whose parents refuse consent.

The Association's aim is worthy. Its method is not.

What is needed is a law which eliminates the necessity for parents to consent to transfusions. A doctor is the only competent, best judge of whether a patient needs a transfusion. Even if the doctor is wrong and orders a transfusion when not necessary, nobody was ever harmed by a transfusion. No matter what provisions are made for speedy court actions, there is always a danger that the delay involved will mean that the authorized transfusion comes too late.

Insistence on parental rights in this field is absurd. It is a throwback to days when children were chattels. It ignores the fact that a child has natural rights, just as much as does an adult. A child has the right to expect that society will make every effort to preserve his life. The fact that blood transfusions are contrary to the religious beliefs of some parents does not mean that society can abdicate its duty. Where necessary, it must protect the child from the parent.

This is a most difficult field. Some may argue, with considerable justification, that the child has the right to protection from the assimilation of the strange beliefs of its parents, but this contention leads us into a quagmire of controversy. The provision of prompt medical care, though, is a clear case where the rights of the child supersede those of the parents. Let us have no more of this nonsense of pushing a child to the threshold of death before doctors are permitted to use their utmost skills to save his life. It would be simplicity itself to provide certain safeguards, requiring three qualified doctors to agree on the necessity treatment if parents objected to an emergency operation, but for a simple safeguard like a blood transfusion the attending physician should need no other authority than his own belief it is advisable.

Worse—Because Bigger

Hon. Robert Macaulay, Ontario's Minister of Energy Resources, says that most of the pollution in the Great Lakes comes from the U.S. side and that Detroit is the worst offender.

We have no reason to doubt the accuracy of Mr. Macaulay's appraisal of the situation, but we have reservations regarding the import of his remarks.

Mr. Macaulay would be in a much stronger position if Ontario communities were not contributing their full share to polluting the Great Lakes waters.

Their full share when U.S. centres are the main offenders? Yes, precisely. For though most of the pollution comes from south of the border, this means nothing more than that there are more people there to dump their refuse into the Lakes.

If Ontario's record is better it is not because our principles are higher but because our factories are fewer and smaller. The Ontario Government deserves praise for the steps it has taken to correct this situation, but we suggest again that its protests will come with greater force when remedies have been not merely planned but implemented.

National Wild Life Week

Of the hundreds of "weeks" we are asked to observe, one enjoys a distinction which, as far as we know, is unique—it was created by an act of Parliament. On April 18, 1947, the members of the House of Commons and the Senate unanimously endorsed a bill introduced by the late Dr. A. Mackinnon, M.P., establishing Canada's National Wild Life Week. The acts provides that this week shall be observed in the period in which falls April 10, the birthday of the late Jack Miner. Thus this year the week started last Sunday.

The week thus honors a great Canadian and serves to call attention to the work to which he devoted his life. Amongst the most valuable resources of any nation are its wild life, and of no nation is this truer than of Canada. The week is designed to awaken and promote interest in the conservation not only of bird and animal life but of all of the country's natural resources. It is a worthy work, in which we should all join to the best of our ability.

Letter To The Editor

Choral Society's 'Messiah' Wins Praise

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

For those of us who were privileged to attend Tuesday evening's presentation of the Easter part of Handel's "Messiah" at Bridge St. United Church, was a rare treat and a very special occasion. Lovers of really good music, of whom many were present, were in a most delightful evening. Under the very capable direction of Phyllis W. May and the competent accompaniment of S. Alec Gordon—both the soloists and chorus rose to splendid heights; they were alike in their inspired work. "How Beautiful Are the Feet," and " But Thou Didst Not Leave" were rendered with particular taste and beauty. The service concluded rather early; it was over by nine o'clock. This was due in part to several numbers being omitted, notably "Why Do the Nations so Furiously Rage Together" and "Thou Shall Break Them." The inclusion of these two numbers, would have had the effect of rendering the performance additionally attractive. One's heartiest congratulations are extended to the Belleville Choral Society for such a splendid offering.

Sincerely,
Charles H. Woodforde.

Peterborough School To Mark Centennial

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.
Central Public School in Peterborough, Ontario, will be observing its 100th anniversary on June 2 and 4, 1960.

When the school was officially opened in 1860 it was described as "the finest example of modern Gothic church architecture in Upper Canada" and has been in continuous use ever since.

We would be grateful if you would publish this letter so that former pupils may learn of our plans and, we hope, attend the festivities which include a dinner on June 3rd at which it is hoped that former pupil, Hon. Lester B. Pearson, will be a guest.

We would appreciate it if former pupils would send their names and address to the undersigned principal, Mr. D. T. Crawford, at the school.

Yours very truly,
Mildred Sutton

Canadians Waste Fats

Windsor Star

Fats are a most important ingredient in the food of most people, and many on this continent may consume too many in their daily diet.

But there is tremendous wastage of fats in many homes today. Many housewives rely largely on boughten confections. They have nothing to do with their fat when they brown, or other fried or roasted meats except perhaps a dame of for for gravy.

An observer has remarked that Canadians have been the most costly of meats. Most Canadians prefer their bacon crisp. This means most of the fat is fried out of it — and the bacon has cash benefit and gain for.

On the days when housewives did all their own baking such fats were carefully saved. They were used liberally in biscuits, cookies, cakes and pie crusts. Practically none was wasted, whereas today many of these fine fats find their way into the garbage can.

Some families in a village in India could live well on what some families in Canada throw out.

Canada Loses U.S. Tourists

Toronto Financial Post

For all her healthy Nordic features, Canada is losing out on that hot-blooded, high-yield, flirt, Mexico. Last year, for the first time, Mexico ate Canada out as top contender for the affections of the U.S. tourist. Not to be crude about it, his benkroll.

Mexico took in $345 million from U.S. tourists in 1959. Canada got only $341 million. A top carrier Canada collected $323 million from passengers on flights under the supervision of the Canadian Air Transport Committee. A report from the Mexican Tourist Commission for 1959 says that 1,000,000 persons patronized the various parks in the chain extending from Mexico City to the Gulf of Mexico on Lake Ontario. This figure becomes impressive when it is considered that six of the parks in the chain are developed for the public for the first time last summer.

Apparently Mlle Roches Park with its excellent beach facilities, attracted the largest number of patrons. The commission reports 200,000 persons and 150,000 attended the various parks in the chain extending from Mexico City to the Gulf of Mexico on Lake Ontario. This figure becomes impressive when it is considered that six of the parks in the chain are developed for the public for the first time last summer.

But what is disturbing is the fact that Canada will spend only 22 percent of all U.S. tourist spending as against 46 percent in the immediate postwar years.

And we haven't done much during those years to develop our attractions. Few new resorts have been built to compare with big, glossy, resort hotels of international appeal have been built since the war.

Mexico, like many of our Caribbean rivals, has the advantage of a "foreign" atmosphere. This is the attraction it stresses. It keep telling Americans that Canada is just like home and that's why they think so tooand stay at home.

No Chance

Woodstock Sentinel-Review

"Hard work hurts exceedingly few people", says a physician. Laziness is deadly. Few people give it a chance to hurt them.

Who Adjusts To Whom Is Question

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

People who protect themselves from all hurts also insulate themselves from life: if we are not willing to run the risk of an emotional injury in our relations with others, we have relinquished any real possibility of joy in contact with others.

It is easy to be adult, but hard to be mature: to be adult is to know when to seize an opportunity; to be mature means to know when to give up an advantage, which requires a much different and deeper kind of wisdom.

Nausea is a way of coming to mean something much more crude and superficial than their originators meant them to be—as Sloths were not at all lazy, the Epicureans as epicurean, or Machiavelli as Machiavellian, or we think of Victorians as prudish in element in their philosophies and interested in the appearance of whole philosophy.

No acts are so mischievous in their social consequences as those performed by persons who want to do something that is really good; too often a good act is a substitute for, not a symptom of, goodness.

The woman who has contempt for the men who are trying really expressing self-contempt for she feels a sense of admiration, and is scornful of those who are duped by her exterior. This is why pretty women often end up by marrying brutal men.)

Nothing gets to look dated faster than the resolutely modern.

Funds and foundations tend, after a few years, to become monoliths: even a man in an automobile is the original of the species if were set up: and there was much sense in Julius Rosenwald's fund spend all its money and disband within a few years after his death.

Obviously, it's impossible—to have both—to have a high and ever shrinking globe so long as millions suffer from starvation in the East and millions more suffer from indigestion in the West.

Society has always ridiculed the pretensions of the "nouveau riche" but the "nouveau pauvre" is just as embarrassing.

I know people who are still talking about all the money their families lost in the Depression.

Every society has its own approved form of insanity; ours is civilized and therefore it is a circular social movement in which everyone is trying to another one, and no one knows whom the first is adjusting to.

If recent weekend trends prevail, next summer should see the Seaway parks play host to 1,000,000 patrons at the parks under the supervision of the Ontario-St. Lawrence Development Commission. A report from the commission says that 500,000 patronized the various parks in the chain extending from Mexico City to the Gulf of Mexico on Lake Ontario. This figure becomes impressive when it is considered that six of the parks in the chain are developed for the public for the first time last summer.

Apparently Mlle Roches Park with its excellent beach facilities, attracted the largest number of patrons. The commission reports 200,000 persons and 150,000 attended the various parks in the chain extending from Mexico City to the Gulf of Mexico on Lake Ontario. This figure becomes impressive when it is considered that six of the parks in the chain are developed for the public for the first time last summer.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH A FREE-LANCE HOME "DISEASE"

If I knew of a disease that was killing several hundred people every year, and some of the deaths could be prevented, then you'd think me a scare monger if I didn't write anything about it occasionally.

Well, suppose instead of several hundred victims, we had 28,000 victims killed in Canada every year!

That's just what is happening. The "disease" is accidents around home. One-third of all fatal accidents occur there.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company recently published in its Statistical Bulletin some figures showing what these accidents are. Of a sample of about 1,500 cases in which the victims were anywhere from one to 74 years old, the most common cause was what?

Falls. About one-third of the deaths were from falling. About a fifth of these took place on stairs. About one-sixth occurred while the victims were walking on perfectly level ground. So watch out for that slip. Watch out for "harmless" things left lying on the floor. Be interested in that rug with a sill over which people stumble, get it fixed.

About 25 percent of all fatal accidents were from burns or burns. The majority, to be sure, were cases in which the house caught fire. But there were also everyday six or seven was from burns from hot fat, from smoking in bed, sleep, or smoking in a chair and falling asleep, yet leaving the cigaret burning. Or could fall and set fire to the chair!

Poisoning was the next killing many. About half of these deaths were caused by faulty heating units. So have your furnaces or stove or heater checked regularly. This may well save you money on fuel, too, but your life is what are thinking of. Carbon monoxide—one-third of the deaths from gas were from carbon monoxide from running an automobile in a closed garage. I've warned about this before, but perhaps I've got that they can't smell carbon monoxide, and people have died when monoxide starts to hit you in a garage, you can collapse so fast that you don't have time to get to the door!

About five or six percent of

The accidental deaths were from guns: among the cases, 16 percent occurred while the victim was loaded or loading a weapon, and nine percent while he was "playing with a gun." Believe it or not, the pointless game of "Russian roulette" and "pointing the gun in fun" each accounted for six percent of the cases. Other causes of home deaths were overdoses of medicine, or taking internally medicine meant for external use accidentally; choking on something being swallowed (mainly food, so chew), electric shock; drowning and hanging. Sixty percent of all the hanging accidents occurred while victims were playing a rope for one purpose or another.

You can't even imagine a sensible excuse for most of these accidents, these needless deaths. People just get careless about knowing better. So please, my friends, don't be careless!

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you discuss 'saddle block,' the effects and how safe it is in delivery of a baby? —Mrs. M. C."

This is what we call a "regional anesthesia," a special kind of spinal anesthesia with a localized effect. It is very safe when it is properly used by all. More recent studies, so I am told, indicate that even safer is the "caudal block" now possible for childbirth anesthesia, but the "saddle block" is very good and very safe.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I was told by a friend that the use of rubber sanitary pads prevented conception. I understood they were good for cleanliness—Mrs. G.W."

Both of your friends are right. Some are used for contraceptive purposes, others are for cleanliness.

TODAY'S TALK

by GEORGE MATTHEW ADAM

LIVE NOW!

There is one thing in-this world and during this life which cannot be postponed, and that thing is it. Live now!

Now reluctance is Time — how unmistakably in its gains through the years, how impartial in what it has to give, how generous it is from Time freely. Live now!

There is a sweetness and nobleness in the very atmosphere of honest effort, everywhere, if you will but take it. Throw away the pretense and live now!

There is nothing to Tomorrow for Tomorrow has not yet come. And every Today is dead. Live now!

Leave unremembered the things that are unremembered said. Blot out the words that scarred your heart. Forgive, forget, forbear. Live now!

Get up from where you are. Square your self with a grip of steel. Stretch your limbs. Unbind your eyes. Open wide your thoughts within your brain. Delight in new and untried things. Make your days bigger and better. Nothing counts but the now. Live!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Tidy bookshelves are the mark of the collector. Untidy bookshelves are the mark of the reader or the scholar.

There are exceptions, of course. But if you examine the shelves carefully you will find perhaps, as I have, that tidy scholars are really collectors in disguise. Bibliophiles. They read books as they would bank statements or insurance policies. They want the facts, like Sergeant Friday. Just the facts.

But the true scholars I have encountered are more than just facts. They want the truth. And they know that truth is like the stock market. You always have to have the latest quotations. Yesterday's quotations are not in books. By the time they are in book, something new has been added. The truth is always at the moment.

Here, then, can a true scholar be a tidy man, an orderly man? I don't see how it could be. He is pursuing the most elusive thing in all creation, something that is in perpetual motion. He is pursuing the most elusive thing in all creation, something that is in perpetual motion. He is pursuing a day that is possibly every hour.

It is collectors the world is full of, and they are getting tidier all the time. Copyright: Canada Wide

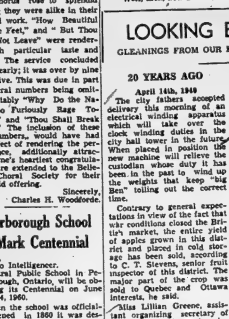
Emigration Slows Down

Windsor Tribune

For many years Canada seemed to be a blind spot in the stream of native-born and immigrants flowed across one side of the box into Canada, while a steady, if smaller stream flowed out the other side of the box into the United States.

And it was a pretty inefficient sluice box at that. The overflow contained some rich elements — nurses, professional men, researchers, college professors, skilled craftsmen made up a distressingly high percentage of those emigrating to the U.S.

It is encouraging to hear that the situation is changing. The number of native-born and immigrant Canadians going to the U.S. in search of higher pay and greater opportunities is tapering off.



Figures issued by the U.S. Immigration Service for the year ending June 30, 1959, showed a sharp drop in emigration from Canada compared with 1958. During the year about 34,900 entered the U.S. from Canada, compared with 45,150 in 1958. The decrease was recorded in practically all categories of professional and skilled workers. While the field of aeronautical engineering was an increase of 200. A total of 115 aeronautical engineers entered the U.S., reflecting the cancellation of the Arrow program.

At the same time, Americans coming to Canada showed a net settlement are increasing slightly in number. Last year 11,338 U.S. citizens came to Canada compared with 10,846 in 1958.

All this is attributed to Canada's expanding economy. The financial recession and the opportunities on this side of the border have now combined to better balance with those south of it.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE BLESSED SACRAMENT

"My body . . . my blood." There is something essentially mysterious about the Lord's Supper. Every branch of the Christian Church holds its worship to be a special sacrament. When we partake of the elements of the sacrament with faith, a new light dawns upon our minds, a new power enters our hearts, a new gladness comes in to drive out of every corner of our lives the dark shadows of despair.

Why did our Lord institute this sacrament? Well, so in a mind is great enough, of course, to compass the meaning of Christ's sublime act, we can venture an opinion, it would seem that the institution of the sacrament Jesus made plain to His disciples that He was a voluntary sacrifice. He was not an unwilling victim. He was not an imaginary or mistaken believer. He was real. He was the Son of God.

Again the sacrament would seem to teach us that Christ's supreme desire is that we merge our lives with His. As the bread and wine of which we partake become part of our physical and mental equipment, so the Presence of Jesus Christ in our lives permeates every aspect of our being. He intermingles our lives with His and by so doing partakes of His very power, walk in His light, bow to His will, serve with His gladness in our hearts.

A View of Education

Students Laud Visit to Industry Suggest More Vocational Emphasis

By DOUG PHIPPEN

This past week the thirteen members of the commercial department's graduating class at Quinte Secondary School completed the second and final week of their special in industry training program. Inasmuch as this course is unique in this community and, perhaps, to most other communities, it is rather interesting to see what the reactions of the students have been to this experience. In a roundtable sort of a discussion Tuesday afternoon, the writer discussed the course with six of these students.

The views and conclusions concerning their various experiences differed somewhat from that of one thing they all were sure education is one of the criterions for advancement in anyone who is to get into a good job or in order to get a good job. All felt that they want to go on to a higher education and three were definitely planning on doing so. The other three, all girls incidentally, felt that they would not take a job for a year or so before going back to school.

One reason for this latter attitude was, quite frankly, they felt tired of school. Another and interesting sidelight to this attitude as well as the one just expressed it . . . "we've sort of been built up to the idea of going out to work when we graduated . . . the idea of carrying on with school for one more year is not one thing they were all sure . . . education doesn't stop at grade 12.

WORK SAME AS SCHOOL

The idea of going out to work was being a relief from school routine wasn't exactly prevalent, however. As one boy put it, from his experience it appeared as if "going into a job is the same as going to school after graduation . . . work hard to get ahead. This idea of getting ahead was quite important to these six people. In taking a good look at the conditions for advancement existing in the firms which they had visited the students felt that any person could advance faster the more education he had.

As to the possibility of leaving school before graduation it was felt that the seniority which one might gain would be a little use when compared with even a junior matriculation or high school graduation certificate.

The business of leaving school at the grade nine or ten (or 11) level did not appeal to any of those present. One lad mentioned coming across an old schoolmate in the plant he was located in for a week. This lad had left school at grade nine and was wondering how he might get back to school and better his education.

DESIRE SPEAKERS

Asked as to how they felt this sort of a course would benefit others or what they felt could be done to give students on their way up in high school some idea as to what was ahead of them a number of interesting suggestions came forth. First the course was extremely valuable in opening a student's eyes as to just what possibilities lay ahead of him in the conclusion of his secondary school education there was no doubt. It was felt, however, that perhaps people from industry and the professions could be encouraged to come to the schools and visit with the students, advising them just what the possibilities were in respect to getting a position in their particular field of work or profession and in respect to advancing within that field.

The possibility of a fairly good paying job being quite attractive to a person in grade nine or ten was considered to be a good inducement to quit school. It was felt that such a person was not taking a long range view of the situation, perhaps due to a lack of information on just what he would require to advance in his field. If, was felt that there was a very great possibility that this person would find himself at very low level in that particular job level for the rest of his life.

SUMMER JOBS STRESSED

Part time summer employment in the field of work which a student plans to would like to get into was considered to be another factor which might be impressed on students. As one lad put it . . . "I worked four summers in a canning factory" . . . but then one, the course hardly seems to be worth much to him in the long run. Guidance at an earlier period in the secondary schools might have made these four summers a little more helpful to him in selecting his future occupation it was felt.

After talking with these six students we couldn't help but be impressed with several things. For one, the course introduced at Quinte Secondary School was a resounding success . . . not only has it given all of the students some idea as to exactly what is ahead of them; it has given a number of them the desire to get a higher education, a desire which, a few of them definitely did not entertain at the beginning of the course. It has also given a few of them a good idea as to what field of employment they wish to enter.

Secondly we feel that secondary school students are quite interested in finding out as much as possible about the various occupations which they may head for and in knowing just what the program just concluded will be successful in a particular occupation. Perhaps the idea which the program just concluded has been accepted by both students and industry is quite valuable to be well warranted.

Also we gained the impression that there is a very unexpected and interested group of teachers in the secondary schools and this has contributed to the success of the course. A quality, eager, keen and interested group it was that met them and desirous of getting ahead when they graduate.

The writer is sure this program itself might be of interest to those who did not read, or have forgotten, the first article on it which I got underway last December. A number of local businesses and industries made themselves available to interviews students at Quinte Secondary School for the first two one-week periods during the school year. Each of the 13 students involved visited two places, observing the routine, duties, hours and procedure and without pay.

PARTICIPATING FIRMS

The 13 firms participated were: Northern Electric, London Life, Corbin Lock division of International Nickel, Canadian Entomology Laboratory of the Federal Department of Agriculture, Ontario Hydro, Corby's, Canadian Locomotive, McGregor Insurance firm, Belleville General Hospital, Mead Johnson, Belleville Pharmacy and Bush Funeral Home. Mr. John Heyman, head of the commercial department at Quinte Secondary School, was the coordinator who has been tremendous in their co-operation and encouragement.

This summer these students will be going out in the field of high school days behind them (actually five years ahead in May due to their high scholastic standing). What they do will in a very large way, we are sure, be determined by the experience offered them by the above course. Some will be taking up immediate permanent employment. Others will be looking for temporary employment before carrying on with their higher education. Whatever their course might be we feel that they will be accepting it with confidence and will be very better prepared to do so than the students of, let us say, before 1960.

Next year this course will have a change in personnel. There should be about 27 students in grade 12 commercial at Quinte.

Trapped in Debris

KINGSTON (CP)—Three building workers were trapped for some time Wednesday night under debris when the second floor of an abandoned apartment house collapsed. All were without serious injuries.

Wallace McMachen, 25, was released under a heavy rafter. Nearly 20 men had to be called before the beam could be lifted. He escaped with cuts and bruises. His father, Walter, 63, and a brother Stewart, 20, were shaken up.

High School Activities

By TRINA JANTICH

Spring is here! Although one certainly can't tell this from the weather, one definite sign of it is the arrival of B.C.V.S. Our school campus is getting a general weeding and will soon be wearing its spring outfit of green.

Many junior grades this year have shown verve, humor and talent by presenting assemblies, and 10 B's were no exception to the rule. The highlight of the morning's program was the uproariously "B.C.I.V.S. sir-hunting" period hour. Originality was the keynote of this excellent piece, which certainly "rolled 'em in the aisles".

The G.A.S., which will soon elect a new slate of officers is sending up this season by sponsoring a tea dance, the "Final Fling". The girls have given this social organization a few of their best years' support. Originality and imagination, as well as school spirit should be a good one.

By the time this column is published, students will know the answer to the biggest question of the school year. Who, or Mr. and Miss B.C.I.V.S. 1960? You may have a hard task in making their choice, as there are quite a few outstanding personalities. Candidates for Miss B.C.I.V.S. are Frances Dicken, Alice Williamson, Fran Rydman, Julie Bradshaw and Sandra Wilson, all running for Mr. B.C.I.V.S. are Paul Vanevery, Pete Annis, Jack MacMahon and Jim Morton. All these students have made outstanding contributions to their school and it will indeed be hard to choose two of them for this honor. Tuesday noon, friends of the candidates will speak on their behalf at a special assembly. Later that afternoon the entire student body of the school — teachers, office staff, caretakers, janitors — will vote, and on Wednesday morning, the awful suspense will finally be over and the winners will be known.

Our first citizens will receive many and wonderful prizes, among these being tickets to the Stratford Festival, Shaw and Spring Fling. The theme for this year's Spring Fling is "Springtime" and fabulous decorations will transform the gym into a fascinating lo transform our gyms into romantic and mysterious underwaterscapes.

By tradition, a beautiful May Queen and her princesses will be crowned during the evening. This year's contest will be arranged by the Keyette Club and they have gathered wonderful prizes for the three charming girls. The 1960 May Queen will receive a trophy, the runner-up winner, Elaine Powell, and her princess will have her name engraved on the exquisite jewelled silver goblets presented by the Keyette Club.

Besides taking care of the May Queen contest, the Keyettes have planned to raise money for World Refugee year by appealing to our generosity. They'll sell Easter eggs at school this week and will sponsor a bake sale during the Easter holidays.

Another event to look forward to in the Easter holidays, and of course, the Hi-Y's annual Spring Fashion show, which this year takes the form of a Spring Ball for the 1860s. The lovely models will show spring and summer fashions for Sunday, school, store and sunning. Cakes, cookies, and candy will be provided for the audience and prizes will be presented and Jeanette and Barry Simmons will provide hilarious entertainment during intermission. The date of this event is April 19th.

An impressive and inspiring Easter service is planned for the Thursday before school closes. The talented musicians of our school will be featured in a program planned to bring out the true joy and beauty of the Easter season.

School will close at four o'clock Thursday until Monday, April 25th. Many of our students have the wanderlust and are planning trips to Ottawa, Toronto, New York and others for at least one fortunate girl, Bermuda. Others will stay home in

The Scripture, taken from St. Luke, chapter 24, was read in two parts by Mrs. F. Watson and Mrs. J. Ellis. The meditation for this Easter theme was given by Mrs. J. Flunder, Mrs. K. Belcour and Mrs. D. Watson. It concerned the story of the appearance of Jesus Christ unto Mary Magdalene and later to the two disciples travelling to Emmaus. "It is significant that He should first appear to humble people like you and me. Have you ever stopped to think how often ordinary folk entered into the picture of our Lord's life, how His ministry depended on their quiet faithfulness. At the most important season of the Christian year, it is the responsibility of every true disciple of Christ to make known to others the wondrous story of the Resurrection."

The singing of "Rejoice the Lord is King" closed the meditations.

A brief business discussion followed.

A donation was voted to the Easter Seal fund for Crippled Children. The group decided to cater to a banquet for the Brownies in May. Also it was decided the W.A. would again sponsor the breakfast for Easter Sunday. The members were asked to save all Canadian stockings to be sent later to Korea.

Potatoes Seen To Be Losing Popularity

Ottawa (CP) — The homely old potato has lost some of its popularity in recent years, says the Canadian Association of Consumers.

Concerned about the decline of the spud, it takes Canadians to task for eating fewer potatoes than their grandfathers did.

"What other vegetable possesses more versatility? the CAC asks in its monthly bulletin. It notes that you can bake it, boil it, fry it, mash, hash, brown or scallop them; that they are highly nutritious and relatively inexpensive.

It also scolds consumers for lack of interest in the quality of potato is up to grade standards.

"What is wrong with the occasional big potato which is mostly skin, a thin layer of potato and a lot of black holes in the centre?

"If the bag containing the potatoes was marked Grade 7, which most are, return the unsatisfactory bag to your local dealer and ask for replacement with sound potatoes.

"The consumer can play an important part by seeing that foods live up to grade."

The CAC says it feels poor grading has contributed to the drop in popularity and suggests: A Uniform grading across Canada, similar to that used in egg-grading, based on federal - provincial agreement and cooperation.

Better inspection to ensure that potatoes are free from disease, blemishes, bruises and cuts which affect their keeping qualities by washing.

Better ways to educate whether they are for baking for general-purpose use.

The CAC offers this advice for preparing potatoes:

Don't peel needless and food value, cook potatoes often with the skins on, for it is directly under the skin the best food value lies."

Had 3 Careers Ready, Scrapped All for Hubby

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lady Bird Taylor had three careers ready, she scrapped them all for Lyndon Johnson.

Now, as the wife of the busy democratic leader in the U.S. Senate, she has so little time she donates things like playing the "a self indulgence."

"I'd adore to go to plays—read a murder mystery, a romantic saga, but there's rarely time," she reports.

Even on evening together for a social gathering's hard to come by with a husband who cries out only half-jokingly that he thinks politics 18 hours a day.

WHITE HOUSE HOPEFUL

Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, 47, a petite, trim, attractive brunette with steel eyes and a Texas drawl, has two daughters, age 15 and 12, a radio-TV station and a husband hankering for the U.S. presidency.

She's as good a press agent as Johnson could get, admires his dynamic leadership and predicts "the last thing he's going to do is retire early."

Lady Bird should know. After one date in 1934, Lyndon Johnson thought it was some kind of record. Then they met again and married two months later.

She was 21 then and Lyndon, 25, a teacher in a Texas college, congressman, Lady Bird had studied journalism at the University of Texas, had taken enough education courses to qualify as a secondary school teacher and had prepared with shorthand, typing and business courses to work as a secretary as well.

But Lyndon changed all that. He was in town commute between the Johnson ranch in Texas and his job in Washington while brick home in northwest Washington, it's a hectic life for Lady Bird.

Like many another politician's wife, she regularly finds herself not deeply informed on political issues. "But she's pretty much a part of Lyndon Johnson's political life, campaigning with him before he's elected, which, hadn't brown or scallop them; that they are highly nutritious and relatively inexpensive.

CALL PRIVATE ROLE

Lady Bird says her role on campaign trips consists chiefly of shaking hands and posing, packing and unpacking, ordering food, remembering to clip the newspapers, and trying to keep names on the tip of her tongue.

Occasionally when there are no secretaries around, she makes notes of her somewhat rusty shorthand.

The daughter of a wealthy Texas family, Lady Bird is invested some of her inheritance in a radio-television station in Austin, Tex., in 1943. The price has been reported at $67,000 and Lady Bird says "I did not complain" about that figure.

Mindful of the station operating daytime only, with no network affiliations and just nine employees, Lady Bird has actually named Claudia Alta Taylor, but no one has called her that since she was two years old and a nursemaid thought "Lady Bird" was more appropriate. It stuck and she's even officially listed in the congressional Directory as Lady Bird.

'Choices' Topic At Methodist Youth Rally

The Wesleyan Methodist Church, Everett St., was well attended at the monthly evening when the local Wesleyan youth played host to visiting young people from Madoc, Brockville, Newington, Toronto, Ottawa and Winchester.

The Winchester W.Y. was awarded the banner (in absentia) and were congratulated by the conference president, Lorne Elliott, in the absence of President C. Brentlinger.

The invocation was offered by the Rev. Walter Smith followed by words of welcome by the Bellevillian president, Jean Hinton.

A lively song service was conducted by the Rev. Earl Bray. The Youth for Christ Choral-aires, directed by Mary Nadon, sang several numbers, including "Unite Belief and Unite Me as a Blessing." This group of local teenagers is making a name for itself and their fine music was greatly enjoyed.

Two young people, Doreen Cannon and Garnet Blakely, gave testimonies for Christ and expressed appreciation to God for their Saviour and Friend.

Just before the message, a duet by Sue Spearman, Gail Smith and Gwen Wilson, sang the hymn "Jesus, The Very Thought of Thee."

The guest speaker for the rally was the Rev. Murray McKnight of Madoc W.M. church, who brought a message on "Choices." He quoted Elijah from 1 Kings 18-21, "How long halt ye between two opinions? If the Lord be God, 'follow Him."

Mr. McKnight challenged the young people to put God to the test. He did not "Choose" in this hour nor will He fail the young people of Canada.

The service was closed with prayer by the Rev. Willis Mack of Winchester, Ont.

Refreshments and fellowship were enjoyed in and lower auditorium following the service.

275 Children, Adults Attended Bible Club Rally

Approximately 275 children and adults gathered in the Holloway Street United Church Sunday School rooms for the annual (God Nows Bible Club) rally, on April 9th, with Mr. A. Hannah as chairman.

The children were led in chorus singing by Mr. Doug Stark with Miss Diane Currie as the accompanist.

Several clubs presented special group singing items, one characterization of men from the Bible, testifying how much the Lord Jesus meant to them in their young lives as Saviour and Guide.

Mr. Mel Smith, of Oshawa, a noted children's leader, spoke as well as played several musical instruments.

The challenge to the young audience was the story of the life of Joshua, how he, in obedience, walked with God.

Mr. Stark closed the meeting in prayer.

At 8.00 p.m. the Child Evangelism Fellowship met at the Bethel Chapel for an evening meeting to encourage workers for the coming campaign.

FINE REPORT

Mrs. R. Williams gave a splendid report of the district executive meeting held in Belleville lately. She outlined the district annual to be held May 11 at Thurlow Memorial evening session 9.45, afternoon 1.30, and registration 8.45.

The election of officers with past president Mrs. E. Foster presiding, resulted as follows: Mrs. Reid; 1st vice-president — Mrs. R. Williams; second vice-president — Mrs. W. H. Cooke; secretary — Mrs. L. Bronson; treasurer — Mrs. W. C. West; district director — Mrs. M. Williams; assistant district director — Mrs. S. McMurray; branch director — Mrs. M. Ward; property committee — Mrs. E. Foster and the president; auditors — Mrs. M. Williams and Mrs. G. Manby; sewing and quilt committee — Mrs. C. Wright, Mrs. E. Foster, Mrs. M. Ward and Mrs. R. Reid; press reporter — Mrs. Luella Bronson.

All officers were installed by assisting to the 23rd handbook practice, and they don't like it. It tosses glasses over the bar window and certainly doesn't enhance a girl's popularity.

Question: I had a terrible experience while dining in a restaurant the other evening. I choked on a fishbone and felt as if the end had come! I didn't know what to do and, of course, scared every one at the table. Finally the bone went down and all was well, but I have never been so embarrassed. What should I do if anything like this happens again?

Answer: If possible, leave the table quickly, covering your mouth with your napkin as you go. Head for the powder room. If before you can do this, you begin the bone to the surface, place the napkin in front of your mouth, and remove it with your fingers. This, of course, is only an emergency measure.

SHORT of iron clothes and powerful magnetic hanger. There's probably no genius to prevent a certain amount of face-despoiling of Brother's garments. But you might try fixing him a nicket out of his allowance for each item he's fired into dave on the bed.

Built-In Lines

The shape is practically built in to emphasize the line of this feminine looking dress of Indian silk. It has open/square neckline with a crossover on the bodice that forms a long V-line notch. The wide midriff belt extends up to the high neckline, pierced at the sides by two self fabric roses. The set-in sleeves are quite short. Dress comes in rose, lilac blue or black.

QUESTION BOX

Question: I am to be best man at the wedding of a friend. We are having quite an argument as to whether or not a bachelor's dinner is held. Can you help us?

Answer: It is entirely a personal choice as to whether or not a bachelor dinner is held. It is not obligatory. Should one be held, however, the bridegroom foots all the bills. With one exception, it is merely the sayonara stag dinner. Toward the end of the meal, the bridegroom stands, holding a glass of champagne on high, saying, "To the bride." Every man stands and drinks the toast.

Question: I am sixteen years old and some of the girls in my class at school do something that I think is awful. They come to classes with their hair done up in bobbie pins, with scarves tied around their heads. They look terrible! When I ask them why they do it, they say they are getting ready for a date. Do you think this is a good excuse to make themselves look so awful?

Answer: I most certainly do not! I have never understood how a girl can "get ready for a date" by scarring pretty hair with her hair in curlers. The amazing thing to me is that the girls may look at classmates and see her this way. We be prettied up — just for the date — and look like a scarecrow beforehand? I have heard young men complain about this bad practice, and they don't like it. It tosses glasses over the bar window and certainly doesn't enhance a girl's popularity.

Ways To Use The Leftover Cold Roast

by Mary Moore

David and Roddy, Eleanor's boys, balk at eating cold roast beef and lamb. So it is left alone in keeping a constant watch for recipe ideas for left-over cold roast. Our readers often ask me this help.

I have just made a meat pie from leftover roast beef to serve four at six. Since amounts of leftover roast beef and gravy vary, I'll give you the recipe I did. You may have to improvise a little to increase the amounts for your crowd to make the meat and gravy stretch, by adding more water and vegetables.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY

Rhubarb Juice Cocktail; Glazed Baked Ham (see Thursday); Broiled Stuffed Halves or Pickled Peaches; Fluffy Mashed Squash; Asparagus Spears; Hot Cross Buns; Salad; Empire Torte (see Monday, April 4th and Thursday, April 5th); Coffee.

DEEP MEAT PIE (from leftover beef)

2¼ or 2 cups cold roast beef cut roughly into ½" cubes; 1 medium carrots cut in 1" pieces; 1 onion chopped; 1 cup gravy (including green tops); ½ cup fresh frozen green peas; about 1 cup leftover beef gravy; ½ teaspoon salt; ¼ teaspoon pepper; 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce; Pastry for top.

Cook carrots until nearly tender in ½ cup water. Add carrot liquid to gravy. This should measure 1½ cups. If it does not add hot water. Add carrots, liquid to precooked carrots and chill all remaining ingredients except pastry. Heat thoroughly. Turn into 9" baking dish (1½ qts.). Cover with rather thinly rolled tender pastry, gashed at centre, turning edge over edge a little to secure it. Bake in 425 degree F. oven 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 375 deg. Fahr. for another 20 or 25 minutes.

PEADY'S LAMB CROQUETTES

These were made from leftover roast lamb. The leg of lamb was average size and served four people with a bit left. Cut remaining cold lamb from bones and grind fine. You should have between 1½ to 2 cups to serve.

Make Thick White Sauce: Melt 4 tablespoons butter or margarine (or lamb fat). Saute gently in it 1 tablespoon each chopped celery, parsley and onion until transparent and yellow but not brown. Add ¼ cup flour and blend. Stir in 1¼ cups milk until thick. Add season with ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper and ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Add ground lamb and mix well. Chill thoroughly. Shape into 6 cylinders or cones and roll first in seasoned flour, then in 1 egg beaten with 1 tablespoon water. Again roll in seasoned flour. Fry in deep fat at 375 deg. until golden, turning once. Or, if you prefer, bake on buttered pan at 450 deg. Fahr. until golden brown and crisp, about 10-12 minutes.

Question: Exactly the same method may be used for leftover beef, chicken or veal. Cooked fish are usually served with a creamed vegetable such as peas, carrots, celery, or asparagus, or a moist one such as tomato casserole or mushroom sauce, or straight or unstrained tomato sauce or mushroom sauce — see Monday, April 18, column for Savory Sauces.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and other specialists. Each article is written by a different one history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Douglas J. — Most I always be a bit scared with this baby!

Mrs. L. J. — He has a responsibility toward his sister.

Douglas J. — I am 17 and I have the misfortune to have a sister who's getting pretty and nobody would know it. She be-lieves it is her own fault.

My mother wants me to include Betty in everything I do. She wants me to pull, it always works out wrong. A couple of times I've gotten dates for her and she kept complaining after-wards that the boy didn't like her, that she didn't like and she refused to go out with him again. It's not that I don't like Betty. I've been to a party at the home of a girl I know. Nearly everyone will be there, but my mother doesn't want me to go unless Betty has been invited. A few of the fellows are bringing their own sisters, but I didn't ask Betty. Why can't I live my own life?

Mrs. L. J. — I have tried again and again to explain to mother that I have a responsibility toward his sister. She is a girl with the usual feelings and awkward because of her height.

I know what she is going through because I had the same problem at her age. All the boys were taller and heavier and I was some time before they caught up. During the years I felt lonely, miserable girlhood just dreaming about parties, dates that all the girls were getting having.

I wasn't lucky enough to have a brother, but I often wished for one. Betty just has to be given a bit the swing of things. Then she'll start coming out of her shell. Her self-confidence and Doug will be proud of her.

The Council: We think Mrs. L. J. is wrong to put this pressure on Doug — both for his sake and his sister's.

Whether or not this situation is discussed fully in front of Betty, we are sure she is aware of what is going on. It does her no good to be foisted on her brother in an unwanted manner. She undoubtedly feels she is a bit ab-normal anyway as a girl her age and a problem to herself and everyone around her.

Doug's natural adolescent has uncertainties about his appearance and ability to get along. He is for popularity or social acceptance as one of the many facets of adolescence and must be fought through by the individual. A little boost here and there from the wise older person may be helpful, but the ultimate decision is the re-jection of helping the child to help himself rather than in doing a lot for him.

Betty's problem is one of the most common ones. Countless girls have gone through agonies per-haps, but most eventually fight their way through.

A few tears and heartaches may signal the need for the decision to do something about it. Finally she may even find out to think about it and make myself a list of her assets. Be as objective as possible," say some girls. Others may say, "I'll get busy and do something useful by choral group and I'll make so many friends that everyone will be bound to meet someone taller who just loves short girls."

Questions like these forge character. The youngster who realizes that she has to face and solve obstacles develops confidence and a sense of fulfillment. Miss Mis-guiding his way ahead in life a little farther each time. We think Betty's invitations and spirit are being taken away by an over-solicitous mother and an irritated brother. She should be en-couraged to step out on her own to find social life in the many groups open to teenagers in every community.

Light Shades of Wallpaper Now Trend Says Expert

By ZENA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, (CP) — Women make excellent paperhangers, says Lilia Tillson.

The attractive, blonde grandmother from Galt, Ont., for the last nine years has been employed as a wallpaper consultant by a firm in suburban New Toronto.

When it comes to hanging wallpapers, women often are more careful than their husbands, and do a better job, she said in an interview.

CHANGING FASHIONS

Fashions in wallpaper, as in furniture, change with the years, says Mrs. Tillson. Dark, heavy patterns have passed and light colors are the trend.

Many of the new patterns are almost indiscernible, a rough texture being the main interest. Popular now are mixtures of white, blue and green shades as well as blends of off-whites and gold.

The lighter shades have become popular with the improved lighting in present day homes, she explained. Many papers now are finished with a fine coat of plastic which can be washed and shed dust.

Light shades make a room appear larger, just as a white ceiling seems to give height. A small room can be visually expanded by the proper choice of wallpaper, Mrs. Tillson says. The lines don't need to be obvious. A subtle pattern is enough.

EASY TO LEARN

Plastic-coated wallpapers are easy to clean with a pail of soapy water and a sponge, and each section is washed, it should be rinsed with a clean pail of water and another sponge. Special cleaners are available for removal of grease spots.

In applying wallpaper, the ceiling should be done first, with the strips running from the window so that the seams won't show up in the light. On the walls, start in the least obvious corner, usually behind the door, where it doesn't matter much if the pattern does not exactly match.

Mural papers are an exception. They should be applied from the centre, with the work finishing out from there, and seams must be carefully matched.

To get paper set straight, it might be an idea to suspend a weighted string from the ceiling, and then draw a vertical line with chalk or a pencil against which with perfectly straight walls," Mrs. Tillson says.

"Unless the woodwork is panelled it will not, I advise people to paint it the same color as the background of the paper. Just the frame should be done in a small room can be visually expanded by the proper choice of the prominent part of the picture, wallpaper. Mrs. Tillson says. The

Bird Sanctuary, Lighthouse On Eastern Canadian Border Is Island Diplomats Forgot

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, (CP)—Machias Seal Island, bird sanctuary and lighthouse No. 1 on the eastern Canadian seaboard, is the place the diplomats forgot. Probably it will stay that way.

While it has never been legally settled whether Canada or the United States owns the 15-acre island, Canada has built up a strong claim based on possession during nine-tenths of the law.

Machias Seal Island was omitted from territorial settlements by Britain and the U.S. ended after 1857—by Canada and the U.S.

The U.S. state department was asked about 2½ years ago as arguing it remains an "unresolved problem." But the Canadian external affairs department takes a more philosophic view.

NOBODY CARES

The fact is that nobody on either side of the border is interested in Machias Seal Island as a burning source of dispute, a spokesman suggests.

The island is in the mouth of the Bay of Fundy—latitude 44-35 north; longitude 67-06 west—about 11 miles off the northern coast of Maine and about 10 miles south-southwest of Grand Manan Island, N.B.

Britain put a lighthouse on it in 1832 and it's still there, showing its light every three seconds and hooking a fog warning every 30 seconds.

Treeless, it is 50 feet above the Atlantic at its highest point, a haven for puffins, terns, razor-billed auks and other migratory seabirds. The only human occupants have been the lighkeeper and his family.

BIRDWATCHERS VISIT

Bird-lovers, chiefly from Maine land on its beautiful shores in calm weather. In the past there have been some sheep grazing on the thin cover of grass.

Its lighthouse is ranked No. 1 in the federal transport department records for the Atlantic waters which end at No. 1965.

St. Machias—pronounced like gries—Seal Island is among the territories omitted from the treaty of Paris signed after the American Revolution. There was a long run of claims and counter-claims but external affairs knows of no other island so completely omitted from the hard-and-fast territorial settlements of later years.

LINE UP FOR "LADY"

MOSCOW (AP)—Tickets went on sale Tuesday for the musical My Fair Lady and Muscovites formed a long line at the box office to pay the highest prices ever charged here for seats. Admission is 85 rubles, almost twice the regular top price for a seat at the Bolshoi Ballet. (At the official exchange rate 85 rubles is worth $16.25, at the tourist rate $6.50).

Businesses, Transit Systems Taking Beating by Discount

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The decision of Canadian banks to discount United States coins is posing a problem to many businesses and public transit systems across the country.

In Vancouver, the British Columbia Electric Company, which operates a transit system, estimates it will absorb a $3,000 weekly exchange loss from the coins.

In Calgary, Harold Arscott, the assistant city treasurer, said that because of the large number of Americans living in the area it is feared the city's parking meters will be flooded with the coins.

In Toronto, the Toronto Transit Commission and many restaurants have refused to accept American silver.

The crackdown on the coins started in full force last week when Canadian banks announced they would discount the coins at a rate per cent higher than the prevailing daily rate for paper money. The discount was to apply on U.S. silver in amounts of a dollar or more.

Bankers had become concerned over the influx of the coins in Canada after they estimated that 25 per cent of the coins carried around in the average Canadian's pocket were of U.S. origin.

TAKE A BEATING

Following the announcement, restaurants, transit lines and other places of business refused to accept the silver. But other businesses, such as soft drink vendors, tele phone companies, slot machine operators and transit lines, could not readily refuse the coins.

In Vancouver, the B.C. Telephone Company, estimating that $20,000 of its monthly $120,000 take from pay telephones is in U.S. coins, said: "We'll just have to live with it."

The B.C. Electric Company, faced with a $3,000 weekly exchange loss, said new transit fare boxes introduced recently would make it difficult for bus drivers to reject the coins.

FEATHERING ITS NEST

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Mrs. Margaret Hulful put a dollar bill in an empty bottle for the milkman Tuesday and set the bottle outside. She glanced out the window shortly after, just in time to watch a seagull dip its beak into the bottle and fly off with the money.

THOMASBURG — The dance recently sponsored by the IOOF was well attended. Music was supplied by the Country Partners' Orchestra.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Meeks, the former Gloria Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Robinson, who were married in Thomasburg United Church on Saturday, April 2. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. L. A. Pary, rector of St. Margaret's — on-the-Hill, Belleville, assisted by Mr. Gregory Dyson of Thomasburg United Church. The reception took place in Stoco Lake hotel.

Mrs. Isobel Crawford, who spent some weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Vance, Moneymore, following her illness, has returned to her home much improved in health.

Dr. and Mrs. H. Cheney of Ottawa, were weekend guests of Miss Emma Porter. Dr. Cheney has recently returned by plane from a tour of the British Isles.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Lott of Hallaway, Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Thompson and Anne, of Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. L. Thompson of Trenton, were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Thompson.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the family of the late Mrs. John Adams, of Ivanhoe, who passed away suddenly on Sunday, March 27, in Belleville General Hospital, in her 82nd year. The funeral took place on March 30 with interment in Thomasburg cemetery.

The card party under the auspices of the Crescent Rebekah Lodge, Thomasburg, in the IOOF hall on the evening of April 4, drew a large crowd considering weather and road conditions.

Mrs. George Dyson is a patient in Belleville hospital at present. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Forest Industry, Backbone Of B.C. Economy, Weaker

By NAT COLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER, (CP)—The backbone of British Columbia's economy—lumber—is getting weak.

Some observers say the industry is entering the most critical period in its history—and that means a critical period for the province.

The forest industry provides about 40 cents of every $1 earned in B.C. It is the province's largest industry in terms of employment, value of production and private capital investment. Its exports are worth nearly double the total exports of all B.C.'s other products combined.

Last year the value of production reached a record $637,715,000. The total amount of timber cut was 1,040,000,000 cubic feet, second only to the record set in 1956.

UNDERLYING WEAKNESS

But these figures do not reveal the industry's weakness. It does show up in overseas exports which were down to 199,000,000 cubic feet—a drop of eight per cent from 1958. The shipments amounted to only 77 per cent of the record set in 1955.

Lumber producers say traditional overseas markets are being lost because of high costs and increased competition from other wood-producing countries.

They add that shipments of B.C. lumber to other Canadian provinces have also dropped sharply, chiefly because of increased freight rates.

And as other markets have dwindled, a greater proportion of B.C.'s lumber exports has gone to the United States. The industry is unhappy with the condition, fearing it means putting too many of its eggs in one basket.

U.K. MARKET OFF

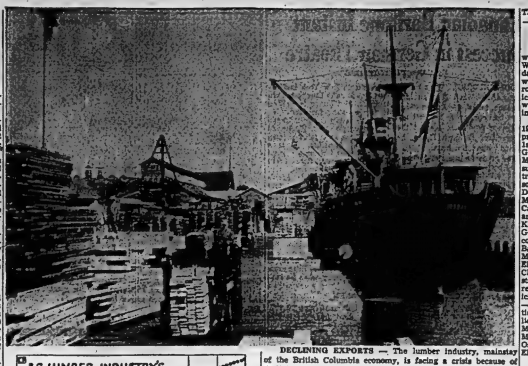
One of the province's greatest market losses has been in the United Kingdom. In 1952, the U.K. took 777,000,000 board feet of lumber—one-third of its supply —from British Columbia. Last year it took 307,000,000 board feet from B.C., about one-eighth of its market.

The B.C. Lumber Manufacturers' Association recently heard hearings of the royal commission on transportation that "unduly severe" freight rates had resulted in a 66-per-cent drop in shipments to other parts of western Canada between 1949 and 1958 and that shipments to eastern Canada were down 36 per cent in the same period.

B.C. lumber exports to the United States make up only five per cent of American consumption. But this amount represents an increasingly large part of B.C.'s total export—41 per cent in 1948 and 50 per cent last year. This makes the B.C. industry extremely sensitive to U.S. market which is regarded as unstable because of its short-term buying policy.

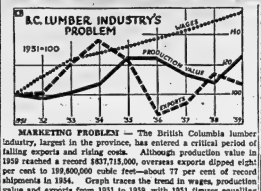
Lumbermen say the only way to put the industry back on firm footing is to cut two of its biggest costs—taxes and shipping—and hold the line on wages.

Wages of 28,000 woodworkers are estimated at more than $500,000 a day and in the last 10 years the basic wage rate has increased by 80 per cent.



The question of wages usually provides an annual battle between the operators and the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) but with the matter settled until the summer of 1961 by a two-year contract, the industry has recently turned its efforts to renewed attacks on the tax structure.

The provincial government collects more than $30,000,000—one-tenth of its annual budget—in direct revenues from the forests. Government officials estimate indirect taxes may raise this total to one-third of the budget.



Leading lumbermen say this tax load could drag the industry to a halt by discouraging new investment and braking its rate of growth.

Ray Williston, provincial lands and forests minister, says he's prepared to consider an investigation into the effects of federal and provincial taxes on the industry's ability to compete in world markets.

"This challenge is the most serious threat to our continued economic welfare that can be imagined at the present time," he said. "One thing we must not do is to kill the goose that lays the biggest golden egg we have."

DECLINING EXPORTS — The lumber industry, mainstay of the British Columbia economy, is facing a crisis because of declining overseas markets. Lumbermen say they are unhappy because 50 per cent of shipments go to the United States, a market they regard as unstable. Lumber is shown being loaded at Vancouver docks on a U.S.-bound ship. (CP Photo).

MARKETING PROBLEM — The British Columbia lumber industry, largest in the province, has entered a critical period of falling exports and rising costs. Although production value in 1959 reached a record $637,715,000, overseas exports dipped eight per cent to 199,000,000 cubic feet—about 77 per cent of record shipments in 1954. Graph traces the trend in wages, production value and exports from 1951 to 1959, with 1951 figures equalling 100. (CP Newsmap.)

Capital Airlines Owes Company $33,842,000

WASHINGTON (AP)—A British airplane manufacturer has started foreclosure proceedings against Capital Airlines, which owes the company $33,842,000 for a fleet of Viscount airliners.

An instalment of $14,158,500 from the Americas line is overdue, the British firm, Vickers-Armstrong Ltd., said Tuesday. Another instalment of $14,158,500 will fall due within a year.

Theoretically Vickers - Armstrong could put Capital out of business by seizing the Viscounts. But lawyers quoted Maj.-Gen. Sir Charles Dumphie, chairman of the British company, as saying:

"Vickers is taking this action with extreme reluctance.

(We) recognize the position which Capital occupies as a major trunk carrier and the public interest in its continued operation and would, of course, be willing to co-operate in a sound plan which makes adequate provision for the notes and for the solution of Capital's financial problem."

Based in Washington, the airline operates 7,000 route-miles, serving 77 cities in the eastern and midwest states.

Capital President David H. Baker said any foreclosure would be a long process. The airline was "hopeful that a satisfactory program can be worked out to protect not only the holders of the Vickers notes but the public interest and the interest of all other parties affected, without resorting to legal procedures."

More Wheat Than Needed Now Being Produced

LONDON (Reuters)—The world continues to produce more wheat than it demands, the International Wheat Council stated here on Tuesday night.

At its international meeting now under way, the council gave the following picture:

1. Wheat consumption is static or dropping in highly developed areas. In less developed areas it is rising. The net result is expected to be "some increase" in the long run.

2. Existing surpluses are burdensome to the countries carrying them. Moreover, they threaten prices on the world market.

3. Surplus disposal operations—government programs to export wheat to underdeveloped areas—are "an intelligent use of these excess stocks." Yet such programs also tend to "hinder the free development of trade."

4. It is important that the disposal operations should be carried out with "minimum interference to the commercial exports of third countries."

Holstein Cow At Guelph Makes Another Record

TORONTO (CP) — Jenny, a Holstein cow at the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph has just completed five 365-day tests in which she produced more than 1,000 pounds of butterfat a year. Three of Jenny's record performance tests showed more than 1,100 pounds of fat, and three more than 30,000 pounds of milk, all on three milkings a day.

The last Canadian cow to come close to his record was Springbank Snow Countess, who completed her record in 1933 on four-times-a-day milking. Observers said no Canadian cow has ever matched the figure on three-times-a-day milking. Since 1937 there has been a monument at Woodstock to the achievements of Countess, a cow from the T. R. Dent herd.

Jenny is nine years old, and her records stand at 1,068, 1,058, 1,172, 1,161 and 1,156 pounds of butterfat, and 28,401, 25,004, 29,161, 31,059 and 31,871 pounds of milk.

Canadian Baritone Instant Success in German Theatre

By CARL FLICK-STEGER

DUESSELDORF, West Germany (AP)—When Norman Mitchelmann, husky, 27-year-old Canadian baritone, made his first appearance as Prince Igor at the Duesseldorf Opera House, he brought down the house.

The audience broke all rules of good behavior in a West German theatre with a mighty outburst of applause in the middle of an act. It came at the end of a brilliant rendition by Mitelsaun of a difficult aria in Borodin's opera.

Veterans at Duesseldorf said the mid-act ovation was probably the first ever heard here.

West German critics agree that Mittelmann's voice is superb and his acting effective and intelligent. They predict a distinguished career for him.

WINNIPEG NATIVE

Young Mittelmann started singing while attending St. John's High School in his home town of Winnipeg. He also was a football star and for a while he wasn't sure whether he wanted to be a professional football player or a singer.

The issue was decided for him when he married. His wife, Roberta, is a 1953 graduate of the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia.

Last fall he was engaged by the municipal theatre in Essen. But Mittelmann received more.

SIGNED UP

Before the season ended he was signed up for 1960-61 at Duesseldorf's splendid new opera house. "German opera on the Rhine."

The Met in New York had advised him to go to Europe to earn his spurs. Mittelmann is well on his way to doing just that.

German critics say Mittelmann is destined to sing Wagnerian operas. His voice is full and sonorous in all registers. He is a broad-shouldered strapping giant with just the kind of figure every Wagnerian director covets.

Neither of Mittelmann's parents is particularly musical. His father is in the women's clothing business and is of Polish extraction. His mother is of Russian extraction.

The gifted young baritone is moderate in his habits and way of living. He neither drinks nor smokes, goes to bed early and rises with the sun. His hobby is equestrians but he also likes to indulge in carpentry when he isn't singing.

NO CHILDREN

The Mittelmanns have no children. The darling of the family is a small black poodle.

Veteran opera - goers here regard Mittelmann's success as all the more striking because he is a stranger. There is no clique of friends to supply the applause. Before Prince Igor, virtually no one here had heard of him.

"My next role will be that of the sheriff in Puccini's Girl of the Golden West," Mittelmann said in an interview.

He wasn't sure when he would return to North America. "I want to be successful in Europe first and then wait for the propitious moment to go back home," he said.

CANADIAN SINGER ABROAD — Norman Mittelman, 27-year-old Winnipeg baritone, is made up in the Duesseldorf Opera House for the role of Prince Igor in Borodin's opera. The young Canadian star, who has signed with the West German company for 1960-61, so impressed the audience in his first appearance that they broke all rules of good behavior in a German theatre with a mighty outburst of applause in the middle of an act. German critics describe his voice as superb and predicted a distinguished career for Mittelmann. (CP from AP).

Beaton's Group Being Sought By Fidel Castro

HAVANA (AP) — Rumors persisted today of small clashes in the mountains of Eastern Cuba between insurgent bands and troops reported led by Fidel Castro and his army commander.

Official sources in Havana remained silent on the rebel hunt. But the premier appeared to be taking a major personal effort to track down insurgent Huber Manuel Beaton, a former captain in Castro's revolutionary army reported to have taken to the mountains with perhaps 50 anti-Castro guerrillas.

A government official in Santiago, capital of Oriente province, reported that Castro-led forces, combing the Sierra Maestra in Oriente had captured Beaton's second - in - command and two other members of the guerrilla band.

Maj. Rene Vallejo Ortiz, chief of the Agrarian Reform Institute in Oriente, said Castro since Monday has been directing troops and peasant militia, along with army chief Maj. Juan Almeida.

AFTER OTHER GROUPS

In addition to Beaton's group, the government is reported trying to flush out two other rebel bands, one operating in a mountainous area near Cuba's northern tip, the other near Guantanamo Bay.

Newspapers and radio stations in Havana have made no mention of the rebel activity. Several have said Castro is on a routine inspection tour of agricultural co-operatives in Oriente.

But one observer said: "It will be cleared up in some time quickly he could be in for serious trouble, because there are many disconcerted persons ready and willing to join them."

Officials Seek To Make Bev Ward of Court

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "If only Errol Flynn were still alive my little girl wouldn't be in this fix," says the mother of 17-year-old Beverly Aadland.

The late actor's teen - age ex-mistress was described Wednesday by juvenile authorities as a 5'10-a-day prostitute who started at the age of 12, had "engaged in numerous acts of sexual intercourse."

Authorities filed a petition seeking to make Beverly a ward of juvenile court. She faces a hearing May 2.

BOYFRIEND SHOT

Beverly has been held in custody since William Bonfiglio, a gambling actor, was shot fatally in her apartment last Saturday. Homicide detectives say they are satisfied with her story that Stanciu was shot during a quarrel over a gun he had received.

"Errol Flynn was a real gentleman," said Mrs. Florence Aadland, who approved of her daughter's relationship with the movie actor who died in Vancouver last October at the age of 50.

"It's these young Hollywood men who can get a girl in trouble." Mrs. Aadland said.

"Why, Errol Flynn loved Beverly and she loved him—it was a thing of true love," she said. Mrs. Aadland, a former showgirl, said "it's sure too bad he had to die like that."

Flynn picked the girl out of the chorus of a Hollywood night club when she was 11. They traveled about the world together, including to Cuba where they co-starred in a movie produced by Flynn. She was with him when he died Oct. 14 in the British Columbia city.

Mrs. Aadland said she was disturbed that at the May hearing Beverly could be placed under court supervision until she turns 18 next Sept. 18.

"This could ruin her night club career, too," she said. Beverly sold offers were coming from Mrs. Aadland said Beverly has been singing at a Hollywood nightspot.

FIRE CLAIMS TWO

DETROIT (AP) — Two small sisters were burned to death Tuesday night when a fire destroyed the upstairs of their home. The bodies of Jacqueline Stenzger, 3, and her sister, Brenda Joyce, 5, were found in a bedroom. Their mother, Mrs. Mary Stenzger, 34, was at church when the fire broke out.

Macmillan Says South Africa's Policy Futile

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan said Wednesday night South Africa is pursuing a policy "both wrong and unwise" and it would be foolish of Britain to try to hide how much she disagrees with her Commonwealth partner.

Other areas of Africa are integrating the races, educating the Negroes and advancing in a democratic way, the prime minister told a meeting of the Royal Commonwealth Society.

But while Britain differs "fundamentally" with the South African government in its racial problem, Macmillan said, there would be little point in turning its back on the union and "sending its people to Coventry."

"We have tried with the Communist countries—we called it the cold war," he said. "Even Communist and free countries have to learn to live side by side."

Macmillan deplored the attempted assassination of South African Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd as a "murderous attack" which shocked all Britain.

CONTRASTS BELIEFS

He added: "They believe in the separate social, economic and political development (the policy of colored South Africans. We believe that police to be both wrong and unworkable."

However far apart on this, the prime minister urged the continued cooperation of South Africa within the Commonwealth.

Macmillan said South Africa was set up as a union by "an act of unparalleled generosity" when Britain, in Parliament, Britain, he said, still-is convinced to its fundamental rightness. It is where and this is no time "to lose faith in one's own faith."

He held up as examples the conduct in Ghana, in Nigeria and in the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland, "led by enlightened men who have racial barriers are coming down, where integration in many places "is now a matter of course." In such atmosphere, he said, he saw a great future for Africa.

Heated Debate Stops House From Proroguing

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island legislatures were prorogued Wednesday night, leaving only one Canadian legislature sitting.

New Brunswick was to have been prorogued but a heated debate developed during an evening sitting over the method of financing hospital care insurance.

The Nova Scotia Attorney-General remains to sit this spring. Its 1960 session has been called for April 20.

The Nova Scotia legislature closed after Lieutenant-Governor E. C. Plow gave royal assent to 30 bills. It was expected to be the last session before a provincial election although Premier Stanfield has made no mention of one. His Progressive Conservative government has a majority in office four years.

NEW LABEL PROTECTION

One piece of major legislation was the Defamation Act whose provisions afford newspapers and radio stations greater protection from libel action. Observers regard it as one of the most comprehensive pieces of libel legislation ever passed in Canada.

It combines features of the British Defamation Act, the Ontario Act and includes a draft bill drawn up by the Canadian Authority on Uniformity of Legislation.

The Defamation Act allows the defendant in a libel action to prove in mitigation of damages" that a news story was not published with actual malice or gross negligence, provided a correction was given prominence equal with that of the offending item.

BURN OUT AREAS

Only special damages could be claimed if the aggrieved party had requested a correction in good faith, there were reasonable grounds to believe it was in the public interest, publication took place in mistake or in misapprehension of the facts or if a retraction and apology were carried before the libel action was brought.

Prorogation of the Prince Edward Island legislature ended the first session under a Progressive Conservative government in 25 years.

Premier Shaw's government introduced a four-per-cent sales tax aimed at paying off the island's $3,000,000 debt. Details of the tax, effective July 1, have not yet been announced.

RCAF Finds Self in Dilemma, Wants Both Kinds of Weapons

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF is in a fix.

It wants both the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile and a new manned interceptor to replace the CF-100 jet.

Every time the Bomarc fails a test, chances of getting it go down and chances of obtaining a manned interceptor go up.

If the Bomarc flies—as it did Wednesday for the first time in eight attempts — the RCAF's chances of getting it increase and chances of getting the interceptor decrease.

There's no way the RCAF can figure out how to get both.

Authorities have said the government plans to dismantle the nine CF-100 squadrons in Canada if and when the Bomarc comes into operation as scheduled in late 1961.

The United States Air Force has proposed that the Canadian government acquire three supersonic F-101 squadrons to replace the obsolescent CF-100 until. No decision on this is likely until the Bomarc proves out, fails or is cancelled by the U.S. Congress.

Defence Minister Pearkes interrupted regular Commons business Wednesday to announce the successful 70-mile flight of the Bomarc from Eglin Air Force Base in Florida.

Liberal Paul Hellyer, former associate defence minister, said Mr. Pearkes shouldn't let one success go to his head and that Canada should pull out of the Bomarc program altogether.

Gen. Thomas D. White, chief of the U.S. Air Force, said recently that rocket - carrying bombers will be the chief threat to Canada before they released their loads. The only way this could be done was with manned interceptors. The Bomarc couldn't perform this job, he said.

Severe Influenza Outbreak At Coppermine Under Control

EDMONTON (CP) — There wasn't even an aspirin tablet left in the federal nursing station when medical help arrived in the battle of an influenza outbreak at Coppermine, N.W.T., a tiny settlement on the Canadian Arctic coast.

Archdeacon John Sperry of the Anglican church mission at Coppermine, 1,000 miles north of Edmonton, said the epidemic in a letter received here Wednesday.

Things were so bad at one point 98 per cent of the settlement's 200 population was stricken in the epidemic, worst the commanding officer, Father Archdeacon Sperry wrote.

The epidemic started March 30 when the Tha virus arrived with an Eskimo patient returning from a convalescence from Yellowknife, N.W.T.

Luckily Dr. Elizabeth Cass, a federal government eye specialist, was in Coppermine at the same day as an advance guard for the health and welfare department's annual medical tour of the North.

WAS SERIOUS

"By April 2 the greater percentage of Eskimos and whites were incapacitated," Mr. Sperry reported, "and in these early days of the epidemic the position was very grave.

"One RCMP man nearly off with fever was also the Dominion Catholic missionary was sick, and radio operator was trying to keep open telecommunications all by himself. Dr. Cass and nurse Mary Ann Dawson worked day and night in an effort to stave off the overwhelming supply of drugs."

Archdeacon Sperry, one of the few white residents who escaped the flu, acted as interpreter and organized the few Eskimo men who were still able to work.

FIND PLAN

"Mr. Munro of the Hudson Bay Company and Mr. Robertson of the department of northern affairs dealt with supply of relief and after two days a crude but workable plan was put into effect to feed the whole community of 200 persons with a daily ration of soup and also keep the 300 dogs from starvation.

"Dr. Cass has crawled in and out of tents, examined patients in the most cramped conditions imaginable. Working herself to near exhaustion with her medical bolo knife—and otherwise, she has thus far emerged from this nightmare experience without losing a single patient. This achievement has been even considering the complications of pneumonia with coughing and vomiting of blood."

The influenza strain was particularly virulent one, Mr. Sperry said it "prostrates the patient with severe headache, sore throat, pains in the chest and aching limbs; they are practically helpless."

It now appears the worst is past.

Western Foreign Ministers Head Into Final Session to Reconcile Views on Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western foreign ministers' talks headed into a final session today with United States officials reported cool toward a French plan for East-West control against arms shipments to newly developing countries.

State Secretary Christian Herter was slated to be luncheon guest to a British proposal for seeking Russian agreement to an international code of ethics, since the United Nations already has such a code. But he was more favorably disposed toward stepping up cultural and information exchanges between Russia and the free world.

Herter, Britain's Selwyn Lloyd and France's Maurice Couve de Murville are charting strategy for their conference leads to use at the summit parley with Premier Khrushchev in Paris May 16.

Also here are the foreign ministers of Canada, West Germany and Italy, whose views are being brought into the discussions.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green of Canada is due for a private talk with Herter today, but will not discuss in advance subjects he planned to bring up. The Canadian minister also will meet various U.S. congressional leaders.

Wednesday the Big Three foreign ministers held separate meetings on two major cold war disputes heeded for summit discussion—Germany — Berlin and disarmament—and speedily came to "complete agreement," reaffirming fundamental positions previously taken.

They agreed to seek a temporary solution of the Berlin problem pending reunification of the Communist-surrounded city are not legislated. They retained their goal of a unified, democratic Germany.

On disarmament, they agreed to consider seriously "any practical disarmament proposal" Moscow might offer.

Foreign Ministers to Make Sure West Berlin Guarded

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

An idea backed by Prime Minister Diefenbaker may form part of Western strategy in the effort to resolve the East-West crisis over Berlin at the summit conference.

Officials of the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany took up the proposal that the Western rights in Berlin must be absolutely guaranteed and the Western rights of access to the Red-encircled city must be assured in an agreement with Russia.

But a British source quietly hinted that the Canadian idea doesn't end there, that a number of NATO countries are interested and that one of these alternatives might include the presence of United Nations officials in Berlin.

About a year ago Diefenbaker suggested, in talks with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, that perhaps the UN could play a role in Berlin in a way that would satisfy both East and West to verify that both sides stuck to the terms of any agreement reached.

In announcing such a suggestion, Diefenbaker emphasized that Russia would first have to be persuaded and to assent to full freedom of access of West Berlin and agree to the UN presence being complementary to the rights and obligations of the occupying powers.

Russia occupies East Berlin while France, Britain and the U.S. occupy the Western part of the city. Diefenbaker has described the present Berlin situation as "abnormal." There is a feeling among his advisers that West Berlin would be difficult to defend if Russia were to use any new war. But Eisenhower has assured the Canadian premier Adenauer there will be no yielding of ground in the face of threats. Some of its 2,000,000 citizens will be defended.

It is known that the three powers in the Big Four April 26 at Toronto.

"Ex parte" proceedings, through which only an interim or temporary order can be granted, will be dispensed with if desired represented.

Under the action, the defendants are all employees or former employees of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Robert Wilson, business agent for the local, and E. M. (Jimmy) Douglas, retired director for the international union, are also defendants.

Union officials said earlier a meeting at Toronto with officials of the Canadian Broadcasting Association was being arranged in an effort to halt the strike spreading through the Windsor trucking industry.

Striking truck drivers in this area continue to defy orders from their executive board and will not proceed so long as there is a dispute in Windsor.

New Information Being Probed Says Magistrate

TORONTO (CP) — Magistrate C. E. Hick, chairman of Metropolitan Toronto's police commission, said Wednesday night new information dealing with the general mass transportation of drugs has been police probing in the last 24 hours and "is being fully investigated."

There were no senior RCMP or Metropolitan Toronto police officers available for comment and police on duty said they could not have anything to say at present.

Magistrate Hick did not clarify his brief statement but said in an interview in connection with investigations concerning allegations by Toronto Controller Jean Newman that drugs could be had in Toronto within five minutes of phoning for home delivery.

Mr. Hick said police files list nearly 4,000 persons under drug addicts in Ontario, 400 of them in Toronto. RCMP have said about that 74 persons have been arrested during the past year on narcotics charges—65 for possession and nine for trafficking.

Crown Council Outlines Case Of Wash-Trading

TORONTO (CP) — Crown prosecutor Gordon W. Ford told an Ontario Supreme Court jury Wednesday that Albert Gould, 45, illegally manipulated the price and volume of trading of Cabanga Developments Limited stock—a scheme could repay $454,000 in loans.

Gould is charged with three counts of wash-trading Cabanga stock during May, June and July of 1957, during when he purchased effective control of the company with an $835,000 loan from Max Tannenbaum, Toronto industrialist. Gould is also on trial for defrauding a New York brokerage firm of $315,615.

The all-male jury was advised by Mr. Justice E. G. Thompson that the trial will likely take from three weeks to a month.

In his 50-minute outline Mr. Ford traced Gould's financing the purchase of Cabanga at $2.85 a share.

Mr. Ford said Gould was to repay $454,000, at a rate of $4,000 a trading day which he disposed of Cabanga stock. If Cabanga stock fell below the $2 share the creditors could sell the stock put up by Gould as security.

DEALT IN NEW YORK

He said Gould then was in contact with a New York stock broker and opened accounts in names of five associates interested in purchasing Cabanga stock. He said Gould told the broker he had his possession $500,000 worth of gilt-edge U.S. securities and would buy Cabanga stock with the proceeds.

Mr. Ford said the sale to the New York stock brokerage firm of Cabanga stock in fact came from Jersey Holdings Limited another controlled by Gould, in buying Cabanga stock in New York Gould was buying from himself, the prosecutor said.

In July the brokerage firm was instructed by Gould to sell the U.S. securities, but the securities were never forwarded by Gould. In mid - July Gould instructed Winfield H. Schweickart, head of the brokerage firm, to buy in $500 000 of U.S. securities, which he did, in the meantime, there was $400,000 owing in the five accounts and the brokerage firm was holding 140,000 Cabanga shares which had then fallen to $2 a share.

Mr. Ford said in this way the brokerage firm of Joseph Faroll, Bernice Faroll, Eugene Greenberger and Schweickart were defrauded of $315,615.

SHIP FIRE CONTROLLED

NEW YORK (AP) — The oil-laden Dutch tanker Astrid Naess reported late Wednesday that a fire in her engine room in which seven crew men were burned was under control and finished." The tanker was about 700 miles east of Cape Henry. The ship's master reported the seven men had been treated for their injuries in accordance with radio instructions from the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital at Norfolk, Va.

They are Carl Pumfrey, 21, whose home was in Dresden but who lived and worked in Windsor, and Arthur Harry De Reviers 18, of Wallaceburg. They were identified by Chatham hospital officials.

Police said CNR conductor M. B. Betts of Chatham was standing at the crossing directing traffic and had to jump clear before the crash.

Smith Transport Wins Injunction Against Drivers

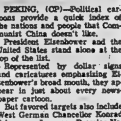
Pays $500 Fine For Assaulting Two Women



BOSTON (AP) — A Montreal insurance company executive paid a $500 fine in municipal court Wednesday when he pleaded guilty to assault and battery on two Canadian women.

Ronald J. Jackson, 38, admitted the assaults on Cecile Gagnon, 24, a blonde artist and daughter of Montreal Governor Onesime Gagnon, and Theresa Delisle, 28, a brunette who was prominent in state here.

The arraignment hearing Monday detective Elmer Brooks testified Jackson, apartment building featured that Miss Delisle soon would be transferred to the Canadian capital in Ottawa, Belgium, and that her apartment would be empty.

Miss Gagnon, who lives nearby, testified that she received a phone call from Jackson April 6 on which he said he was Jerry Archer, a family friend. She stated that she had several drinks with Jackson at a hotel lounge and then accompanied her to her apartment where she said, he

'The Way of the Cross' Will Be Pilgrimage to Holy Land

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The Way of the Cross, which NBC will telecast Saturday night promises to be a sort of vicarious pilgrimage to the Holy Land.

The hour-long program (9:30-10:30) houses the camera on places important in the life of Jesus, from his birth in Bethlehem to his death on Calvary.

It will show the Holy Land as it is today, and sometimes — as when the narrator is describing the Via Dolorosa where Christ fell under the weight of the cross—the camera will view the street as it might have appeared to Jesus.

Leo Hazam, the NBC writer-producer of the program, believes it is a new approach to the television documentary. He conducted careful research to find the correct geographical locations and drew heavily from the scriptures in writing the narration for Alexander Scourby. The actors were used.

It could be a tremendously effective and moving program.

Charles de Gaulle has knocked ex-president Herbert Hoover out of the April television schedule. Person to Person planned to visit Hoover April 28 (the show actually was taped last month in Florida), but CBS has pre-empted the program's time for a special Eyewitness to History report of the French president's visit to the U.S.

Television is certainly keeping up with the headlines in the dramatic efforts. Circle Theatre on April 27 will explore the ghost-writing business in a drama about a college student who employs a "literary service" to write his term papers. The ghost-writing scandals have been on the front pages just this week in the New York area . . . Jack Paar's April 21 special sounds as if it will be more of a class reunion than variety show. With a couple of exceptions, the guest stars will be Paar show grads—Shelley Berman, Cliff Arquette, Elaine May and Mike Nichols and Alexander King among them—and the last half of the show will be highlits from the late-night show, including the episode with Mickey Rooney and Peter Lawford.

Recommended tonight:

Producer's Choice, NBC, 8:30-9 —A rerun of The Cold Touch, with Bette Davis.

The Untouchables, ABC, 9:30-10:30 — Thomas Mitchell in an episode about a retired hoodlum who returns to the underworld as a business consultant.

Outcome of Casual Visit Will Be Movie 'The Misfits'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It all started with an afternoon call on Wallach and Thelma Ritter. They with the Taylors and the Millers.

The Taylors—four boys, book editor Frank Taylor and his wife —dropped by at the Connecticut home of Arthur Miller, his two children and his wife. He's the playwright, she acts in the movies.

As Taylor recalls it: "Arthur was telling us a story. He and Robert Penn Warren are the best story tellers I know, and we were all enthralled. When he finished, I said it was great but what was it—a play, a novel or what?

"He said it was a screen play and he had it in the next room. Would I like to read it? I said certainly."

WILD ABOUT IT

Taylor read it, loved it, said it could only be directed by John Huston, Miller agreed, but was shy about sending it to Huston. Taylor urged him, and two days later Huston cabled from Paris that he was wild about the script and wanted to do it.

That was last summer. A few months ago, Taylor ran into his old friend Miller. The deal was still on, but they lacked a producer. Said Miller: "Why don't you do it?"

Taylor backed off. He had spent four years at MGM, making only one picture and had returned to the book business. But he gave in, and now will be leading a stellar safari to Reno.

Among the bobbesters will be Miller, Huston, Clark Gable, Mrs. Miller, also known as Marilyn Monroe, Montgomery Clift, Eli

AT THE PARK — When Sterling Hayden's back in Technicolor movie trappers, Sterling Hayden sets out with a familiar weapon to avenge the murder in Allied Artists' "Shotgun", with Yvonne De Carlo and Zachary Scott. The picture, in Technicolor, is at the Park Theatre today, Friday and Saturday on the same program "Because They're Young", starring Dick Clark. Matinee Friday starts at 1.30 p.m.

Indians Shade Americans in Finals Opener

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Springfield centre Bill Sweeney, a much-travelled athlete for his 29 years, again had reason to be the Indians the jump in the American Hockey League playoffs.

A second - period goal by Sweeney was the decisive one Wednesday night as Springfield edged Rochester 3-2 and took a 1-0 lead in the best - of - seven Calder Cup final series.

It was the third of Sweeney's five playoff goals this season which spelled victory.

In the first two games of the semi-final series against Providence, Sweeney poked in the decisive tally.

The left hand shooting Guelph native, named the American League's outstanding rookie in 1957-58 at Providence, moved to Buffalo last year before winding up at Springfield.

During the regular AHL season, Sweeney was the second highest scorer—86 points.

Sweeney's linemates, Parker MacDonald, with two assists, and Bruce Gamble, with a goal, were prominent too. Jim Bartlett got the other goal. Rochester's Stan Smrke and Dave Creighton got their goals.

BIG DEMAND

ROME, (AP)—Tickets for the summer Olympic Games in Rome Aug. 25 to Sept. 11 are going at a rapid pace but officials say there still are several hundred thousand good seats available for the various sports.

Buffalo Gets Golf Tourney

BUFFALO (AP) — The fourth annual International pro-amateur cup, golf tournament between Canadian and American teams will be held at the Country Club of Buffalo July 12, it was announced Wednesday night.

Each team will be made up of four amateurs and four professional golfers in the 18-hole, best-ball tournament.

The U.S. pros selected for the one-day affair are Dow Finsterwald, Julius Boros, Doug Ford and Paul Harney. Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Al Balding of Toronto will make up half the Canadian professional team. Two others will be selected by the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association.

The amateurs have not been selected.

The Canadians hold at 2-1 edge in the series.

"Can you lend me part of the bonus I gave you, kid? I've got a chance to land a terrific pitcher!"

TeePees Grab 2-Game Lead With 5-3 Win Over Brocks

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — St. Catharines Teepees took a big stride in their bid for a Memorial Cup berth Wednesday night, overpowering Brockville Canadiens 5-2 in a hockey game that had all the makings of a boxing match.

Things got so bad in the first period that referee Andy Gurba of Brandon, Man., ordered every player on the ice except the goaltenders to the penalty box with five-minute majors.

Teepees snatched the win with a four-goal explosion in the final period and lead the best-of-seven Eastern Canada final 3-0. The series switches to Montreal for a third game Friday night, then to Toronto for a fourth Sunday.

Gurba called 11 penalties totaling 70 minutes and they all came in the opening period when the players were frisky.

A near-riot started at 12:38 when Brian Smith of Canadiens and Carlo Longarini of Teepees mixed it up, Vic Hadfield of Teepees and Norm Dennis of Brockville joined in.

CATCHES ON

The battle spread. And spread. Ray Speer of Teepees, sitting on the bench, was tempted beyond endurance, jumped over the boards and joined in. He was given a 10-minute misconduct. The other 10 players picked up fighting majors.

Gurba's action had a sobering effect. He didn't have to call a single penalty after the blowout.

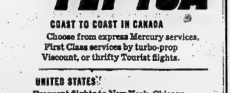
Given majors were Chico Maki, Pat Stapleton, Longarini, Hadfield and Ray Cullen of Teepees and Dennis, Smith, Jacques Perriere, Wayne Freitag and Serge Filion of Canadiens.

The teams were playing four men apiece when Andre Dosler scored at 16:32 to give Canadiens a 3-1 edge.

Doug Robinson, John Brenneman, Duke Harris, Stapleton and Longarini scored for Teepees. Harris fired the winner at 8:17 of the third period. Bob Roussear and Gilles Perreault also scored for Brockville.

'Kings' Series Is All Even

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton Oil Kings spotted Brandon Wheat Kings two goals in a hectic third period, then came back to beat them 3-2 Wednesday and square their best-of-seven Memorial Cup junior hockey series 2-2 in games.



The next Western final games are Friday and Saturday.

Edmonton scored their three goals within five minutes.

Tallying for Edmonton were Emory Sampson, Bob Marik and Ed Joyal, with Dunc McCallum and Gus Vachon scoring for Brandon.

YANKS ADVANCE

MONTE CARLO, (AP)—Gardnar Mulloy of Miami and Budge Patty of Los Angeles and Paris advanced to the singles quarterfinals of the Monte Carlo tennis tournament Wednesday, in third-round women's singles Yola Ramirez of Mexico won easily.

Campy's Son Gets Acquittal

NEW YORK (AP) — The teen-age son of former baseball star Roy Campanella was freed Wednesday from a charge of larceny and receiving stolen goods—on condition that he stays out of trouble.

The district attorney's office in suburban Queens asked that the charges against the youth, David Campanella, 16, be dismissed for lack of evidence.

However, special sessions Justice James Randall Creet, instead of dismissing the charges outright released the boy in his own recognizance for a unspecified period, with the charges subject to dismissal later if he behaves.

Three other boys arrested January 26 said young Campanella had joined them only moments before police arrived.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Is the "Rocket" washed up?

Is the fiery, dynamic Montreal Canadiens' star, whose consistent brilliance in the Canadiens' hockey constellation will go down in National Hockey League history, ready to call it a day?

Has the Maurice Richard record-making era come to an end?

MAURICE RICHARD

Will the Canadiens' oriental star, the idol of Rubistani fans and many others outside of his native Quebec, hang up his gear while his popularity is still at its peak?

Or will he stay around —and it is as inevitable as death and taxes—until the fans start to bee him.

These are questions that only the Rocket can answer.

Whatever the answers may be, the fact remains the Rocket is slipping. Like the ole grey mare "he ain't what he used to be."

But he hasn't slipped to the point, yet, where he is retarding the now famous line of brother Henri (The Pocket) and Dickie Moore.

Another fact is, the Rocket has not distinguished himself in the current playoffs. He scored his first goal Tuesday in the Canadiens' 5-3 shellacking of the Maple Leafs.

You saw the puck blast into the net behind Johnny Bower, if you were in the television audience. But you saw the Rocket pick up the puck and skate to the players' bench. There was a certain buoyancy in his stride. Perhaps a touch of "I-told-you-so-I-could-do-it" in his mien. He is not ready for the fan-boos yet.

Down east there is much conjecture about his retirement. It is stated the Rocket himself doesn't offer any definite answers, and hasn't come up with one for the simple reason he hasn't made up his mind.

A report from Montreal way says the Rocket would not want to be around to find the fans booing him, and this point comes up now with many of his most ardent admirers.

"They'll boo him for sure, if he stays around," a veteran Montreal fan is quoted as saying. "Canadiens' management will have a say, too, if they feel he is retarding the line with such speedy effective players as his brother and Dickie Moore."

"But the fan angle is the one I worry about," the fan went on, "and I'm sure the Rocket does, too. They'll get on him and it would be a shame. You couldn't practically sense it that they are being patient because the team is winning, and has a good chance to make it five Cups in a row. They would want him on that but this wouldn't last through another season. He looks tired and he's definitely slowed up and worries about injuries."

Another source close to the Rocket says the injury angle is one the Rocket doesn't mind discussing. As a matter of fact it is one approach to the subject at this waning stage of his career about which he is quite frank. He regards the injury situation as a sort of a mental block. He has had his share, and more. And he has had so many that he is conscious of it now even to the extent of watching himself in practice.

Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick says a close friend of the star said the Rocket does not have to be reminded that fans might be taking it out on the whole line if he slips.

Said the friend: "I agree fans might well do it with the feeling younger brother Henri and Moore over a long season would go better if the Rocket wasn't slow and retarding them next season. I know he keeps that in mind. He used to tell me if there was the slightest sign his brother getting into trouble."

"But now he'll state over. Don't doubt that he mightn't fly off if the situation got bad. But he knows young Henri can really look after himself and is an established star. And, as I said, the Rocket will be the first to know if he's holding up that line— that he can't produce and do more than his share as he always did."

"But, stick around, Canadiens may need a big goal yet this series. And don't think Rocket mightn't come up with it. But I agree he doesn't rip away or pounce on a situation the way he used to. This may very well be the end, and I don't think he'll move to another club, either."

Leonard Tries For Second Win At Greensboro

GREENSBORO, N.C. (CP) — Stan Leonard, Canada's golf master, returns today to the scene of his first big victory—the Greensboro Open.

The four-day, 72-hole tournament carries a purse of $17,500 of which $2,400 goes to the winner.

Stan, from Vancouver, comes here fresh from the Masters in Augusta, Ga., where he picked up $1,575 after tying for seventh place.

From here, he will return to Vancouver.

"My other plans for the near future, besides Dublin, are to try to qualify for the U.S. open during May and take part in that tournament in June".

His reference to Dublin concerned the Canada Cup matches to be played there this summer. In 1959, Stan was individual champion in the event.

THREE YEARS ON TRAIL

Three years ago Leonard set out along the golf trail and his win at Greensboro kept him going.

Now 48, his big opposition there figures once more to be another golf grandad — slammin' Sam Snead, 48.

The White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., money hitter has missed only one of 20 previous Greensboro tournaments. In addition to six victories he has numerous seconds and thirds.

BIG STAKES

NEW YORK (AP) — Twenty-eight events with $100,000 or more added and three others which guarantee a gross of $100,000 are included in the 467 stakes events slated at 29 race tracks by the Thoroughbred Racing Associations for this year. The stakes have a value of $10,892,500 added by the tracks to nomination and entry fees.

Canadiens Reach For Fifth Straight Cup Tonight

Will Try for Clean Sweep, Record of 10 Wins in Row; Imlach Won't Yield a Thing

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Montreal Canadiens, the hockey powerhouse that managing director Frank Selke calls the best of all the blue, blue-ribbon teams he has known, reaches for its fifth straight Stanley Cup tonight and a record seven-winning streak of 10 straight in the post - season series.

Almost everybody except coach Punch Imlach and his Toronto Maple Leafs agrees the awesome Canadiens will make a four-straight sweep of the seven-game series.

Canadiens last year polished off the Leafs in the final, by winning the last two games. This year they eliminated Chicago Black Hawks 4-0 in the semi-final.

WOULD BE A RECORD

A win tonight would set a record 10 straight and would also equal the eight - straight sweep through semi-final and final series by Detroit Red Wings in 1942 over the Leafs and the Canadiens.

The Wings won the first game of their 1953 semi-final against Boston Bruins, but lost the second, snapped the six undefeated set of nine.

Managing director Selke said Wednesday:

"It's the best of all the great Canadiens teams because of its over-all strength—its depth, its reserves. Many players, including who have demonstrated clearly in this series that they are topnotch capable.

"I'm not making the comparison on the basis of individual stars or specific forward lines. I mean the club all-round best. In that respect, 'best' would include other clubs.

"There have been brilliant stars like the Howe-Abel-Lindsay line of Detroit and the Hextall brothers of Chicago; Syl Apps of Toronto. But this team of ours is the best when you rate it from established star to rookie.

"In one sense there may be an exception. Rocket Richard has lost some of his punch. He showed in Tuesday's game that if a punch is needed he can still give it."

RELIVEAU IN SLUMP

Selke said Jean Beliveau has been in a terrific slump "with great otherwise and I told him not to worry about the slump but to look after the other fellow."

Their greatness undoubtedly stems from the farm system Selke has built. When he went to Montreal in 1946, there was one farm club—the senior Royals.

Today Canadiens have the Hull-Ottawa and Montreal Royals team of the Eastern Professional Hockey League and the Spokane club of the Western Hockey League.

They have four Junior A teams, in Brockville, Peterborough, Port William and Regina. There is affiliation with 10 other junior teams.

In addition, the Canadiens management has supplied equipment and money for "hundreds of minor teams." There is no obligation on their part, but Selke said it is hoped the kid stars of these teams eventually will play for the "big team."

ROCKET HURT

The veteran Rocket suffered a badly bruised hip toe on his left foot Tuesday and said Wednesday:

"I won't know until some time Thursday," whether he would play. He joked his mates only for a chance given the players by the management.

Coach Toe Blake of Canadiens continued to shy off predictions but admitted "it was an encouraging sign when we won Tuesday's game without any scoring by our big line (Jean Beliveau, Bernie Geoffrion and Marcel Bonin). We can look for them to break loose any time."

Blake sat in his hotel room looking at—of all things—a Bugs Bunny cartoon on television.

"You know I must be stupid," he said. "I turn the thing on and look at it and all the time I'm thinking about hockey."

In the hotel lobby, Selke called to Andre Pronovost: "How about it Are you relaxed and to do it?"

"Yes, sir," replied Pronovost emphatically.

In the Leaf camp coach Imlach refused to concede anything.

"We have got to do the impossible. There's only one way we can go from here and that's up and our fellows are no mind they can do it."

Imlach said his players through workout Wednesday hoping to correct what he called poor defensive play Tuesday. Canadiens rested, except for the standby farm-club rookies, here for an emergency, and a couple of the regulars who wanted to loosen up.

Riot Rages When Referees Call Game

WATERLOO (CP) — Police reinforcements were called Wednesday night to quell a riot which erupted when referees ruled a Hamilton goal disallowed to the home town Junior B hockey team.

The decision, which came midway through the second period of the game, gave the Waterloo Siskins—who were leading St. Mary's Lincolns 2-0 at that point, in the Ontario Hockey Association B series.

The trouble started when St. Mary's ran into a rash of penalties and several of the visiting players lost their tempers. Doug Gibson, Pete Rowe, were a minor and a misconduct at the time and took after referees Bill Chadwick and Bert Hamilton. The officials added a game misconduct and it took two policemen to remove the player from the ice.

The referees followed until McLean and Hamilton gave the game to Waterloo.

Then the fans got into the act and steel chairs were thrown back and forth between the stands. Police reinforcements were called and the riot was finally brought under control.

Waterloo now meets the St. Catharines-Chatham winner.

Royals Defeat Sudbury 4-2; Lead Series 2-1

SUDBURY (CP) — The prospects for Sudbury Wolves against Montreal Royals seem little more hopeful than the prospects of their parent team, Toronto Maple Leafs against Montreal Canadiens.

The Royals beat the Wolves by a convincing 4-2 score in Wednesday night's game to lead the Eastern -Professional Hockey League best-of-seven semi - finals 2-1.

The Wolves' defeat on home ice was one in which the victory pressed most of the game and led 27-23 in shots on goal. The series continues with one more game at Sudbury Friday, to be followed by games at Montreal on Sunday, and, if necessary, on Monday.

CONNELLY STARS

Good general teamwork and a superlative performance by Wayne Connelly contributed to Royals' final edge which they held from the second period onwards.

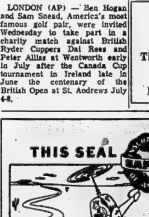
Connelly, a junior star from Peterborough, fired Royals first goal, the winner and the insurance marker. He now has scored 21 goals in his first season in professional games. The other Montreal tally was by Guy Black.

A brief Sudbury revival in the third period saw Ernie Roche and Wally Boyer score in 14 second. But Wolves' netminder goaltender Gerry McNamara in a desperate attempt to even the score in the last minute, Connelly got the opportunity to shoot into an empty net.

Coach Murph Chamberlain of last night's standings first-place Sudbury led Montreal by a small margin in games, but by a wide margin in points.

Sugar Won This One In a Breeze

CHICAGO (AP) — Sugar Hart of Philadelphia worked hard to think of a compliment to pay Rocky Kalingo after he scored a technical fourth - round knockout over the Philippine welterweight champion Wednesday night.



Hart finally decided on "You is the hardest hitter I've ever met."

Hart, seventh rated contender, was reminded that Kalingo didn't land a single solid punch.

"Yeh, I know," said Sugar. "But it could tell he was a hard hitter by the way he kicked up when he missed."

Chatham Defeats Hull 6-2 In Eastern Finals Opener

HULL, Que. (CP) — Chatham Maroons gave an impressive display of power to overwhelm Hull Junior 6-2 Wednesday night in the opening game of their best-of-five Eastern Canada Allan Cup final series.

Maroons would appear a shoo-in after the win but both clubs have s' great come-from-behind record this year.

Hull overcame a two-game deficit to down Rouyn - Noranda Aces in their best - of - five series while Hull recovered from a 3-0 deficit to knock off the Sudbury Wolves. Montreal Royals Ramblers, Hull had dropped one game to Ramblers by a 10-9 count.

PICKS UP FOUR POINTS

Ted Power, who also had two assists, and Jim Connelly scored twice for Maroons before 1,500 spectators in the 1,500-seat Hull Arena. George Atkins and Gary Sharp scored the other Chatham goals.

Rocky Roche and Paul Seguin scored, for the badly outclassed losers who faded in the second period after holding Maroons to a 1-1 tie in the first period.

Busy Roger Fortin made 55 stops in all but met white Canuck Maniago turned back 30 for Chatham. Chatham coach John Hendrick said he was impressed by the Hull goaler's performance:

"If it hadn't been for Fortin it would have been a bigger score."

Connelly opened scoring for Chatham at 7:36 of the first period, knocking in a rebound, but Roche tied it up at 17:05, flicking in a backhand shot from a neck-to-neck scramble.

POWER CLINCHES WIN

Then Power, who once played in neighboring Ottawa with St. Pat's of the old junior city league, scored twice in the second period, at 2:33 and 11:46. Atkins drove in Jim McCreig's rebound over the sprawling Fortin at 1:25 of the third period and Sharp knocked in another on a rebound at 4:43 to make the score 5-1.

Seguin scored Hull's second goal at 14:35 in a scramble in front of the Maroons' net. Connelly got his second goal of the night with four minutes and 30 seconds left in the game.

Next game is here Friday. When the teams move to Chatham to finish out the series with games next Monday, if one needed next Wednesday and, Friday, April 22.

Canucks Need One More Win To Take Title

VICTORIA (CP) — Vancouver Canucks virtually clinched their second Western Hockey League championship Wednesday night by edging Victoria Cougars 3-2.

Canucks take a 4-2 edge into the seventh game of the best-of-nine series at Vancouver Friday night. An eighth game, if needed, would be played here Saturday.

Canucks' triumph, fashioned on second-period goals by Ray Cyr and Dave Duke, was their fourth in a row after dropping the first two games to the underdog Cougars.

Veteran Gordie Fashoway scored for Victoria in the opening period. It stood up until 1:15 of the second when Cyr tied the game with his fifth playoff goal. Duke got the winner 14 minutes later.

About 2,500 fans, smallest turnout in the series, saw Cougars make a great bid to tie the score. The final minutes wound up in an outbreak of penalties and a demonstration by fans, who threw programs to the ice to protest a disallowed Victoria goal.

Danny Bellisle of Canucks was a strange casualty early in the game as he swallowed a small piece of wood he was chewing while sitting on the bench. A doctor tried to remove it but it went down his throat. Bellisle returned to action later in the game.

MONTREAL, (CP)—The first-round Davis Cup match between Canada and the United States is scheduled to be played on the clay courts of the Montreal Longue Pointe Tennis Club at Quebec City, July 15-17.

Main said plans for trials for the Canadian team will be announced next week.

Cubs' Hobbie Blanks 'Bums', Giants Win Over Cardinals

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Pitcher Glen Hobbie of Chicago Cubs walked until Los Angeles Dodgers world champions before he beat them.

The six-foot-three righthander, 2-0 against the Dodgers as a rookie in 1958 and 0-2 again last year when they won the pennant, nailed them good Wednesday night for outpitched Larry Sherry, relief hero of the 1959 world series, and put away the first shocker of the season with a five-hit, 4-0 decision at Los Angeles.

That left the favored San Francisco Giants alone in first place in the National League. They picked up their second straight victory by defeating St. Louis Cardinals 6-4 on the three - hit pitching of lefty Mike McCormick, who didn't allow a hit until the eighth inning.

HOMERS ONLY

Hobbie, 10 days shy of his 24th birthday, gave up nothing but singles and shut off the Dodgers with one hit over the last six innings. His only problem was wildness. He walked six men and struck out three.

Home runs by Ernie Banks and Frank Thomas backed up Hobbie, the Cubs' leader in victories (16) and shutouts (three) last season.

Banks, who hit 45 but lost the home run crown to Milwaukee's Ed Mathews last season, belted his first of the year in the fourth inning. Then Thomas, hitless in his first seven at-bats and six times a strikeout victim, connected for a three-run shot over the left-field screen.

Sherry, the rookie who won his last seven decisions while helping the Dodgers to the pennant last year and then won two and saved two in the world series, hadn't lost since last July 12.

Getting a requested chance to try a starting pitcher, the young righthander was touched for nine hits, but struck out six men and walked just one.

GIANTS BEZZZE THROUGH

The Giants made it a bezzz for McCormick, who duplicated San Jones' opening-day three - hitter against the Cards. And it was Leon Wagner, a former Giant, who again saved the Cards from defeat with a home run.

McCormick, 21, retired the first two batters before reliefer Ernie Broglio reached base on an error in the sixth. Then Stan Musial led off with a single in the eighth and after Bob Nieman hit into a double - play, Wagner got his homer. Willie Kirkland whacked a two-run homer for Giants in the third.

The American League, nearing the end of its season next week, has only a two-game exhibition scheduled Wednesday.

Boston Red Sox, who play against the Senators at Washington Monday in the league's traditional first game, beat Chicago White Sox 3-0 on a joint two-hitter by Tom Brewer and Frank Sullivan. Lennie Green's 10th-inning home run gave Washington a 9-8 decision over the Indians.

Smythe Stews Over Hockey Hall of Fame

TORONTO, (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto's board of control approved in principle plans for a permanent hockey hall of fame Wednesday after Controller William Allen said rumors the plan was going to be thrown out have upset the city's hockey colony.

"Connie Smythe president of Maple Leafs Gardens is in an awful stew about it", said Mr. Allen. "It's ridiculous. You can't get anything done in this city".

The hall is to be constructed at exhibition park, has "been approved by the National Hockey League, the Toronto parks committee and the Canadian National Exhibition.

But the board of control asked council to withhold approval until legal technicalities have been clarified.

Hab Fans Get Last Laugh On Smythe

TORONTO (CP)—If Toronto Maple Leafs booted to anger Montreal fans by relegating them to newly - constructed seats near the roof of Maple Leaf Gardens, the plan has backfired.

Fans at Tuesday's game found almost unanimous approval to the location. The only complaints: The seats were a little too narrow—and perhaps a little stinky from new paint.

The seats were constructed as an apparent reprisal to poor seating under Toronto supporters in the Montreal Forum. Visiting clubs are allowed to buy 120 seats—this trip 50 Hab fans were given seats as high as the Gardens as they could go.

"You get a terrific view of the game from here," said Norman Chamie of Montreal.

His fellow fans agreed, though the seats are so far removed from the surface it makes the game like a silent movie. Official whistle, bells, banging of sticks and pucks on the boards can't be heard.

On the Track

FORT ERIE, (CP) — Its Ana sizzled five furlongs in 59 seconds as she won the featured Welland Purse at the Fort Erie Jockey Club Wednesday.

The tiny chestnut filly was only 4-5 of a second behind the Canadia record for the distance as she defeated Sun and Wind by half a length. Tad finished a distant third. Its Ann paid only $2.70, $2.20 and $2.10.

Through the night your intuition is fine for avoiding temporary pleasures that could take from your security. Think.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Until the middle of the day you feel inadequate, stifled. However, this is the time to look into new avenues of expression, new outlets that are lucrative. Be certain in the evening to carry through with wise advice of associates.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Your hunches are not very accurate until midday, nor is the advice of too speedy comrades. Therefore, seek advice of real authorities in your field. But be certain you follow through on it. Laboring diligently pays big dividends.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Better go along with associates and sensible partners until the middle of the day. Don't let that higher-up annoy you. Then in P.M. go out with associates for an evening's relaxation and fun. Be carefree, cheerful.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) — Important you remain steadfast to regular job or work on hand instead of taking a chance and going off to new places and interests. P.M. be cooperative with members of clan and get their approval as well as added support.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — A charming smile will now get you the added backing you require, so it does not need your being extravagant or putting off much energy. Later in the day is fine for shopping. P.M. have fun with congenial associates.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — It is smart today to follow through with ideas of close ties instead of following an outsider who is very discriminating. P.M. plan your coming days and activities intelligently.

Scorpio (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) — Do not work too rapidly today or you will make errors, cause damage. It would be better to be out calling on others, attending meetings, studying, etc. P.M. take the treatments that will give you energy and verve.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — See that you handle any property interests or work at home, in the garden etc., before you step out for fun today. P.M. ideal for enjoying those hobbies or sports, social activities that most please.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — It is not necessary to do what is suggested by an irate family tie today. Carry through with own inclinations and ideas, which are good. Go out socially in the evening with those persons you enjoy and are inspiring.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Don't give in to that temptation to criticize one who has been annoying you. Think of own failings first. P.M. discuss real authority how you can acquire greater prestige and become better known.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Take care you exercise a good deal of will power or you may lose some of your hard-earned savings or other holdings. Avoid high-pressure salesmen. Let good friends guide you properly. P.M. make new and worthwhile contacts.

If your child is born today . . . The child born today will be so full of energy that he, or she will want to be everywhere at one time, as it were. FAR NORTHERN PHOTOGRAPHER — Henry Busse, prize-winning 64-year-old German photographer, operates a tiny photo studio at Yellowknife, N.W.T., 300 miles south of the Arctic circle. He often braves the fury of winter to record the scenes of Canada's northland. On one of his frequent trips "down" north, he carried as a cook, accompanying a crew that went to salvage a single-engine aircraft which had crashed there on an earlier near Bathurst Inlet on the Arctic Ocean. Here he is shown standing by the aircraft, repaired and flown to Yellowknife. (CP Photo).

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T (CP) — His hands were frozen as white as the snow that swirled around him.

In spite of it, Henry Busse, 64, struggled from the dogsled, unstrap his camera and snapped a picture of trapper Howard McKeehan huddled against the wind with his dogteam burrowed into the snow.

That photograph, taken in 1955 in a blizzard at 40 below zero, won several prizes for the soft-spoken German photographer and was shown at the Brussels World Fair in 1958.

PHOTO ENTHUSIAST

In the 13 years he has operated his tiny photo studio in this sub-arctic community of 4,000 about 600 miles north of Edmonton, his camera has caught the majesty of the northern night, the loneliness of the trapper's life, the fury of arctic animals and the naive curiosity of the Eskimo.

The visitor is not likely to find Mr. Busse at home. He heads "down" north on photo expeditions as often as he can, travelling with flying missionaries, by dogsled, canoe or motorboat.

"I don't give a damn about business," he growls. "I just want to shoot. I've got to have my finger on the trigger."

Another of Mr. Busse's well-known pictures, Arctic Sundown, was taken in 1956. It was a busy Saturday and there were customers in his studio. He looked through the window, grabbed a camera and left the studio hurriedly to run up a hill where he shot the sun as it hung low over the horizon with brilliant sundogs on either side, glowing snow and sharply silhouetted trees.

JUST BEGINNING

Henry Busse estimates he has taken 5,000 pictures a year since turning professional at 52. They are just the beginning.

"There is so much for me to do yet. I want to record the Eskimo before he is dead."

Mr. Busse says the Eskimo in his natural state will be gone from the Arctic in 10 years. He has applied for a Canada Council grant to take him north to the Arctic Ocean, east to Hudson Bay and west to the Alaska border in search of Eskimo culture little touched by civilization.

The slightly-built photographer was born in the Black Forest area of Germany. He graduated from Bonn University with a master of arts degree in agriculture, fought with the German artillery in the First World War and was wounded three times.

He arrived in Canada in 1927 and worked as a diesel mechanic, farmer and powerhouse operator. By 1939 he was a prosperous businessman with two restaurants in Vancouver.

INTERNED IN WAR

At the outbreak of war his property was confiscated and he was interned on a prairie farm as an enemy alien.

At war's end he was allowed to move to Port Radium, almost 300 miles south of Yellowknife near the Arctic Circle. He worked as a powerhouse operator, and became president of the Port Radium camera club. In 1947 he set up shop here.

The immediate future depends largely on the Canada Council. But Mr. Busse, his hair almost white and his face lined from the fury of winters in the North, has no plans to slow down.

"Some day I'd like to tour, show my pictures and lecture. But it won't be for a while yet. When I'm too old to climb trees, to sleep in an igloo or to be with nature, then maybe I'll move south."

Sunday School Lesson

A Slogan for All Men

By ROY L. SMITH.

Under the glass on the top of the desk of a business man in our town there appears an interesting slogan. "You do not need to be difficult," says the little card, "when with just a little more effort you could be impossible."

"I used to be pretty hard to deal with," says the man who sits at that desk every day, "but that card has helped me to be tolerant and considerate. I'm not perfect yet, but I'm working in that direction."

CHRISTIANITY'S SLOGAN

Ever since the first Easter morning, when a young girl came racing back from an empty tomb to report that Jesus of Nazareth was alive, the Christian Church has gone about through the world with a new slogan for all mankind.

"If a man dies, he shall live again."

The raising of Jesus from the grave means vastly more than that as an amazing person who lived 2,000 years ago has not really died. It means that every human being is destined for immortality.

There are many details in the Christian faith, each one of which is of particular meaning and significance. But this is the throbbing heart of the entire faith: "You were born for two worlds."

REMEMBERED BY REMINDER

Dr. Charles A. Leber, one of the great missionary leaders of the United Presbyterian Church, tells the very interesting story of an old black man whom he found attached to one of the mission stations in Africa.

The aged man was employed about the grounds of the station, and from time to time Dr. Leber noticed him stopping in the midst of a task, placing his hand solemnly on his head, and remaining perfectly still for perhaps a full minute. Then he would return to his work with a will.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for April 17: "Children of the Resurrection," Mark 16:1-8; Colossians 3: 1-15.

"That's a formula he has for restoring his poise and his good humor," one of the missionaries explained. "Years ago he was one of the most dangerous men in all this area, thoroughly vicious individual. Then he was converted, but even then to time he feels the urge to do evil coming back on him, or he finds his temper rising. In such a case he stops, as you saw him do, with his hand on his head in grateful memory of his baptism, he repeats a little ritual, 'I am a baptized person! I am a baptized person! I am a baptized person!' This he continues until he has restored his own soul. It is his way of keeping himself under control."

I AM DESTINED

The real meaning of Easter is that each of us is destined to go on with life in another life, and we need very frequently to be reminded of that tremendous fact.

It is true, of course, that the philosophers, scientists, and theologians have debated the question of immortality through many centuries. And it is also true that, in spite of extravagant claims of individuals here and there, no man has produced scientific proof of the doctrine... much proof, for example, as has been produced on the case of the structure of the atom.

But no one can question the effect that is produced on the life of the individual by a firm belief in the doctrine. In every case in which it is firmly believed, there has been produced a new sense of dignity, confidence, sober responsibility and moral worth.

A man can really believe he is destined to live in another

Canadians Take To Highways For Holiday

Churches Are Crowded, Sunny Weather Prevails

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadians took to the roads on Good Friday, 1960.

For some, the roads led to the churches where they held observances in remembrance of Christ's death.

For others, the roads led out into the open air and the spring sunshine of the first holiday weekend of the season.

It was a fine day in most parts of the country, with temperatures Easter Sunday among the highest recorded in downtown streets.

But the increased activity was not without toll. In the first 36 hours of the three-day weekend 12 persons died in holiday activities. Six of them died in traffic. Four others drowned and one asphyxiated.

Alberta and Saskatchewan reported blustery weather, with warm showers in the south. They also reported railway and bus lines having to cope with passenger loads to the trade-national Christmas rush.

RED RIVER RISING

Winnipeg had early sunshine and a 83-degree reading. There most sports were open for month festivity, however, as the Red River continued to advance to near flood stage.

Most of Ontario was sunny on Good Friday, with cool centers in the south.

Provincial police visited Parliament Hill to see the crocuses in sunny 60-degree weather.

Meanwhile, many persons head for the United States on holiday. Police who stayed behind enjoyed sunshine all day with 60-degree temperatures.

Most Montreal retail outlets were closed, but at Quebec City the main stores were open for morning and late afternoon business. A morning fog rolled off the St. Lawrence River to reveal a warm, sunny day.

Moncton, unlike the rest of the Maritimes, didn't have good weather.

And it wasn't warm enough in the Maritimes for residents to enjoy their first big weekend—most of the popular fishing holes were frozen solid.

At the other end of the country Vancouver reported with twilight skies with 30 - degree temperatures. Similar weather was the province. One Vancouver radio station dropped all advertising for the Good Friday hours to allow full program of religious and classical music.

All across the country, Anglican Churches held three services beginning at noon. Roman Catholic churches began their rituals at 3 p.m. in recollection of Christ's painful walk to Calvary.

EASTER PILGRIMAGE

Along the rocky east coast of Newfoundland, the annual Easter Cross pilgrimage entered its fifth stage on the 71-mile journey to Holyrood.

Priests and parishioners of St. Peter's Roman Catholic church in Chatham, N.B., also viewed the 7 miles along the Trans - Canada Highway. Three laymen are carrying the 10-foot cross overhead. About 17 other persons are accompanying them. The pilgrimage is due to end in Victoria Cove early morning with church services.

Good Friday brought disappointment to the Montreal Canadiens hockey club here. The Canadiens were defeated by Detroit Red Wings 3-2 in overtime play.

Thousands of persons attended the annual Easter blood donor clinic at City Hall, but doctors turned him down.

13 FATALITIES ACROSS CANADA OVER HOLIDAY

Traffic Mishaps Said Chief Cause

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Traffic accidents and drownings accounted for 12 deaths as at least 12 persons were reported killed in accidents across the country during the opening stages of the Easter holiday weekend.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local times Thursday to midnight Good Friday shows Nova Scotia, Quebec and Ontario each with two drownings.

Ontario recorded three traffic deaths and one drowning. At Iberville, Que., Mrs. Alice Roberts and British Columbia one at Lac St. Jean, Quebec reported one asphyxiation.

FINE RECORD SMASHED

The Alberta fatality, in Medicine Hat, was that city's first traffic death in 1,960 days, Marilyn Shortreed, 20, died Thursday when a car driven by her father smashed into a tree east of a fence.

The accident caused sharp concern of plans for a big celebration this year which would have marked 2,000 accident-free days in the city of 20,000. Medicine Hat held the North American record for death-free traffic in cities of more than 20,000.

The Canadian Highway Safety Council has predicted that 25 persons will die on Canada's highways during the holiday weekend. Last year 35 died.

The survey includes traffic and water mishaps and deaths in fires and industrial accidents.

TWO DROWNINGS

The Ontario deaths:

Benjamin Cornish, 3, drowned Friday in a creek behind his home at Providence Bay, Manitoulin Island.

Donald James Madden, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Madden, drowned near his home in Carlisle, 10 miles north of Hamilton, Thursday night.

Emery Pigeault, 28, of Calumet Island, Que., was killed by a car on a highway intersection south of Pembroke Thursday night.

Trooper Thomas W. Gallagher, 24, of Toronto, fatally injured Thursday night when his car rolled off Highway 115 near Orono.

Robert James Ritchie, 59, of Toronto, killed Friday when the car he was driving hit a traffic island on Highway 11 just outside Barrie, crashed and plunged down an embankment into a concrete lamp standard.

Freighter Sinks, 23 Seamen Abandon Ship

NEW YORK (AP) — A small freighter, the rusty-hulled Lodor of Virginia coast, the United States Coast Guard reported, after the 23 seamen aboard apparently abandoned ship.

The Coast Guard here said it last received a radio signal from the Lodor at 4:30 p.m. yesterday saying the Lebanese flag, shortly after 1 a.m. EST.

The Guard said that the ship's pumps couldn't cope with water coming into the holds, and that the crew was abandoning ship.

The Guard said vessels in reach, some 200 miles off the Virginia coast north of Norfolk, reported that they had picked up lifeboats.

British Ban-Bomb Demonstrators To End Trek at Trafalgar Square

READING, England (Reuters) A procession of 8,000 "ban the bomb" demonstrators today started from here today on the second leg of a 50-mile protest march to London.

They had begun the trek Friday at Aldermaston, site of Britain's atomic weapons research institute, where hydrogen bombs are produced.

When they arrived here Friday, about 5,000 more had been joined 10,000. Their numbers were expected to swell further along today's route.

The march which ends in Trafalgar Square on Monday with a mass rally, is being held for the third Easter in succession and is the biggest ever.

The demonstrators marched on this morning cheered by groups of jazz musicians playing at points along the route, after spending the night in tents and in nine local schools.

Today's march is the most gruelling stretch of the walk—a 20-mile trek to the town of Slough.

At the head of the procession were Canon John Collins of St. Paul's Cathedral, chairman of the campaign for nuclear disarmament.

Hundreds of the campaigners were from other countries, including the United States.

The marchers setting off today in warm sunshine, included Labor party members of Parliament, actors, doctors, lawyers and other professional men.

Many students, but there was a good representation of the middle-aged and elderly.

Gunfire Cuts Down 2 of Five Convicts Trying to Escape

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—Washington state prison officers cut down with blasting gunfire Friday night two of five convicts who had overpowered prison guards in a bold attempt to escape.

One of the wounded prisoners was hit in the face with buckshot. The other was shot in the abdomen as he dashed across a stretch of open ground to the penitentiary. Neither was hurt critically.

Guards recaptured a third convict unharmed. Two others were shot in a cell block. Acting Superintendent William Macklin said it was possible they never made it over the wall.

The flight started at 7:30 p.m., when the warden and deputy were period, when the five convicts jumped three guards and forced two officers at knifepoint into the cell block.

The guards' table knives hooed to a sharp edge, the prisoners whipped the guards out their uniform garments and caps and donned the clothing for disguise.

Carrying a makeshift ladder constructed from the frames of cots and mattresses, the convicts made their way to the east wall, where they set up the ladder.

well, and ordered them to "freeze." They ignored him. He fired a shot over their heads and a second warning. They ignored that too.

The guard opened fire, along with the two guards in tower No. 2, and the guards in tower No. 2.

Three men were actually seen climbing over the wall—and disappearing over the wall. Guards stared and fired on the prison.

At the foot of the wall, his face streaked with blood from buckshot wounds, was Leslie R. Davis, 40, serving a term for robbery. With Davis was Roland Benoit, a convicted car thief. Neither offered resistance.

Inside police had quickly spotted Roy Victor Oson, 34, serving 75 years for rape, as he climbed through the open field. A burst of gunfire sent him sprawling in the dirt.

Still missing were Joseph W. Nicholas, 28, sentenced for robbery, and Robert A. Herr, 21, convicted of burglary.

Macklin said guards accidentally saw only three convicts go over the wall. He said it was possible Nicholas and Herr were still on the prison grounds hiding. An extensive search was started within the walls.

Fishing Community Mourns Apparent Loss of 6 Drowned

SECHELT, B.C. (CP)—The flag on the village hall was lowered half-mast Friday in memory of herring and fishing community members lost in the apparent loss of six of its men.

Streets were all but empty during the day before the start of a search for their bodies in Georgia Strait.

Everyone was at the wharf, and those able to scramble through the forest lining Sechelt Inlet watched the search. Many were openly distraught.

Hope appeared in a sudden storm last Wednesday. Their overturned boat, two lifejackets and a launch cap were found Friday.

"We give up hope of finding them alive", said Mrs. John Morrison, wife of one of the missing men. "We only hope now to find their bodies."

Morrison, 37, operated a logging camp on the inlet where Sechelt is located. Two of his men were returning from the camp in a 16-foot boat when the storm struck.

Another man made the daily trip from Sechelt, 40 miles northwest of Vancouver, to the mainland. Two years, Mrs. Morrison said.

The wind came up very suddenly, she said. Waves and rain soon hail-way home. There have been no reports of him and few thought about something like this happening—but now it's hard to believe.

Also missing are Stanley Wakefield, 37, Sechelt businessman; Richard Luoma and Tee Purvis, both married and between them had 11 children among them.

"The entire village is mourning", said Mrs. Christine Johnston, commissioner of Sechelt and of the missing men.

Two aircraft, at least 15 boats, six skindivers and more than 200 men were expected to search today.

Machine Talked Itself Out Of a Job

DETROIT (AP) — The post office here has put a talking machine out of solitary for embezzlement.

The machine was installed in May, 1958, for customers to put in a coin and set the dials for the stamps they wanted, the machine returned the change, gave its tape recording, thanked the customers and added such things as:

"...introduce me to your friend ... send a letter to a loved one ... in another example of streamlined postal service."

But the machine went out-of-line workers in the main post office complained that they was repeating itself, becoming too profuse in its thanks and generally annoying people and little letters home.

It talked to itself at night when there were no customers to signal.

Merelle Ass, post office administrative assistant, called it the "most expensive of the pests" and turned off the voice.

Then a clerk apparently turned bitter. Last week there were many complaints that the machine was no longer dispensing even purchase, shortchanging customers.

So the post office department shut the machine off completely and stashed it away in a closet.

Ass says the post office has written the factory in Milwaukee for parts to put the mechanical clerk back in shape.

CASTRO'S AGENTS ROUNDING UP SUSPECTED FOES

Premier Personally Leads Strong Force

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's agents rounded up hundreds of suspects today in a determined bid to keep a pocket-sized revolt against his revolutionary regime from reaching dangerous proportions.

Intelligence officers sought out suspected foes of the Castro regime as the bearded premier personally led a strong force into eastern Cuba's Sierra Maestra Mountains a hunting Manuel Beno Fonticoba, who has been dead of 50 men. Rain and fog hampered U.S. plane searches being carried out in tight secrecy.

Main target of Castro's agents appeared to be members of the Movement in Recovery of the Revolution (MRR), an anti-Communist organization said to be directed from abroad by former Castro officials.

Among persons reported seized were a number of former members of Castro's 26th July Movement.

YOUTHS HELD

Authorities were reported to have intercepted an attack on a police post 15 miles south of Havana by youths who had planned to seize arms to they could join Castro's forces in the mountains. The pro - Castro newspaper Revolucion said the youths were wounded and four were captured.

An official news blackout blanketed the fighting in the Sierra Maestra where Castro's forces were conducting mopping-up operations against the reported dictator Fulgencio Batista regime.

Beaton is a native of the Sierra Maestra and during the revolutionary war, he became a colonel in the Cuban army.

Authorities accused Beaton of killing Naranjo in a fight. Beaton said Naranjo had been drowned, and escaped soon after from La Cabana fortress prison.

S. African Negroes Warned Not to Join Proclaimed Strike

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Wounded Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's nationalist government strongly warned South Africa's Negroes today not to join in next week's proclaimed work strike—or they might lose their jobs and then be returned to native reserves in the remote interior.

The government's department of native administration said the development issued the warning statement after thousands of South African Negroes, called by Negroes, especially in the Johannesburg area, to join in a week-long work boycott starting next Monday.

The boycott call was issued by the outlawed African Nationalist Congress, which is spearheading underground. The purpose of the strike is to force the abolition of the pass system by which white police control the movements of Negroes.

HALF-SHIFT TODAY

The Negro labor force went on half-shift today after a quiet Good Friday, and leaders said they would obey next week's stay-out call.

Police have vowed to smash the strike by offering protection to those who work and to arrest and jailing anyone who tries to stop them.

South Africans concentrated today on giving a rousing sendoff to their wounded premier's team, flying to London for an Empire Games golf match. Verwoerd was reported in good condition after being shot in the head by a deranged white-supremacy policy.

COULD HAVE FROZEN

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Two persons were killed within 48 hours of killing Albert Reeves. The intruders entered a bell Reeves, 24, and shot him up in a big freezer. He was rescued four hours later by J.C. Baker, owner of the firm, and taken to a hospital for frostbite treatment. "He was lucky," Baker said "The freezer they put him in holds a constant temperature of zero. The adjoining freezer is at 30 below. He could've have lasted 20 minutes in that one."

Bomarc Missile Records Eighth Failure At Cape

Gets Another Chance At Florida Air Base

WASHINGTON (CP)—The controversial Bomarc anti-aircraft missile failed to travel a full-range course in its final flight Friday from the United States missile test center at Cape Canaveral, Fla., marking its eighth failure at the cape. But it gets another chance late at Eglin Air Force Base in western Florida.

The interceptor weapon whose funds have been drastically cut by the U.S. Air Force recently has stirred controversy in Canada where it will be extended to go into operational use at Moosel Laurier, Que., and North Bay has been named only one limited success in nine launchings.

Nevertheless Canada's Defence Minister Pearkes, told of Friday's result while on a visit to Vancouver, said the right should be regarded "not as a failure but as a partial success."

"The missile was fired from the launching pad to a certain height," Pearkes said, "but the guidance mechanism after it reached that height was faulty as I understand it."

Word received from some congressional quarters here that there likely will be more reductions in the Bomarc program in the U.S. Bomarc production, the Canadian minister said:

"I have got no information that would lead me to believe it will not be continued. Any further development is being done in the United States and any further development will be made in the U.S.

"Until that decision comes, we are providing two sites in a chain of sites. If a determination there is nies, it would make a gap in the chain."

He called the Bomarc "an important part of our deterrent strength."

Cape Canaveral reports said Friday's flight started with the rocket booster working smoothly, but that the missile fell back to earth 15 minutes later after some fault in its electronic guidance system shortly after separation of the twin ram-jet engines.

The flight marked the Canaveral-Bomarc program. The next shot will be from the Eglin base, where last Wednesday a limited 170 - mile flight was successfully launched.

Members of the House of Representatives defence committee, committee, told here of Friday's result, and there may be further revisions in the Bomarc budget for the next fiscal year which starts July 1.

A trail of blood led to the kitchen where a dagger-type knife was found, also covered with blood.

Christians Around World Prepare For Celebration of Resurrection

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Christians around the world prepared today for the joyous celebration of the Resurrection of Christ.

Worshippers will celebrate with prayer, song and reverent visitation the most sacred Christian holiday of all, Easter Sunday.

Wherever there exists the sign of the cross, the faithful will make their way to mountain-top altars, to valley shrines, to cathedrals and to humble churches ringing with the happiness of Easter.

Wherever they gather in Christendom, men of all colors and races will hail the risen Christ.

Christian communities have used the solemn Good Friday ritual commemorating Christ's betrayal, passion and death.

In Jerusalem, soldiers of peace joined with pilgrims in prayer.

Troops of the United Nations Emergency Force, including many Canadians, were among 5,000 pilgrims who crowded the hilly, narrow streets of the route Jesus took from the Garden of Gethsemane to burial.

It was the Holy City's hottest Good Friday in years, with temperatures near 90 and a blistering sun beating down on the line of worshippers. Several fainted from the heat.

In Rome, Pope John XXIII, 78-year-old successor to Saint Peter, was to celebrate Pontifical Mass in St. Peter's Basilica.

Christians around the world began their celebration of the Resurrection of Christ.

Negro Students Plan Campaign

ATLANTA (AP) — Negro students are considering a country-wide campaign of sidewalk picketing and the training of volunteers willing to go to jail rather than pay fines for violating segregation laws.

Rev. Martin Luther King of Atlanta, Negro integration leader, recommended the proposals as a way of helping carry the struggle against racial segregation "into every nook and cranny" of the southern states.

King spoke at the successful Negro boycott against bus segregation in Montgomery, Ala., described a weekend gathering in Raleigh, N.C., of students from eight of the 11 states as a "strategy for victory" meeting.

While the students were arriving Friday fights broke out between onlookers and pickets demonstrating against the counter segregation in the Raleigh business district. Several whites who joined Negro demonstrators was knocked down and beaten by an undetermined number.

High School Activities

BY JAMIE GILL

If you have been wondering about Quinte's halls lately, you may have seen some queer creatures, on all fours and armed with putty knives, depositing large wads of a sticky grey substance on a large sheet of white paper. These will be the poor unfortunates who have succumbed to the latest rule at Quinte —A "gum-chewing rule" which states that all students caught masticating a "cud" of said gum will be obliged to scrape an area of the halls of Quinte free from any extraneous grey lumps and return their findings to the office for inspection. Take heart fellow "gum chewers!" it cannot last forever — school closes in June.

Spring is really here! Already "Simon" Simon and "Legree" Hoffman have their gym classes outside, running a few miles each day to whip them into shape for the Harrier next month.

It is truly a sign of spring at Quinte to look up from Latin verbs and see Quinte's mighty athletes sprinting down College Street, or to look up over through some chemistry apparatus and see these same stalwart lads, Hoffman, Simon, Wood — no, dragging—no, crawling back up the hill again. Yes, spring has really sprung!

"Simon" Simon is really "on the ball" this year for, as Squadron Leader for No. 806, he is responsible for seeing that the cadets are ready for their inspection next month. Each down a few privileged cadets stumble into the gymnasium for an invigorating one-half hour prescription. The school begins preparation for competition with the Sea Cadets. The team is quite confident it will again capture the coveted trophy.

Another welcome (???) sign of spring is the distribution of report cards by Miss Reid, along with timely suggestions that concentrated study is needed to succeed in the final exams. Not just for the record, six weeks hence.

Quinte students have again conferred honor upon her already honorable institution.

Vlasta Rabel took first place in an oratorical contest, sponsored by the Ontario Trustees and Ratepayers Association in connection with the Ontario Hydro-Geoffry Cliffe-Phillips captured second place in another division of the same contest.

Both girls proceeds to Toronto for the provincial finals. The best of luck Vlasta! Bring home the cup, you deserve first for Quinte.

Mr. Reid announced to us that one of our ex-students Jim Green has won the coveted Michael Memorial Trophy at Queen's University for outstanding sportsmanship and skill combined with a constant high academic standing. Congratulations Jim!

Being intelligent and getting good marks is not "dumb" or "square" — at least the students of Quinte don't think so.

For at a special assembly last Wednesday the Student Parliament presented certificates to students who had obtained honor standing for one, two, three or four years at Quinte. A fortunate few, 28 to be exact were presented with sterling silver honor pins for honor standing for three or four years at Quinte. In the words of Mr. Reid, our principal, "It is very gratifying to see students honoring their fellow students for academic achievement".

Lord Smith, the Prime Minister closed the assembly with a summary of Student Parliamentary activities during the past year. He said finally that as a last major project this year the Student Parliament is attempting to create a student lounge from our now dilapidated and slightly soggy common room.

Moira Secondary, "the baby to most of us" is being christened on Friday, April 22 and then the school will be officially opened.

After the ceremony, in the evening a semi-formal dance is being held and all local high school students are invited to attend.

We, the students of Quinte wish to congratulate Moira and wish her every success in her future endeavours.

Cheese Exchange

A total of 11,163 cheese were sold on the Kingston Cheese Exchange this week, the price for both white and colored being 32 cents for first grade.

There were 4,450, specials, 1,983 white and 4,137 colored cheese offered.

With the coming of spring cheese factories in the Hastings area are beginning to open for summer operation. On Monday Central Cheese Factory on the Campbellford Road west of Stirling will open, while Plum Grove Factory, also in the Stirling area will likewise open.

GERMAN THEATRE GROUP — In a converted powder magazine on St. Helen's Island near Montreal, once a camp for German prisoners of war, Canada's only German-speaking professional theatre group entertains visitors from Das Konzert, a modern Austrian comedy.

Isle Used to Quarter German Prisoners Now Open Theatre

By ALEXANDER FARRELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL, (CP)—On an island in the St. Lawrence River where German prisoners were quartered during the Second World War, the only German-speaking professional theatre troupe in Canada performs.

Once independent, it now is part of La Poudriere, Theatre International de Montreal—a non-profit organization launched in 1958 to produce plays in the world's major languages.

Productions—are staged in a converted powder magazine on St. Helen's Island, La Poudriere gets its name from the French word for powder.

Five of the troupe had considerable stage experience in Germany: Joe Kronsman, Penny Farago, Ursula von Arnim, Dieter Curlis and former silent-movie star Fred Doederlein. Miss Kronsman and Mr. Doederlein have performed in Berlin and Vienna.

AUSTRIAN COMEDY

Most recent production was the modern Austrian comedy Das Konzert (The Concerto by Hermann Bahr, which opened at La Poudriere in late March.

The German actors have been working on a shoestring for seven years to keep theatre in their language alive in Canada. They began in 1953 with the founding of the Deutsches Akademie-Theater.

Its first production was Sommernachtstraum (Midsummer Night's Dream) which, like most of Shakespeare's plays, has been widely read and acted in German for almost two centuries. This and succeeding productions were held in Salle-Gesu, an old downtown auditorium.

The troupe was reorganized in 1954 as the Montrealer Kammerspiele under the direction of Rudolf Stulber, former Viennese journalist. Victoria Hall in Westmount became its playhouse for the next two years.

SHORT OF MONEY

In 1956 the troupe, overwhelmed by financial problems, retreated from the public stage but kept itself in existence by private presentations of scenes from classical and contemporary German drama.

From this obscure situation it was rescued by La Poudriere.

As the Deutsche Abteilung (German section) des Montrealer Internationalen Theaters, the troupe now co-ordinates its activities with colleagues performing under the same roof in French, English, Italian and Spanish.

Concerning the 10th year of independence, says Mr. Curlis, chairman of the German troupe, is the security of being part of a bigger and stronger organization. Although La Poudriere, with its 180-seat playhouse, has had few box office successes, it draws considerable support from private donations.

MULTILINGUAL AIM

La Poudriere's aim is to present all its plays in French, English and their original language, if that happens to be something else. This increases the potential audience and keeps production costs down.

The players and spectators change, but the costumes and sets remain the same.

No play has been performed in three languages yet but three have been done in two languages, and the Germans have figured in two of them.

In 1958 Gigi was given in French and English and Gerhart Hauptmann's fin-de-siecle social sagire Der Biberpelz (The Beaver Pelt) in German and English.

Last Christmas the German troupe established a precedent by performing Grimm's Hansel und Gretel in German and English. The cast was virtually the same for both versions.

"THE PRESENCE OF A DOCTOR IS THE FIRST PART OF A CURE"
When using home remedies or patent medicines it is important to understand their benefits and limitations. Taken at the first sign of a headache, stomach-distress, muscular pain, etc., relief sometimes comes quickly from an uncomplicated condition.
But, if any of the symptoms return, then self-treatments though giving temporary relief, may be masking an accumulating problem that may eventually endanger your life. To cure, a physician's diagnosis is essential. One should be consulted as soon as possible.

Traffic Heavy But Accidents At Minimum

Traffic was heavy on Belleville and district roads over the Good Friday holiday as motorists took to the road for Easter travelling.

Despite the crowded highways, however, accidents were at a minimum in the Belleville area with only one mishap bordering on the serious nature being reported by police. This was on 401 Highway north of the city.

In the city, police circles were exceptionally quiet with only routine matters being reported. Provincial police reported a college in the Crofton area had been found broken into.

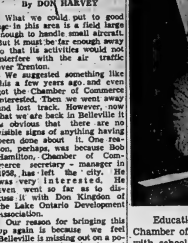
Require Small Field to Cash In on Gold Mine



By DON HARVEY

What we could use to good use in this area is a field large enough to handle small aircraft. But it must be far enough away so that its activities would not interfere with the air traffic over Trenton.

We suggested something like this a few years ago and even got the Chamber of Commerce interested. Then we went away and lost track. However, now that we are back in Belleville it is obvious there are no visible signs of anything having been done about it. One reason, perhaps, was because Bob Hamilton, Chamber of Commerce secretary - manager in 1958, has left the city. He was very interested. He even went so far as to discuss it with Don Dodgson of the Lake Ontario Development Association.

Our reason for bringing this up again is because we feel Belleville is missing out on a potential little gold mine by not investigating it. The city might do well to get together with county council and set up a committee to study it. We hoped the city would jump at an opportunity to make some money from a municipal airport. Nothing need be elaborate at the outset. Time could be kept free and expansion would come with time. All we need is a fairly large enough to handle light aircraft and perhaps the time would come when the "airport" would become large enough to support heavier aircraft and warrant inauguration of feeder air service to the trans-continental and international airlines at Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal. It's not beyond the realm of possibility—provided we look beyond the end of our noses.

Let's hear from you. Do you think we should have an airfield? The citizens of Campbell River, B.C., on Vancouver Island, last year built a municipal airport and stuck up a few buildings on it for less than $10,000. Now the place has air service.

KEEP FROM 6f1

We've got a beautiful new highway passing just north of the city. It will reduce vehicular travel time between Montreal and Windsor once it's open all the way through. We hope it will entice more vacationers to this part of the province and we cordially hope that many of them will pop into Belleville and spend some money.

If we had an airfield with a privately-owned charter air service operating out of it, we'd be in a favorable position to open up northern Hastings County. There aren't many cities located as favorably as Belleville which is situated between the two largest cities in the whole of Canada. The charter service could whisk fishermen, hunters and campers into the north country in aircraft outfitted with wheels and float. The passengers might be enticed to outfit themselves in Belleville.

Another point: More and more people want to learn to fly. Why should we in Hastings County have to drive 20 or more miles to a flying club when we could have one on our own doorstep?

We are not suggesting that we should take business away from the Prince Edward club. But it might branch out and provide flying training on our own airfield.

There is the possibility that we could attract the Trenton Flying Club from RCAF Station Trenton. Its membership is limited to RCAF personnel and civil servants working on the air station by virtue of the fact that the club is located on national defence property. But it is a corporation registered under the Canadian Companies Act just like most flying clubs. It is also a member of the Royal Canadian Flying Clubs Association.

ATTRACT BOTH

Who knows, we might be able to attract both the Trenton and Prince Edward clubs to our field.

Construction at the Cornwall airport site has resumed. Preliminary work and construction of a 4,000-foot emergency runway there started last fall. Two 5,000-foot runways and administration buildings will be built this year. The airport may be ready for use by July 1.

U.S. Air Force Will Attempt To Capture Released Capsule

VANDENBERG AF, Calif. (AP)—United States Air Force Flying Boxcars will take off this afternoon for a taut game of catch over the Pacific with the Discoverer XI satellite.

The gamer: Not a parachuting 27-by-33-inch capsule after it's ejected by the satellite while in its polar orbit Friday from this missile base.

If successful, the recovery will pave the way for sending animals and then men into space and bringing them back.

Air recovery of the capsule would be a singular first step in man's exploration and conquest of space. Now cones and capsules containing animals have been rocketed beyond the atmosphere but none have been recovered from orbit.

Space experts are confident it can be accomplished. Scientists will trigger the capsule loose from the 18-foot-long satellite recycling the earth's poles every 95 minutes.

If the button is pushed at exactly the right time, the capsule will kick loose 200 miles up near the north pole and drift down into a 150-by-50 mile area southwest of Hawaii.

Eight C-119 cargo planers trailing huge nets will wait for the capsule. The trick is to spot the capsule and its parachute. At 40,000 feet, each plane is expected to have 10 chances to nab the capsule like a rare butterfly.

The capsule emits a radio signal for the planes to home in on. If they miss, surface ships will attempt to fish the capsule from the sea.

The 1,700-pound satellite, carrying important data-emitting instruments, is expected to stay aloft about 10 days.

Varied Products Cause of Extra Heavy Market

This morning's open air market was attended by a large number of people who had a large number of products available for their pleasure. At several stands there were very colorful displays of cut flowers selling between 50 cents and a dollar a bunch. For those wishing to do a little landscaping around their homes some very nice looking evergreens were available at anywhere from three for a dollar up to two dollars each according to size.

Apples of course, were in good abundance and sold from 50 to 75 cents a basket or $2.75 to $3.00 a hamper according to variety. Pears were available for 75 cents a basket.

Maple syrup was certainly in good supply and its vendors were kept quite busy satisfying the needs of customers. Basic selling price was $6 a gallon. Maple sugar was also to be had at 70 cents a pound.

Potatoes sold at 65 to 75 cents a basket and $4.00 to $4.25 a 75-pound bag. Spanish onions sold at 75 cents a basket. Turnips were similarly priced. Cooking onions sold at 10 cents a pound.

Meat. Parsnips were available at 60 cents a basket with turnips selling at 50 cents a basket or a quarter.

Eggs sold at 50 and 45 cents the dozen for extra large and large respectively. Both turkeys and chickens were available at 50 cents the pound.

Many types of home cooking and preserves were to be had on the indoor market. Cakes displayed had a very pronounced Easter look and sold for between 45 and 65 cents according to size. A special item to be had at one vendor's was rhubarb and ginger jam at 35 cents the pint.

Puppy dogs were also out to the market today. Some specimens sold between $15 and $20 dollars and collie pups sold at $5.00 each.

Time Stopped When Hubby Arrived Home

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — This story could well bear the title "beware of the mechanically gifted female."

Columbus Dispatch reporter John McConaughy reported it Friday just as it was heard in a tavern:

"My wife—she can fix anything. You know what she did?

"Well, my wife goes to bed at 10 o'clock every night. It seems the story-teller works until 11. She'd ask me the next morning what time I got in and I'd say 'about 11.30' and that was that. Until one morning, that is.

"She said, 'that's a lie. You rolled in at 12.32,' which was right.

"Then started weeks of torture. No matter what time I got home, she knew to the minute.

"Then you know what I finally found out she had done? She had hooked up the kitchen electric clock with the back porch light and when I'd turn it off, off went the clock. All she had to do was reset it in the morning.

"So I'm gonna trick her yet. She doesn't know I found out, so all I'm gonna do is turn back the clock to when she thinks I ought to get in."

C of C Lends Assistance In Securing Graduation Awards

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce will lend its assistance toward the securing of graduation awards and prizes for top students at the city's new Moira Secondary School.

Preliminary details of the scheme were worked out Thursday as members of the Chamber educational committee met with school officials at Moira. Heading up the Chamber committee were secretary-manager Earl Dicknoether and committee chairman Dr. R. Brain.

The Chamber of Commerce itself will not offer graduation awards to Moira students, but committee members will canvass local industry and business inviting student awards for the school.

With Moira now to be the graduating centre for technical students from all three high schools in the city, the Chamber has decided to concentrate on securing graduation awards for technical classes.

These are woodworking, electricity, general carpentry, electronics, mechanical drawing, architectural drafting, motor mechanics, and machine shop. It is hoped that prizes or awards may be made available for honor students in each of these courses, as an incentive to go on to higher education.

Three Escape Injury When Cars Collide

Three occupants of an early-bound car escaped injury Friday afternoon when their vehicle went out of control after colliding with another auto and rolled over four times.

Suffering abrasions and bruises were the driver Raymond Jos. Guilalin, Oshawa; Henry Vanlour, Oshawa, and Jerry LeBlanc of Sarnia.

The three were taken to Belleville General Hospital by Bush's Ambulance but were released after treatment. The trio were on their way to Montreal.

Provincial police reported the Guilalin car and a second auto driven by Eugene Pinale of Bell's Corners, Ont., were both eastbound on 401 highway northwest of the city when the Pinkle auto attempted to make a left turn. The Guilalin car brushed the Finkle vehicle and it went out of control onto the centre boulevard, then rolled 300 feet down the highway. The 1954 car was a complete wreck.

All three persons in the Guilalin auto were thrown out of the vehicle as it rolled down the highway.

RARE BIRDS ARRIVE

FREEPORT, N.Y. (AP)— Flocks of American and snowy egrets — which faced extinction half a century ago — established colonies this week on Long Island marshlands, an ornithologist said Friday. Gilbert Raynor said the egrets have been extending their breeding range northward in recent years. The first snowy egret arrived on Long Island about five years ago and the American egret two or three years ago.

Firemen Had Busy Afternoon

TRENTON — Members of Trenton Fire Department spent a very busy afternoon yesterday. The alarm was sent in lately, calling south and west of a house owned by Barney Ferguson was discovered by Lyle Lyons, owned by Frank Barry, was gutted.

While members of the department were engaged in putting out a fire started by an oil burner in the home of Mrs. Frank Barry, 43 Bay Street, a call was received over the police cruiser radio at the scene, to notify the fire chief, Cecil Ellis, that Bridge Street East was on fire. The fire hall had despatched two trucks to 98 Wall Street, the home of Harold Reid. As the Bay Street fire was under control by this time, the chief and the remaining fire trucks proceeded to Wall Street. The fire, caused by an electric stove, was quickly brought under control. A few square moments, firemen also dealt with a fire in the town dump.

Vandals Steal Sprinkler Heads

TRENTON—Wednesday night vandals made away with 30 or so brass sprinkler heads from the sprinkler system in Fraser Park. The estimated value of the heads is between four and five dollars.

More serious than the actual loss of the sprinkler heads was the fact that the thief or thieves pushed dirt down into the holes after removing the heads. This may have entered the bleeder lines connecting the system and may necessitate flushing up the entire system to clear the lines.

The sprinkler system was installed last year by the Trenton Parks' Board at a cost of over $1,000.

Trenton police are investigating the incident.

Objects to Word "Negro"

It was with some surprise that we read a letter to the editor of an Ontario small-city daily newspaper, protesting against the use of the word "Negro."

We were aware that Negroes in the southern states of the U. S. object to this word and prefer to be called "colored," but we had always considered this a particularly senseless bit of "nice nellyism" and had not supposed that any prejudice against the word Negro existed amongst educated members of that race—and that the letter-writer in question is well educated there can be no doubt for his choice of language is excellent.

This man, though, evidently of the Negro race, calls the word Negro "hideous," "repulsive" and "horrid."

"According to the dictionary," he writes, "this word Negro comes from the Latin niger meaning black. . . . would sooner be called black in English. My African ancestors, I'm sure, had no part in branding themselves with such a repulsive name as Negro."

Now if this attitude is general amongst Negroes, we should like to oblige them, but we have set a task to discover a satisfactory substitute. "Colored" will not do, for Hindus are colored, too, but are not of the same race. "Black" is a little better, but the aborigine of Australia is also black, yet is not a Negro, and indeed is often known somewhat by the name Blackman.

We do not know why Negro should sound hideous to the letter-writer. On the other hand, we admit that "Negroid" seems to us to have a harsh sound. This, we suppose, is largely a question of personal prejudice, although some English words do suggest, by their sound, their own meanings. Harsh, which we just used, sounds harsh. But, on the other hand, the word Negro, as the word darling sounds to us like a caress is when it is softened in a Gabor mouth and that may be as much the result of the Gabor appearance and Gabor reputation as the Gabor accent. As for Negro, we admit it has an unattractive appearance. We also always associate it with the natives of Nigeria, we suppose because of the fact that the slang word "nigger," like Negro, comes from the Latin word niger mentioned by the letter-writer. This, of course, is much too narrow an application, like reserving Caucasian for whites from the Caucasus.

Negro is such a well-established English word that we think those of that race would be well advised to overcome any personal prejudices against it and learn to accept it with pride—as they have every right to do.

Spring Clean-Up

Last fall city workmen did a good job of clearing up the bed of the Moira River near its mouth. To accomplish this, they built a ramp of dirt and stones leading from the river bed to the top of the stone wall on the west side of the river, south of Bridge St.

The spring run-off now has the Moira looking its loveliest, dancing happily the last few yards before emptying into the Bay of Quinte.

These waters have eaten away much of the ramp and of the pile of earth and stones directly north of it.

We are now wondering whether the Weatherman will provide us with a heavy rain which will lift the river level sufficiently to enable it to finish the job, or whether the remains of the ramp will be left to mar the appearance of the river.

Of course, it doesn't really matter. A few weeks from now the river will have fallen so that much of the river bed will be exposed to view, making the untidy ramp almost unnoticeable.

Still, foolishly, we wish that, if even for a few short hours, the Moira could appear at its best. And we hope that next fall when, in the summer, the job of clearing the river will not be undertaken. Merchants and other residents could help by refraining from using the river as a dumping ground.

The Earl of Cranbrook piled three blondes and two brunettes with dinner and drinks in an experiment to prove bats don't become entangled in women's hair. . . . more scientific experiments could be conducted this way the shortage of science students would be solved. (Ottawa Journal.)

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

—DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

LET US WALK IN THAT LIGHT

The word Easter is derived from the Saxon word "Eost," which means "dawn".

Easter is Dawn Day. It was the day in which the sunshine of God's love came up over the whole world and drove away the darkness of death for all time.

That was not the first person who believed in life after death. He lived about a generation which held His hope. Intelligent persons throughout the pagan world had some inkling of the immortality of the human soul. But the resurrection of Christ broke the bonds of death. The stone was rolled back from the door of the sepulcher, and Christ Himself came forth. He was different from the Christ who had been crucified, yet He was the same Christ who had been with them. The resurrection experience He had, as it were, His arms about them and gathered the whole world and gathered the believing sons and daughters of God into a fellowship of hope and light and eternal living.

What is the day of dawning the first Easter was! How the light of that beautiful day shines to us across the years! How eternal men have gone to a martyr's death with joy in their hearts because they knew that death could not hold them any more! How they were lifted up and held their Lord.

Let our teaching, and our preaching, and our living reflect the joy of Dawn Day. Let the unbelieving world know that we are "Children of The Dawn"! For we believe in Easter. We have caught its message. We are deliriously happy with its joy. We are walking confidently in its light.

Historic Hastings

More Indian Fallacies

(Article 115 in the series sponsored by the Hastings County Historical Society.)

Ever since Christopher Columbus took word back to Europe that he had discovered "India" and named the much of the white man's knowledge of the early inhabitants of this continent has been equally inaccurate.

Another example that bears this point out is the name "Red Face" applied to these people. According to Professor T. F. McIlwraith, who addressed the recent annual meeting of the Lennox and Addington Historical Society, the term "Red Face" was applied to them by an early explorer who found an eastern tribe that painted their faces with a red paint (much the same as some members of our present society do.)

The belief that the Indians and Inuits were very near Eastern Canada persisted.

The Lachine Rapids west of Montreal on the St. Lawrence were so named since it was believed that the country of China lay just beyond.

Then there was the case of the sea captain who guided his ship into Halifax harbor, expecting at any moment to land in China. In consternation, he fled, and the crew had been provided with Chinese court robes brought by Enzyme overland from China so that the crew could be properly attired when they met the Khan.

There is no record of their success, but it would be a long hard journey westward from Halifax by China, Chinese crew wearing cumbersome Chinese court robes.

One early writer also described the Kingdom of the Saguenay, Indians, found on the north shore of the St. Lawrence. They, the writer said, is unless they are shielded from the fallout. The lids in the basement will be the shielding, if all upstairs doors and windows are closed and basement windows are blocked off to keep out the dust.

The basement blockhouse will cost about $300. You can do it yourself. Add another $100 or so and have it completed in no time. Don't forget a battery radio for keeping tuned to Civil Defence information, and you need plastic bags and a garbage can to collect garbage.

Forty-eight hours after the attack the strength of the radioactivity will be down to harmless and perhaps safe. Two weeks after the attack only 1,000 times less, and almost surely safe to be exposed to.

Maybe the little room isn't much and maybe it sounds insane. But it's about all that's left if the peacemakers fail.

Compulsory Insurance

Calgary Herald

More and more motorists, responsible motorists, are asking with good zeal of justification why the provincial government doesn't introduce a compulsory insurance plan into Alberta.

As it stands now, the motorist is virtually compulsory insurance is more or less at the mercy of a small group of people who refuse to insure themselves of this protection.

True, a fund is being created provides for an unsatisfied judgment fund and the "pink slip" system, but these are stopgap answers to the problem of the irresponsible driver and go only half-way toward a solution.

What is wanted is legislation making it compulsory for every motorist to carry auto insurance up to a reasonable amount, judged by today's values, and purchased from private companies.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

Shelter Only Defence

By Alex Young in the Vancouver Sun

Forget the Bomarc. Forget all the talk about the government's plan to build a shelter. It looks brilliant.

If you want the only real defence that's left, go down into your basement, select a sturdy corner, and build yourself a little six-by-10 foot room of cinder-block concrete blocks.

Then pray the Russians will never send their hellish nucleus ballistic missiles this way. And you might attack a rider to that prayer, asking that the missiles hit somebody else's town; for if they do yours, the little cement blockhouse in your basement won't help a bit. It would be about as useful as trying to give a direct H-bomb hit.

What's it good for, then? It's good only to protect you from radio-active dust that falls out after the bombs explode.

That, for all practical purposes, is truly the only real defence there is. Certainly the important necessity of talking our potential enemies into peace.

With all the uproar over the Bomarc, and U.S. domination of Canada's defence, this critical fact seems to have been lost.

The Bomarc may well be a suitable defence against bombers. Maybe it isn't. It would be a shame to waste several money on it.

It certainly won't halt the intercontinental ballistic missile. The weapon that soon will be the main threat, if it isn't already, or will it halt all bombers.

And we don't see our best to achieve a more peaceful world.

Meanwhile, back on the home-front, there's a ragging effort to "do it yourself" effort for last resort shelters.

In a few weeks federal Civil Defence authorities will be putting into general circulation pamphlets containing plans for basement shelters for protection against fallout.

Some authorities say it's useless to try to protect ourselves from fallout. They say it will kill everything not already destroyed directly by nuclear blasts.

Canadian authorities say, however, there is value in fallout shelters. The large-scale evacuation of cities is now necessary with ICBMs there wouldn't be enough time to get them where would you get fallout protection?

* * *

Outside of shelters downs that get hit (the unfortunate ones), Canadian authorities say there will be a lot of people who won't bear or see a bomb go off. But before too long they'll be just as dead as the people broiling or disintegrating by direct hits.

They'll die of exposure to Gamma rays from radioactive dust spreading out from the target areas.

There, the natives were said to be only 4 feet 6 inches high, to mature at ten years of age, to die in their early twenties. Such stories were regarded as gospel by most Europeans in the 16th and 17th centuries.

In their dealings with the Indians," Europeans explained what they found mysterious in terms of what they themselves knew.

Accordingly there was the story of "Princess" Pocohontas, although the "Indian" had no kings, queens, princes or princesses.

Another myth was the idea of a "Happy Hunting Ground" where good Indians were supposed to go after death. This was nonsense, since the Indian ideal of life was to avoid the burden of hunting. The myth grew because the upper class in Europe in the 16th and 17th centuries spent much of their leisure hunting and regarded it as a pleasant recreation. But to the Indians, hunting was hard work.

Another common belief that Fryd, Hudson's Bay explorer, that all "Indians" wore large feather headdresses. This custom was common among a few tribes, particularly on the western plains, but for the most part this section of the country to the north of the Great Lakes was densely forested area would have been unthinkable.

The idea of the feathered headdress was largely the work of Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show and the artists who depicted Custer's last stand.

Since the white man then came to associate these headdresses with the "Indians," the Indians have been willing to oblige.

20 YEARS AGO

Bravely defying the threat of winter that is still apparent in the air, the bright yellow of budding crocuses made their appearance on the lawn of Dr. Gould's office. About three inches in length the green stalks are topped with buds that are just beginning to burst into bloom.

Complete Bren gun light machine guns now are being produced at the Long Branch plant of John Inglis Co. Ltd. The first Canadian-made guns now are in possession of the Department of National Defence and the armament division of the company, especially developed for Bren gun production, is turning out two-shift basis, more than five months ahead of the schedule set for fulfilment of the original Canadian order for 7,000 guns and the chief British order for 5,000 guns. The Bren gun, originally developed in Czechoslovakia, and further developed by the arsenal at the British Small Arms plant in England, is the standard light machine gun for armies of the British Empire. Production is now under way in Great Britain, Canada and Australia and as rapidly as guns are turned out they are issued to the forces to replace the Lewis gun which was the standard light machine gun for the First Great War.

Novel Modes Of Travel

Brockville Recorder and Times

From both England and faraway New Zealand comes news of unusual modes of travel, or rather fresh means of using velocipedes already in common use in these countries—and here.

In England a motorcycle with a sidecar has been successfully used. Named the Canterbury Belle, the sidecar detaches from the motorcycle in a few seconds and does 11 knots in the water. It is propelled by a screw engine in the nose — or bow — and is steered by an oar. The engine is controlled by a hand throttle, and the craft weighs in all 168 lbs.

Then in New Zealand there is a novel aid for commuters with baby carriages. It is described by Christian Science Monitor travel editor Jean Rowe. Auckland recently left his home amid the throes of a housing crisis and was later was enjoying the warm sun of Devon under.

He writes: "A curiosity in Christchurch, at least to me, for I have never seen it there anywhere else in the world, are the bicycle and buses carrying baby carriages hooked on to them. Watch a mother with her baby boards a bus; the driver gets out and hangs the pram on the front of his bus. When the mother gets off, the driver again obliges by setting the carriage on the sidewalk, where the baby is quickly tucked in and rolled away."

Actually the same principle obtains in Britain, but even there the pram or bicycle is usually placed in a rack on the roof of the bus.

A bay, sa arm of Chignecto Bay on the southern coast of New Brunswick. The name is commonly said to be a corruption of the French phrase "Chapeau de Dieu," or "Hat of God." This claim is refuted by Rayburn, all of whom fail to give reasons for disagreement.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

LEUKOPLAKIA SPOTS OFTEN REMOVED AS PRECAUTION

"Dear Sir: I enjoy your column immensely and read it regularly. Now two words have been mentioned to my attention, that I have never heard before.

"One is 'leukoplakia.' I looked this up in a dictionary and find that it means a formation of white patches on the mucous membranes of cheeks or tongue. Nothing is said about it involving the vulva area. I happen to have it there — one place is swollen, tender and a little bit transparent.

"The doctor said a vulvectomy might be necessary — and that's the other new word, 'vulvectomy.'

"Is leukoplakia a fatal disease? Can it spread to the bladder or other areas? What should be done about it? — Mrs. C. W."

Leukoplakia is a whitish colored change in the mucous membrane — which can mean the lip, mouth, tongue or other areas, the female genitals being one in which it is known to occur.

It is seen rather often in the mouths of heavy smokers, on the lip or mouth is the area with which we most usually associate it.

These spots may, but do not always, become malignant. Since, as a rule it is a rather simple matter to remove them, surgery is frequently done as a safety precaution.

When leukoplakia involves the vulva, or outer portion of the female genitals, it may be extensive, or a biopsy shows any malignant change, then removal of the vulva is in order.

To return a moment to the more common leukoplakia of lip or mouth, these spots sometimes appear after irritation as a result of removing some chronic irritation — as, for example, removing a tooth or in a tooth or denture.

Your dentist may, rely on competent professional advice as to whether it is safe to try that method, or whether the spot should be removed at once. Once such a spot is found malignant, of course, it becomes highly important that surgery should not be a moment's further delay in having it removed.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please tell me, if I am in health except for a bad cough. Last year I has had an enlarged nipple on the right breast. My school doctor said it should be lanced. Two private doctors said to leave it alone and it would clear up by itself. It has not cleared up yet, but it doesn't hurt him, and sometimes it is better than the other nipple. — J. M."

Such difference in size in the juvenile nipple is normal. Apparently the size is not increasing.

The medical opinions you have received seem to be about in favor of leaving it alone. To be sure you may add my vote, and make it three to two. I would not go from doctor to doctor. Have your family physician check the by at reasonable intervals. The probability is that no real problem will ever develop. The periodic checking will be insurance against any unusual development.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Why does a person go numb all over from the injection used by a doctor before an extraction? — L. B."

It's unusual, but could happen because the patient happens to be sensitive to the anesthetic used, or to infection. Or it could be fear of the whole procedure. Nerves, if anyone want to call it that.

Afflicted with arthritis? You may find relief if you follow the advice given in my pamphlet, "Don't Quit Because of Arthritis." To receive your copy, write to me for it in care of The Chicago Sun Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dunellen, Ill., enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

Pill Puts One In High Chair

Chicago Tribune

A new drug known as LSD-25 is credited by psychiatrists with stimulating memories as far back as the first year of life. Writing in the Archives of General Psychiatry, Doctors Arthur L. Chandler and Morton A. Hutt report that it is very common for early childhood memories to have been repressed or forgotten by the urge, usually with great clarity of recall.

The psychiatrists consider the drug to have useful possibilities in the field of psychoanalysis, which finds early conflicts and traumatic events of formative influence on later psychological problems. They should think that the collateral benefit to novelists of the autobiographical urge, correcting of coincidence and events as seen through the eyes of the adult schools would be considerable.

By taking a pill, they can put themselves back in the high chair or crib, or the playpen or the mother's view of their parents, their nanny, the world at large, or themselves, all brought in bursting sharpness, pictures of a three dimensional quality. The first writers to adopt this approach should be miles ahead of his competitors in total recall.

For ourselves we find that memory is fond and that it tends to expunge embarrassing and unkind events. We should like it to be used as experiment which would upset this delicate and delightful balance. Who knows but that we might find ourselves recalling, too vividly, the strained vegetables of the first year inserted with a probing spoon, or crying as if our little heart would break at the studio photographer of the early years of the century tried to attract our attention with the 1905 bird.

We recall only too well the events of the last years, last month, or last week. Why strain your luck by the exploration of things lost and forgotten? They might not prove as happy as you would like to think they must have been.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THAT MIND OF YOURS

Your noblest gift from the GREAT CREATOR is that mind of yours. There is nothing else to compare with it. Just stop and let the thought of it puts us on high ground. Every day of our lives we should pay homage to that mind of ours. It will carry us safely to any destination we desire. Never forget that it is your greatest ally in life and it will never desert you.

There is something that will occasionally give you a sense of power, and good you forward. It is that mental attitude of mind that makes all the difference as you put your fingers to the wheel, or the pedals, and concentrate the wisdom of the Heavenly Father who is the elder brother of us all.

It's our attitude of mind that sets us apart from the idler, the complainer, and the one without the desire to keep rising higher in ambition and purpose. We need self respect and we need to respect those who work happily, from day to day — always planning more useful things to do. That's the way people lack is the love of interests.

The thoughts of the mind make us keep ever active and hopeful. There should be a freshness about our every task. Greet your vision to welcome the right attitude of mind.

Canadian Humour

By GREGORY CLARK

The writing of John Burroughs are due any time for a great revival. He was at his peak of popularity before the eighties up to the early nineteen hundreds. No man before or since has given to the reader of pure and healthy outdoor vision in looking at the natural world around us. Today when millions of us are boiling out of city and town to look with fresh excitement at forest, lake and stream, some paperback publisher could do a great service to himself and a landscape-conscious generation by re-issuing John Burroughs.

Here, at random, is a paragraph from his "Birds and Poets."

"There is something almost pathetic in the fact that the birds are about the first voices that you grow old, your friends die or change, and the world around you sweep on and all things are changed. Yet there in your garden or orchard are the birds of your boybood, the same notes, the same songs, the same habits and purposes, the identical birds endowed with perennial youth. When you walk out to the strange woods, there they are, mocking you with their ever-new newed and joyous life."

To read a few pages of Burroughs is to add a new dimension to a day in the open, even on a day sitting on your cottage verandah. Copyright: Canada Wide.

A Lift for Living

Conquering the Fear of Death

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Most of us try hard to keep thoughts of death from intruding upon us. In ancient Greek legend the River Styx separated the region of the dead from the land of the living, and the name Styx comes from the verb "to hate", "to loathe". From the days of the Greeks down to our own, the river of death has been regarded as a dark and fearsome stream.

Easter commemorates the day when Christ established a bridgehead on the other side of the River Styx. Christ not only convinced His followers that He had effected a crossing of death's dark stream but also that He had gone to prepare a place for them.

At this Easter time let us watch Christ, the conqueror of death. Let us see how He makes preparation for the invasion of death's domain.

Some years ago a distinguished physician asked me to read a story in a current magazine. It was about two men who had been boon companions. They were connoisseurs of good food, good wines and the comforts of life. They dined frequently and elaborately together.

STORY OF EMPTINESS

At one of these festive dinners one of the friends dropped dead. Later his spirit returned to tell the other of his experiences in the life beyond. It was a story of emptiness. During his earthly life he had acquired so few tastes except for the perishable. Consequently he had no training which could get satisfaction when his bodily appetites were gone. Death simply ushered him into a dreary waste of emptiness.

That story has lingered in my memory, for it is a verification of Jesus' principle when He said, "Lay not up for yourselves treasures on earth where moth and rust doth corrupt and where thieves break through and steal. Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt and where thieves do not break through nor steal." Our natures have both physical and spiritual compartments. We fill our lives with material interests. If the main things which matter to us are money and foods and physical pleasures, some day we shall hear the words, "You can't take it with you." But if we fill our lives with ideas and ideals, with the love of beauty and the bonds of friendship, with the values of good will and gracious memories, we have something we can take with us.

We say of certain persons, "They are full of life." We mean they are abounding with vitality. They radiate energy, sparkle with enjoyment and kindle the spirits of others. And such fullness of life is more than physical. Some of the most vital persons I know have frail bodies.

Christ came to make men alive to beauty, to enrich the lives of human comradeship, to set men loving the laughter of little children and copying the contentment of birds, to help men feel the thrill of seeking truth and pursuing the perfection of goodness. His enjoyment of life seemed to be independent of physical limitations. And He came to impart that quality of eternal living to us so that we might be full of life, the kind of life we can take with us. Thus Christ prepares His followers for the invasion of death.

Our Lord declared that "life is more than meat." These lovers of ours which are linked with unseen dear ones in distant places, these memories which make events of yesteryear as vivid as the sights of this moment; these imaginations which contain pictures indestructible by bombers; these hopes which enable us to build our castles in Spain while we plough our corn in Iowa — all these are invisible and yet very real. These are the components of the spirit which Christ fills with the treasures we can take with us. Thus does the Captain of our salvation prepare His followers for the invasion of death's domain.

This – and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

More and more often we read of a wanting signal that national tension has become, or is becoming, rapidly one of the deadliest epidemics of our twentieth century. For the purpose of today's column, I'll not repeat the warning so true. It is indeed an intricate problem both for the implications for us and posterity. And it is probably not very prophetic to suggest that a lack of Canadism per se may prove to be its most treacherous foe as a threats to our children and our children's children are concerned.

This week a copy of "Newsletter" a publication of Canadian Association of Canada came to my desk. The subject matter is directed "To Our Student Members".

The editor day the editor of a famous national magazine dropped into the office. We had written him to thank him for an article he had published on UN technical assistance, and told him something about our summer seminar. The idea, and model assemblies and the kind of young people who are interested in them.

"He was delighted to learn that some young Canadians were internationally - minded. Among those we had studied the UN clubs in French Canada. Returning somewhat later, a few years' stay abroad, he had been depressed by the belying spirituality of a Canadian Canadian spirit."

William Woodside, the national director of the UN Association in Canada, was pleased to inform his visitor that the Association knew of at least 300 UN student clubs, and that more were springing up so fast an accurate count was not known.

Last fall the Association published a "simple, mimeographed handbook, entitled 'United Nations in Your High School.'" Although the handbook fell short of being all the Association desired, the response has been gratifying and widespread beyond all expectations. Requests for a copy or copies have been received from all across Canada, the U.S. and as far away as an American army school in Europe.

We simply haven't the space to outline in a short column a list of student seminars and their places and dates. There is one at Queen's University to which Quinte Secondary School has chosen two representatives from the local student.

There will be a seminar for secondary school teachers on "Teaching About the UN and International Understanding" at Carleton University Ottawa, July 4-8 this summer. Teachers may write for further information to the director, Michael Hudgin, 14 Madawaska Drive, Ottawa.

A strong branch, a bilingual branch of more than 200 members has just been inaugurated in Quebec City. The spearhead for this interest in Quebec City is Mrs. Barry S. Quart, M.B.E., Canadian representative on the UN Commission on the Status of Women. T and T readers will recall how your reporter referred to the many kindnesses we received during Mrs. Quart one year ago last month at the UN in New York. Mrs. Quart is dedicated to the UN ideal.

If one teacher reads today's column and has the available time to attend the seminar at Carleton University in July, this column will be very pleased indeed. A thousandfold. T and T would like to see a student UN Club organized in each of our three high schools — B.C.I.V.S., Quinte and Trenton. Further information on these two students from Quinte Secondary School return filled with delight to attend the sessions in all three Belleville schools.

One of the most exciting attractions for Student Clubs is the fact that it is something that boys and girls take with them into university UN clubs or into adult UN clubs. Further information students, teachers and parents may write for pamphlets — especially for "The UN and the High School" to the National Office, 63 Sparks St., Ottawa, Ontario.

T and T knows you will receive assistance and encouragement and all the help we can give from this corner is willingly offered. "The true link will be forged, shall make you free", then it is not obvious that boys and girls, our young men and women will learn more truth about the world around us and a better understanding of other people from a knowledge of the aspirations and working of the United Nations.

12-Year Task To Clean up Ancient Abbey

LONDON (Reuters) — Ancient Westminster will glow in its original splendor and glory when Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong - Jones are married on May 6.

Workmen have been engaged since the Coronation in 1953 on a 12-year task to clean away the grime and candle grease of centuries. Renovation will be completed in 1963 when Westminster celebrates its 900th anniversary.

Efforts are being made to see that the choir, transepts and the eastern legs of the cross are the gleaming for the wedding. The cost of cleaning and repair is figured by a £1,000,000 ($2,670,000) fund raised by an appeal from former prime minister Sir Winston Churchill.

Guests at the wedding will see at the splendid gothic mouldings of the choir look as they did when Henry III's builders laid down their tools.

The cleaning has brought out the exact colors painted on the abbey's stone. The marble columns have been scrubbed down with pumice stone and the roof repaired.

Suitcase Space Sets Pace for Some Bonnets

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Suitcase space sets the pace for women in government and the wives of government leaders and diplomats choose their Easter bonnets.

Sailor straws and flowered cloches are the popular choices. Women in the capital like to find the small hat a better risk all around.

Mrs. John Diefenbaker's Easter choice is a small blue straw trimmed with velvet flowers and roses, to be worn with a blue and green tweed suit.

The hat will stand up to any weather surprise in Saskatchewan. Mrs. Diefenbaker is the prime minister's wife and this will spend the holiday.

Immigration Minister Ellen Fairclough usually wears a small hats, and Easter will be no exception. Her choice, because of the cool weather, is a blue straw minute one.

Mrs. Donald Fleming, wife of the finance minister, likes small flowered hats and tailored hats, and plans flowers for Easter.

Mrs. Douglas Harkness, wife of the agriculture minister, usually chooses a bright hat to contrast a neutral tailored coat, says a lot to change the look of a dress with a different hat." A sailor-style hat is her choice.

Lady Garner, wife of Sir Saville Garner, United Kingdom high commissioner, is an American-born woman who likes British hats. Most of the hats in her collection are made by a London milliner to whom she sends hats from British fabrics. She plans to wear a flowered cloche for Easter.

Jesus Told Thomas to Be Believing

By ALMA MASON

The words "seeing is believing" could very well have spoken by Thomas the doubting disciple. Thomas simply had to have proof, that his Lord had risen before he would believe. When the other disciples told Thomas they had seen the risen Christ, he said, "Except I shall see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my hand into his side, I will not believe".

Eight days after Thomas had made his statement of disbelief, Jesus again appeared to the apostles. Thomas was present and Jesus told him, "Reach hither thy finger and see my hands; and reach hither thy hand and put it into my side; and be not faithless but believing".

Jesus did not scold Thomas for his inability to believe he had risen. He said, however, "Because thou hast seen, thou hast believed: blessed are they that have not seen and yet have believed".

The agnostic more than the Christian demands to be shown absolute proof that a thing is so. He has never seen a prayer in the Throne of Grace and had it answered. He has never had faith in the word of a friend for he knows nothing of faith in God and God's ability to fulfill His promises.

The most beautiful things are the things we cannot see with the eyes but which we see with the heart.

We cannot see the courage of a friend when that courage is subjected to great trials and defeat. We can see the evidence of the return of courage after the trials have bludgeoned by misery and sorrow. We witness the long, gentle shining through tears; the straight back becoming more strongly resolute after the onslaught; the erect head and eyes still unabashed by defeat; the bearing valiantly towards other skies and another brighter days.

We cannot see love but its rays extend everywhere from the dwelling place of a child: in the warm handclasp of a loved one; in a million tiny, hidden seed candles that light up life's corridors of kindly deeds and Christian charity!

HAND IN HAND

We cannot see compassion and sincerity, but there they are, hand in hand, winging their way wonderfully to and from everywhere; to the desolate and neglected; to starving children of other races, circling the globe through the mediation of CARE, CROP, Foster Parent's Plan Campaign and many other charitable organizations.

We cannot see faith but its branches are forever reaching out to the needy in this world, else the branches of faith would not appear in full flower. We believe the sun will rise tomorrow and set at the end of the day. We believe the flowers will bloom again in the Spring; we believe that the birds will return again and that the air will grow warmer and the wind more balmy. We see the hand of God ordering the universe for us yet in spite of this we disbelieve in Godliness and in the Holy Spirit.

We cannot see prayer but those of us who send petitions Heavenward daily have witnessed God's answer to prayer over and over again. Even through prayer, have known returns to perfect physical and mental health.

Thirty years ago a child lay dying in a Toronto hospital. He suffered from an advanced case of mastoid trouble. The greatest child specialist in the country, he was informed, discovered. The child reacalled; consulted brain specialists and they said, there was no mental fat to have the child die for it he lived he would be an insurable idiot.

The young parents refused to accept as final the verdict of the brilliant doctors. The parents prayed that the boy be restored to mental and physical health. Through their prayers they were answered. To the amazement of the famous doctors, the boy recovered.

Today a healthy, happy young husband and father will eventually add a degree in psychology to the degrees he has obtained in psychology and medicine. The parents did not think his recovery 30 years ago a miracle. They just were sure that God would answer their prayers.

Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE B. POWELL

LO! HE COMES WITH CLOUDS DESCENDING

Lo! He comes with clouds descending,
Once for favored sinners slain;
Thousand, thousand saints, attending,
Swell the triumph of His train.
Hallelujah! hallelujah!
God appears on earth to reign.

Every eye shall now behold Him
Robed in dreadful majesty;
Those who set at naught and sold him,
Pierced and nailed Him to the tree,
Deeply wailing, deeply wailing,
Shall the true Messiah see.

All the tokens of His passion
Still His dazzling body bears;
Cause of endless exultation
To His ransomed worshipers;
With what rapture, with what rapture
Gaze we on those glorious scars!

Yea, Amen! let all adore Thee,
High on thine eternal throne;
Savior, take the power and glory;
Claim the kingdom, claim the kingdom for thine own.

Jah! Jehovah! Jah! Jehovah!
Lord God omnipotent reign.

A Bible verse, "Behold, He cometh with clouds: and every eye shall see Him", is the open sesame to the Book of Revelation gave Charles Wesley his theme when he wrote the first of this familiar old hymn, nearly two centuries ago.

The hymn belongs with the best of the 6,500 which Wesley is credited with having written during his lifetime. Charles was the prolific writing brother and a good many of his gems are still being sung in the churches of the twentieth century.

Both boys were sons of a prominent Church of England clergyman, the Rev. Samuel Wesley, and grew up in a parsonage at Epworth, England. Charles was born just a week before Christmas, in 1707, and after studying at Westminster school and Oxford university he was graduated to the Church of England priesthood in 1735.

According to his own word, however, he was not truly converted until three years later, on Whitsunday (May 21) in 1738. At that time he was 2,500 miles away, after that date. He died March 29, 1788.

The Wesley brothers — John and Charles — will always be remembered as the founders of Methodism. John was the preacher; it is said that he arranged and presided at more than 40,000 religious services during his life-time. Charles was the hymn writing brother and a good many of his hymns are still being sung in the churches of the twentieth century.

MAN INTO GENTLEMAN

"Taxi! Taxi!"—familiar urban words.

* * *

Do you recall the story of the little English child who lived throughout the duration with a Canadian family and took much interest in all she saw, including the funeral processions that passed by their door? She wanted to know all about hearses.

"What are they for? Why?"

All was explained. One day she came flying into the house crying: "I wish I'd die, so I could ride in that black cab! The day she left for England, she was taken in a nice shiny taxi to the station and she cried out with delight: "At last, I've ridden in a cab, and I didn't have to die to it!"

The modern-taxi is a far cry from those horse drawn vehicles known as Victories, found only today at such places as Montreal's Mountain where no other type of conveyance is allowed. Historical and colorful as they are, they will never again pass from the scene forever.

These Victories have little in common with the accursed taxicabs. We are living in too mechanically an age for horses, anymore. When my horse dies, then my driver's license just might be made out. First I'm married and his wife refuses to co-operate in getting a divorce. Now she says she intends to live with him and we haven't been able to talk her out of his crazy idea.

Ada — Regardless of what my parents think, Fred isn't irresponsible. He got involved in a ridiculous marriage at the age of 19 and his wife is a spiteful person who just wants to make things rough for him.

Fred and I are very much in love and want to marry. Lately, Fred has learned a lot from his past mistake and I think we would make a good marriage. We don't care about convention and feel that we should live as man and wife until his wife is ready to give him a divorce. Frankly, she'll want to marry herself and then she'll be ready to give him a divorce. That is, I hope within a year. In the meantime we want to be together.

I realize my parents can't be very happy about this situation, but my friends say I'm too young for my courage. Sometimes you must sacrifice to do as your heart dictates.

* * *

The Council: It would be pointless to argue the legal and moral aspects of this case with a girl who has the poor judgment to be entangled in it.

Ada claims, however, to be interested in "happiness," for which we presume she means emotional happiness. The fact is that she cannot have even this under the present setup.

Whether we like it or not, we are all bound in great measure to the society around us. By her own admission, Ada now is getting some satisfaction out of being considered courageous by her "friends." She has built up a romantic picture of herself in which she plays the heroine.

However, if she goes through with her plan of cohabiting with Fred in an illicit union, she will soon find that she has been tricked by her own vanity. Most of her friends will marry, start raising families and forget her.

Others will simply accept her situation and forget it, forgetting the fact that there has been no marriage. The more thoughtful ones will be sorry for her.

In the meantime Ada will be living with her parents on an ordinary day-to-day level, subject to all the pressures of married people. There will be quarrels and boredom, but never the comfort of knowing that they stand that she and Fred are united in a mutual devotion so strong that it could withstand opposition from the world around them.

What Ada has also would-put a woman be loves through such an ugly ordeal. We are afraid that Ada is not capable of such depth in this affair and longs to be published for the sake of how much she protests. But only when she can see herself a long way away from Fred — fast and far.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hagar Shaw

WHEN MAY YOU EAT WITH THE FINGERS?

What foods should be eaten with the fingers? I think common sense should be resorted to in settling this controversy.

I would say the question of chicken legs and chop bones. While we are all agreed that it hurts to leave meat on a bone, I would advise — unless dining in your own home, or with close friends — that knife and fork be used, particularly when dining formally, or in a public restaurant. In my mind, the shoestring potatoes, crisp bacon, and asparagus, all come under this category. While it is difficult to eat them with a fork, it is a rather messy, and certainly an awkward performance to eat them with the fingers.

There is quite a long list of foods, however, that properly may be eaten with the fingers. Actually, it would be too difficult to list them any other way. Included on the cob, celery, olives, radishes, potato chips, stemmed fruits, hard-cooked eggs. To name a few. Artichokes also may be eaten with the fingers, the leaf at a time being pulled off, the edible end being dipped in butter, and the remainder placed on the side of the plate. When the heart is reached, the part containing the thistle is scraped away, leaving the heart which is eaten with a fork.

The controversy of whether or not it is proper to cut the lettuce in a salad has been going on for years. To my way of thinking, this is a definite instance where common sense should be used. Much better to use a knife and fork to cut it, valiantly with only a fork. It usually means spilling the lettuce on the floor, giving up and not eating it at all! By all means, use a knife.

Sandwiches are usually eaten with the fingers, except when there are several layers with soft fillings. Then, to avoid disaster, the knife and fork are used. Small cocktail canapes are of course eaten with the fingers, trying to extend the same way, unless it is sticky with a topping, in which case a fork is necessary.

Celeriac is an irrevocable rule with which I do not concur. It is that one should never cut large pieces of celery for the relish or cocktail form. Of course there is a good reason for this, as it would be extremely difficult to cut them, when they rest, as they usually do, on a bed of ice. The approved method is to break the stalks apart and then with a small fork, dip it in tartsauce, and then hopefully trust that it will remain south with out mishap. Frankly, I must admit that eating a large, tender table oyster is something at which I am anything but graceful. I can only suggest ordering small oysters. If large ones are served, a spoon should be used to cut them.

Question: I have been employed as a nurse in a doctor's office for several years. We have been very busy recently and I am continuing in my capacity as nurse in the office. It is permissible that I address him as "John," now that we are engaged? Or should I continue to address him formally?

Answer: In most instances, when on duty, address your fiance by "Dr. Jones" or "Dr." It would be extremely poor taste to do otherwise.

UNBAKED DATE SQUARES

One and one-half tablespoons gelatin, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup water, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup chopped dates, 2 tablespoons orange juice, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Soak the gelatine in the water 5 minutes, then add the sugar, stir while it heats to boiling, then boil gently 10 minutes. Cool. Add orange juice and whip until it is thick and white. Flavor with vanilla, add dates and mix well. Turn into lightly buttered pans and chill until firm. Cut into squares with sharp knife, dipping knife into hot water as you cut to keep it from smooth. Roll in mixture of icing sugar to which you have added a little cornstarch, then in fine cocoanut. Note: Chopped slices of prunes may be used instead of dates.

CERAMIC TILE proved an ideal material for surfacing this combination snack bar and range counter. Proximity of food preparation and serving areas make it possible for homemaker to reach dishes and serve from cooking utensils.

Snack Bars Reduce Work In Serving Family Meals

The greatest thing that's happened to kitchens since all the servants took up welding is the snack bar.

This boon to the serviceless home is now considered just as important in kitchen remodeling as additional storage space, ceramic tile floor and walls and new appliances. This holds true even when a dining room is available.

The ideal location for the snack bar is alongside the food serving centre. Second choice is the range centre. Although food can be delivered promptly, this range is in use during the meal, location is undesirable if the debris usually littering both mix and sink centres disqualify these locations.

Size of the snack bar is dictated by space limitations. Every effort should be made, however, to accommodate two persons. Thus when a lull such as between breakfast for the breadwinner and departure of the family scholars there will be a place for the harassed homemaker to down a cup and sneak in an argument for increasing her household allowance.

The main purpose of the snack bar is to reduce work in preparing and serving meals by taking the strain off the dining room and bringing the other to the food. To enhance this purpose the snack bar should be surfaced with a material like ceramic tile that wipes clean with one stroke of a damp cloth.

Barbecue Is Big Part of Outdoor Fun

The present decade may well go down in history as the barbecue age as well as a space conquering era. The upsurge of interest in outdoor cooking with the man of the family tending the chef's hat, has now spread to just about every neighborhood in the country. In tune with this trend is the convenience of the patio barbecue as a prize point of diversity distinction.

Now that light weight industrial cut stone is generally available, the construction of back yard barbecues that match the stone facades of homes and walls on the property has become an easy do-it-yourself project.

Best spot for the family barbecue is a site facing away from prevailing winds of summer. A location near the kitchen has obvious footstep saving advantages.

CHOOSE GRILL FIRST

Before planning any construction pick the type of grill you want, as its size determines the size of the top opening of your barbecue.

Pick a height for the cooking surface which will be comfortable for chefs who plan to participate. The floor of the grate or firebox should be 6 to 9 inches below the grill for charcoal fuel and 9 to 12 inches for wood. Be sure to have a draft door if you don't leave the firebox front open.

Be sure to dig a foundation that is below the frost line. It is prudent, too, to check drainage; 6 to 8 inches of gravel placed under the foundation slab of concrete are recommended if the soil does not drain easily.

Popular types of quarried stone used for barbecues include limestone, sandstone, granite and quartzite.

HOW TO DO IT

Stake out boundaries of the foundation with sticks and string. Excavate to the required depth. Next build a level wood frame and brace the outside with stakes, so it will resist the pressure of the fluid concrete.

Pour concrete to the top of the form and skim it level with a flat wooden trovel. Allow to set for two days. Each individual stone should be laid as it would lie naturally on the ground. In other words don't set them on end. Stones of the same size and shape should not be set side by side. The wall gains strength from bonding, which, is mason terminology for the overlapping of two stones by another. Use string for guide lines.

To keep the face of the wall flush, select stones that do not project beyond the face of the wall. Joints should be made as thin as possible and filled completely with mortar.

Old Washday Rules Go Down The Drain

Modern home laundry methods are floating old wives' tales away, with the daily dirt and grime.

There are many things Grandmother used to say about getting the family clothes clean and fresh, and keeping them that way.

For example, she used to say that boiling was necessary to get clothes clean. Now experts say the only clothes and linens that should be boiled are those that need disinfecting. For ordinary laundry, modern soaps and detergents are so efficient at removing dirt and grime, that the old-fashioned boiling process — so troublesome and so damaging to fabrics — is unnecessary.

She used to say that water had to be piping hot to get clothes clean. Now experts say clothes can be fresh and sparkling clean after a cold water sudsing. New automatic washers feature short-cycle cold-water laundering methods for many of the fabrics woven or knit of manmade fibres.

Frequent washing chases dirt before it has abe opportunity to become embedded in the fibres. Those fabrics that can be damaged by hot water should be laundered often to avoid the need for high temperatures to chase the grime.

* * *

She used to say that clothes should be soaked overnight to remove the dirt. Now, thanks to modern soaps and detergents, soaking is considered optional. Overalls, work clothes, and other heavily soiled items may be soaked before being placed in the machine. But a half an hour in soap or detergent suds is usually adequate for loosening the dirt.

An effective pre-treatment that often makes soaking unnecessary is to massage a thick solution of soap or detergent lather into embedded soil areas with fingers or a brush.

* * *

She used to say that laundry would never come clean in hard water. Now there are cleanliness products on the market that make even this old-time washday bugaboo passe. Through research, homemakers in hard water areas can enjoy clothes-lines full of garments and linens as free of dinginess as those on soft water communities.

Striking Simplicity

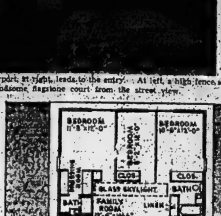
DESIGNED FOR A NARROW LOT, the Saki-Ko House was carport, at right, leads to the entry. At left, a high fence screens handsome flagstone court from the street view.

BY JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Japanese architecture, with its simple lines, inspired today's home, the Saki-Ko House.

Dramatic contrasts in color and texture create interest for the exterior, which combines stained cypress siding and buff red brick with white trim. Light tan shingles are used for the roof. Large glass areas give a feeling of spaciousness and link indoor and outdoor living.

FOR A NARROW LOT



Designed for a narrow lot, 50 by 150 feet, the house measures 68 feet at its front point and 31 feet at its widest.

Inside, rooms are arranged so that the kitchen becomes the heart of family living.

The kitchen is only a step away from the formal dining room. Open planning links it to the informal dining area in the family room. These two areas are separated only by kitchen ceiling cabinets and below the cabinets, by the kitchen oven and range which are backed by a counter in the dining room. This makes it possible to pass food and dishes from the kitchen to the family room counter.

OUTDOOR SERVICE

The kitchen also serves outdoor meals in the court for, outside the kitchen window, there's a drop-leaf serving tray that can be set up to take food being passed outdoors.

THE KITCHEN is centred to serve family room, dining room and court. The home has three bedrooms, two baths.

KITCHEN EQUIPMENT

The kitchen is superbly arranged for maximum efficiency.

Sink and work counters are set under windows overlooking the court. Forming an L with the sink, another unit of counters, housing a built-in oven and counter-top range, features the see-through into the family room.

LAUNDRY ROOM

A queen-size combination refrigerator-freezer and a washer and dryer line up on an opposite wall, close to the entrance to the utility room, which houses heating appliances.

The family room, with its informal dining facilities, is planned with several possibilities in mind. It could be used as a TV centre, a study and or a play room.

Sliding glass doors give it access to the court, at left, and the covered patio at right. It's an exceptionally bright room due to the fact that it has a glass skylight at back, close to the bedrooms. It also is brightened by light from the kitchen which has a trellis roof.

The living room is large — 12 1-2 by almost 24 feet. Opening off the main entry and the dining room, it has wonderful views of both court and street.

A large natural brick fireplace stars in the living area. Surrounded by glass walls, it projects to the exterior and thus does not take up valuable living space.

Also decorative is a space-divider of shelves that separates the living room from the dining room, which is set apart from the entry by a closet wall.

SLEEPING QUARTERS

The home has three bedrooms.

The master bedroom has its own dressing room and private bath. The two other bedrooms share the main bath. All bedrooms face out to the quiet rear garden. Two of the bedrooms, as well as all of the major rooms in the home, are cross-ventilated.

The Saki-Ko House comprises 15,884 cubic feet (1,444 square feet) of livable area; 5,684 cubic feet (313 square feet)

Chamois - - Nature's Miracle Fabric

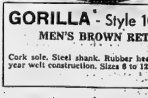
A chamois is to spring cleaning what the lamp was to Aladdin. Just a little rub and you can do anything with it.

A genuine Chamois leather skin is something of a miracle of nature. It is simply a piece of sheepskin, especially tanned with the natural oils permanently locked in so that it can be used not only for washing but without any kind of surface but for drying and polishing as well.

The chamois is your best bet for cleaning and polishing windows, glassware, mirrors and marble. Its nonabrasive surface of millions of tiny seeded fibres cannot scratch the delicate finish of your fine furniture.

Use a dry chamois to put a bright shine on all household metalware, on chrome, brass and copper fixtures and utensils.

To keep a chamois at its best, rinse it in clear warm water, squeeze it to proper shape and spread it to dry. Don't dry it over direct heat or under a strong sun.



Surfaces saturated with dried soap require special treatment before any paint will adhere. Sponge the area liberally with dry trisodium phosphate. Scrub free with a broom and warm water. Rinse thoroughly with clean water. Then scrub entire floor.

For a workbench trim a 2x6 to within several inches of the door's width and amount it flat on the inside, 30x36 inches from the floor. The height depends on what you find comfortable. Be sure the 2x8 is narrow enough so the door can close.

Cut ¾-inch plywood to the width of the 2x8 and 28 to 34 inches long, depending on how high you mounted the 2x8 base. Mount the plywood to the base with strong hinges and make or buy a collapsible horse to support the other end of your droplead workbench.

YOUR SIMPLE TOOLS for paper-hanging (most of which you probably have around the house already) are pictured here: bucket for paste, bag of paste, empty can for primer sealer or glue size, yardstick, bowl and sponge for washing down paper, razor blade cutter, string, spoon and chalk for a home-made plumb line to give you a correct vertical, scissors, paste brush and smoothing brush, wall scraper, seam roller for pressing seams.

Lining up strips: here wall-paper is being aligned with the previous strip. Note the extra few inches at molding (safety margin) later to be trimmed off.

Teamwork: do-it-yourselfer is smoothing down the strips of wallpaper, while his helpmate presses the seams down lightly with a seam roller.

These Helpful Tips Make Wallpaper Hanging Simple

Hanging wallpaper is not difficult, and here are a few tips to make it even easier.

1. Be sure to apply a coat of primer-sealer to plasterboard walls before papering. Or you can use cut shellac to which you add an equal part of alcohol. This coating makes it possible to remove the paper in the future without damaging the plaster board. After the primer-sealer or shellac a coat of glue size should be applied.

2. In papering over wall cloth, wash with a solution of either strong soap or ammonia and water in order to cut the gloss finish. Then apply glue size and allow to dry for an hour or two before hanging.

3. In papering over existing wallpaper, be sure that the old wallpaper is tight to the wall. If it is loose in spots, remove the old paper. It is also best to remove old wallpaper where the seams have been lapped since the old seams will show under the new wallpaper.

4. Most wallpapers sold today have had the selvage trimmed off at the factory. If not, the dealer will trim the papers for you at a nominal charge, thus eliminating the need for a cutting table and straightedge. A kitchen table or two card tables, covered with wrapping paper, will work well for matching and pasting strips.

5. Do not worry about getting paste on the pattern side when you buy trimmed wallpaper since it can be washed off after hanging.

DO DISHES ONLY ONCE

Dishwasher manufacturers say washing dishes once a day is a good idea. Place dishes in machine throughout the day and wash entire day's load at one time. This can reduce dish-washing time by four-fifths and clean-up time by 50 percent.

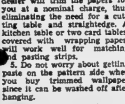
Special Problem

Copper Stains — Remove by washing with a 5-10 percent muriatic acid solution. Neutralize with a strong trisodium phosphate solution. Rinse with clean water and allow to dry. Seal copper stain surfaces with exterior undercoater. Allow to dry 3 or 4 days before recoating. Do not paint over lime bloom or efflorescence. Eliminate cause. Treat surface the same as for copper stains.

Mildew: Remove with a strong tri-sodium phosphate solution. Rinse with clean water, follow with a household sodium hypochlorite bleach rinse of the same concentration as used for cleaning bathrooms or kitchens.

Repair window sills and drip cape so that water cannot run down walls. Check roof flashings, gutters and downspouts so that no water drips or runs on walls. Paint new metal surfaces using an oxidizing primer or metal primer and dry 3 or 4 days before recoating.

Madam, Spray That Dirt Away



Of course, housekeeping isn't just a seasonal affair. It goes on all around the calendar. There is a new aerosol attachment for dishwashing machines that measures and adds a wetting agent to the rinse water, so that your glasses and silver will drain dry and spotless.

There's a new push-button odorless room deodorizer and air sanitizer in spray form that dispels all odors. And there's a new aerosol sealant for marble-topped furniture which prevents stains by penetrating every pore in the marble and invisibly solidifying and expanding as it dries.

Back Yard Geared to Recreation

Mr. and Mrs. America (and their children) are "moving outdoors" these days in ever-increasing numbers in quest of fun and relaxation, which may be as strenuous as a fast-paced set of badminton or as sedentary as a sun-bath on the patio or terrace.

Perhaps it is mounting congestion on the highways. Or possibly it is the very natural desire to spend more time actually enjoying outdoor fun and less time getting back and forth to it. Whatever the cause, more and more families are exploring the possibilities of the back-yard as a haven of outdoor recreation from spring until early fall.

They are finding many practical ways by which to gear their grounds for "vacation fun" that can be enjoyed on weekends and on the long light evenings throughout the week.

It is a comparatively simple and inexpensive job to build a patio or terrace of flagstone, concrete or plastic tile for sunbathing, outdoor eating and informal entertaining. Often the homeowner, if handy, can do most or all of the work himself.

BARBECUE PIT

A barbecue pit, in conjunction with the patio, or by itself, is another project that pays dividends in family enjoyment far beyond its modest cost. This, too, is a job well within the scope of many accomplished do-it-yourselfers.

Privacy for patio, terrace and barbecue pit can be achieved by the judicious planting of trees or shrubbery or by rustic-type high fencing.

The most tempting addition to one's backyard playground is, of course, the swimming pool, which is no longer the special prerogative of the Hollywood star or the millionaire. Whereas in 1950 there were only 3,500 residential pools in the whole country, today there are more than 250,000 of them.

The biggest reason for the pool boom has been improved construction techniques which have made mass production possible and brought this erstwhile luxury within the means of many thousands of home-owners.

A reasonable compromise, at less expense, are the above-ground pools made of vinyl-impregnated nylon, and held rigid by sectional steel mesh walls. These pools come in sizes up to thirty feet in diameter and four feet deep. They are especially suitable for children, and can be dismantled and stored when not in use.

BACKYARD GAMESMANSHIP

Among the games that can be enjoyed in the average own backyard are badminton, paddle tennis, volleyball basketball, deck tennis, archery, horseshoes, quoits, croquet, darts, bowls, shuffleboard and variations of lawn golf.

An ideal backyard games set-up would be an all-purpose hard-surfaced court for such sports as paddle tennis, deck tennis and junior volleyball. If the garage is suitably situated, one wall might serve as a backstop (possibly also for handball) and, if there are growing boys in the family, a basketball hoop and backboard can be affixed at the proper level.

If there is a concrete driveway, it can be brought into the games picture by the simple expedient of painting a shuffleboard court upon it.

Horseshoe (or quoits) has a nostalgic appeal for many of the older folk, and a set of these pitching games can be readily be set up in most backyards.

The golfer can devote an occasional hour at the end of the day to improving his "short game" on his own home grounds via nothing more elaborate than a tomato can sunk in the lawn. This may also serve as the focus for a "clock golf" set up.

Croquet (now enjoying quite a revival) requires nothing more than an expanse of reasonably smooth lawn.

BADMINTON POPULAR

Badminton is a popular sport, and it can be played almost anywhere in the yard. No backstop is required and the playing area need not be large or specially surfaced.

One of the fastest-growing backyard sports is archery, which now numbers some four million Americans among its devotees.

Today's Carpets Are Beautiful And Functional

A home remodelling project, whether for one or more rooms, always leads to the major areas — floor walls and ceiling.

Working from the floor up is a good way to plan remodelling and redecorating. The floor is the largest unbroken area of the room and important in a decorative sense. Floors also have a functional role to play, affecting the structure of the room.

Today's carpets and rugs are designed to fill decorative and

Contour Tray of Fir Plywood Handy Around Home

This easily built little item seems to have as many places to go as it has uses. It looks simple enough for the manual-training early learner in the middle.

The knee desk version might well fill the bill when you have handwork to do beside the radio; wrought jewelery, matching socks from the laundry basket, sorting out garden seeds, or cutting out the unforgettable pictures that junior forgot he had to have for school tomorrow.

The juvenile version is all right as long as those little knees don't pull up in excitement when Hop-along Whoris ropes the bad guys while protecting the ill' ol' school marm.

But the other one — that's a gal fine for positive, permanent or otherwise — but what a delight for a sinfully luxurious breakfast-in-bed on Mothers Day, or birthday, or just any day you can get the family out of your hair long enough.

Add a box of bon bons, a telephone, a good book, a negligee, a chaise lounge . . . ah, mine cream . . . a mirage . . . ah, me!

Meanwhile back in the land of logic . . . what a perfect, solution to the ever-present gift problem for all these friends. You can be almost certain they have not one of these and you couldn't make them expendable if you tried!

All of these little items can be made easily of fir plywood. We haven't any plans for them, but a bit of imagination, plus a visit to your local lumber dealer, should quickly iron out the details.

Fir plywood makes an ideal base on which to glue cork tile or ceramics, for a first class job.

Supports

Like wigs and false teeth, anything used to support the taller flowers, such as stakes, strings or hoops should look natural and be inconspicuous. For that reason the next gardener usually stakes or paints these things brown or green and uses perhaps some greenish or grayish string or raffia in tieing tall plants and vines. And it is also a good idea to tie fairly loosely, so as not to bunch the plants into looking crowded or artificial.

Another plan is to fix brush firmly in among the taller plants while they are still growing and encourages them to grow around and cover the supporting material. This is particularly good way to handle delphiniums and other tall bushy plants.

Practically all big flowers, like cosmos, delphiniums, hollyhocks and climbing things like sweet peas will benefit with some item support. For the tall straight plants and also tomatoes, five or six-foot stakes are hammered firmly in the ground and the plants tied at intervals of about a foot. For pea it is well to use some twine or special twisting material available at any seed store.

PREVENT BULB RUST

To prevent rust-of-door light bulbs from rusting tight in their sockets, apply a thin layer of grease or petroleum jelly over the metal threads before inserting.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

SOCIABLE

Some of us like to live in large cities; others prefer complete privacy. And so it is in Birdland. The majority, especially songbirds, are self-contained dwellings, wanting no interference whatsoever. Robins are particularly undesirable as neighbours. However, a few kinds find the clumsy atmosphere of an apartment house ideal.

Purple martins, for instance, seek out a building with accommodation for anything up to 200 pairs, each with a one-room apartment. Bank and cliff swallows have the same love of living in large communities but in different surroundings. Bank swallows make their homes in steep sand or gravel banks, digging out burrows for themselves. The pattern of little round entrances in a nearly vertical face of the bank is always a mystery to the uninitiated. Their cousins, the cliff swallows, originally placed their nests on cliffs, as the name signifies, but now usually live under the eaves of our buildings, their nests close together.

COMMUNITY LIFE

Water birds are particularly fond of community life. Have you ever visited a heronry? The nests are merely great blue herons, though occasionally snowy herons, themselves, ordinarily live in association with many others of their own kind, building their very big, flat nests of sticks in the tops of tall trees. The old home is greatly prized, and the birds return year after year until civilization forces them to the ground.

Perhaps you have seen some of the small islands off the Atlantic coast in nesting season and been amazed at the closely packed herring gulls. The eggs are placed so near together that the islands look white because they are literally covered by the big, brooding birds. Sometimes herring gulls, in accordance with arctic terns or double-crested cormorants, somewhere quite close on islands in our small inland lakes.

CROWDED QUARTERS

Anyone who has visited Bonaventure Island knows full well how very close are gannets. There is barely room for a bird to alight between the nests that row over the surface as well as the cliffs. How parents distinguish their own children is a puzzle to us.

Cabot and royal terns generally nest in large, densely-packed colonies on sandy islands along the coast and often with members of the two species side by side — a somewhat unusual arrangement in Birdland. But razor-billed auks and murres also live in communities with other seabirds that have a liking for cliffs and rocks that require quite a different land. The surface must be sufficiently soft for them to dig burrows several feet long, all near to one another.

Centenary

FIERCE BIRD

The great horned owl, with a wingspread of five feet, is North America's fiercest bird of prey.

The Carrying Place in 1830

This scene was painted from the centre of the village which at one time was one of the busiest centres in Upper Canada. Looking south-westward we see a winding road which was first surveyed by John Bisby to run from Kingston to the Lake of the Woods and over The Carrying Place. By 1801 "Yankee" Dan Danforth had completed it as a military road from Kingston through and in 1830, Asa Weller's son William advertised in The Christian Guardian of June 12th of five new carriages with four horses, and carefully driven, with horses and drivers changed every 15 miles. They were running three times to Prescott, twice a week; their "turn-about" at The Carrying Place. Thus it happened that all who passed through the country, whether by land or water, were familiar with The Carrying Place on the Bay of Quinte and Yonge Road.

This road is the dividing line between Prince Edward and Northumberland counties, between Ameliasburg and Murray townships.

On our right we see an elevated sign of the tavern kept by Benjamin Young, the seventh son of Capt. Robert Young, on the hill on lot 10 on The Carrying Place. It was in this tavern that the first Masonic lodge in the part of the country was organized and working as early as 1818. It was named United Lodge and is now situated in Brighton Ontario. Farther along the same side of the road we see the spire and cross of the first St. John's Church, whose priest and first missionary, Irish born and Scotch Presbyterian educated John Carey was sent out by the Church of England in 1824 to the Quinte area, pausing long enough at Quebec on his way out to be ordained in the Anglican cathedral there.

Still on the Murray side we see a second elevated sign and near it a large high two wheeled machine for lifting out stumps and stones. Ed. note; not visible in the printed reproduction). In the left foreground you can see one of the stumps with the grub still attached. Just to the right of Young's tavern and this side of the first house on the Ameliasburg side of the trail or portage Highway No. 14 cuts across today, leaving the old Danforth road and going on to Trenton along part of Quinte's shore.

Garden Notes

Members of the Daisy Family

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Many of the so called daisies are not of that family but do have the same flower formation. This type of flower is a general favorite in the garden as a cut flower. This year try some of the lesser known daisies:

Swan River daisy, Brachycombe, is a good edging annual. 9" inches high, bright blue flowers and compact plants.

The annual Chrysanthemums are seldom seen here but in England and Scotland they are valued as bedding plants and as cutting material. The foliage is fern-like and the flowers are yellow disks mantled with rings of white or mahogany. Height one and a half feet. There is a double white annual Chrysanthemum called Inderum Snowball. The flowers and foliage make this an especially fine annual.

HAVE LOVELY SHADES

African Orange Daisy, also called Cape Primrose, Dimorphotheca, grows to 15 inches. The new hybrids have lovely shades of gold, orange and salmon.

Glorious Daisy, Rudbeckia, is 24 to 30 inches tall. The new kelraplokis have blooms up to seven inches across. Honey coloured with blooms from light yellow to deep mahogany and bronze shades.

The annual form of Gallardia has the same yellow, orange and deep red colorings as the perennial. Sow the seed where they are to bloom. Full dislikes transplanting.

The Tahoka Daisy will bloom from June to frost. It has lilac blue flowers with bright gold centres. Height 12 inches. The foliage is fern-like, height 20 inches. Plants are compact.

Venidium, Monarch of the Veldt has brilliant orange flowers with soft grey-green woolly foliage. This is a very handsome plant with four inch blooms.

MINIMUM OF CARE

All of these are hardy annuals which will grow with a minimum of care in average garden soil. They need full sun and not too rich soil.

Gerberia, Transvaal Daisy is a half-hardy perennial. Developed for the florist trade because of its excellent keeping qualities it is fast becoming a favorite in the garden. The new double types are still scarce and seldom offered by seed men in their seed list.

Plant the seeds in soil mixed with sand and leaf mold or granulated peat. Cover with one quarter inch of soil and add one inch of sawdust or granulated peat. Soak the bed thoroughly. The seeds will germinate in 10 to 14 days. Keep the roots moist and the crown dry.

When cutting this daisy leave three inches of stem on the plant or growth will be stopped. Divide roots every three years to maintain vigor. In severe climate cover lightly with a loose mulch after the soil has frozen over in the late fall.

RUSSIA LEADS RACE

GENEVA (AP)—Severe labor shortages have slowed the Soviet Union's economic growth rate but Russia still is outpacing the United States and Western Europe. The annual survey of the UN Economics Commission for Europe said the current Soviet seven-year plan (1959-65) projects a yearly expansion rate of 7.7-7.4 per cent for the period. Western Europe is 4.2 per cent, the U.S. 2.2 per cent.

Pepperell U.S. Air Force Base Closing on Aug. 1st Will Affect Economy of Area

By JOE DUFUS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—This city will awaken one morning a few months from now with a $12,-000,000 hangover. A massive dose of economic headache tablets will be required to effect a cure.

The morning-after will follow the closing on Aug. 1 of the Pepperell U.S. Air Force base a hilt mile from St. John's.

It will mean the loss of the stimulating effect of an estimated $12,000,000 a year the base and its personnel have poured into the Newfoundland economy since it was established in 1941.

Hardest hit will be Pepperell's 1,200 civilian employees who took $1,299,814 in wages from the base during 1959.

TRANSFERS FOR SOME

Some will get a chance to transfer to other U.S. bases in Newfoundland—the naval air station at Argentia or Placentia Bay Marines southwest of St. John's and the air force's Ernest Harmon Field near Stephenville on the island's west coast.

There also has been some concern for the future of older employees but they should be helped by a recent decision to make them eligible for benefits under the Civil Service retirement act even though they have made no contributions to the fund.

The closing will be a blow to storekeepers and property owners who derided nearly $2,000,000 spent by Americans last year.

Newfoundland, however, has had a long history of ups and downs—mostly downs—and probably better able than ever before to withstand the economic effects of the shutdown.

Establishment of the base—it first belonged to the island's economy. Since then Newfoundland has become a province of Canada with the added stimulation of social security and public works spending.

NOT FATAL

General reaction among workers and observers officials alike was perhaps best expressed by a spokesman for Bowering's, St. John's largest department store, who said "this will be hurt by a blow but we're not going to lie down and die because of it."

Mayor W. J. Keough of St. John's regrets the removal of the base from social as well as economic reasons.

"The manner in which personnel from the base have conducted the Gls, have taken part in local events will be greatly missed."

And Newfoundland girls may miss the Americans for reasons of their own. Last year there were two marriages a week on the average between U.S. personnel and local girls.

BRIGHT SIDE

Premier Smallwood thinks "some good may come from the shutdown. He has been making approaches to authorities about disposal of the base facilities and St. John's may obtain the modern Pepperell hospital as well as a fine school when the Americans leave.

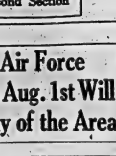
Several industries have put out feelers for sites at the base.

The Newfoundland Federation of Labor has suggested the Pepperell closing will give the city a chance to clear its slums, providing temporary housing for families displaced by demolished homes.

As for the economic loss, a businessman pointed to the annual three-week layoff in the city's population as likely to take up the slack.

OTHER BASES

Brig-Gen. Frederick Terrel, commanding officer of Pepperell, says that when it is gone, U.S. bases will still pour $27,000,-000 a year into the provincial economy.



But there is no guarantee the other bases, obtained from Britain in 1940 under 99-year leases, will remain indefinitely.

The U.S. Air Force, shifting its air defence emphasis to missiles, has announced it will withdraw its jet interceptors squadron from Harmon Field. This would leave U.S. tankers for refuelling jet bombers in flight stationed at Harmon and at Goose Bay, Labrador. Argentia remains the home base for American radar picket planes operating in the Atlantic.

ADVANCE FOR APRIL 15 PM's

SET HEARING DATE

OTTAWA (CP)—The National Energy Board has set May 4 for hearing Niagara Gas Transmission company's re-application to export natural gas to New York state. An examiner for the U.S. Federal Power Commission has recommended that St. Lawrence gas northern New York distribution rights.

U.S. AIR BASES

The United States will close down most of its three military air bases in Newfoundland August 1. Affected in the shift in air defence emphasis to missiles will be the Fort Pepperell Air Force Base, a hair north from St. John's. Map also locates other top U.S. bases—the air force's Ernest Harmon Field near Stephenville on the west coast and the Argentia Naval Air Station on Placentia Bay along the south coast. (CP-Newsmap.)

Film Expert, Ross McLean, Named to Post

OTTAWA (CP) — Film expert Ross McLean has been named to the new post of program research director for the Board of Broadcast Governors.

His title means he will be the No. 1 watchdog over the standard, taste and content of Canadian radio and television programs. He will tip the governors whenever these programs get out of line with the Broadcasting Act or the BBG regulations.

In addition, he is expected to set up the checks needed by the board to enforce its Canadian content requirements, which come into force April 1, 1961.

Mr. McLean, 55, is a former head of the National Film Board for the last 9 years directed UNESCO's film and visual information division. He has been a communications consultant in Ottawa for the last three years.

He is no relation to the other Ross McLean—the CBC producer of such television programs as Close-Up and Tabloid.

The BBG job will involve scanning hundreds of logs—their detailed account of daily programming—as well as monitoring programs where necessary.

Police Tortured, 56 Arrested In Masan

SEOUL, South Korea (Reuters) — Police have tortured 56 persons arrested in the southern city of Masan following anti-government demonstrations in the April 19 uprising.

Vice-Justice Minister Shin Un Ho told parliament that seven persons were killed by police in demonstrations held on March 15, presidential election day. Police fired 558 rounds into crowds and 6,350 persons were arrested, he reported.

Masan has been shaken by sporadic anti-government riots since election day, when President Syngman Rhee was returned unopposed. The opposition Democratic party has formally charged that Rhee's election was rigged.

Shin explained that the Masan demonstrations were "instigated by Communist propaganda" and demanded that "due punishment should be meted out."

Wedding Will be Broadcast On Television

OTTAWA (CP)—The wedding of Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones will be televised by the CBC's English and French radio and television networks.

The CBC has announced the ceremony will be carried live on the English and French radio networks by a direct link from Britain. It's expected radio coverage will begin between 5 and 6 a.m. EDT May 6.

Plans are being made to provide television coverage by the fastest possible means the same day.

FLOODED FARMSTEAD — The Assiniboine River, swollen with rain water and backed up behind a massive ice jam, overflowed its banks and spilled into low-lying farm lands in the south central part of Manitoba. Shown is an inundated farm near Portage la Prairie. In the background Winnipeg area the Red and Seine Rivers are also rising. Flood expected to be the worst in decades. The situation is far from dangerous in Winnipeg. (CP Wirephoto).

Shipping Season Started at Two U.S. Lake Ports

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The 1960 shipping season has started for at least two United States Great Lakes ports.

The Henry H. Rogers opened the Cleveland iron ore shipping season Friday. Last season the first arrival in Cleveland harbor was April 24.

Buffalo's shipping season officially opened Thursday when the freighter James Watt, a Nicholson Transit Company laker, moved through slush ice into the harbor, beating the start of the 1959 season by five days. The Watt will load pig iron for Detroit.

The oil tanker Imperial Cornwall became the first cargo vessel to arrive in Owen Sound when it moved into that Georgian Bay port Friday. Capt. A. G. Knight was presented with the traditional silk hat.

The 730 foot freighter Murray Bay arrived at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., from the Lakehead Friday for her maiden run with 600,000 bushels of grain. The Canada Steamship Lines vessel was ordered in the Soo harbor waiting for ice conditions to improve in the lower St. Marys River.

More than 50 vessels, 28 of them downbound with cargo, were reported in the Soo area Friday.

Moslem Unlocks Sepulchre Door To Open Way

JERUSALEM (AP) — A Moslem unlocked the door of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre today to open the way for pilgrimages of many cultures and faiths to celebrate the resurrection of Christ.

Since the time of Saladin, the key to the church has been in Moslem hands to avoid friction among Christian communities who have traditional rights here.

Shortly after the door was unlocked, bearded Latin Patriarch Alberto Gori, whose predecessors crowned the crusader kings of Jerusalem, led a procession to the church.

Beside the stone of unction, where Christ's body was anointed for burial, the patriarch lighted the first fire symbolic of the Resurrection.

RESURRECTION SERVICE

Greek Orthodox and Syrian rites of the Resurrection services to be held in Jerusalem this weekend. Sunday Protestants will hold an Easter sunrise service beside the garden tomb—the empty tomb hewn out of rock—much like the one in which Jesus was buried.

Tonight, Ethiopians on the roof of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre will conduct the "search for the body of Christ." Ethiopian monks will gather in full vestments, carrying red umbrellas, leather drums and banners, and symbolically mourn the lost body of Christ.

When the Scripture reads: "He is not here, for He is risen," they will break into rejoicing.

Inside the church thousands of oriental Christians crowded around the holy sepulchre this morning for the service of the holy fire.

MILLIE PEAKINS WED

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—One-time child actor Dean Stockwell and Millie Perkins, star of The Diary of Anne Frank, were married Friday. Stockwell is 24; Miss Perkins, 23. It was the first marriage for each.

Red River Flood Situation At Winnipeg Closely Watched

WINNIPEG (CP) — City and Manitoba government officials are concerned with controlling possible Red River flooding as scheduled meetings here today as the Red continued to creep up to spring crest.

At midnight, the river was 21.4 feet above the average winter low level—a rise of more than a foot in 24 hours. The Manitoba flood forecasting committee says it likely will crest here at 23 feet Monday.

The crest moved through northern North Dakota Friday and today expects to reach Emerson, Man., 60 miles south of here on the International boundary. Provincial officials said the level is expected to be safely below the top of dikes at Emerson.

Most of Winnipeg is protected by a system of dikes ranging in height from 26.5 to 30.5 feet above average ice level. The lower dikes can be quickly built up to 30.5 feet. City engineer W. D. Hurst said this will be done if the river rises to 21 feet. 200 HOMES MAY SUFFER

About 200 homes outside the main dike system will be affected, at least by basement flooding, if the 23-foot level is reached.

Mayor Stephen Juba, after making an aerial survey of the Red River south of Winnipeg and of the swollen Assiniboine River, which flows eastward through southern Manitoba to join the Red at Winnipeg, said the situation was more serious than he had earlier realized.

He called a special meeting of city council today to discuss flood control action.

Canada Not Doing Very Much For Refugees Says Official

FROBISHER B.A.Y., N.W.T. (CP)—Canada, with more than five times the population, is doing about 1-13th as much as Norway toward helping refugees the World Refugee Year.

Peter Gutteridge, Geneva, representing the United Nations high commissioner for refugees, made the statement Thursday after his visit here as part of a crossCanada tour.

World Refugee Year ends June 30 and Mr. Casson said: "I think that Canadians should decide to declare themselves quite openly as to whether they care a damn or whether they don't about their fellow human beings in the world."

Canadians in general would do more if they had to suffer as much as "people who are living in an in-between world" are suffering.

Canada, with a population of 18,000,000, was doing about 1-13th of what Norway, with 3,500,000 people, has done this year.

ESKIMO SHOWS WAY

Mr. Casson said he was sick and begging from Canada and held up the generosity of Eskimos at Frobisher Bay, who contributed about 200 miles south of Frobisher Bay, as an example for other Canadians.

The Eskimos crammed the Auxiliary Theatre here, parading their crafts to be auctioned off for Canada in aid of refugees. Mr. Casson is assistant the Canadian Committee for World Refugee Year.

"People are in need of food, shelter, warmth," said Gutteridge, "and the Eskimo spokesman, who has the past we have lived this way for centuries, he wants to help."

Etuk presented a solid ivory walrus tusk, musluk gave a carving, a four-figure miniature of a family group.

Davidee, who made his way to the stage on crutches, presented a 2½-inch soapstone carving of a hunter—expected to bring up to $5,000.

THROWS MILK BOTTLE

LONDON (Reuters)—A woman threw an empty milk bottle through a window of No. 10 Downing Street, official residence of British's prime ministers, Friday night. She later told police she had a grievance against the Government. Prime Minister Macmillan was not at home.

Canadian Jewel Thief Denied Parole by Board

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state's birthday present Friday was international Jewel thief Garard Dennis was denied of parole from Auburn state prison.

The state parole board decided that the Canadian-born "Raffles" thief still has a good parole risk, chairman Russell G. Oswald reported.

Dennis, a native of St. Catharines, Ont., who turned 40 Friday, has served nearly 10 years of his original term of 18 years to life for stealing more than $500,000 worth of valuables from the social set. Through his prison reading of law, he would be due a reduction in the sentence and become eligible for a parole hearing, held Thursday.

Dennis will be held for reconsideration of his case in three years but cannot be paroled immediately at the end of three years, under terms of the board's decision. The board said existing three years from now "will be alerted that it is a sensitive case to be evaluated carefully." Oswald said.

Car Production Down Slightly From Last Week

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian motor-vehicle production in April was estimated at 52,823 vehicles compared with 9,959 last week, with the decrease reflecting Good Friday's stoppage of production.

The figures — from the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce — show production of 7,041 cars compared with 2,181 and 1,483 trucks compared with 1,808.

Production to date this year is estimated at 144,907 vehicles compared with 139,196 made up of 118,446 cars compared with 111,283 and 26,531 trucks compared with 27,913.

Police Seeking 'Woman in Grey' In Kidnap Case

PARIS (Reuters) — Police today sought a mysterious "woman in grey" in the Eric Peugeot kidnap case.

Garage attendant Georges Ballet said he saw a woman in grey overcoat leave a child on the sidewalk early Friday near the spot where 7-year-old Eric was found following his release by his kidnappers.

Police hoped Ballet's tip would prove to be the big break in the case. They are combing the biggest manhunt in French history.

Detectives have little to go on in the hunt for the kidnappers who grabbed Eric from a playground here Tuesday and freed him, cryinj but unharmed, after the wealthy father had paid an undisclosed ransom.

SEEK TWO MEN

At least two men are sought—a slim one in a green plaid overcoat who carried Eric from the playground, and the driver of the getaway car, a black Peugeot sedan, found by the side of a road owned by the boy's family.

Eric's father, Jean Pierre Peugeot Crown Trust setup Mr. and Mrs. sedan, and the kidnappers Thursday in used bills—not all could as some had speculated — and that the agreed ransom was less than that originally demanded.

Published reports were that kidnappers' asking price for Eric's safe return was $100,000 in French francs.

Publisher Held At Gunpoint, Shots Fired

LEWISTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A publisher was injured in ragged powder fire Friday and held at gunpoint in an attempt to get a religious article printed in paper.

C. V. Rowland, 58, publisher of the Lewistown Sentinel, was held for 45 minutes after a gunman broke into the room, overpowered the worker and took him to jail.

Rowland quoted Charles Lynch, 22, a brick plant worker, as saying:

"I want this printed on the front page of tonight's paper or my picture. You just tell me you won't publish this and I'll shoot you."

Employees of the paper said Lynch had been there several times before in attempts to get articles printed but had made no progress on the previous visits.

Rowland said Lynch made the first page of tonight's paper with a target pistol and fired a shot.

In an effort to get the article, the publisher told editor J. Martin Stroup to set the article in type.

But after Stroup left the office, Rowland said Lynch locked the door with a chair, sat down and declared he was going to hold the publication until the paper was published.

Selling Uranium to Soviet 'Last Thing We Would Do' Says Canada Trade Minister

MOSCOW (AP) — Canada's Trade Minister Churchill said today that his country has exported of uranium to sell for peaceful purposes but that selling uranium to the Soviet Union "is the last thing we would do."

He said there was a "misunderstanding" about a statement he made on his arrival here two days ago that Canada "would sell uranium to the Russians if they want it." The statement was made to this reporter and two other American newsmen shortly after a brief discussion about changes in United States buying practices for uranium from Blind River, Ont.

Churchill remarked that he had been in Blind River just two weeks before he left here—on 48 hours' notice—to sign a renewed Soviet - Canadian trade agreement.

This signing since has been delayed until May because of a delay in the arrival here of Russia's foreign trade minister, N. S. Patolichev, from negotiations in Peking.

Officials of the new Russian-Canadian pact have been withheld this date.

This reporter asked Churchill on Thursday whether in pursuing expanded trade Canada might sell its Blind River uranium. Churchill's answer regarding that key country has been followed by assistant deputy trade minister, added: "We are for trade."

Today Churchill said: "There was a misunderstanding. I am not here to sell any satellite item, and selling uranium to the Russians would be the last thing we would do."

It reminded of his Thursday statement and the context in which he made it, Churchill said: "Well, it was as made in a joking way. Of course we have plenty of uranium to sell for peaceful purposes, but its sale would be contingent on agreements with the International Atomic Energy Agency and our own atomic power board."

United States sources in Washington reported, meanwhile, Friday about Churchill's reported Thursday statement. One official said that if Canada sold uranium to Russia, even though there is a surplus in Canada, there would be concern in the U.S.

Democrat Sen. Chet Holifield (Dem., - Calif.), senior congressional member on joint congressional atomic energy committee, said he is confident Canada will not sell uranium directly to Russia.

Witness Says Indian Council Discontinued Negotiations With Hydro in Land Deal

TORONTO (CP) — Spokesmen for both the Six Nations Indians and the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission delved into details Tuesday in testimony before a royal commission investigating charges surrounding another Indian land at Sarnia from Dimension Investments.

He said that Premier Leslie LeRoy said the Chippewa Indian council discontinued direct negotiations with Hydro over the matter in the formal meeting in a Sarnia realtor's office with representatives of the Crown Trust Company of Toronto, Crown Trust acting for Mr. and Mrs. Dimension Investments the successful purchaser.

He said that meeting dissolved Crown Trust purchasing a large portion of the 3,450-acre Indian Reserve and Hydro buying from a company representative indicated that Crown would pay as much as $1,000,000 down.

Mr. LeRoy said there were two meetings, May 22 and Nov. 26, at the office of Donald White.

Mr. LeRoy gave details on what he knew of the meetings in testimony during the second day of the royal commission hearings before Mr. Justice G. A. McGillivray of the Ontario Appeal Court.

MADE PROTEST

He said that during the second meeting he protested that the council should continue to allow Hydro negotiations over the Indian reserve to negotiate with Hydro for purchase of the land it required.

However, his motion was rejected by the council and council revoked its permission for Hydro to negotiate with the Indian bodies for the landowners.

Mr. LeRoy said it was at the second meeting that he learned Crown Trust mentioned as a possible purchaser for the land.

"I am right in saying that Hydro knew nothing of the meeting," Mr. Arnup asked counsel for Hydro.

Mr. LeRoy answered Mr. LeRoy.

POSITION MADE CLEAR

"What Crown Trust wanted to buy included the land Hydro was interested in" suggested Mr. Arnup. "And am I right in saying that either Mr. Clark or Mr. White or both made it clear that if the Indians continued to deal with Hydro, Crown Trust would not deal with them."

Mr. LeRoy: "Yes."

The hearings continue next week before Commissioner Mr. Justice McGillivray said members of the Indian Council will be called to testify as well as officials of Dimensional Investments.

Danger Mounts As Your Car Lights Dim

There are several steps the average car owner might take as far as prevention or cure is concerned. From S. P.: "With a lighted cigaret in my lips, I was checking the radiator level when a passing truck driver shouted "keep that cigaret away." I'm still wondering what he meant. I wasn't near the carburetor and the engine was off."

(A) Some anti-freeze fumes are flammable. He may have been warning you about it.

T. N. asks: "What's the story about cold water washing reducing the body finish when the weather is hot?"

WELLINGTON

W.C.S. Holds Enjoyable Parents' Night

WELLINGTON — Parent's night this year was again a most successful evening. The attendance of parents and friends — on Friday evening, April 8th, showed keen interest in the work of the school and progress of the children. This again proves that parents, teachers, pupils and the Board have a united interest in the progress of the children and the school which they attend. Teachers and pupils are to be congratulated on the excellence of their displays and activities.

All rooms had exhibits of art, science, social studies, health, geography, mathematics and writing. The sewing and wood work of grades 7, 8 and 9 were exceptionally well done. All displays were a fine example of the interest the boys and girls take in their work, and the thoroughness of their teaching.

At intervals the bell sounded, drawing the attention of the guests. At the first bell at 7.45 grade five gathered on the east stairs and under the direction of Mrs. Jack McNeill, the music teacher, they sang very nicely "Come Ye Maidens"; "Diodors the Donkey"; "Lullaby"; and "Good Night to You All". Grade 6 who had gathered on the west stairs sang "Love Was Once a Lassa", "In the Plaza", and "All Thru the Night".

At 8.15 the bell again sounded and the girls of the senior grades, put on a splendid display of folk dancing in the auditorium, under the supervision and music teacher, Miss Goodfriend. After the dancing the senior boys gave a fine exhibition on the Parallel Tumbling. Mr. Fawcett was in charge of this.

At 8.45, grade 7 gathered on the stairs and sang, "America the Beautiful"; "Cowboys Invitations" and "Serenade Medley".

Grade 8, were opposite the stairway rendered "Sing, Canadians, Sing"; "Green Grow the Lilacs"; "Church in the Wildwood".

To finish off the evening, coffee and cookies were served in the domestic science room by the wives of the school board members.

Mrs. E. McMaster convened, and gave an Easter service, assisted by readings by Mrs. Harold Pruyn, Mrs. Alex Macallum, and a solo by Mrs. Hubble. Mrs. Hubble took exceptionally well by Miss Cora Valentine.

Mrs. E. McMaster and Mrs. Hazel Vansickelin gave a two-piece instrumental.

Books were exchanged by the literature secretary, Mrs. G. R. Putnam, and the Easter offering taken.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hubble were Sunday guests of his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. D. Ferguson.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Scott, accompanied by Mrs. Ira Smith, spent Sunday with their son, Mr. Lloyd Scott, who is staff sergeant with the Eastern Ontario division, Timothy Moran, said many of them would be absorbed into other army jobs and into civil service jobs such as the department of veteran's affairs and the post office.

MODERN LOADER — Modern logging equipment, such as this "cherry picker" which loads logs, are at work throughout British Columbia, where forest industry is the mainstay of the economy. Controversy is currently raging over the method of timber-farm licensing, inaugurated 12 years ago under which lumber companies have the right, subject to review every 21 years, to cut timber on Small Independent logging operators object to the system, claiming it gives the large operator unfair advantage. A thorough investigation of forest tenure and the farm license system has been recommended by a royal commission. (CP Photo).

Judge Expresses Confidence Future Generations Will Reap Perpetual Benefits

By NAT COLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER, (CP) — In time to come the earth will be stacked deep in oil and filth, if all of this universally managed and protected forest, forever remaining themselves, are immortal.

In these words the late Gordon Sloan, a former chief justice of British Columbia, expressed his confidence that future generations will reap perpetual benefits from proven methods of managing the province's greatest natural resource—her forests.

But a year after the death of the veteran government adviser on forestry matters, forest management remains a controversial question in the lumber industry.

It centres on the farm licence system inaugurated 12 years ago under which lumber companies are given the right, subject to review every 21 years, to cut timber on Crown land. They must manage the forests on a perpetual sustyield basis at their own expense and pay the government for the trees they cut.

INDEPENDENT LOGGERS

Chief antagonists of the system are more than 1,000 small, independent logging operators who claim it will eventually put them out of business. The system is staunchly defended by the provincial government.

The 25 existing tree farm licences have mostly been leased to large companies. Two companies hold two licences each and one—Raymond Canada Ltd.—has three.

The independent loggers are unable to operate these private tree farms because of the cost of the initial fire road of sustained-yield planning. They get their log supplies from 64 quick working areas and sustained-yield units managed by the B.C. Forest Service by bidding in timber auctions.

They claim that the tree farm licensees—at present allowed to cut only public timber sale—are given an unfair advantage. They stands while the small man grapples with the crane.

FEAR MORE LICENCES

They fear that if more tree farm licences are granted in the Fifth Crown Forest District, where 620 of the independent loggers operate, there will not be enough good timber left for them to carry on operations.

Millionaire Vancouver Gordon Gibson, former Liberal member of the Legislature and critic of the system's most outspoken opponent, says the licensees should be prepared to "take some of the slim milk along with the cream."

The holders of forest management licences must make room for others, he will be forced to join labor," he told fellow members of the B.C. Truck Loggers Association.

Despite a provision of tree farm licences, in effect since 1953, that under certain conditions licensees must contract with independent loggers to cut up to 50 per cent of their timber, the Council heard has continued to attack the system.

One of the longest and most involved licence disputes concerned an area at Squamish, 20 miles north of here, where the Crown held its last big belt of standing timber close to coastal markets and manufacturing centres.

The licence grant to Empire Mills Ltd. was appealed by independent loggers and a royal commission was set up under Mr. Sloan in 1956 to determine the best form of management for the area. County Court Judge C. W. Merrow of Prince George continued the investigation after Mr. Sloan's death.

MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd., the B.C. forest giant that recently merged with the big Powell River Company, opposed the licence on the grounds that it would take away timber needed by small operators who supply the pulp mill market.

But the fact it has two tree farm licences of its own, MacMillan and Bloedel is expected to get this market for nearly half a million. Hundreds of small and medium-sized sawmill operators in Vancouver area need some other source of supply.

The government has refused to grant the appeal against the licence, but the government in 1957 immediately appointed Judge Morrow to look into another area grievance of the independent operators started.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sandercock, Geor ard and Lee, were callers of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Millar, Bayside, on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. who said licence holders had an unfair advantage over the farmers in the matter of low timber in public working circles.

Mr. Justice Gordon Sloan, 13, Judge Morrow decided that tree farm operators haven't an unfair advantage, and that the time, they have an advantage, in the evidence left him in doubt. The judge recommended the appointment of a "entire problem of forest tenure" and particularly the tree farm licence system.

It was just such an investigation that Chief Justice Sloan originally recommended the life of the system, conducted from 1953 to 1957.

Which seems to put the government's look into another area back where it started.

Phillips Thinks Arrest Result Of Society Probe

TORONTO (CP)—Norman Phillips, Canadian newspaper man jailed for three days in Durban after he was expelled from South Africa, says in a dispatch from London there are three possible reasons for his arrest without warrant or charge:

"It was a warning to all foreign correspondents and a threat to their sources of information;

"It was a vindictive action revealing the jittery state of the white supremacy government;

"It was because of the investigation I had commenced into a sinister society called the Broederbond that represents the elite essence of racialism."

Phillips, foreign editor of the Toronto Star, arrived in London today by plane from Johannesburg via Brussels. He was arrested Saturday when South African authorities alleged a report he intended to send the Star about racial disturbances in Capetown had been printed and inaccurate.

A KU KLUX KLAN

"The Broederbond is a sort of South African Ku Klux Klan," he cabled his paper from London.

"When I was questioned by Capt. Van der Westhuizen of the Broederbond branch, he was particularly anxious to know my sources of information about the Broederbond.

Phillips said he will assess the importance of the Broederbond in a subsequent article.

Phillips said that he was confined to an ill-ventilated jail cell for three days and three nights—locked in for 23 of the 24 hours, sleeping on a concrete floor.

PUBLISHES JAIL STORY

In London the dispatch from London. The Star published the Durban story that sent Phillips to jail. It says the first page of the story was confiscated by South African police and reconstructed from memory.

The Durban story was a report on police action against incidents of the Capetown native suburb of Langa. The third page was torn out by a telephone call to "The Star's Capetown correspondent — not mentioned by name" "in torture, sheer torture. They are living proof to the entire world we're beating them."

The Durban article also said:

"Nyanga has demonstrated to the world the real meaning of apartheid. Nyanga is the place the police belly-boys has been exposed. There was a short lull in control on Monday when the police went on rampage on the downtown streets and pooped in retaliation. Law abiding citizens, foreign correspondents and members of diplomatic missions.

"STRIPPED PRETENCE'

"Nyanga is the Durban pretence from (Prime Minister) Verwoerd's claim to 'a Christian with a conscience'.

"I watched him sit bland and unperturbed by the pandemonium he thumbs while his police were deliberately flailing unresisting Africans.

"Nyanga was the lie detector test for Verwoerd's Justice Minister Erasmus boldly telling Parliament that police were forbidden to use whips—the sjambok they wielded on Capetown's streets and which I have seen ready for use on the back of a police station door."

"What's your new boss like?"

Phillips' London cable said he shared a cell in Durban jail with two other political prisoners: Dr. Michael Harbom, brilliant 28-year-old medical researcher, and Errol Shanley, a clerical worker previously found in a room at a South Africa's three-year treason trials.

He said on his first day he was "shocked to see that fully half the African prisoners bore the marks of lashes on their buttocks."

"The percentage was less on second day, but the number of lashes ordered by the courts is prodigious."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Tee Blake, Maurice Richard, Art Peever and the Canadiens won the Stanley Cup Thursday night. And if you watched and heard the post-game parade you had no trouble learning who lost it. The Canadiens "punch" of scoring early goals and making the Leafs come to them, paid off in all four games. The Leafs made a gallant effort, egged on by the Imlach-Clancy predictions, but they failed to crash the mighty Montreal defence bastions, and bail the deadly forays of Misters Bellveau and his goal-squeezing frens. Despite the no-breaks, many mistakes alibis of the Leafs, there is one fact that stands out. The better team won by a large margin, and as far as we are concerned the mission is completed. Pever, by the way, asks all Maple Leaf supporters concerned, to return his towels, except "that stopped by Pat O'Meara. Seems Pat had his mouth open cheering the Leafs on one of their rare occasions, when Peever tossed a towel strike. It is believed the Irish swallowed the missile. However Peever will get a reasonable facsimile. Pat says he'll need all he can get this fall when the Dodgers fail to cop the National bunting.

SIGNS OF SPRING

Ginger, the family Persian, who wakes three times daily for his Doc Bellarde, wants out an hour earlier in the evening. Does his nightly back-fence patrol and keeps a fellow optic alerted for the arrival of Sam, the red-breasted harbinger who is three days overdue. His pal Jake, a refugee from a Capistrano gang, has been here for the past two days . . .

Old Mother Moira still keeps rollin' along and pays no attention to the bankside private eyes on the lookout for small, and what could pike or pickerel for an overgrown version of the silver silvers.

They will be running soon, but do not look for any multitudinous invasion. Reports my fiery won't be as plentiful as other years . . . Word from the valleys and back ranges up the Salmon and Napanee Rivers, in fact we have been informed, the advance patrols have already been spotted. The Royal Ancient and Honorable Order of Occupancy or Spearmen is standing by, weapons at the alert . . . So is the Royal and Honorable Battalion of Conservation Officers, handcuffs at the ready . . .

Softball is burgeoning in the breasts of the faithful and the fanatics. Horses will go to the glue pots on May 1. Five squads are champing at the bits, and there isn't much doubt the Cobourg Merchants will be at the barrier when the "They're Off" sounds. It seems the Merchants have a new pasture to kick their heels up in this summer and besides, they never had it so good as last year. The faithful in the lakeshore town, never long on much fun are now mixing rhubarb mixed up with topflight softball as they experienced last summer. The B. and D. League provided the best attractions in some years—and didn't the Merchants finish up with some $1,500 in the black? And you think they won't be back? Huh.

Bobcats boss tabby Bob Temple is back from the Eur-Skeet junket, and was so busy shaking hands with right-handed mayors he neglected to shake left-handed advisers. Bobby Hull will be back this summer doing some farming and fishing on and around his Big Island rancho. Said on TV the other night he had "several offers to play ball down home." What cooks, Bobby?

What softball in this city needs, and needs badly, is a lighted playing field. See where every other entry in the district loop has the kliegs. The arcs would make for much better crowds, as a great many of the local softball Joes, and 6.30 games come pretty early for the guys who toil to five o'clock or later. Time the misses gets dinner, and the other half gets cleaned up for the start of the ball game, it is generally well under way. Lights here would be welcomed by other clubs in the league since they have no rush and hustle to get here for the start of a 6.30 game. It would eliminate late-starting games, the bugbear of any league.

Coach Gordie Bell of the McFarlands hockey club is home from his junket to the coast via the prairies. He hasn't submitted his report to the executive as yet, but Mr. H. J. McFarland has been out of town since Gordie returned. It will likely be press-released next Tuesday or Wednesday. Gordie says . . . "Our players were a great bunch of Roupn-Norands on the off and on the ice behavior of the Chatham Maroons while they were playing in the northern hockey centre . . . Their conduct was commendable in pretty crude, especially an incident of Pletsch allegedly attacking Father Costello, a Noranda priest-player with his fists . . . And Noranda could have commented about the lack of hospitality shown by the Maroon management during the northern team's stay in Chatham. Seems the Alouettes warmed Under Seels for three days in a hotel with nary a Maroon official or player coming near them.

The question has been asked several times, why did Rocket Richard pick up and keep the puck with which he scored his goal on Tuesday night. It was his 82nd playoff goal and his first of the season. Dad was inclined to see anything significant in the "82nd" goal, or did the Rocket have other ideas? Could it be that he has made up his mind to retire, and that puck would symbolize his final goal of the game he loves so well? Time will tell.

Montreal Hosts Stanley Cup For Another Season

Hab-Tabbed for Fifth Year As Canadiens Blank Leafs For Fourth Straight Win

By BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, (CP)—The Stanley Cup glistened in a familiar setting today as the rest of the hockey world wondered what to do about the supermen who call themselves the Montreal Canadiens.

Short of putting them in a league by themselves, there doesn't seem that much can be done to dethrone the dynamic kings of the National Hockey League, Cup champions for an unprecedented fifth straight year.

Any lingering doubts about Canadians' mastery were dispelled Thursday night when they blanked Toronto Maple Leafs 4-0 to complete an eight-game press of the 1960 Cup playoffs. The Montreal stars were brilliant in every department.

SECOND SWEEP

It marked the second time in the NHL's 43-year history that a club has swept through the semi-final and final sets without defeat. Detroit Red Wings did it against Canadiens in 1952.

Leafs, who lost the finals to Canadiens in five games last year, hadn't a chance Thursday night against the powerful Montreal attack and the champions outstanding defence.

Before the game Coach Imlach told his back-to-the-wall Leafs: "The best that won't be beat can't be beat."

It was the right statement but the wrong team. Canadiens made it evident right from the opening faceoff that they were in no mood to prolong the inevitable.

After a feel-over, Leaf offence gave Canadiens full credit for an outstanding performance. Conn Smythe, general manager Major Leaf Gardens and founder of the Leafs in 1927, described it "a great credit to the champions."

There was a restrained mood of jubilance in Canadiens' dressing room. After a few whoops and hollers the players quickly dressed and showered, shook hands with well-wishers and scooped off in limousines like fastidious lords on to catch their train.

LITTLE EXCITEMENT

Doug Harvey, veteran defenceman, defended what seemed like a shocking lack of enthusiasm.

"When you win as often as we have four games after four cup titles you don't get too excited," he said.

Even the youngsters on the Canadian squad showed little heat after a whole thing as just another victory, only their smiles grew broader trying the excitement they must have felt.

Goalie Jung like a curtain in Leafs'dressing room.

Punch Imlach, president of Maple Leaf Gardens, walked in alone. He made the rounds shaking hands with each player. Some who were sitting rose to their feet as he came by. But others didn't bother.

Smythe's only long pause was with goalie Jacques Plante. "You were great all the way, Johnny," he said.

For the 13,327 fans who came looking for a Leaf resurgence the suspense didn't last long. Canadiens struck for a 2-0 lead in the first nine minutes of play.

Leafs, outclassed in the entire opening period, made their best showing in the early part of the second period. But they were faced with Jacques Plante, the masked marvel of the Canadiens' goal, and he was just too much.

CLOSE CALLS

Dick Duff, Carl Brewer, Frank Mahovlich and Bert Olmstead had excellent scoring opportunities during the first half. But Duff's close-in shot glanced off a post, Brewer's Boomer Laster screamed off the crossbar and Plante was spectacular in smothering drives by Olmstead and Mahovlich.

Big Jean Beliveau, a 31-goal man in the regular season, opened and closed the scoring. Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard and Harvey got the other goals.

Goaltender Johnny Bower, tremendous for Leafs in both playoff series, was the target for 32 shots and couldn't be blamed for the ones that got past him.

Beliveau made it 1-0 at the 8:16 mark with a screaming blueline drive that went through a maze of skates. Bower, trying to shove Canadiens' Bernie Geoffrion out of his line of vision, was caught cold.

In 29 seconds Harvey struck. Canadiens buzzed the net looking for an opening which wasn't there long. Finally he fed a sharp pass to Harvey at the blueline. The defenceman calmly picked his corner and rifled the puck home.

Richard scored the second-period goal which broke the back of the Leaf forward drive. He raced in on Bower with only one defender Bothering him and clicked the light at 16:40 on a shocking 15-footer.

PLANTE SUPERB

Leafs tried desperately to rally in the closing 20 minutes but the Montreal defence tightened up and Plante was superb.

Beliveau took the last bit of starch out of the Leafs with his goal at 1:21 of the third. Marcel Bonin laid a perfect pass 10 feet in front of the net and the hard-scoring ace drove it cleanly past Bower's outstretched glove.

In the closing minutes the Canadiens concentrated on protecting Plante's shutout, his third in the eight-game playoffs, and the frustrated Leafs were unable to do anything about it.

The final margin was surprising. The most observers gave the close battles which marked the previous three games of the finals. Montreal won the opener 4-2 and 3-1 and the Tuesday night game 5-2. Toronto 2-2, Imlach, in a masterpiece of understatement, summed it up: "They made it real tough for us."

TeePee Brass May Resign

SIMCOE (CP)—An official of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association said today after publication never will force a team to play Grand Valley.

Jack Roxborough, CAHA vice-president, was commenting on statements made in Catharines Thursday by officials of the St. Catharines Junior A Teepees who said they will resign over the issue of hockey on Good Friday and Easter Sunday.

Roxborough said the playoff schedule for Eastern Canada Memorial Cup finals between Teepees and Brockville Canadiens "had gone to the

Canada's 'Miss Supertest III' Will Defend Historic Cup In August Race Speedboats

BY GEORGE H. CARVER
Ontario Editor

PICTON — Sun-gilleted waters of historic Quinte will rendezvous the world's fastest motor-driven speedboats here next August.

This pretty Prince Edward County town and one of its lovely sheltered watercourses will be the mecca for international speedboat celebrities, and, it is estimated, between 25,000 and 50,000 race enthusiasts.

It is expected that five queens of three nations' racing royalty will quest the world's most coveted speedboat prize, the venerable 51-year-old Harmsworth Trophy.

There is a possibility of further entries.

Canada's proud defender "Miss Supertest III" which wrenched the seriously-guarded trophy from its American holders last year on the Detroit River, heads the list. The sleek Canadian beauty is owned by Col. J. Gordon Thompson, London, Ont., and was driven to victory by Bob Hayward, Embro, Ont., farmer.

Designed by Jim Thompson, son of Col. Thompson.

"Miss Supertest" smashed race records, defeating the United States defender "Maverick" in two of three heats. Her victory ended American domination of the Harmsworth Trophy that had pre valled since 1920.

"Miss Supertest's" record-breaking time was 99.978 miles per hour. This was an average mark of nine five-mile laps over the 45-mile course.

TERRIFIC SPEED

An idea of the terrific speed of these lightning-like thunderboats is given in the mile straightaway record of 160.323 mph held by Stanley Sayres "Slo-Mo-Shun" IV, created Seattle's Lake Washington in 1950.

The world's jet-driven record is 260.350 mph set by Donald Campbell on England's Lake Coniston in 1959.

Harmsworth Trophy regulations have been amended, it is understood to permit entry of jet-propelled craft. None has been entered to date but race organizers here anticipate the possibility that a world-famous pilot may demonstrate the world's most powerful jet-powered boat.

It is a far cry from Campbell's rooster-tailed nautical lightning bolt to the winner of the first Harmsworth race back in 1903.

The first trophy holder was a boat called "Napier" driven by a naptha-powered engine which pushed the craft over the finish line at a respectable 18 nautical miles per hour.

The original gasoline-driven boat puts-putted a few years on the River Seine in Paris back in 1887. That was two long years after Gottlieb Daimler having discovered internal combustion, sought some vehicle that might quiver into action when filled with his motor.

There was a lapse between Daimler's trial and 1896 when a successful motor boat made its appearance in the USA under the name of "Naptha Launch".

It was an ordinary rowboat to which a crude naptha-driven engine was attached, and used by an obscure lobster fisherman.

However after the turn of the century English and American boatbuilders were convinced the naptha-driven engine would transform small-craft navigation.

It did, in some part, and impetus was given to the motor-boat sporting angle when Sir Alfred Harmsworth, later Lord Northcliffe, donated a competitive trophy in 1903.

In passing it might be noted that "motor-boating" was land raced on the Detroit River.

The British challenger, driven by Kaye Don, beat was the first heat. Racing rules are that if a boat beats the gun over the start-line, it is disqualified.

What happened in the second heat has furnished speedboat erection — barred collisions for those safety years.

The boats were jockeying for the start when one of the American entries suddenly darted for the starting line. Don, apparently not trusting his own time, went into full pursuit. Both boats "beat the gun" and were disqualified, but the ra-training American entries, one driven by Wood, walked for the gun, and went on to win an unchallenged race.

THIS IS CANADA'S YEAR

This is definitely your, Canada's, in general, and Picton's in particular.

Undercurrents of excitement already are apparent here.

Residents of this otherwise quiet unsegregated town are fully cognizant of the tremendous importance of the race and what it means to them and Picton.

The publicity alone cannot be value-estimated. For three brief days the eyes of the speedboat world will be focused on it. Its name will be headlined on the sports pages of the world.

And it appreciates the honor bestowed on it by having one of its beautiful water-tracks selected above all others in the country for the world's biggest speedboat classic.

A main race committee and many sub-committees have been organized and already are at work.

Heading the race committee is the town's sports-minded and magnificent Mayor H. J. McFarland. He has gathered around him Picton's best organizational heads. Prince Edward Yacht Club commodore T. Hart Hunt is the top committee's chairman.

Commodore Hart estimates the cost of staging the race will be $10,000. The yacht club, he said, is responsible for setting up the mechanics of the race and seeing that everything runs smoothly.

"Our organization is duly impressed with the magnitude of the job we must have the full operation of all our residents".

The "big day" presents many problems. Accommodation and traffic-control are two of the main "wrinkles" to be ironed out.

The yacht club is faced with the question of how to raise money. However it has adopted a plan that will serve a dual purpose. It will help line the club's exchequer and partly solve the traffic and parking problem.

"People can buy membership of the yacht club for ten dollars," Commodore Hart explained. "This will guarantee a parking space for the member's car for the three days of racing inside a protected enclosure from where he and his family can view the race".

UNCLE MEMBERSHIP

He urges that all potential out-of-town spectators send in their applications for membership immediately. "This is extremely important," he said. "The funds are needed to finance the race. By joining now visitors will be assured of a parking spot, and a good view of the race. It will help us immensely with the traffic problem."

Memberships can be secured from the Prince Edward Yacht Club, Picton. Visitors planning to attend the race would be advised to get their membership cards immediately.

Accommodation is another tremendous problem facing the town.

Practically every inch of hotel, motel, and private accommodation in the town will be required before all of it has been spoken for already.

Mayor McFarland told this reporter that Picton would like everytown to get reservations. We will need all available space we can get in Belleville, Trenton and Kingston. We are going to be busy, and others in the area, us in this respect. Those having such accommodation are requested to get in touch with the committee chairman, Douglas Boland, here in Picton."

Special quarters and all-round facilities are needed for the large continent of Canadian, American and European press, radio and television reporters.

Outstanding programs of between-race entertainment will be arranged for visitors during the three-day event.

Besides the world's top-notch racing reporters, many international speedboat celebrities will be here. Among them is Guy Lombardo, London, Ont., dance orchestra leader and a famous speedboat driver in his own right.

Lombardo drove one of his "Tempo" craft in a Gold Trophy race here several years ago. He hopes to break the world water-speed record in late May or early June at Pyramid Lake, Nevada, in his "Tempo Alcoa."

While the American entries are not known at this writing, there are several logical contenders. Among them is last year's runner-up "Maverick" of Lake Mead, California; Joe

As the National League rolls into its first weigh-in July, every club has lost once and the most pressing questions of the moment are:

Can Cal McIlish be a winner in the National League?

And, what's with the St. Louis Cardinals?

It was McIlish, a fuzzy right-hander with a skinny 8-21 record in the league through 1951, who went square and became an ace in the American League with Cleveland after a four-year slump in the minors. He had a 46-21 record in four years with the Indians, when they traded him to the Cincinnati Reds after he won 15 games last season.

FOUNDED BY PIRATES

But in his first start with the Reds, McIlish, identified as a dark starter who has trouble getting his trademark breaking stuff under control, was shelled for five hits, all for extra bases, and five runs in 2-3 innings in a 13-0 defeat at Pittsburgh Thursday.

The three other games Thursday were won by one run: Chicago Cubs' Sam Jones defeated Milwaukee Braves 4; Los Angeles Dodgers 3, New York Giants 2.

The Cardinals, who ran up the top spring exhibition record with 19-8, have had even a more They've missed three times, the last by one run, to be without a victory.

Packed with power for a change, the Cards have struck three homers in three games, But Wagner and one by Kenny Boyer, who stole their first base one other run. They've lost 2-1 and 6-1 to San Francico on three-hitter by Sam Jones and Mike McCormick, and 3-2 to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Chicago shortstop Ernie Banks belted a grand-slam home run Thursday night, his second homer in two nights. Frank Thomas, hitless in seven trips, clouted his game-winning double.

A wild pitch by relief pitcher Bob Rush gave the Dodgers their victory. Duke Snider hit a home homer for the Giants.

Philadelphia won their home opener on Richie Ashburn's 10th inning run-scoring single.

Acting manager Andy Cohen of the New York Giants, in his baseball's only unbeaten manager after Eddie Sawyer quit, Cohen filled in until Friday when he was relieved by new skipper Leo Durocher.

Mask Here To Stay Says Blake

MONTREAL (CP)—The mask is here to stay, said coquvet Toe Blake Friday night after goalie Jacques Plante shut out Toronto Maple Leafs 4-0 Thursday in the last game of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Blake, Montreal Canadiens coach, was strongly skeptical about Plante's ability to keep pucks out of the National Hockey League champions' nets while wearing the weird, plastic-barred face protection he came up with this season.

In fact he wouldn't let Plante wear it in games until the goalie suffered a face injury—and late in the season when Plante slumped Blake openly said he wanted Plante to scrap it for the playoffs.

"Plante's performance in the playoff series have convinced me," Blake said. "I don't care what kind of a mask he wears in the future."

Plante shut out Toronto once as Chicago twice in the NHL playoffs.

Edmonton Nips Brandon 5-4

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton Oil Kings looks 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven Western Canada Memorial Cup final Friday night by defeating Brandon Wheat Kings 5-4.

The sixth game will be played here Monday.

Edmonton marksmen were Bob Marik, with two goals, Bob Goldham, Ed Joyal and Terry Sawchuk. For Brandon, scorers were captain Augie Dougherty with a goal, Wayne Gurba and Wayne Barylak.

Canucks Oust Victoria 6-3

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Canucks put the cap on their season-long domination of the Western Hockey League Friday night by beating Victoria Cougars 6-3 in the league crown.

Cougars won the first two games of the best-of-seven series then dropped the next five.

Canucks had the President's Cup to drink from.

Dave Duke scored twice for Vancouver, Gerry Velpry, Cole Kilburn, Danny Bellisle and Bruce Carmichael added singles. Gerry Geyer, Ron Matthews and Gordie Fashoway were the Victoria scorers.

Chatham Defeats Hull 6-2 In Eastern Canada Finals

HULL, Que. (CP)—A tattoo of goals in the final period provided the marching orders Friday night in Chatham Maroons' playoff hockey offensive.

The Maroons threw in four third-period goals—three of them in the last nine minutes—in defeating Hull Legion 6-2 in the second game of the Eastern Canada Allan Cup final.

The Ontario Hockey Association champions won the opener of the best-of-five series by the same 6-2 score and can wrap up a berth in the cup final with a victory on Chatham ice Monday night.

SEEKS PAST START

Legion coach Marcel Legris said his team will go all out from the start in the next game in pursuit of a lead that will stand up. Coach Jack Horsok of Chatham made no predictions but couldn't help looking confident.

Gary Sharp scored twice for Chatham—both goals zipping in the first period—and Copper Leyte, George Allison, Jim Connelly and Bill Forhan also contributed. Pit Richer and Gilles Lacelle counted for Hull before a crowd of 1,335.

Chatham led 2-1 at the end of the first and the teams battled through a scoreless second period with neither getting any really good scoring chances.

Sharp opened the scoring at 12:06 on a pass from Jack Stoddart just outside the goal crease and connected again at 17:32 to a breakaway.

Hull's Richer scored it evened up at 6:40 on a three-player passing play.

Allison scored what proved to be the clincher at 7:02, going in alone and drawing Fortin out, while Leyte made it 5-2 at 19:50 and Forhan slapped in a goalmouth pass at 19:58 to close the scoring.

Legion had a 26-22 edge in shots on goal with the Maroons' draw six of the eight minor penalties handed out.

Belmont Defeats Wellington 3-1 Wins Ont. Bantam D Championship

WELLINGTON (Special) — "Dutch" Ainsworth's young-hockey-playing Iron-Dukes came home from Dixie last night defeated but not disgraced.

The OMHA Bantam "D" championship slipped from their grasp in the third game of the best-of-three series when they bowed to the star Belmont team by a 3-2 score.

They won the first game 7-4, were shaded 5-4 in the second tussle and yielded yesterday's payoff tilt in a closely-fought game.

Had the bantam finals been played under the other playdown goals-to-count system, the Dukes would have lashed away their first title.

But the fates and the OMHA decreed otherwise. It was a "games" series and the fine young Belmont champions proved they were a shade better over the three-game route.

The 1959-60 title-winners received the Ken G. Waters Trophy while the runners-up Dukes were awarded the Harold Dunk Trophy. The awards were presented to the teams immediately following the game.

The young Dukes came home with one consolation. They were "out-gamed" but not outscored. Both teams scored an even dozen goals over the series.

The Dukes, however, are the Eastern Ontario champions, defeating the best bantam "D" teams in the district including Cooper, Norwood, Coboconk and MacTier before meeting Belmont in the finals.

Yesterday's game was a thriller all down the line. The Dukes scored the only goal of the first period, and Belmont roared back to grab a 2-1 lead in the second chapter. They scored the only tally of the third frame in an open net after the Dukes pulled their goalie with seconds to go.

Wilhie, the Belmont ace, was the teams hero scoring the tying and winning goals in the second period. D.-Graham got home the third tally.

Don McNeill scored for Wellington at 13.18 of the opening period with Garry Lavender assisting.

Penalties were a big factor in the Duke's defeat. They drew eight of the ten sentences handed out, one of them a misconduct to their starry defenceman Wayne Craig.

They collected all four of the second period minutes when Belmont tied and won the game. Craig, definitely a marked man, was given two minors and the misconduct in the third period.

Over 600 people saw the contest with Belmont and Wellington sending large representations.

D. Graham shared scoring honors with Wilhie, scoring the clinching goal and assisting on the other two.

Perez Favored Over Kingpetch

BANGKOK (AP) — World fly-weight champion Pascual Perez of Argentina is heavily favored to retain his title tonight against Thailand's Pone Kingpetch in a match that is expected to draw 50,000 fans.

"I'm going all out for a knock-out," said the 34-year-old champion who has been fighting as a pro since 1932. "I'll definitely win."

Perez will be making the 11th defence of the title he won in 1954 by outpointing Yoshio Shirai of Japan in Tokyo. In his other so-called non-title bouts in Buenos Aires, his title actually was at stake because his opponents were under the 112-pound class limit.

The champion has knocked out 56 while compiling a 52-5-1 pro record since winning the Olympic title in 1948. In his last defence, Nov. 5, he scored a 13th-round knockout over Sadao Yaota of Japan who handed Perez his only defeat in an over - the - weight match in Tokyo Jan. 16, 1959.

Canadian Gal Loses Title

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (CP)—Canadian-born Irene MacDonald lost her Public Amateur Athletic Union women's diving title Thursday night when she was squeezed out by Patsy Willard of Phoenix, Ariz.

Miss MacDonald, a native of Hamilton, now swimming with Los Angeles Athletic Club, amassed 319.6 points to 238.55 points for Miss Willard in the one-metre diving event of the AAU's indoor swimming and diving championships.

Sara Barber of Brantford placed fifth in the final of the 100 - yard backstroke swimming event. The race was won by Lynn Burke of Santa Clara, Calif., in the world-record time of 1:06.7. Miss Barber was timed in 2:21.3 in the final and 2:20 in an earlier heat.

ARCARO SUSPENDED

NEW YORK (AP) — Jockey Eddie Arcaro, who began an enforced 10 - day vacation today, rode the 4,500th winner of his brilliant career Friday at Aqueduct when he booted home Tornado-and-Kings Song in the sixth race. The 44-year-old reinsman was suspended by the stewards for careless riding Wednesday.

Sport Snapshots

Canadian Press Staff Writer

"The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association should either stop puzzy-footing around or get out of business."

Sounds familiar? It should, because it's an old refrain voiced by hockey officials for years, particularly at playoff time when the governing body of amateur hockey game in Canada is usually in the middle of disputes.

Each year, the CAHA sets Allan and Memorial Cup playoff final dates well in advance after consultation with provincial representatives. And every year there's a last-minute switch and someone inevitably gets into a snit.

Something has happened to all of playoff plans annually since 1949, and this year is no exception. Western Canada clubs have already complained, and there's nothing the CAHA can do about it.

LONG LAYOFF

In the Allan Cup, for instance, Trail Smoke Eaters are western champions while in the East Chatham Maroons and Hull Lucerne shamrocks started their best-of-seven final earlier this week. This means, of course, the Smoke Eaters will be idle probably two weeks or more.

This disturbed playing-coach Bobby Kromm of the Smoke Eaters who accused the CAHA of "babying" western clubs in its handling of the playoff schedules. "We have to sit around and get rusty while waiting for eastern champ winner to be decided."

George Dudley of Midland, Ont., secretary-manager and spokesman of the CAHA, admitted that the cup final was originally scheduled to open in the West April 16, was moved to April 21 and further set back to April 23.

"The lag between eastern and western Allan Cup finals was brought on by circumstances beyond our control," Dudley said. He didn't state what those circumstances were.

JUNIORS COMPLAIN

Coaches of Brandon Wheat Kings and Edmonton Oil Kings, the western Memorial Cup finalists, also had some harsh comments to make about the CAHA. This time, however, it concerned western semi-finals and finals.

Jake Milford, coach of the Wheat Kings, said his club was "upset by the poor arrangements for the western final in which we had to wait 10 days for the winner of the Edmonton-Flin Flon semi-final series." He blamed CAHA President Gordon Juckes of Melville, Sask., for lack of co-ordination in playoff dates.

"Our western semi-final with Fort William went four games while Edmonton and Flin Flon played six. Ten days is too long a wait for only a two-game difference in the series. It was definitely Mr. Juckes' fault."

Harry Allen, Oil Kings coach, sided with Milford. "A layoff is never good for a club—particularly juniors. It's much better to come out of one series into another with only two or three days' rest."

TeePees Grab 3-Game Lead With 6-4 Win Over Brocks

By ROGER STONEBANKS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—St. Catharines Teepees, a team that specializes in third - period comebacks, gave another demonstration Friday night against Brockville Canadiens before 2,170 spectators at the Forum:

They trailed three goals - frame goals, the Ontario junior champions threw off a 4-3 second period deficit to win 6-4 in the third game of their best-of-seven Eastern Canada Memorial Cup finals. Teepees lead the series 3-0.

Carlo Longarini pocketed two goals and John Brenneman, Ray Cullen, Vic Hadfield and Peter Berge scored one each for St. Catharines.

Gilles Lancoeur counted twice for Canadiens and Bobby Rousseau, who also collected three assists, and Germain Munger added singles.

In the first game last Sunday both teams were tied 1-1 in the second period. Teepees swept in four goals in the final frame and coasted only one.

To show it was no fluke, Teepees overcame a 3-1 deficit in the middle period to win 5-3 on home ice last Wednesday.

Fourth game of the series is at Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto Sunday afternoon. A fifth encounter, if necessary, is tentatively scheduled for the Forum Tuesday or Wednesday.

The winner will meet either Brandon Wheat Kings or Edmonton Oil Kings, western finalists, for the Memorial Cup.

Miteff Wins Over Warner

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Pudgy Nino Miteff recovered from the shock of a bloodied face and hurt pride in the fourth round and pummeled young Doc Warner for a six-th-round technical knockout Friday night.

Miteff weighed 202 and Warner 192 for the scheduled 10-rounder.

It was Warner's decision not to continue after the fifth round. Under New Jersey rules the bout goes as a sixth-round TKO.

So Ann Castle on Welk Show Getting Many Proposals

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—That sexy piano-accordian whiz on the Lawrence Welk show, Jo Ann Castle, gets letters from fellows around the country saying they are in love with her.

If there foreshadow proposals of marriage, her admirers can save their postage.

"I'm a goer," Miss Castle said, "I want to see things, go to Europe. I can't imagine myself settling down for at least five years."

Jo Ann is 20 and five feet seven; her 133 pounds measure 36-24-37. Her eyes are blue. Her hair, flying like Paderewski's on hot piano passages, is pinkish blond.
